NATO Council Fails To Mend Tunisian Rift

PARIS, Nov. 16 (AP)—France locked horns with Britain and the United States again today on the Tunisian arms dispute and an emergency session of NATO's permanent Council, called to seek a swift settlement, got nowhere.

Delegates called for another conciliation session next week, probably Wednesday. This would give Foreign Minister Christian Pineau time to thrash the matter out with Secretary of State Dulles in Washington Tuesday.

Delegates to the ruling body of NATO expressed hope this serious breach in allied unity could be healed before the summit conference of NATO premiers and president in Paris next month. The summit meeting is designed as a display of Allied unity before the threat of Soviet technology.

Demand Guarantees

High French sources said France, at today's secret emergency Council meeting demanded two U.S. - British guarantees:

1. That the 920 small guns sent to Tunisia yesterday will never be used against France.

2. That not enough arms be shipped to leave any over for the rebels in neighboring Algeria, now in revolt against French rule. Britain and France said Tunisia has given assurances the arms will not get to Algerian rebels.

The French informants declared that if Britain and the United States oppose France in U.N. debate on Algeria, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization will be blown sky high.

Hussein Hits Egyptians For Slander Drive

By JACK SAUL
United Press Staff Correspondent

BAGHDAD, Iraq, Nov. 16 (UP)—King Hussein of Jordan, backed by the monarchs of Saudi Arabia and Iraq, today struck back at Egyptian attempts to overthrow his pro-western regime.

The young king denounced the Egyptian press and radio campaign against him as "slander and lies."

He drew full support from Kings Feisal of Iraq and Saud of Saudi Arabia who denounced the vitriolic attacks on the 22-year-old ruler as "deplorable." They warned that the Cairo campaign benefits only the enemies of the Arab world.

Goes On

But the campaign continued today. The Cairo newspaper Al Missa attempted to whip up pro-Egyptian nationalist fervor in Jordan by charging that Hussein ordered his army from the Israeli border to let (troops) from the U. S. Sixth Fleet enter his country from Israel to "save his throne and suppress a peoples' revolution against him."

The newspaper said the alleged withdrawal from the border opened the way for an "attack" on Palestine refugees in Jordan by Israeli forces.

This appeared to be another appeal to the Palestinians in Jordan to topple the king. The Palestinian elements, numbering 500,000, have formed the basis of opposition to the pro-western monarch.

In Amman, Hussein himself said the attacks emanating from Egypt and also from neighboring Syria were nothing but "fabricated slanders."

"The fabricated slanders are propaganda against us and our country," Hussein told former Premier Fakhri Khalidi, who had expressed his suport of the king.

Dossie L. Miller Drowning Victim In Union Parish

MARION (Special) —Dossie L Miller about 55, of Marion drowned yesterday morning at approximately 5:40 in a pond on the farm of Dick Miller, a cousin.

The coroner's office in Union Parish rendered a verdict of suicide.

Authorities said Miller left his home in Marion early yesterday morning, and said he was going to Farmerville. Dick Miller was feeding his cattle a short time later and noticed his cousin's truck parked nearby. He went to look for him and discovered his hat on the dam to the pond.

Body Found

He then called the Union Parish Sheriff's Department, and they dragged the pond, recovering the body in 12 feet of water about 6:30 a.m.

Sheriff J. G. Stewart said the dead man had a truck wheel tied around his neck with a rope. Authorities said it was believed Miller had consulted a doctor Friday, after being unable to sleep for about a week.

The body was taken to Kilpatrick's Funeral Home in Farmerville, where arrangements were in complete late last night.

26 Bodies Recovered In Train Crash

CHANTONNAY, France, Nov. 16 (UP) — A speeding lightweight diesel train carrying weekend vacationers collided headon with a switch engine today, crushing passengers and crewmen in the wreckage with heavy loss of life.

Rescue workers cut 26 bodies from the twisted debris and police said more bodies were trapped in it. Estimates of the death toll ran as high as 50. At least 30 persons were injured, many of them seriously.

The force of the collision, the sixth major rail accident in France this year, crumpled the two-car aluminum and steel alloy passenger train around the steel switch engine.

Second Disaster in Hours

It was the second travel disaster in Europe in 24 hours. Friday night 43 persons died when a giant British flying boat crashed and burned on the Isle of Wight.

The fast passenger train was en route from La Roche-Sur-Yon on the Atlantic Coast to Bressuire in Vendee province. It had just picked up passengers at Chantonnay Station, 45 miles from the Breton port of Nantes, and was streaking down a one-way track. The switch engine had been asigned to Chantonnay in error and was coming in the other direction.

Warm – Cloudy For Weekend

Warm weather is expected to continue in the Twin Cities today, with cloudy to partly cloudy skies expected, and a possibility or rain.

Yesterday's high was 73 degrees, and the low was 66. Rainfall was recorded at .52 of an inch. Friday's maximum and minimum were 78 and 50.

Scattered showers are expected in Arkansas today and tomorrow, with no important temperature changes.

Fighting Irish or lucky Irish—call them what you will — but Notre Dame rose to score the biggest upset in many a season yesterday by defeating Oklahoma, 7-0, and in the process:

1. Snapped the Sooners' 47-game winning streak.

2. Became the first team to shut out Oklahoma in 123 games.

3. Inflicted only the 9th defeat on Sooner coach Bud Wilkinson since he took over in 1947.

4. Very possibly eliminated Oklahoma as a national championship contender.

This was, indeed, a good day's work for a team that had been sent reeling the last two weeks and was thought to be suffering from fatigue because of its murderous schedule.

Dick Lynch made the only score of the game in the fourth period when he capped an 80-yard drive by going around right end from the 3.

But at least Oklahoma can console itself with the thought that it has clinched the Orange Bowl nomination for New Year's Day.

M'Elroy And Ike To Talk On Spending

AUGUSTA, Ga., Nov. 16 (AP) — President Eisenhower and Secretary of Defense McElroy will meet here Tuesday to discuss just how big a defense spending hike is needed to meet the Russian space era threat.

The President's vacation headquarters said McElroy will be accompanied from Washington by the Pentagon's fiscal expert, Asst. Secretary of Defense Wilfred J. McNeil.

Before completing arrangements for that meeting and getting in a round of golf delayed by rain, Eisenhower talked by telephone with Secretary of State Dulles regarding French protests over Anglo-American arms shipments to Tunisia. Dulles was in Washington.

No Details

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, declined to provide any detail on the Eisenhower-Dulles discussion. The token arms shipments stirred French wrath just a month in advance of a Paris NATO council meeting designed to strengthen the North Atlantic Alliance in the light of Soviet Union advances in development of missiles and other space age weapons. Eisenhower and the government heads of the 14 other NATO member nations plan to atten dthat meeting.

In Paris, an emergency session of the permanent council broke up without healing the breach. Delegates decided to hold another conciliation session next week.

Eisenhower was kept closely posted regarding efforts to smooth over the rift.

At Golf Course

As for United States defense spending plans for the fiscal year starting next July 1, the President and McElroy will confer at the Augusta National Golf Club Tuesday against the background of Eisenhower's assertion that expenditures for weapons of the future must be increased by "a very considerable figure."

The President made that statement in a nationwide television-radio address from Oklahoma City last Wednesday night. He did not estimate how big an increase is needed. He, McElroy and Mcneil will try to determine that Tuesday.

In his speech the President said every effort will be made to help offset bigger spending for missiles and other futuristic weapons by reduction in other military categories. He said some programs in non-military categories will have to be deferred or eliminated.

Over $38 Billion

It already is certain defense spending for the current fiscal year will exceed the 38 billion dollar target. Sen. Bridges (R-NH), senior GOP member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, recently predicted military outlay for the new year will outrun this year's spending by one to two billion dollars.

Hagerty declined to speculate as to what figure Eisenhower and McElroy eventually will agree on. McElroy also declined to suggest any specific figure at a Washington news conference yesterday.

AFTER CHASE HERE

Arkansas Prison Escapee Caught

A Negro escapee from Arkansas State Penitentiary, described as "extremely dangerous," was captured in South Monroe yesterday afternoon by city police after a spectacular three-hour, all-out manhunt and foot chase.

The 23 - year - old fugitive, unarmed at the time, was discovered hidden in the brushy corner of a vegetable garden at Florida and Plum streets by a 12 - year-old girl as police were closing in on the spot.

Under questioning last night was Robert Lee Burke of Helena, Ark., who escaped from the Arkansas prison at Varner on November 12 after serving one year of an eight - year term on conviction for grand larceny.

At Grady, Ark., Capt. Lee Henslee, superintendent of the Arkansas Penitentiary, said Burke escaped from Cummings penal farm Tuesday morning. Burke while working in a cornfield, knocked a guard in the head with a rifle, took his rifle and stole a car. The guard who was in serious condition, has recovered, Henslee said.

The rifle was recovered here during the chase yesterday afternoon.

ANTI-MISSILE MISSILE

Air Force Probes Spatial Explosions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—An Air Force "feasability study" of how nuclear explosions might be tested out in space sharpened interest today in the quest for something that can destroy a ballistic missile in flight.

Col. McPherson Morgan, head of a 16-man scientific team at Kirtland Air Force Base, N. M., said his unit was exploring the nature of nuclear blasts in airless space. It has been suggested that such blasts could destroy missiles in flight.

An announcement at Kirtland said scientists there are "well on the way" to answering that question. It added that "once the blind spots vanish, they will have achieved a major scientific breakthrough, the key to America's defense against an intercontinental ballistic missile."

This report was published soon after Secretary of Defense McElroy had disclosed that all anti-missile missile (AMM) programs are being coordinated into a single project under a single manager.

Air Force headquarters here looked into the situation. The explanation given was this:

1. Preparation of a news release at Kirtland Air Force Base on the activities of Morgan's group at the armed force special weapons center was made well before McElroy decided to integrate the now separate Air Force and Army AMM projects. So, it was explained, the release was not another manifestation of inter-service rivalry even after McElroy had signed the directive.

2. Morgan's group makes feasibility studies of how tests of various nuclear weapons could be conducted. The studies are entirely theoretical, but are used in helping arrive at a final decision on techniques of testing weapons. Such paper studies must be subjected to laboratory and field

14 Children In 2 Families Die In Fire

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Nov. 16 (UP) — A fast-spreading fire swept through a three-story tenement known as the Moonglow Hotel today, killing 17 persons. Fourteen of the victims were children of two Negro families.

Most of the occupants of the building had no chance to flee the fierce pre - dawn blaze which caught them asleep. Authorities feared the death toll might rise when firemen probed the water and wreckage-filled cellar of the blackened frame structure. Walls of the building were being torn down to aid in the work.

One hospitalized victim, Herbert Reid, 16, was not expected to live. His condition was reported very critical.

Orders Investigation

The fire was "the worst in city history in terms of lives lost," City Manager Edward H. Potthoff said. He ordered an immediate investigation. Fire officials believed a gas furnace may have caused the blaze.

The death toll could have been worse. Authorities reported a family of 10 had moved from the building Friday.

The blaze was discovered by Police Capt. John J. Dietz, who was passing in a patrol car with a fellow officer. The fire - swept building is owned by his son, William Dietz.

Sounding an alarm, the officers attempted to enter the 47-room building but were driven back by the flames. Firefighters arriving minutes la er found the building a blazing inferno.

Remove 16 Bodies

When the flames finally were extinguished, firemen entered the ruins and removed 16 bodies.

Another victim, Mrs. Mary Ewing, 35, mother of eight children who lost their lives, was found dead outside the building. She apparently had jumped from a window in a vain attempt to reach safety.

Horace Ewing, 35, only survivor of his family, was reported in fair condition in St. Mary's hospital.

Two of the dead were identified as Jack Thomas and John Jackson, roomers in the building which was known as the Moonglow Hotel.

Acid Tossed By Teenagers Into Painter's Face

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16 (AP) — Two teen-agers tossed a liquid, either acid or lye, in the face of a young painter in a downtown park here, severely burning his face.

Richard Von Rieff, 27, said he was walking across Lafayette Square off St. Charles Ave. last night when the two youths, who he said appeared to be about 15 years old, asked for a cigarette.

Von Reiff said he suddenly felt a burning sensation on his face and both boys fled.

In a hospital today, Von Rieff said he was able to see out of one eye and partially out of the other. He said doctors told him the liquid was either acid or lye.

The painter said robbery could not have been the motive of the attack since his assailants made no attempt to take his wallet. It contained $23.

Mrs. Driskill Is Crowned In Ceremonies

Mrs. Carolyn Dark Driskill, wife of Northeast State football player Joe Driskill, last night ruled over homecoming festivities which were climaxed by the game between the local college Indians and the Louisiana College Wildcats at Brown Stadium.

During pre - game ceremonies, Robert H. Evans, vice president and general manager, Forest Products Division of Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation, placed the crown upon the attractive brunette and proclaimed her "queen of the Mystery Blast Kills Three In Alabama Town

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., Nov. 16 (AP) —An unexplained explosion killed three sisters and injured a fourth today.

The eight-room home of John H. Bachman, 63, in Huntsville's eastern residential area, was demolished. The dead and injured were his sisters.

Killed were Mrs. Maude Williams, 73, and Mrs. William Struve, 69, both of Huntsville; and Mrs. Pearl McFarlin, 74, Detroit, Mich.

Mrs. Nora Freeman, 71, Huntsville, was admitted to a hospital. Her condition was described as serious.

Some Huntsville residents said the explosion sounded like rocket motors being tested at nearby Redstone Arsenal. The static testing tower at Redstone is several miles from where the house was blasted.

Mrs. Freeman told reporters that she remembered flicking a

Experts To Probe Crash Of Airliner

ALAMEDA, Calif., Nov. 16 (AP) —The Navy said seven experts on plane crashes would be flown tomorrow to the carrier Philippine Sea, heading back to Long Beach, Calif., with 19 bodies and wreckage from a Pan American Stratocruiser.

The Stratocruiser was carrying 36 passengers and a crew of eight when it disappeared Nov. 8 on a flight from San Francisco to Honolulu.

Carrier officers said the debris yielded nothing to indicate what happened to the clipper. But Rear Adm. T. A. Ahroon, of the Philippine Sea, messaged that "findings should convince anyone that a midair explosion did not occur."

AFTER CHASE HERE

Arkansas Prison Escapee Caught

A Negro escapee from Arkansas State Penitentiary, described as "extremely dangerous," was captured in South Monroe yesterday afternoon by city police after a spectacular three-hour, all-out manhunt and foot chase.

The 23 - year - old fugitive, unarmed at the time, was discovered hidden in the brushy corner of a vegetable garden at Florida and Plum streets by a 12 - year-old girl as police were closing in on the spot.

Under questioning last night was Robert Lee Burke of Helena, Ark., who escaped from the Arkansas prison at Varner on November 12 after serving one year of an eight - year term on conviction for grand larceny.

At Grady, Ark., Capt. Lee Henslee, superintendent of the Arkansas Penitentiary, said Burke escaped from Cummings penal farm Tuesday morning. Burke while working in a cornfield, knocked a guard in the head with a rifle, took his rifle and stole a car. The guard who was in serious condition, has recovered, Henslee said.

The rifle was recovered here during the chase yesterday afternoon.

According to Monroe Police Chief James C. Kelly, Jr., Patrolman W. D. Smith spotted a suspected stolen 1957 model white over light blue Mercury travel-

ANTI-MISSILE MISSILE

Air Force Probes Spatial Explosions

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—An Air Force "feasability study" of how nuclear explosions might be tested out in space sharpened interest today in the quest for something that can destroy a ballistic missile in flight.

Col. McPherson Morgan, head of a 16-man scientific team at Kirtland Air Force Base, N. M., said his unit was exploring the nature of nuclear blasts in airless space. It has been suggested that such blasts could destroy missiles in flight.

An announcement at Kirtland said scientists there are "well on the way" to answering that question. It added that "once the blind spots vanish, they will have achieved a major scientific breakthrough, the key to America's defense against an intercontinental ballistic missile."

This report was published soon after Secretary of Defense McElroy had disclosed that all anti-missile missile (AMM) programs are being coordinated into a single project under a single manager.

Air Force headquarters here looked into the situation. The explanation given was this:

1. Preparation of a news release at Kirtland Air Force Base on the activities of Morgan's group at the armed force special weapons center was made well before McElroy decided to integrate the now separate Air Force and Army AMM projects. So, it was explained, the release was not another manifestation of inter-service rivalry even after McElroy had signed the directive.

2. Morgan's group makes feasibility studies of how tests of various nuclear weapons could be conducted. The studies are entirely theoretical, but are used in helping arrive at a final decision on techniques of testing weapons. Such paper studies must be subjected to laboratory and field

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Nov. 16 (UP) — A fast-spreading fire swept through a three-story tenement known as the Moonglow Hotel today, killing 17 persons. Fourteen of the victims were children of two Negro families.

Most of the occupants of the building had no chance to flee the fierce pre - dawn blaze which caught them asleep. Authorities feared the death toll might rise when firemen probed the water and wreckage-filled cellar of the blackened frame structure. Walls of the building were being torn down to aid in the work.

One hospitalized victim, Herbert Reid, 16, was not expected to live. His condition was reported very critical.

Orders Investigation

The fire was "the worst in city history in terms of lives lost," City Manager Edward H. Potthoff said. He ordered an immediate investigation. Fire officials believed a gas furnace may have caused the blaze.

The death toll could have been worse. Authorities reported a family of 10 had moved from the building Friday.

The blaze was discovered by Police Capt. John J. Dietz, who was passing in a patrol car with a fellow officer. The fire - swept building is owned by his son, William Dietz.

Sounding an alarm, the officers attempted to enter the 47-room building but were driven back by the flames. Firefighters arriving minutes la er found the building a blazing inferno.

Remove 16 Bodies

When the flames finally were extinguished, firemen entered the ruins and removed 16 bodies.

Another victim, Mrs. Mary Ewing, 35, mother of eight children who lost their lives, was found dead outside the building. She apparently had jumped from a window in a vain attempt to reach safety.

Horace Ewing, 35, only survivor of his family, was reported in fair condition in St. Mary's hospital.

Two of the dead were identified as Jack Thomas and John Jackson, roomers in the building which was known as the Moonglow Hotel.

Acid Tossed By Teenagers Into Painter's Face

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16 (AP) — Two teen-agers tossed a liquid, either acid or lye, in the face of a young painter in a downtown park here, severely burning his face.

Richard Von Rieff, 27, said he was walking across Lafayette Square off St. Charles Ave. last night when the two youths, who he said appeared to be about 15 years old, asked for a cigarette.

Von Reiff said he suddenly felt a burning sensation on his face and both boys fled.

In a hospital today, Von Rieff said he was able to see out of one eye and partially out of the other. He said doctors told him the liquid was either acid or lye.

The painter said robbery could not have been the motive of the attack since his assailants made no attempt to take his wallet. It contained $23.

Stevenson To Get Sweeping Arms' Plans

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (UP)—The Eisenhower administration will lay before Adlai E. Stevenson Monday its sweeping and still tentative plans for converting western Europe's defenses to the age of nuclear rockets.

Administration officials said today these are some of the preliminary ideas that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles may discuss with the Democratic party leader Monday morning in the first of a series of bipartisan planning sessions:

-- A possible bid by President Eisenhower in his address to the mid-December NATO "summit" meeting in Paris for permission to base U.S. 1,500-mile missiles at NATO bases ringing Russia. Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy said Friday that the United States, recognizing Russia's lead in 5,000-mile intercontinental missiles, is placing emphasis on the shorter range IRBM's, using bases close to Russia's borders.

--An agreement with the NATO allies for storing atomic warheads and bombs under U.S. control in western Europe and for their release to Allied forces on orders from Washington in event of war. The problem here is to speed up the process of releasing the nuclear stockpiles and putting them to use in the kind of blitz war that the push button age will bring.

-- A start on the politically complex problem of really integrating NATO's defenses and sharing military tasks. Officials said this ultimately could mean the scrapping of "balanced forces" in each NATO country in favor of specialization and complete inter-dependence. Every nation cannot afford to maintain a modern army, navy and air force, they said. To attempt to do so dissipates the tremendous strength that the allies otherwise would have, the administration believes.

-- Persuading the NATO allies to pay the costs of establishing and maintaining rocket bases which initially, at least, will be manned by Americans.

-- Establishing a missile training school and firing range somewhere in southern Europe, possibly long the Mediterranean, to prepare key Allied military personnel for the new era. Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) advanced this proposal early this week at a NATO parlimentary meeting in Paris. The State Department endorsed it.

-- Amending the atomic energy law to permit turning over more atomic information to the allies.

Odd Light Sighted In Monroe Skies

Several sources last night reported sighting a "bright" light in the Southwestern skies over Monroe.

Mrs. Frances Newman of Caliborne Addition said her household, that of the Harold Butler's next door, and several neighbors watched the object for more than two hours, and said it appeared four or five times as big as a star. Other calls were received by reporters concerning apparently the same light in the skies.

Mixed Couples In Car Cause Turmoil

STATESVILLE, N. C., Nov. 16 (AP) — Negro and white citizens broadcast an appeal for calmness here tonight in the wake of a demonstration in front of the home of two white sisters whom officers said they found in a car with two Negro men.

The girls and their mother were escorted from town at 8 p.m. last night, about an hour before a demonstration was staged at their home. Police Chief W. T. Ivey said Mrs. R. B. Lambeth and her daughters, Judith, 17, and Martha, 15, were taken to U. S. 70 west. He said they left the country, but would not give their destination.

While the demonstration was in progress, officers arrested 14 Negroes ranging in age from 15 to 22. Police said they were charged with disorderly conduct and were throwing rocks, shouting obscene remarks to white women and pushing white people off sidewalks.

Another group of Negroes, armed with rocks, were searched and sent home later in the night, Ivey said.

The appeal, broadcast over a local radio station, was by a white minister and a white educator and a Negro minister and a Negro funeral director.

All pleaded with parents to keep their children at home tonight as a precaution against mobs forming.

Ivey said in his opinion if nothing happened during the night, the incident will blow over.

Ivey said the two girls were found in a car with Alfred James Smith, 22, of Rt. 1, Hamptonville, and John Franklin Bruner, 20, of Rt. 1, Statesville, at 2:30 a.m. Thursday. Both men are Negroes.

Smith was charged with driving without an operator's license and with having an improper muffler, which Ivey said caused officers to stop the car. Smith later was released under $200 bond and will face a hearing in city court Monday. Bruner and the girls were released, the sisters to the custody of their mother.

Dr. Cohn Gets Research Grant

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16 (AP)—Louisiana State University said today Dr. Isidore Cohn Jr., associate professor of surgery at the LSU school of medicine, has been awarded two research grants totaling $90,178.

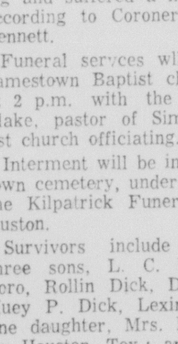

Dean William W. Frye said one grant for $47,000 over a two year period was given by the Army Department for investigation of intravenous fat emulsions and the second by the National Institute of Health for $43,178 in a three-year study of colon surgery and antibiotics.

The Army research, Dr. Cohn said, would be to find a new fat emulsion for intravenous feeding "which will provide needed caloric benefits and not at the same time cause reactions in the patient. . ."

On the other project, he commented, "surgery of the colon for benign and malignant disease is common enough to warrant study of any procedure that will reduce the morbidity and mortality in this field."

Odd Light Sighted In Monroe Skies

Several sources last night reported sighting a "bright" light in the Southwestern skies over Monroe.

Mrs. Frances Newman of Caliborne Addition said her household, that of the Harold Butler's next door, and several neighbors watched the object for more than two hours, and said it appeared four or five times as big as a star. Other calls were received by reporters concerning apparently the same light in the skies.

STATESVILLE, N. C.

Mixed Couples In Car Cause Turmoil

STATESVILLE, N. C., Nov. 16 (AP) — Negro and white citizens broadcast an appeal for calmness here tonight in the wake of a demonstration in front of the home of two white sisters whom officers said they found in a car with two Negro men.

The girls and their mother were escorted from town at 8 p.m. last night, about an hour before a demonstration was staged at their home. Police Chief W. T. Ivey said Mrs. R. B. Lambeth and her daughters, Judith, 17, and Martha, 15, were taken to U. S. 70 west. He said they left the country, but would not give their destination.

While the demonstration was in progress, officers arrested 14 Negroes ranging in age from 15 to 22. Police said they were charged with disorderly conduct and were throwing rocks, shouting obscene remarks to white women and pushing white people off sidewalks.

Another group of Negroes, armed with rocks, were searched and sent home later in the night, Ivey said.

The appeal, broadcast over a local radio station, was by a white minister and a white educator and a Negro minister and a Negro funeral director.

All pleaded with parents to keep their children at home tonight as a precaution against mobs forming.

Ivey said in his opinion if nothing happened during the night, the incident will blow over.

Ivey said the two girls were found in a car with Alfred James Smith, 22, of Rt. 1, Hamptonville, and John Franklin Bruner, 20, of Rt. 1, Statesville, at 2:30 a.m. Thursday. Both men are Negroes.

Smith was charged with driving without an operator's license and with having an improper muffler, which Ivey said caused officers to stop the car. Smith later was released under $200 bond and will face a hearing in city court Monday. Bruner and the girls were released, the sisters to the custody of their mother.

Dr. Cohn Gets Research Grant

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16 (AP)— Louisiana State University said today Dr. Isidore Cohn Jr., associate professor of surgery at the LSU school of medicine, has been awarded two research grants totaling $90,178.

Dean William W. Frye said one grant for $47,000 over a two year period was given by the Army Department for investigation of intravenous fat emulsions and the second by the National Institute of Health for $43,178 in a three-year study of colon surgery and antibiotics.

The Army research, Dr. Cohn said, would be to find a new fat emulsion for intravenous feeding "which will provide needed caloric benefits and not at the same time cause reactions in the patient. . ."

On the other project, he commented, "surgery of the colon for benign and malignant disease is common enough to warrant study of any procedure that will reduce the morbidity and mortality in this field."

Christmas Trees

Although many will do so reluctantly, we must face the fact that Christmas is only about six weeks away. When Christmas arrives the world will be glad but in the days between there will be plenty of moaning as people try to make their gift selections.

One way to ease the strain and to have a more satisfactory Christmas is to shop early. In this way you are practically sure to buy more and when the big day arrives you will be glad you did.

Since Christmas is a happy time and everybody wants to keep it that way and since it will soon be time to place Christmas trees in the homes, a warning against Christmas-tree fires is timely.

The Christmas tree is a potential fire hazard and caution should be taken in its selection, placement in the home, and maintenance. Play safe by choosing a small tree. There will be 30 million on the market.

In placing the tree, it is best to avoid hot spots, such as those near the fireplace, stove, television set, radiator or electric bulbs. Untreated paper ornaments and cotton batting or gauze are unsafe for Christmas-tree decorations unless properly treated, and some chemical substances sold for "fire-proofing" are said to be ineffective.

Candles are unsafe and frayed electric cords are hazardous. The switch for turning on the electric lights should be some distance from the tree. It is unsafe to use an outlet or plug under the tree or to run an electric train around the base.

Here are some suggestions:

If decorations are used about the house, do not permit them around or near to chairs and other places where people may smoke. It is preferable to have them near the ceiling, well above the head of anyone standing up.

Keep plenty of ash trays handy during the holiday season, as always.

If lights are desired in windows, never use candles. Keep curtains and other flammable material pulled back at least six inches from any electric light.

Use non-flammable decorations of glass or metal, and "fire-proof" snow in decorating your tree for Christmas.

After you have opened your Christmas presents, remove all the gift wrapings and packing materials from your living room and dispose of them.

Now you are all set for a safe, happy Christmas.

Honestly Is Best

Benjamin Franklin, as much as any man alive, would undoubtedly be intensely interested in the launching of earth satellites if he were living today. Even today, Franklin's interest in things scientific and his knowledge of them more than a century and a half ago are amazing to the average layman.

So, let's agree that Poor Richard would record in his Almanac with interest and delight that the Russians launched two earth satellites in 1957, one a plain missile and the other containing a dog (so they say), that he would watch at dusk and dawn for glimpses of them, and that he would listen to their beep-beep as they went over in their appointed rounds. Let's also agree that he would be interested in seeing Uncle Sam get into the act, that he would not be too happy over another nation getting ahead of his own in any respect scientific.

But let's agree on something else, too — and this is equally important — namely, that he would continue to print in his Almanac that "Honesty is the best policy", that "A penny saved is a penny earned," and some philosophy to the effect that to spend each week's wages plus one shilling is the way to bankruptcy while to spend each week's wages less one shilling is the way to prosperity.

For above all else, Benjamin Franklin was not a one-sided man. He knew that there are certain underlying principles governing the affairs of man that never change — no matter what century you are in. He knew that man does not live by science alone, any more than he lives by bread alone, that there are both moral laws and economic laws that must be observed if life is to be wholesome and well-rounded.

More than anything else in this country right now, we need to decide upon our own state of mind, to decide whether we want to emulate the Russians or whether we are afraid of the Russians. Because there is one thing certain — we are keeping ourselves in a constant state of hysteria, from the man in the White House to the man in the street, over what the Russians have done, are doing and might do.

This is not the attitude that made this nation great, it is not an attitude destined to keep it great. In our early days as a nation, we were not afraid when some other nation achieved a scientific accomplishment ahead of us, neither did we try to imitate them in all our actions. Of course, there were no atomic bombs or guided missiles then, but is anyone more dead killed by these instruments than by a tomahawk?

Our nation in those days set its own course, without fear and without imitation. We knew then, whether we do now or not, that freedom is the greatest asset a people can have — not satellites. If we are afraid the Russians are going to take our freedom away from us by means of earth satellites or other scientific accomplishments, then that is one thing; if we are ashamed of ourselves just because they have performed a scientific feat ahead of us, then that is another.

Actually, of course, if we are going to be honest with ourselves, we will admit it is nothing but fear, real physical fear, that is causing us to behave the way we do. And nothing could be more foolish and unrealistic on our part. How do we think we have achieved our present status among the nations of the world? Who is to think that our traditional principles, continuously pursued, will not maintain us in the vanguard of those able to defend themselves and keep freedom alive in the world?

Just because Russia is cramming science down the throats of its students from the very early grades and making its people a nation of robots without morals or principles, is that any reason for us to go and do likewise? The Russians may teach their pupils that x plus y equals z all right, but is that sufficient to place them on top of the world all by itself? Don't they also need to teach them that the ingredients of decency and honesty and individual initiative and private enterprise and fair play all add up to freedom, and that freedom is based on a way of life higher than any that may be devised by man? If they don't, then our whole history is meaningless — and that just isn't so!

Dedicated To Freedom

National Newspaper Week, just ended, is most important. It is dedicated to a cause. It goes further than promoting the hometown newspaper. It upholds our way of life.

We accept our newspaper with its coverage of local and national news as being free of influences that would make it unreliable as a source of uncontrolled information and comment. In the dictatorships the press is cynically used to advance the interests of those in power.

The newspaper is a voice that represents the meaning of free enterprise—the American way of life. It is the voice of the boot black, the corner grocer, the municipality—all of us. Without it people would be victimized by political groups and power hungry dictators. Without an uncensored press our country would become a sitting duck for ambitious rulers.

National Newspaper Week honors and upholds freedom of thought and expression.

Way To Freshen Salt Water Believed Near

The day when man can take salt water from the sea and convert it into fresh water for industry, agriculture and even human consumption is not too far over the horizon.

Scientists from almost 30 countries who are working toward this goal have just met in Washington to discuss what progress is being made and the general tenor of their observations was one of optimism.

This was the first international conference of its kind and pointed up the urgency with which science is seeking to solve this problem as the world's supply of fresh water dwindles alarmingly.

The problem is not so much one of how to remove salt from sea or brackish water but how to do it economically. Scientists are shooting for a solution from many directions and costs are gradually being cut down.

Industry is consuming water at a tremendous pace and in some parts of the United States the amount of water available spells the difference between industrial expansion or contraction. And in arid areas farmers depend heavily on water. Municipalities of course, are also using more and more water.

One scientist believes that if current research is successful water can be used from the sea or underground sources within five to 15 years at prices which many industries and some municipalities can afford.

Meanwhile, everyone concerned agrees that shortages of fresh water now and in the near future can best be relieved by curbing waste and making some economical use of this vital resource.

The United States government currently is spending almost a million dollars a year — and private industry is doing its share —on water conversion research. A special agency was created five years ago, the Office of Saline Water, to supervise this effort and has received encouragement from many quarters. More than 600 suggestions and proposals on how to desalinize water have reached this agency and some 50 research and development contracts have been signed with private industry.

Four major methods are being tested and each have shown promise in one direction or another. One of these is the solar process in which science hopes to use the power of the sun to extract salt from water. Another method which seems to have potential advantages is that of freezing salt water which has lowered the tendency of equipment to scale and rust. Other areas of research involve filtration and distillation.

It has been suggested that costs may be reduced measurably by combining a saline water conversion plant with nuclear power generation plans since the conversion process requires considerable power. But the cost of electrical power or heat from nuclear energy will have to become competitive with that from other energy sources before this can be achieved.

One widespread belief is that desalination would be limited to seacoast areas where salt water is available in unlimited quantities. Actually, there are many inland areas where salt water is stored in tremendous volume underground — a source which could be easily tapped when a way is found to free it of its salt content.

Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton believes the cost of large-scale distillation of salt water can be reduced to fifty cents or less per 1,000 gallons in the near future. Industry would be the first to take advantage of this new water supply since it can afford to pay more. Cities would be next to buy this water when normal supplies are short. Cost would have to be reduced greatly of course, before farmers can purchase this water for irrigation.

The effect which converted salt water would exert upon the economic, political and even military affairs of the world is almost beyond description. In the arid southwestern part of the United States and in almost every industrial area the need for a new source of water is acute.

Already the shortage of drinking water is a serious problem in such places as southern Italy, Japan and Israel. For Japan the benefits would be two fold since that country also must import huge quantities of salt — a product which would come cheaply once a way is found to convert sea water into fresh water.

Sputnik Will Hurt School Legislation, Thinks NEA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17, (CQ)—The National Education Assn. foresees an "uncomfortable year" for its 1958 legislative program even though Russian scientific advances are bringing home the need for greater U.S. educational achievement.

The school lobby's gloom is only partially relieved by the thought it probably will have more money to spend on lobbying activities than it ever has had before.

NEA says that instead of helping its program, Russia's sputniks may hurt it. "Educators may as well brace themselves against being blamed for sputnik," says an NEA spokesman. Members of Congress, he explains, are concluding that inferior U.S. educational methods are responsible for this country's failure to keep well ahead of the Russians.

NEA leaders also fear that sputnik will spur Congress to broaden military programs and reduce such existing Federal aid programs as those that supply schools with hot lunches and provide funds for vocational education.

This expected pressure to cut back non-military spending coupled with increased agitation over school integration deepens NEA's gloom over its major project—a bill to provide Federal aid for school construction.

Southern Opposition

J. L. McCaskill, NEA's legislative director, says the school construction bill outlook is "very dim." NEA members in the South have lost their enthusiasm for the bill as a result of President Eisenhower's use of troops in Little Rock. They fear any aid bill would mean greater racial integration in the schools, a view also held by most southern Congressmen.

And Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey (D W. Va.), chairman of the subcommittee that would handle the bill and heretofore a staunch supporter of it, says he will not permit it to leave his subcommittee in 1958 unless a majority of Republicans is shown to be clearly for the bill. Most Republicans previously have voted against the versions of the bill that have come to a final vote.

So McCaskill says, the best NEA can do about a 1958 bill is to "wait and see," hoping a way out of the impasse shows up. Outside Congress, NEA plans to try to maintain interest in the measure and combat the growing impression that a school building crisis no longer exists.

The becalmed status of the school construction bill gave NEA additional worries on the local level. The lobby fears the bill's foes will be able to concentrate their fire on school building programs in local areas now that they have less to worry about on the national level.

More Worries

NEA leaders are even worried about President Eisenhower's announced intention to submit a new school building proposal in 1958. They fear the pressure to cut back non-military programs will result in the President requesting a bill so weak the NEA could not support it. This possibility, says McCaskill, could disrupt the "very pleasant relationship" that has been built up between NEA and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. A weak bill would force NEA to oppose HEW Marion B. Folsom's position.

What may be a ray of sunshine in NEA's gloomy outlook is the strong possibility the lobby will have more money to spend.

Sales Work Offers Great Opportunity

Clark is at the crossroads. But he had formerly been a successful newspaper carrier and book salesman, so I recommended that he continue in selling as his lifetime career. "For Glenn Frank, "are the spark plugs of civilization." And they have the greatest job security in America!

Case W- 343: Clark G., aged 21, has just finished college.

"Dr. Crane, I'm in a dilemma," he confessed, "for I have two good positions offered me.

"One is an inside job in a manufacturing plant. The other involves selling hardware goods to retail merchants over a wide territory.

"I used to be a newspaper carrier for 3 years in high school and have spent two summers during college as an encyclopedia salesman, so I have a little experience in that field and like it.

"But my dad thinks I'd have more security working for the manufacturing firm.

"If you were in my shoes, which job would you take?"

1,000 Bosses

If Clark accepts the job in the factory, he will then have just one boss.

After he works there for 5 or 10 years, suppose that boss retires or moves elsewhere.

Then Clark might or might not be moved up. But if a new employer takes over, maybe Clark will not harmonize as well with him.

Furthermore, if the present boss has a son who will be ready for a job in another year or two, maybe he might play favorites and push his son ahead of Clark, despite Clark's greater seniority.

Or suppose the firm should be purchased and merged with a larger outfit, which would probably staff its top jobs with its own key executives.

These are just a few of the hazards of working for just one boss.

But in sales work, you soon have many employers. In fact, every customer is actually a boss, so a good salesman with a large territory might have 1,000 bosses instead of only one.

Salesman's Security

It takes time to build up a large sales clientele, just as it does to recruit a big medical, dental or law practice.

But that clientele belongs primarily to the salesman and only secondarily to his firm.

A salesman thus can take most of his customers with him and go to a rival firm if his company fails to treat him fairly.

For in this highly competitive modern world, there are many equally good insurance firms and automobiles and furniture factories and gasolines, etc.

So nowadays the salesman has an even greater degree of safety than ever before in world history.

Despite the rise of billion dollar corporations, the final success of all of them depends on the salesmen thereof.

And the salesman really owns the clientele which he develops!

So no other job offers as much security as does sales work.

Recruit New Bosses

For example, if you work for a single boss and he fires you, or his business goes bankrupt, your salary can drop from $100 per week to zero in a moment of time.

If you are a salesman, however, and have recruited 100 customers, maybe one of them dies or grows irate and quits. But that still leaves you 99 other bosses, so your income drops very little (1 per cent).

Cost Of Land In This Country Will Go Up

Over the years, the price of land in our country will go up.

Over the years, the paychecks of workers in our housing and allied industries will go up.

Over the years, we also may expect that construction will become more efficient, building codes will become more sensible, the prices of at least some building materials will stabilize or even become a bit cheaper.

Yet, over the years, the chances are slim that these trends will be sufficiently powerful to offset the climb in land prices and in labor costs in the housing industries and that thus we will be able to avert increases in the prices of new homes.

Is there much point in waiting to buy land and to plan building of your home in the hope that prices will decline enough to matter to you therefore?

No.

This week, I spent a couple of provocative hours at a luncheon conference with Perry Prentice, editor and publisher of House & Home and his staff of editors and associates.

We skirted around a lot of subjects during our talk — for instance, the difficulty of financing a home purchased in this era of hard-to-get and expensive credit, the disturbing growth of costly second mortgages in many areas across the nation, the signs of business slowdown on all sides, the likelihood that during the next six months or so prices of most key building materials will not go higher and may go lower.

Finally, I put this question on the table:

"If we agree that the immediate outlook is for slower business, for cut-throat competition in the housing industry and for stable prices of most building materials, don't you think a person who wants to build a house might be wise to wait for a while?"

The answer, as I indicated, was a resounding NO.

Prentice picked up my question at once, shot back.

"Even if prices of materials going into a house decline temporarily over the long term, the uptrend in the price of the land on which the house is built will more than absorb these and other possible savings."

And then the men around the table elaborated on the point.

Each year our population is growing at a rate of more than 3,000,000, meaning we're adding the equivalent of a city larger than Boston every 12 months. As Prentice colorfully put it:

"It took us nine generations to house 90,000,000 people on 3,000,000 square miles of land. Now, in one generation, we propose to house an additional 9,000,000 on 10,000 square miles of land." When the babies born since World War II become adults in the late '60s, start marrying and building homes of their own, Prentice fears the price of land will go into a "precipitous increase" unless we develop a national policy to prevent it.

And each year we're expanding our highway network, making land which has been strictly rural through the generations suitable for housing developments.

Being a lover of dogs, I would like to do a little griping about the treatment the Russians are giving that little old dog up there in Sputnik number two. If they should be able to parachute him back to this world, he never will be any more good as a dog for running things, for he will be so "drunk" from all that circling he will have to be "unwound" before he can stay on trail again.

Not satisfied with treating this pooch in this undog like manner, they are talking about shooting another little dog all the way to the moon. You all should know the moon is no place for a dog. But the offer of some woman to give her prized rabbit for this government to shoot to the moon might help the second dog some, but the U. S. is so far behind the Russians in this kind of doings, the dog will probably die of loneliness before the rabbit can be landed on the moon.

I don't see why they don't shoot some of the Russians up to the moon, for as far as I can find out, I have read nothing about the trip back.

Thank you all for bending your ears to my doggone words of wisdom.

Appreciation

Editor's Note: The following letter is from Alon Davis Cochran of Rayville, whose grand champion lamb was purchased by the News-Star-World Publishing Corporation of Monroe and Radio Station KWKH of Shreveport.

Rayville, La.

Editor, News-Star—World Publishing Corp.

I wanted to tell you how much I appreciated your high bid on my grand champion lamb at the Louisiana State Fair. Because of your generosity, your check of $1260.00 will help me pay for my other sheep, improve my barn, and make it possible for me to have a savings account at the First National Bank for college.

I enjoy hunting and will spend some of the money for shot gun shells.

If more people like you were interested in 4-H Club boys and girls a lot of Louisiana children would work harder to get ahead.

I would like for you to see our house. We have nine acres just outside the city limits of Rayville. Sheep are best for a small acreage. I'd like for you to visit me if you could come to Rayville.

Thanks you so very much for the check. You make my hard work and my parents hard work pay off.

I will work harder to feed more good lambs for other livestock shows, and so will my two little sisters.

Thank you from the bottom of my heart.

Sincerely,
Alon Davis Cochran.

Christmas Trees

Although many will do so reluctantly, we must face the fact that Christmas is only about six weeks away. When Christmas arrives the world will be glad but in the days between there will be plenty of moaning as people try to make their gift selections.

One way to ease the strain and to have a more satisfactory Christmas is to shop early. In this way you are practically sure to buy more and when the big day arrives you will be glad you did.

Since Christmas is a happy time and everybody wants to keep it that way and since it will soon be time to place Christmas trees in the homes, a warning against Christmas-tree fires is timely.

The Christmas tree is a potential fire hazard and caution should be taken in its selection, placement in the home, and maintenance. Play safe by choosing a small tree. There will be 30 million on the market.

In placing the tree, it is best to avoid hot spots, such as those near the fireplace, stove, television set, radiator or electric bulbs. Untreated paper ornaments and cotton batting or gauze are unsafe for Christmas-tree decorations unless properly treated, and some chemical substances sold for "fire-proofing" are said to be ineffective.

Candles are unsafe and frayed electric cords are hazardous. The switch for turning on the electric lights should be some distance from the tree. It is unsafe to use an outlet or plug under the tree or to run an electric train around the base.

Here are some suggestions:

If decorations are used about the house, do not permit them around or near to chairs and other places where people may smoke. It is preferable to have them near the ceiling, well above the head of anyone standing up.

Keep plenty of ash trays handy during the holiday season, as always.

If lights are desired in windows, never use candles. Keep curtains and other flammable material pulled back at least six inches from any electric light.

Use non-flammable decorations of glass or metal, and "fire-proof" snow in decorating your tree for Christmas.

After you have opened your Christmas presents, remove all the gift wrapings and packing materials from your living room and dispose of them.

Now you are all set for a safe, happy Christmas.

Honestly Is Best

Benjamin Franklin, as much as any man alive, would undoubtedly be intensely interested in the launching of earth satellites if he were living today. Even today, Franklin's interest in things scientific and his knowledge of them more than a century and a half ago are amazing to the average layman.

So, let's agree that Poor Richard would record in his Almanac with interest and delight that the Russians launched two earth satellites in 1957, one a plain missile and the other containing a dog (so they say), that he would watch at dusk and dawn for glimpses of them, and that he would listen to their beep-beep as they went over in their appointed rounds. Let's also agree that he would be interested in seeing Uncle Sam get into the act, that he would not be too happy over another nation getting ahead of his own in any respect scientific.

But let's agree on something else, too — and this is equally important — namely, that he would continue to print in his Almanac that "Honesty is the best policy", that "A penny saved is a penny earned," and some philosophy to the effect that to spend each week's wages plus one shilling is the way to bankruptcy while to spend each week's wages less one shilling is the way to prosperity.

For above all else, Benjamin Franklin was not a one-sided man. He knew that there are certain underlying principles governing the affairs of man that never change — no matter what century you are in. He knew that man does not live by science alone, any more than he lives by bread alone, that there are both moral laws and economic laws that must be observed if life is to be wholesome and well-rounded.

More than anything else in this country right now, we need to decide upon our own state of mind, to decide whether we want to emulate the Russians or whether we are afraid of the Russians. Because there is one thing certain — we are keeping ourselves in a constant state of hysteria, from the man in the White House to the man in the street, over what the Russians have done, are doing and might do.

This is not the attitude that made this nation great, it is not an attitude destined to keep it great. In our early days as a nation, we were not afraid when some other nation achieved a scientific accomplishment ahead of us, neither did we try to imitate them in all our actions Of course, there were no atomic bombs or guided missiles then, but is anyone more dead killed by these instruments than by a tomahawk?

Our nation in those days set its own course, without fear and without imitation. We knew then, whether we do now or not, that freedom is the greatest asset a people can have — not satellites. If we are afraid the Russians are going to take our freedom away from us by means of earth satellites or other scientific accomplishments, then that is one thing; if we are ashamed of ourselves just because they have performed a scientific feat ahead of us, then that is another.

Actually, of course, if we are going to be honest with ourselves, we will admit it is nothing but fear, real physical fear, that is causing us to behave the way we do. And nothing could be more foolish and unrealistic on our part. How do we think we have achieved our present status among the nations of the world? Who is to think that our traditional principles, continuously pursued, will not maintain us in the vanguard of those able to defend themselves and keep freedom alive in the world?

Just because Russia is cramming science down the throats of its students from the very early grades and making its people a nation of robots without morals or principles, is that any reason for us to go and do likewise? The Russians may teach their pupils that x plus y equals z all right, but is that sufficient to place them on top of the world all by itself? Don't they also need to teach them that the ingredients of decency and honesty and individual initiative and private enterprise and fair play all add up to freedom, and that freedom is based on a way of life higher than any that may be devised by man? If they don't, then our whole history is meaningless — and that just isn't so!

Dedicated To Freedom

National Newspaper Week, just ended, is most important. It is dedicated to a cause. It goes further than promoting the hometown newspaper. It upholds our way of life.

We accept our newspaper with its coverage of local and national news as being free of influences that would make it unreliable as a source of uncontrolled information and comment. In the dictatorships the press is cynically used to advance the interests of those in power.

The newspaper is a voice that represents the meaning of free enterprise—the American way of life. It is the voice of the boot black, the corner grocer, the municipality—all of us. Without it people would be victimized by political groups and power hungry dictators. Without an uncensored press our country would become a sitting duck for ambitious rulers.

National Newspaper Week honors and upholds freedom of thought and expression.

Way To Freshen Salt Water Believed Near

The day when man can take salt water from the sea and convert it into fresh water for industry, agriculture and even human consumption is not too far over the horizon.

Scientists from almost 30 countries who are working toward this goal have just met in Washington to discuss what progress is being made and the general tenor of their observations was one of optimism.

This was the first international conference of its kind and pointed up the urgency with which science is seeking to solve this problem as the world's supply of fresh water dwindles alarmingly.

The problem is not so much one of how to remove salt from sea or brackish water but how to do it economically. Scientists are shooting for a solution from many directions and costs are gradually being cut down.

Industry is consuming water at a tremendous pace and in some parts of the United States the amount of water available spells the difference between industrial expansion or contraction. And in arid areas farmers depend heavily on water. Municipalities of course, are also using more and more water.

One scientist believes that if current research is successful water can be used from the sea or underground sources within five to 15 years at prices which many industries and some municipalities can afford.

Meanwhile, everyone concerned agrees that shortages of fresh water now and in the near future can best be relieved by curbing waste and making some economical use of this vital resource.

The United States government currently is spending almost a million dollars a year — and private industry is doing its share —on water conversion research. A special agency was created five years ago, the Office of Saline Water, to supervise this effort and has received encouragement from many quarters. More than 600 suggestions and proposals on how to desalinize water have reached this agency and some 50 research and development contracts have been signed with private industry.

Four major methods are being tested and each have shown promise in one direction or another. One of these is the solar process in which science hopes to use the power of the sun to extract salt from water. Another method which seems to have potential advantages is that of freezing salt water which has lowered the tendency of equipment to scale and rust. Other areas of research involve filtration and distillation.

It has been suggested that costs may be reduced measurably by combining a saline water conversion plant with nuclear power generation plans since the conversion process requires considerable power. But the cost of electrical power or heat from nuclear energy will have to become competitive with that from other energy sources before this can be achieved.

One widespread belief is that desalination would be limited to seacoast areas where salt water is available in unlimited quantities. Actually, there are many inland areas where salt water is stored in tremendous volume underground — a source which could be easily tapped when a way is found to free it of its salt content.

Secretary of the Interior Fred Seaton believes the cost of large-scale distillation of salt water can be reduced to fifty cents or less per 1,000 gallons in the near future. Industry would be the first to take advantage of this new water supply since it can afford to pay more. Cities would be next to buy this water when normal supplies are short. Cost would have to be reduced greatly, of course, before farmers can purchase this water for irrigation.

The effect which converted salt water would exert upon the economic, political and even military affairs of the world is almost beyond description. In the arid southwestern part of the United States and in almost every industrial area the need for a new source of water is acute.

Already the shortage of drinking water is a serious problem in such places as southern Italy, Japan and Israel. Editor, Morning World.

Being a lover of dogs, I would like to do a little griping about the treatment the Russians are giving that little old dog up there in Sputnik number two. If they should be able to parachute him back to this world, he never will be any more good as a dog for running things, for he will be so "drunk" from all that circling he will have to be "unwound" before he can stay on trail again.

Not satisfied with treating this pooch in this undog like manner, they are talking about shooting another little dog all the way to the moon. You all should know the moon is no place for a dog. But the offer of some woman to give her prized rabbit for this government to shoot to the moon might help the second dog some, but the U. S. is so far behind the Russians in this kind of doings, the dog will probably die of loneliness before the rabbit can be landed on the moon.

I don't see why they don't shoot some of the Russians up to the moon, for as far as I can find out, I have read nothing about the trip back.

Thank you all for bending your ears to my doggone words of wisdom.

H. A. PATTEN.

Appreciation

Editor's Note: The following letter is from Alon Davis Cochran of Rayville, whose grand champion lamb was purchased by the News-Star-World Publishing Corporation of Monroe and Radio Station KWKH of Shreveport.

Rayville, La.

Editor, News-Star—World Publishing Corp.

I wanted to tell you how much I appreciated your high bid on my grand champion lamb at the Louisiana State Fair. Because of your generosity, your check of $1260.00 will help me pay for my other sheep, improve my barn, and make it possible for me to have a savings account at the First National Bank for college.

I enjoy hunting and will spend some of the money for shot gun shells.

If more people like you were interested in 4-H Club boys and girls a lot of Louisiana children would work harder to get ahead.

I would like for you to see our house. We have nine acres just outside the city limits of Rayville. Sheep are best for a small acreage. I'd like for you to visit me if you could come to Rayville.

Thanks you so very much for the check. You make my hard work and my parents hard work pay off.

I will work harder to feed more good lambs for other livestock shows, and so will my two little sisters.

Thank you from the bottom of my heart.

Sincerely,
Alon Davis Cochran.

Christmas Music Adds To Yuletide

Probably no music in the world today is more joyous and lovely than our Yule-tide carols, hymns and songs.

There are three explanations for why much of our Christmas music is called "carols," but there is no fact.

Some musical authorities believe the word "carol" to be from a Latin origin meaning "to dance in a ring."

Another theory is that the word stems from the same derivation as "chorus."

Yet another explanation is that "carol" comes from a Middle English word "carolen" meaning "to sing joyously."

The more elaborate, musically complex Christmas songs are generally called "hymns."

Christmas "songs" are more often composed during the 20th century.

The first carol, according to the Bible, was sung by a chorus of angels from Heaven.

St. Frances of Assisi is credited for the first significant carol. He is reputed to have conducted a Christmas service singing the Gospel and giving the sermon.

The ballad type carol, now considered the true carol, was an authentic creation of the people. They were handed down by voice from generation to generation and were not scored until a much later date.

In the 17th Century, the time of Puritanism, carol singing was forbidden. But the text and music of these carols were kept alive in the homes during this somber period.

It was at this time that many of the carols were secretly printed. It is thought that the first printing of a carol under that name was of "A carolle of Huntynge" in 1521.

One of the earliest public printings was "Silent Night," appearing in 1840. Some authorities believe it was a folk song. Others say it was written by a parish priest in Salsburg, Austria. Yet others say it was first called "Der Christnacht" and composed in 1818 by Frantz Xavier Gruber to words of Joseph Mohr. The latter was the pastor of a Lutheran Church in Austria. Gruber was the church organist.

Kiwanis Back Bond Issue For Monroe

The capital improvement program on which property owners in the city will vote in a bond issue euection December 17, has received the endorsement of the Monroe Kiwanis Club.

This is the second civic group to give public approval to the proposal since city council called the election at its meeting last Tuesday. Members of the Business and Profesional Women's Club of Monroe gave its formal approval in a public announcement issued Friday.

Members of the board of directors of the Kiwanis Club met Tuesday night and approved the capital improvement program, and the membership at large concurred at the club's luncheon meeting Wednesday.

J. R. Plaisance, secretary of the Monroe Kiwanis Club, notified Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard of the board's action in a letter dated November 11, and later of the membership's vote by telephone. The letter sent to Mayor Howard reads:

Letter To Mayor

"I wish to advise that the board of directors of our club, in a special meeting, approved the "Capital Improvement Program" as outlined by you on Wednesday, November 6, 1957."

The program had been explained to the club members at their luncheon meeting on November 6.

City council called the election in order that Monroe property owners may vote for or against a bond issue amounting to about 9 million to provide funds with which to improve the city. Five proposals are included in the call.

One is for $4,270,000 for a major street improvement project to take in major arteries and new streets for tie - ins with the new federal highway.

The second is for $200,000 for the construction of drains in connecion with the street improvement program. The third is for $1,965,000 for a civic center. The fourth is for the construction of a new city hall, and the fifth is for $1,650,000 for construction of recreational buildings, swimming pools and improvement to parks.

Property owners may vote on any or all of the five proposals.

Everyone Can Use Slippers

Be a 'Slipper Santa' . . . give everyone on your list slippers this (and each) Christmas. They'll be delighted!

Toasty - warm slippers with novel trims are adored by children

He will welcome comfort most of all, and prefers his slippers to resemble casual shoe types with sturdy soles (for wandering about the yard).

For the ladies, the bunny-lines footwarmer or slipper - socks are favored in cold climates, while scuffs are more often the choice where its warm. The latter are perfect for dressing - room to shower wear.

High or medium heel d'orsays and mules are popular with elegantly - casual at - home wear.

Younger girls lean toward the ballerina slipper, embroidered or jeweled.

Other sure - to - please styles are beaded moccasins, jeweled satin or velvet slippers, thong-sandals, in - step - strapped wedges, and dressy slip-ons.

Step ahead now — choose slippers for all this Christmas!

TB Seal Sale Had Beginning In Denmark

Ask the "man on the street" who originated the Christmas Seal and his answer will probably be, "the National Tuberculosis Association."

The first seals sold in this country for the purpose of raising money for charity were to help stamp out TB. However, this was four years and thousands of miles away from the point of origin.

The idea of seals for use in charity fund raising was conceived by a postal clerk in Denmark in 1903.

Einar Holboell mentioned his plan to his fellow workers who enthusiastically began to help him.

The idea reached King Christian, who approved, and the image of Queen Louise was placed on the first seals in 1904.

Jacob Riis, Danish-born American, saw the seals on letters and packages arriving in this country.

In 1907, a magazine article, which Riis wrote about seals, attracted the attention of a Red Cross worker, Miss Emily Bissell. She was concerned about the fate of a small sanatorium and decided to use the idea in its behalf.

The first seal in America, designed by Miss Bissell, was a wreath of holly encircling the words "Merry Christmas!"

She promptly had 50,000 of them printed, but had no way of selling them. The aid of a columnist on a Philadelphia newspaper was enlisted. Within a few weeks, $3,000 was collected.

The following year, a nationwide sale was held. It was supported by publications and groups all over the country — and sponsored by the American Red Cross and the National Tuberculosis Association.

Today, thousands of dollars are raised each year by the sale of this one seal. In addition, dozens of other groups, too, have taken up the idea. Many kinds of vital charity work are now aided by the sale of seals.

FLU VACCINE TESTED AT CONLONY

PINEVILLE — UP —Dr. Ralph Lambert, clinical director in the Louisiana State Health Depart - ment, announced today that studies were being conducted at the State Colony and Training School to test effectiveness of Asiatic flu vaccine. Hundreds of persons at the colony, were stricken with the flu during the recent epidemic.

Music Charms Everyone On List

Most everyone enjoys the passive pleasure of listening to music That's why records, phonographs, high fidelity systems, radios and televisions are wonderful gifts.

But, for the active music fans, gifts of sheet music or instruments make their Christmas memorable.

A piano or organ is a really major gift, with prices starting around $500.

Brass instruments average in cost at about $125. For the violinist, a practice instrument can be purchased for $50 or more.

But, for $1 to $35 and up, there are a number of instruments that will please all ages. Nearly anyone can learn to play one of these instruments without professional instruction. He will probably entertain only himself, but he can do that and in a relatively short time.

The guitar will be extremely popular with the teenage male. Banjos and ukeleles produce rather fine calypso numbers, too.

Youngsters, who appear to lack any desire to play an instrument, can usually be encouraged to try the harmonica, accordian or concertina.

A gift of music may start someone on a career or a satisfying diversion that will last throughout their life.

Two From Tech To Attend Meet

RUSTON (Special) — Two representatives from Louisiana Tech will attend the annual meeting of the Southern College Personnel Association, Nov. 17-19, at the Delano Hotel, Miami Beach, Fla.

Miss Hazel Shively, guidance counselor, and Miss Mary Lou Ledbetter of the Tech placement service will be the college delegates.

More than 100 student personnel workers from colleges and universities of 12 southern states are planning to attend.

The keynote address is to be given by Richard S. Johnson, registrar at the University of Florida. The conference will also include orientation meetings for new members, panel discussions, and discussion groups arranged according to the size of the colleges.

Big Crowd Sees Redskins Variety

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

With everything from close order drill to pulsating rhythm, from melodrama to more mellow aspects, Redskins on Parade of 1957, student variety show of Northeast State College, played to a full house in Brown Auditorium Friday night.

A word about the crowd — such a gratifying turnout indicates the city is growing. There were two major football games in the immediate area on the same night, one on the campus in Brown Stadium. No longer can one attraction accuse another — in this case two others — of "robbing the house."

One big problem in piecing such a review together is the representing of every group on campus and still managing to achieve variety. Bobby Joe Oden and staff did a nice piece of work for the cause on this point.

The show opened with an Indian dance with a fiery hoop solo by Jack Pankey, and the Collegiates — a rolling barber-shop quartet with good harmony and poorly coordinated thigh bones — followed. From here on, Ronnie Danna did a soft tap; Jane Wallace played a witty set of variations from Bach to barroom on the Davy Crocket theme at the piano; Charlene Correro posed as Theresa Brewer for a pantomime.

The College Quintet sang Rain as arranged by Lee Fiser of the Fine Arts faculty; Lucky Pierre arrived from France for a group pantomime — Pierre was delayed slightly by a celestial body (what else would delay a Frenchman?) — but the show carried on.

Doris Kitchens and Charles Pollard blended their voices for The Desert Song from that operetta; Ann Nichols twirled a blazing baton, the TKE's did a radio sound effect western thriller entitled "Feud in the Shade" and George Mack trotted out a colorful array of magic to bring the show to the intermission curtain.

The various elements of the production held the audience and drew spontaneous applause until the latter part of the western, which strung out the cactus-coated lines a mite too long. Had George Mack worked a little more "presto" into his act, it would have eliminated the production's only flat spot.

The after - intermission portion opened with the Collegiates in some effective chord - pyramid harmonies; followed by a pantomime trio from Guys and Dolls by KA fraternity. Well - oiled as this type thing was in "Redskins," canned vocals don't do the job like the real item. At that time, to that audience, in front of those lights, in that costume — it's got to be YOU.

George Phillips, backed up by the Quintet, performed at the keyboard; Bobbie June Moore, prima ballerina, and a corps of Phi Lambda Taus carried off an exceptional ballet skit; and a song and drill of the Pershing Rifles sandwiched in a vocal solo by Betty Brandy with Beth Brown at the piano for the final curtain.

The secret of good showmanship lies in that stuff the riflemen must have spent many drill periods mastering — the basic movements, timing, working together and polish. Recognition for such efforts: the Pershing Rifles from Northeast will perform in the Sugar Bowl this coming January.

The job of "EMCEE" to keep the pace going as the skits pass in review — and in between them as well — was handled capably by Bobby Joe Jackson. He had a good reserve of not - so - well-worn jokes; for example, "Shakespeare class resembles a Model "T" — a bunch of nuts with an old crank in front."

The set lacked neither color nor glitter — a real accomplishment on the Brown stage — and the Redmen under the trombone slide of Slick Lawson supplied background music as well as several excellent feature numbers.

For a general comment on the entire show: more college spirit is evident at Northeast, with the new dormitories, buildings and enlarged student center. This spirit is fertile ground for snappier campus activities — including shows. Redskins of '57 caught some of this enthusiasm, but, as the program states "Watch for Redskins of '58!"

Homemaker Will Welcome Handy, Small Appliances

Small appliances make a big hit as a Christmas gift for Mrs. Homemaker — or for the bachelorette and bachelor who lives alone (and likes it!)

Cooking right at the table is a modern innovation and one that makes a meal more fun for all—especially the cook!

Today's toaster, one of the first appliances to appear "on the table," bears little resemblance to old ones. They are now fully automatic, and some toast as many as three slices at once!

Fill with water, add coffee, plug in and forget it! Automatic coffee pots make delicious coffee, keep it constantly hot and fresh for hours.

A waffler and a grill, separately or as a combination, present a terrific Christmas gift. With this "combo" appliance, the grill plates fit over the waffle form for frying bacon, eggs, pancakes or browning sandwiches.

Two more at - the - table appliance gifts that are sure to please the whole family are a deep - fryer and an electric skillet. They make foods taste so good! Cooking is easier, too.

A little larger (money - wise) among the small appliances are the so - useful mixerblender, and the fun - to - use rotisserie-broiler.

Most everyone has an iron, but not all own a combination steam and dry one. They're wonderful to use and often eliminates the need for troublesome sprinkling.

Mixers take all the work out of beating. They come complete with bowls or in light-weight, portable models, with a special wall hanger — in colors as well as white!

Small Leather Items Offered In Gay Array

One place many people fail to look when searching for a novelty-nice gift is the luggage shop.

These stores generally carry many, many items in addition to large traveling bags. And, the small leather pieces start as low as $1 in most places.

Fitted cases for both men and women containing manicure equipment, toiletries (or containers), or miniature sewing necessities are lovely gifts.

Billfolds, of course, as well as change purses, belts, watchbands and cases for cigarettes and lighters may be found there.

Leather desk sets, briefcases, necktie cases, pocket notebooks or handy pack car visors are especially good for men.

Jewel cases and hand - made purses are lovely to give women.

This Chrismtas take a look at the large and wonderful-to-give selectoin of small leather items.

DOCK TO BE CLOSED

BATON ROUGE — UP — The Ormet dock will be closed to large shipping vessels Dec. 7 to Jan. 3, 1958 while a gantry crane is installed, manager John J. Miller said. The dock is to be purchased by the Greater Baton Rouge Port Commission for more than $15 million.

Candy At Christmas Is Traditional

Christmas is the season of mirth and merriment, of sugar plums and spice, of drinks and delights. It's the time of year when hospitalety is at its peak!

Therefore, it's a good idea to keep a buffet table set with simple, yet elegant foods for those who drop by to exchange Christmas greetings or help to trim the tree.

Set the table with your prettiest punch bowls filled with both an alcoholic punch and a non-alcoholic drink, platters of cookies, cheese and crackers and an assortment of the freshly - made fine quality chocolates that you can buy at your local retail candy shops.

Each box of assorted chocolates usually comes in a variety of perhaps twenty different centers so your guests can choose to their heart's content from the soft creamy centers, chewy nut and fruit centers, rich chocolate - covered caramels, crunches and the like.

And, be sure to remember candy when you shop for gifts. It's a delightful Christmas present for every age.

There are numerous types of candies for you to serve, candies being one of the best party items, and a note of gracious hospitality, but you'll find that those chocolates that are freshly - made are the tastiest and will offer your guests the most enjoyment.

Toiletry Items Make 'Scents' For Her Gifts

Toiletries for the modern woman are both a necessity and a luxury. She requires them to add to her total loveliness . . . and when she uses them, she feels utterly feminine and deliciously luxurious!

Toiletries are increasing in popularity as gifts, especially at Christmas, for that reason. When in doubt as to the suitability of a practical or simply lovely gift, toiletries are right!

This year, even the little girls can begin to enjoy their own toiletries. Several manufacturers are offering a complete line of toiletries for young moppets.

These items are boxed for extra attraction — including cutout dolls, toys, charms for bracelets and the like.

For the early cosmetic stage, there are now many shades, all soft and proper, that will please the tastes of both mother and daughter.

Lipsticks for women, besides offering a multitude of exquisite shades, appear encased in elegant tubes. These range in price from a little above the usual cost of the lipstick to practically unlimited figures!

Perfume, cologne, all the liquid toiletries pour from bottles that even look expensive when empty. They are jeweled, gilded, shaped and beribboned.

Boxes for these items, as well as powders, bubble bath creations, soaps, make - up bases, nail polishes, and all the rest are most exciting too.

Sets embracing the same fragrance of various types of toiletries make perfect gifts, as well. And, as with the individual items, these are often available in special Christmas packages or can be purchased in their year 'round setting.

"Extras" are included with many of the grown - up selections, too, though of course, much more sophisticated in nature than those of the little gals!

Delicate to see (but sturdy) "premiums" such as powder mitts with dusting powder enhance the gift of toiletries.

Luxury does begin to overshadow necessity in such items as 18-Karat gold - plated hair brushes. But it should "last a lifetime."

A gift of toiletries is always suitable — for every age — in any price. There are many wonderful, special - for - Christmas items, too.

When recovering the ironing board, place a sheet of aluminum foil under the cover. It will hold the heaa.

FIVE MEMBERS of the Dayton Grandmothers' Club drill team parade for the photographer. Their director says her hardest job was to keep them from talking during drills, which require utmost concentration. Concentration was less than perfect here, where grandmother on the far right was caught out of step.

Dayton Grandmothers' Drill Team Beating Father Time

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Twenty-eight Dayton grandmothers aren't letting Father Time get the jump on them. They're marching right along with him and enjoying every minute.

The 28 are members of a Grandmothers' Club drill team whose marching, 100 steps per minute, has charmed audiences and amazed husbands, children and grandchildren.

Mrs. Ruth Broedling, who groomed the team from its stumbling to its current machine-like efficiency, had one big problem to overcome: how to keep 28 women quiet during practices and performances.

"Sometimes I wish I had adhesive tape," she observed. "My biggest job is to keep them quiet. In this work feet and mouth just can't be going at the same time."

Apparently this crisis has been solved at least during performances. The marching grandmothers, who range in ages from 42 to 80, can put on quite a show. They form a human wheel, a waving flag, a figure eight or a cross at cues from piano music. All of their marching routines are by memory.

The drill team marched into existence Feb. 19, 1951. After six months of training the marching matrons faced their first audience in Cincinnati.

"The Old Grey Mare," their theme, found them on that opening night shaking in their calico bonnets and skirts. But they were a hit, Mrs. Broedling said. Since that night they have gone on to conquer audiences all over the Miami Valley area and at Grandmothers' conventions from Seattle to St. Petersburg.

Sales Fashion Show To Net Large Crowd

Response to invitations indicate that hundreds of representatives of retail firms in Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi will come to Monroe next Sunlay and Monday for the largest sales fashion showing ever staged in the area.

Representatives of 37 manufacturers of leading nationally advertised products will show 80 lines of men's, women's and children's apparel and shoes, lingerie, jewelry, accessories, piece goods and practically all items carried by department stores and specialty shops.

Plan of Convenience

To be held at the Penn Hotel the showing is an effort on the part of manufacturers' representatives to provide marketing convenience for the retailers of the area.

E. L. "Buddy" Young of Ruston, show chairman, explained that many local merchants find it impossible to travel long distances to attend merchandise shows, and have expressed the desire for such an exhibition nearer home.

Monroe was chosen for its central location and hotel and motel facilities, Young said, adding that plans are under study already to stage the showings seasonally. Extensive publicity is being given the Monroe show as far away as Pine Bluff, Ark., Shreveport, Alexandria and western Mississippi.

Merchandise to be displayed here Sunday and Monday is for at-once and spring delivery.

Dinner Set

A dinner will be held in the Green Room of the Penn Hotel at 8 p.m. Saturday at which time plans will be furthered for the spring show.

All merchants attending on Sunday will be given free parking privileges, and throughout both days, the hotel penthouse will be open as a hospitality room.

Name Delegates To Methodist Meet

The November conference of churches of the Monroe Methodist district will meet in Gilbert, La., next Tuesday.

Those from the Twin Cities will be as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Mike John Sr., Mrs. Ed Jackson, Mrs. J. P. Harris, Mrs. Robert Irby, Billy Inabnett, and Charles Sherrouse.

Three named as alternates are: Miss Willie Mae Porter, Miss Juanita Porter and Mrs. P. A. Poag.

Hobby, Sports Gifts Rate High As Yule Bounty

Most hobby and sports enthusiasts never have enough equipment. That's why those items make such a hit as gifts at Christmas.

If photography is their love, a camera, projector, screen, flash attachment, light meter, film, storage box or flashbulbs, will be well received.

For the golfer, you can give clubs, bag, head covers, gloves, practice ball bags, shield straps, cap, visors, tees, home putting devices or carts.

Fishermen like to add to their collection of flies, poles, nets, rods, reels, buckets, baskets and the like.

Guns, ammunition and targets are appreciated by the hunter.

The bowler likes to have his own ball, a bag and shoes.

For the campers there is everything from a tent to a flashlight battery to round out his equipment supply.

Hobby shops carry kits and materials to suit all ages and many interests. For families, there are hobbies everyone can enjoy together.

WONDERS OF ASPHALT

Scientists at the National Bureau of Standards in Washington are attempting to break down the complicated molecular structure of asphalt to determine what gives this mineral its amazing waterproofing qualities.

The waterproofing ability of asphalt is one reason asphalt shingles are chosen as the roofing material on a large majority of new homes.

Wide Selections In Teen-Age Gifts

Whether she's looking ahead to college, the business world or marriage, there's a gift sure to evoke "ohs" and "ahs" from every teenager on your list.

"Something to Wear" always comes first. Running the gamut from smartly practical to glamorous, the new youthful fashions and accessories are bound to thrill her.

Bulky cardigans, classic sweater sets and glitter trimmed sweater ensembles can be had in care-free miracle yarns, soft wools and wool mixtures.

The luxury of cashmere in newly vibrant shades is almost every girl's dream.

Skirts range from slim or flared woolens right for casual and school wear to sequinned, quilted or appliqued affairs, for dates or proms.

There's a perfect blouse for her in the newest styles fashioned of drip-dry cottons, soft crepes, warm jerseys and floatly nylons, in tailored or dressy types.

Gloves, from wool mitts to suave kidskins; colorful scarves; big "tote" bags; demure evening purses; and exciting costume jewelry are finishing touch accessories.

Always thrilling too, is toilet water or perfume, for her enchanted evenings.

Lingerie is always welcome. No girl ever has enough slips, petticoats, nightgowns or pajamas. Dusters and robes are other valued additions to her wardrobe.

NEW ORLEANS DENTIST DIES

NEW ORLEANS —UP—Charles Mallory Banister, a dentist, died here Thursday at the age of 60. He was a Mason, member of the Louisiana and American Dental Associations and the Baptist hospital staff. Funeral services will be held in Baton Rouge pending the arrival of a son, who is stationed with the Army in Alaska. He is survived by his widow, a daughter and a son.

When washing woolen gloves, stick the round end of clothes pins into each glove finger. This will keep them from shrinking.

Big Crowd Sees Redskins Variety

By JOHN CALE
Staff Writer

With everything from close order drill to pulsating rhytinm, from melodrama to more mellow aspects, Redskins on Parade of 1957, student variety show of Northeast State College, played to a full house in Brown Auditorium Friday night.

A word about the crowd — such a gratifying turnout indicates the city is growing. There were two major football games in the immediate area on the same night, one on the campus in Brown Stadium. No longer can one attraction accuse another — in this case two others — of "robbing the house."

One big problem in piecing such a review together is the representing of every group on campus and still managing to achieve variety. Bobby Joe Oden and staff did a nice piece of work for the cause on this point.

The show opened with an Indian dance with a fiery hoop solo by Jack Pankey, and the Collegiates — a rolling barber-shop quartet with good harmony and poorly coordinated thigh bones — followed. From here on, Ronnie Danna did a soft tap; Jane Wallace played a witty set of variations from Bach to barroom on the Davy Crocket theme at the piano; Charlene Correro posed as Theresa Brewer for a pantomime.

The College Quintet sang Rain as arranged by Lee Fiser of the Fine Arts faculty; Lucky Pierre arrived from France for a group pantomime — Pierre was delayed slightly by a celestial body (what else would delay a Frenchman?) — but the show carried on.

Doris Kitchens and Charles Pollard blended their voices for The Desert Song from that operetta; Ann Nichols twirled a blazing baton, the TKE's did a radio sound effect western thriller entitled "Feud in the Shade" and George Mack trotted out a colorful array of magic to bring the show to the intermission curtain.

The various elements of the production held the audience and drew spontaneous applause until the latter part of the western, which strung out the cactus-coated lines a mite too long. Had George Mack worked a little more "presto" into his act, it would have eliminated the production's only flat spot.

The after - intermission portion opened with the Collegiates in some effective chord - pyramid harmonies; followed by a pantomime trio from Guys and Dolls by KA fraternity. Well - oiled as this type thing was in "Redskins," canned vocals don't do the job like the real item. At that time, to that audience, in front of those lights, in that costume — it's got to be YOU.

George Phillips, backed up by the Quintet, performed at the keyboard; Bobbie June Moore, prima ballerina, and a corps of Phi Lambda Taus carried off an exceptional ballet skit; and a song and drill of the Pershing Rifles sandwiched in a vocal solo by Betty Brandy with Beth Brown at the piano for the final curtain.

The secret of good showmanship lies in that stuff the riflemen must have spent many drill periods mastering — the basic movements, timing, working together and polish. Recognition for such efforts: the Pershing Rifles from Northeast will perform in the Sugar Bowl this coming January.

The job of "EMCEE" to keep the pace going as the skits pass in review — and in between them as well — was handled capably by Bobby Joe Jackson. He had a good reserve of not - so - well-worn jokes; for example, "Shakespeare class resembles a Model "T" — a bunch of nuts with an old crank in front."

The set lacked neither color nor glitter — a real accomplishment on the Brown stage — and the Redmen under the trombone slide of Slick Lawson supplied background music as well as several excellent feature numbers.

For a general comment on the entire show: more college spirit is evident at Northeast, with the new dormitories, buildings and enlarged student center. This spirit is fertile ground for snappier campus activities — including shows. Redskins of '57 caught some of this enthusiasm, but, as the program states "Watch for Redskins of '58!"

IN MONROE THIS MONTH

Marching Band Festival, Christmas Parade Slated

Holiday atmosphere will come to Monroe Nov. 29 when the First Annual Marching Band Festival will be staged, beginning at 3 p. m.

Sponsored by the Retail Merchants Association, the Chamber of Commerce and the Jaycees, the parade is expected to be one of the longest Monroe has ever had.

Christmas parade Chairman Herbert Fink said that 600 high school band members will compete in the affair, which he promises will be "most entertaining."

The band members, representing high schools in Oak Grove, Rayville, Bernice, West Monroe, Bastrop, Farmerville, Crowville, Tallulah and Winnsboro, as well as Ouachita Parish High School and Neville High, will vie for $500 in cash prizes, and for trophies.

Band Salute

The festival, besides initiating the Christmas spirit, will be a salute to the bands of northeast Louisiana, Fink said.

High school queens from the participating schools will appear in the procession in 1958 automobiles.

The festival is to feature several floats displaying the latest in toys for the youngsters, along with the biggest novelty train in the world. This will be the Missouri Pacific "Eagle," a 65 foot diesel train with its own engineer.

And of course Santa Claus will be on hand to greet the youngsters with candy. He too will ride aboard the "Eagle."

Bill Cummings, Christmas committee chairman from the Jaycees, said the bands will be slowly and carefully judged. He pointed out that the slow - moving parade will also aid the children to get a better view of Santa and the toys.

Robot Toy

A tremendous toy called "Robert the Robot" may be on hand, also, Fink said. "We are trying to obtain this toy in order to add to the children's enjoyment of the festival," he said. However, advance appearances in metropolitan eastern cities may make it impossible for Monroe to obtain the super - toy for the parade, he added.

The Chamber of Commerce urges Monroe shoppers to park their cars in the Park and Shop lots, so that out - of - town visitors may park at the curb parking slots on parade day.

A LOWELL QUIP

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. —(UP)— The late President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University once quipped: "No wonder colleges are reservoirs of knowledge. The freshmen bring a little in and the seniors take none away, and knowledge accumulates."

Consider Closet Accessories As Practical Gifts

A place for everything is, naturally, the prerequisite for keeping everything in its place. This is especially true where wardrobes are concerned, and gifts for "tidying-up" and "space-making" are good ideas.

Gay-colored, quilted boxes for handkerchiefs, hosiery, gloves and scarves encourage "ship-shapeliness" of bureau drawers.

Plastic or fabric envelopes for sweaters, men's shorts and lingerie do their part toward neatness, too.

Smart chrome multi - hanger units for blouses, skirts, handbags, belts or ties, shoe racks, too — are practical presents with a handy future.

A convenient, multi-drawered small chest can be used by either man or woman.

Notion departments feature these practical, "gifted" items as well as dozens of others!

Garment and blanket bags in all sizes and colors; wardrobe closets that may be easily dismantled for storage all have their own appeal to the good housekeeper.

GOLDEN DAYS

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. —(UP) When Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Christensen observed their 50th wedding anniversary guests included Mrs. Christensen's brother and three sisters and their spouses, all of whom already had observed their wedding anniversaries. Marching Band Festival, Christmas Parade Slated

Holiday atmosphere will come to Monroe Nov. 29 when the First Annual Marching Band Festival will be staged, beginning at 3 p. m.

Sponsored by the Retail Merchants Association, the Chamber of Commerce and the Jaycees, the parade is expected to be one of the longest Monroe has ever had.

Christmas parade Chairman Herbert Fink said that 600 high school band members will compete in the affair, which he promises will be "most entertaining."

The band members, representing high schools in Oak Grove, Rayville, Bernice, West Monroe, Bastrop, Farmerville, Crowville, Tallulah and Winnsboro, as well as Ouachita Parish High School and Neville High, will vie for $500 in cash prizes, and for trophies.

Band Salute

The festival, besides initiating the Christmas spirit, will be a salute to the bands of northeast Louisiana, Fink said.

RELIGION

More Americans Attending Church

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (UP)—More Americans than ever are attending church but those that do still number less than those who stay home.

Each week nearly 50,000,000 adults attend worship services in U.S. churches and synagogues. But slightly more than 50,000,000 stay home.

Like most statistics, these figures can be viewed in many ways. The church attendance figure can be, and often is, cited as evidence that this country is experiencing a major religious revival. It is the highest in history, up 10,000,000 from 1950. It dwarfs the church-going statistics of other countries (in Britain, for example, only one adult out of seven regularly attends worship services).

Down To Earth

But any pastor, priest or rabbi who is inclined to rejoice in today's big congregations is quickly brought down to earth by the figure on non-attendance. Even in this period of great popular interest in religion, the number of worshippers on a typical weekend constitutes slightly less than half of the total adult population.

Many churches work hard at the task of bringing the absentees into the fold.

They hold revival meetings, conduct house-to-house canvasses, bring in guest speakers, advertise their services in community newspapers, provide coffee hours for newcomers, and baby-sitting facilities for young parents.

Strongly Reinforced

Their year-round efforts will be strongly reinforced during the next few weeks by a nationwide public service advertising campaign sponsored by the Religion in American Life Committee.

The committee, headed this year by former Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens, is composed of laymen from all major religious faiths. Each fall since 1949, it has enlisted the cooperation of America's mass communications media to promote church attendance.

About $7,500,000 worth of free advertising space has already been promised to this year's drive. More than 1,000 participating newspapers will carry an average of 10 advertisements each. The outdoor advertising industry is donating 5,500 billboards to display the committee's posters.

Weekend Broadcast

Most television and radio stations will carry this weekend a special 30-minute broadcast, introduced by President Eisenhower, explaining the goals and purposes of the campaign.

In addition to this initial program, spot announcements will be carried on some 300 regular network radio and TV broadcasts and thousands of local station breaks during the next few weeks.

The message, which you'll be seeing and hearing many times this month, is:

"Find the strength for your life. . . worship together this week.

Pilgrimages To Shrines Set In Incoming Year

Air service to Lourdes, the major shrines of Ireland and Rome has been arranged by Pan American World Airways in cooperation with Aer Lingus (Irish Air Lines) for Americans making religious pilgrimages during 1958.

Some 7,000,000 pilgrims are expected to visit Lourdes next year in observance of the centenary of the apparition of Our Lady to Saint Bernadette Soubirous. Pope Pius XII has announced that he will visit the famous French town at the base of the Pyrenees during the year.

American religious travelers arriving in Shannon by Pan American can take Aer Lingus service to Dublin and from there visit such Irish shrines as Our Lady of Knock, Croagh Patrick and Liugh Derg. From Dublin Aer Lingus has direct flights to Lourdes, where centenary observances will include daily masses at the Grotto, midnight masses, immersion of the sick in the pool and tours of the homes where the saint and her family lived.

From Lourdes Aer Lingus flies to Barcelona for a visit to the monastery at Monsterrat with its Black Virgin. Pan American makes the flight from Barcelona to Rome, the final destination of any religious tour.

Winnsboro Will Hold Thanksgiving

WINNSBORO, (Special) — Robert F. Mulhearn, Mayor of Winnsboro, announced today that Community Thanksgiving services will be held in Winnsboro on Thanksgiving day, Thursday, November 28.

People of all faiths are urged to attend the community services which will be held at the Temple Baptist Church from 9:30 A.M. to 10:30 A.M.

The Rev. W. H. Bengston, pastor of the Winnsboro First Methodist Church, will deliver the sermon.

Arise And Build Rev. Boddie Theme

"Arise and Build!" will be the sermon subject of the Reverend W. D. Boddie at the 11:00 A.M. service Sunday, November 17, at the Rayville Methodist Church.

This Sunday will be observed as Education Building Fund Round-Up Day. Members will make cash contributions to the Building Fund and Building Fund pledges for the next twelve months. The goal of the Church is to build its Education Building in 1958.

"Take Time!" will be the pastor's sermon subject at the 7:00 P.M. service. The public is cordially invited to these services.

Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Message:

0.	Exod.	20:17	You shall not covet anything that is your neighbors.
1.	Lev.	26.6	You shall lie down, and none shall make you afraid.
2.	Exod.	23:1	You shall not utter a false report.
3.	Deut.	2:27	I will turn aside, neither to the right nor to the left.
4.	Job.	28:18	No mention shall be made of coral or crystal; the price of wisdom above pearls.

Charles Wesley, 250th Anniversary To Be Stressed

There will be an organ recital at the Southside Methodist Church on Wednesday, Noverber 20, at 7:30 p.m. by the Rev. Clyde T. Shaw, pastor of the Wesley Methodist Church in Alexandria, La. Rev. Shaw received his academic training at Northwestern State College, Natchitoches; Southern Methodist University, Dallas; Iliff Theological Seminary, Denver, and Yale University, New Haven, Conn. where he served as organist at the Divinity School.

He is a native of Winnfield and an ordained minister of the Methodist Church.

For a number of years he was an instructor in the public schools of Winn parish.

The program will be as follows: prelude, prayer, congregational hymn: "All Hail The Power."

There will be five major types of hymns: Primitive Church hymns; Early American hymns; Charles Wesley Hymns; Comfort and Assurance; and From the Great Composers.

Benediction.

The public is cordially invited to attend this concert and hear this fine man.

Methodists Seek For 662 In Missions

The Methodist Board of Missions has listed 662 openings for 1958 in Methodist mission fields in the United States, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and about 35 countries overseas.

The 662 figure includes all of the openings listed for personnel. However, the board, through its Office of Missionary Personnel, (150 Fifth Ave., New York 11, N. Y.), is seeking to recruit a minimum of 350 persons for missionary service this year. Many of those persons are being sought among students on the campuses of Methodist colleges and universities.

The total openings include 547 vacancies in overseas fields and 115 in home fields. The 350 minimum figure includes 235 priority overseas needs and the same 115 needs at home, the latter being the single figure given by home missions authorities.

The openings are for service under all three of the board's administrative divisions, Division of National Missions, Division of World Mission and the Woman's Division of Christian Service.

The vocations listed for both home and overseas service are many and varied. There are openings for men and women, ministers and laymen.

The qualifications for missionary service at home and overseas are the same. They are:

Christian Experience — The basic essential is a first-hand experience of what Christianity is and does, a realization of the need of all men for Jesus Christ and a desire to share one's Christian faith and experience in all areas of life.

Age—For regular missionaries, 23-35; for special-term missionaries, 21-28.

Health — Good physical and mental health is necessary since the work is difficult and exacting. A thorough physical examination under the direction of the medical secretary of the board is required. A psychological examination is also given.

Education—College graduation is required of all missionaries. For such specialized work as college and theological school teaching or medicine, graduate or professional degrees are required.

Experience—At least one year of successful experience is required in work similar to that to which one will be assigned. This is not required for special-term service.

Church Membership—It is the policy of the board to appoint as missionaries persons who are members of the Methodist Church. Some exceptions are made, especially in the case of special termers.

Quality of Work—There must be a better than average record in scholarship and practical achievement. The missionary should be characterized by intellectual alertness, the ability to get things done and the ability to work with all types of persons.

Persons wishing to obtain a detailed listing of openings or interested in any phase of missionary service may write: Office of Missionary Personnel, 150 Fifth Ave., New York 11, N. Y.

Sabbath Day Is Time For Soul To Be Enriched

Concerning observance of the Sabbath day, Travis T. Tynes, branch president of the Monroe Church of Latter Day Saints, states as follows:

If you have not grown spiritually during the Sabbath day, of what value has it been to you? You may have obtained much needed physical and mental relaxation by fishing, swimming, skating, attending a ball game or a movie. The tired business man who plays golf all day Sunday, or tramps the fishing stream, finds relaxation of mind as his worries of the week evaporate. The values to the physical self are immense. But we would be foolish indeed to overlook the fact that the finest care in the world of the physical self is no substitute for the neglect of the soul, and the finest sportsman in the world, if he neglect the spiritual side of his nature, will find the declining years of his life empty of purpose and satisfaction.

When we use the Sabbath day for the care of our physical needs it is quite likely that the spiritual side of life goes undeveloped, not only on that day but also during the remainder of the week. Theodore Roosevelt was once asked a question by a soldier in his command, "Can we not worship God and cultivate his spirit while in the mountains or along the streams as well as in church on the Sabbath day?" The colonel promptly answered, "You could, but you don't."

Attend the church of your choice this Sabbath day, and to those who have no church home, we extend a warm invitation to visit with us.

Sterlington Men To Host Banquet

The Sterlington Methodist Men's club will meet Monday evening in the Fellowship Hall at 7 P.M. It will comprise the monthly meeting and will be climaxed by a banquet for Father and Son.

The speaker of the occasion will be Buster Crowley, Ouachita Parish Juvenile Probation officer, and his address promises to hold unusual interest.

Bible Words for Today

TITUS 3:2 — "Speak evil of no man....but (be) gentle, shewing all meekness unto all men." (King James)

* * *

My first knowledge of the medical profession was gained from our family doctors. In making a diagnosis of some childhood disease one of their first requests was, "Let me see your tongue." In our social contacts we cannot learn much by looking at the tongue, but by listening we soon know its kind and color.

Some deserve the reputation of having a merciful tongue, a kind word, and a gentle voice, while others are known to have a long tongue noted for gossiping, fault-finding, or profanity.

David took a stand which we need to follow today, when he wrote in Psalm 39:1, "I will take heed... that I sin not with my tongue: I will keep my mouth with a bridle." Such a resolution followed in spirit and in letter would greatly improve the fellowship in our churches, for most of the unpleasant experiences in our church life are caused by the uncontrolled tongue.

So the next time you are tempted to pick the pastor to pieces, complain about the choir, or find fault with the organist, remember the words of James 1:26, "If any man among you seemeth to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue,...this man's religion is vain."

1st Baptists To Take Out Year's Pledge

Today "Pledge Day" at the First Baptist Church in Monroe will offer to the church membership and friends opportunity to list their personal donations for the coming year to the church budget. This year will be the eighth that A. B. Clarkson, man with a great degree of consecration and unlimited energy, has led in carrying through the budget.

This year it will comprise a larger sum than ever, $153,000, of which $41,000 will be devoted to extended mission work.

"Pledge Day" will, it is expected, account for a large proportion of the church's prospective donations, but for those unable for any reason to participate today, "Victory Day" has been set for the coming Sunday, November 24.

A fine showing was held at the Loyalty dinner at the Ouachita parish fairgrounds, Thursday night. An assemblage at the great dinner party, served without expense to all attending, was large. The speaker of the occasion was Dr. R. O. Cawker, director of Evangelism for Louisiana Baptists, "Working Together" was the watchword of his talk.

He declared that if the sum of $3,000 a week is realized, the budget will be met and slightly exceeded. This he said is a challenge to the church membership, but in the past years it has never failed.

He related that Studebaker wagons are bypassed today despite the fact that they were filling a great role in the era that is gone. Now we have to show something down to date and this is impossible without the funds to meet the challenge of the era in which we live.

"If you people will all work together the burden will be equally shared and if we tithe as all good Baptists should do, the task will be in no ways a burden on anyone," he declared.

An excellent meal was enjoyed and the program was as follows: Invocation by "Bing" Miller; dinner music by Win Mask; Singing Together led by Wayne Miley; "Onward Christian Soldiers" by Combined Choirs; "The Forward Progress of Church Finance" by A. B. Clarkson, and a talk "What Is It?" by the pastor, Rev. James T. Horton. He stressed Going Forward for Christ and with Christ."

Devon D. Thrift spoke on "Stewardship Testimony" and the address of Dr. R. O. Cawker was the highlight of the occasion.

RELIGION

More Americans Attending Church

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (UP) — More Americans than ever are attending church but those that do still number less than those who stay home.

Each week nearly 50,000,000 adults attend worship services in U.S. churches and synagogues. But slightly more than 50,000,000 stay home.

Like most statistics, these figures can be viewed in many ways. The church attendance figure can be, and often is, cited as evidence that this country is experiencing a major religious revival. It is the highest in history, up 10,000,000 from 1950. It dwarfs the church-going statistics of other countries (in Britain, for example, only one adult out of seven regularly attends worship services).

Down To Earth

But any pastor, priest or rabbi who is inclined to rejoice in today's big congregations is quickly brought down to earth by the figure on non-attendance. Even in this period of great popular interest in religion, the number of worshippers on a typical weekend constitutes slightly less than half of the total adult population.

Many churches work hard at the task of bringing the absentees into the fold.

They hold revival meetings, conduct house-to-house canvasses, bring in guest speakers, advertise their services in community newspapers, provide coffee hours for newcomers, and baby-sitting facilities for young parents.

Strongly Reinforced

Their year-round efforts will be strongly reinforced during the next few weeks by a nationwide public service advertising campaign sponsored by the Religion in American Life Committee.

The committee, headed this year by former Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens, is composed of laymen from all major religious faiths. Each fall since 1949, it has enlisted the cooperation of America's mass communications media to promote church attendance.

About $7,500,000 worth of free advertising space has already been promised to this year's drive. More than 1,000 participating newspapers will carry an average of 10 advertisements each. The outdoor advertising industry is donating 5,500 billboards to display the committee's posters.

Weekend Broadcast

Most television and radio stations will carry this weekend a special 30-minute broadcast, introduced by President Eisenhower, explaining the goals and purposes of the campaign.

In addition to this initial program, spot announcements will be carried on some 300 regular network radio and TV broadcasts and thousands of local station breaks during the next few weeks.

The message, which you'll be seeing and hearing many times this month, is:

"Find the strength for your life . . . worship together this week."

Pilgrimages To Shrines Set In Incoming Year

Air service to Lourdes, the major shrines of Ireland and Rome has been arranged by Pan American World Airways in cooperation with Aer Lingus (Irish Air Lines) for Americans making religious pilgrimages during 1958.

Some 7,000,000 pilgrims are expected to visit Lourdes next year in observance of the centenary of the apparition of Our Lady to Saint Bernadette Soubirous. Pope Pius XII has announced that he will visit the famous French town at the base of the Pyrenees during the year.

American religious travelers arriving in Shannon by Pan American can take Aer Lingus service to Dublin and from there visit such Irish shrines as Our Lady of Knock, Croagh Patrick and Lugh Derg. From Dublin Aer Lingus has direct flights to Lourdes, where centenary observances will include daily masses at the Grotto, midnight masses, immersion of the sick in the pool and tours of the homes where the saint and her family lived.

From Lourdes Aer Lingus flies to Barcelona for a visit to the monastery at Monsterrat with its Black Virgin. Pan American makes the flight from Barcelona to Rome, the final destination of any religious tour.

Winnsboro Will Hold Thanksgiving

WINNSBORO, (Special) — Robert F. Mulhearn, Mayor of Winnsboro, announced today that Community Thanksgiving services will be held in Winnsboro on Thanksgiving day, Thursday, November 28.

People of all faiths are urged to attend the community services which will be held at the Temple Baptist Church from 9:30 A.M. to 10:30 A.M.

The Rev. W. H. Bengston, pastor of the Winnsboro First Methodist Church, will deliver the sermon.

Arise And Build Rev. Boddie Theme

"Arise and Build!" will be the sermon subject of the Reverend W. D. Boddie at the 11:00 A.M. service Sunday, November 17, at the Rayville Methodist Church.

This Sunday will be observed as Education Building Fund Round-Up Day. Members will make cash contributions to the Building Fund and Building Fund pledges for the next twelve months. The goal of the Church is to build its Education Building in 1958.

"Take Time!" will be the pastor's sermon subject at the 7:00 P.M. service. The public is cordially invited to these services.

Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Message:

0.	Exod.	20:17	You shall not covet anything that is your neighbors.
1.	Lev.	26.6	You shall lie down, and none shall make you afraid.
2.	Exod.	23:1	You shall not utter a false report.
3.	Deut.	2:27	I will turn aside, neither to the right nor to the left.
4.	Job.	28:18	No mention shall be made of coral or crystal; the price of wisdom above pearls.

Charles Wesley, 250th Anniversary To Be Stressed

Rev. CLYDE T. SHAW

There will be an organ recital at the Southside Methodist Church on Wednesday, Noverber 20, at 7:30 p.m. by the Rev. Clyde T. Shaw, pastor of the Wesley Methodist Church in Alexandria, La. Rev. Shaw received his academic training at Northwestern State College, Natchitoches; Southern Methodist University, Dallas; Iliff Theological Seminary, Denver, and Yale University, New Haven, Conn. where he served as organist at the Divinity School.

He is a native of Winnfield and an ordained minister of the Methodist Church.

For a number of years he was an instructor in the public schools of Winn parish.

The program will be as follows: prelude, prayer, congregational hymn: "All Hail The Power."

There will be five major types of hymns: Primitive Church hymns; Early American hymns; Charles Wesley Hymns; Comfort and Assurance; and From the Great Composers.

Benediction.

The public is cordially invited to attend this concert and hear this fine man.

Methodists Seek For 662 In Missions

The Methodist Board of Missions has listed 662 openings for 1958 in Methodist mission fields in the United States, Hawaii, Alaska, Puerto Rico and about 35 countries overseas.

The 662 figure includes all of the openings listed for personnel. However, the board, through its Office of Missionary Personnel, (150 Fifth Ave., New York 11, N. Y.), is seeking to recruit a minimum of 350 persons for missionary service this year. Many of those persons are being sought among students on the campuses of Methodist colleges and universities.

The total openings include 547 vacancies in overseas fields and 115 in home fields. The 350 minimum figure includes 235 priority overseas needs and the same 115 needs at home, the latter being the single figure given by home missions authorities.

The openings are for service under all three of the board's administrative divisions, Division of National Missions, Division of World Mission and the Woman's Division of Christian Service.

The vocations listed for both home and overseas service are many and varied. There are openings for men and women, ministers and laymen.

The qualifications for missionary service at home and overseas are the same. They are:

Christian Experience — The basic essential is a first-hand experience of what Christianity is and does, a realization of the need of all men for Jesus Christ and a desire to share one's Christian faith and experience in all areas of life.

Age—For regular missionaries, 23-35; for special-term missionaries, 21-28.

Health — Good physical and mental health is necessary since the work is difficult and exacting. A thorough physical examination under the direction of the medical secretary of the board is required. A psychological examination is also given.

Education—College graduation is required of all missionaries. For such specialized work as college and theological school teaching or medicine, graduate or professional degrees are required.

Experience—At least one year of successful experience is required in work similar to that to which one will be assigned. This is not required for special-term service.

Church Membership—It is the policy of the board to appoint as missionaries persons who are members of the Methodist Church. Some exceptions are made, especially in the case of special termers.

Quality of Work—There must be a better than average record in scholarship and practical achievement. The missionary should be characterized by intellectual alertness, the ability to get things done and the ability to work with all types of persons.

Persons wishing to obtain a detailed listing of openings or interested in any phase of missionary service may write: Office of Missionary Personnel, 150 Fifth Ave., New York 11, N. Y.

Sabbath Day Is Time For Soul To Be Enriched

Concerning observance of the Sabbath day, Travis T. Tynes, branch president of the Monroe Church of Latter Day Saints, states as follows:

If you have not grown spiritually during the Sabbath day, of what value has it been to you? You may have obtained much needed physical and mental relaxation by fishing, swimming, skating, attending a ball game or a movie. The tired business man who plays golf all day Sunday, or tramps the fishing stream, finds relaxation of mind as his worries of the week evaporate. The values to the physical self are immense. But we would be foolish indeed to overlook the fact that the finest care in the world of the physical self is no substitute for the neglect of the soul, and the finest sportsman in the world, if he neglect the spiritual side of his nature, will find the declining years of his life empty of purpose and satisfaction.

When we use the Sabbath day for the care of our physical needs it is quite likely that the spiritual side of life goes undeveloped, not only on that day but also during the remainder of the week. Theodore Roosevelt was once asked a question by a soldier in his command, "Can we not worship God and cultivate his spirit while in the mountains or along the streams as well as in church on the Sabbath day?" The colonel promptly answered, "You could, but you don't."

Attend the church of your choice this Sabbath day, and to those who have no church home, we extend a warm invitation to visit with us.

Sterlington Men To Host Banquet

The Sterlington Methodist Men's club will meet Monday evening in the Fellowship Hall at 7 P.M. It will comprise the monthly meeting and will be climaxed by a banquet for Father and Son.

The speaker of the occasion will be Buster Crowley, Ouachita Parish Juvenile Probation officer, and his address promises to hold unusual interest.

Bible Words for Today

TITUS 3:2—"Speak evil of no man....but (be) gentle, shewing all meekness unto all men." (King James)

* * *

My first knowledge of the medical profession was gained from our family doctors. In making a diagnosis of some childhood disease one of their first requests was, "Let me see your tongue." In our social contacts we cannot learn much by looking at the tongue, but by listening we soon know its kind and color.

Some deserve the reputation of having a merciful tongue, a kind word, and a gentle voice, while others are known to have a long tongue noted for gossiping, fault-finding, or profanity.

David took a stand which we need to follow today, when he wrote in Psalm 39:1, "I will take heed... that I sin not with my tongue: I will keep my mouth with a bridle." Such a resolution followed in spirit and in letter would greatly improve the fellowship in our churches, for most of the unpleasant experiences in our church life are caused by the uncontrolled tongue.

So the next time you are tempted to pick the pastor to pieces, complain about the choir, or find fault with the organist, remember the words of James 1:26, "If any man among you seemeth to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue,...this man's religion is vain."

1st Baptists To Take Out Year's Pledge

Today "Pledge Day" at the First Baptist Church in Monroe will offer to the church membership and friends opportunity to list their personal donations for the coming year to the church budget. This year will be the eighth that A. B. Clarkson, man with a great degree of consecration and unlimited energy, has led in carrying through the budget.

This year it will comprise a larger sum than ever, $153,000, of which $41,000 will be devoted to extended mission work.

"Pledge Day" will, it is expected, account for a large proportion of the church's prospective donations, but for those unable for any reason to participate today, "Victory Day" has been set for the coming Sunday, November 24.

A fine showing was held at the Loyalty dinner at the Ouachita parish fairgrounds, Thursday night. An assemblage at the great dinner party, served without expense to all attending, was large. The speaker of the occasion was Dr. R. O. Cawker, director of Evangelism for Louisiana Baptists, "Working Together" was the watchword of his talk.

He declared that if the sum of $3,000 a week is realized, the budget will be met and slightly exceeded. This he said is a challenge to the church membership, but in the past years it has never failed.

He related that Studebaker wagons are bypassed today despite the fact that they were filling a great role in the era that is gone. Now we have to show something down to date and this is impossible without the funds to meet the challenge of the era in which we live.

"If you people will all work together the burden will be equally shared and if we tithe as all good Baptists should do, the task will be in no ways a burden on anyone," he declared.

An excellent meal was enjoyed and the program was as follows: Invocation by "Bing" Miller; dinner music by Win Mask; Singing Together led by Wayne Miley; "Onward Christian Soldiers" by Combined Choirs; "The Forward Progress of Church Finance" by A. B. Clarkson, and a talk "What Is It?" by the pastor, Rev. James T. Horton. He stressed Going Forward for Christ and with Christ."

Devon D. Thrift spoke on "Stewardship Testimony" and the address of Dr. R. O. Cawker was the highlight of the occasion.

Arkansas Prison Escapee Caught

ing on DeSiard at Fourteenth Street at 12:20 noon yesterday. Smith attempted to radio headquarters, but found his radio out of operation.

Dashed To Phone

He halted, dashed to a phone and called headquarters for reinforcements. Meanwhile, Burke and his companion drove into a service station at the corner of 14th and DeSiard streets, to try to sell the car's spare tire, police said.

Smith saw them drive in, followed, and as he turned into the driveway, Burke sighted him and fled through the side door of the station, and south on 14th street. The other Negro also ran.

Within a matter of minutes all available patrol cars were rushed to the scene and a ring was thrown around the area. At the same time, other city patrol cars, and units from the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department, the West Monroe Police Department and State Police headquarters set up block system throughout the Twin Cities and the parish.

The automobile answered the description of one reported stolen from Indianola, Miss., recently, and the alert had been out on it since the much-sought Frank Wetzel is believed to have been in Indianola within the past few days. Wetzel is the convict who escaped from a New York mental institution with the vow that he would free his condemned brother from death row of Parchman prison in Mississippi.

Frank Wetzel is believed to have slain two North Carolina officers after his escape.

Search Intensified

As the city - wide search became intensified, Patrolman David L. Antley spotted a Negro answering the description of the fugitive at the corner of Jackson and Apple streets about 2:30 p.m. Upon seeing the police car, the Negro fled southward. Antley gave chase, notifying headquarters, and the full force of the manhunt was concentrated in that area.

The fleet - footed Negro led officers into the Florida street vicinity and shortly after 3 p.m., Patrolman D. L. Barnes saw the escapee racing toward the Florida and Plum street intersection through vacant lots and across lawns. He gave chase on foot, and other officers in the vicinity saw the race and moved in. Barnes lost sight of the Negro momentarily and he disappeared.

The officers began combing the immediate vicinity, and while this was going on, 12-year-old Carolyn Richardson who was visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. D. N. Fluitt, walked around the back corner of the Fluitt home, looked into the garden corner and saw the Negro stretched out on a matting of sugar cane stalks partially submerged in accumulated rainwater.

Summoned Officers

The girl yelled to her grandmother and aunt, Miss Vivian Fluitt. While Mrs. Fluitt kept an eye" on the Negro, Miss Fluitt rushed to the street a short distance away and summoned the searching officers.

Barnes was first to arrive, but he was joined within a matter of seconds by Patrolman Leo Earle.

Burke gave no resistance when approached. He was unarmed, although the officers had been informed he might be carrying a .38 caliber revolver.

"I just went out into the back yard with Grandmother and Aunt Vivian to see what was going on," Carolyn Richardson told reporters. "I guess I was just as surprised as he was when I saw the Negro there on the ground and in the water. About all I could see of him was his face, and he was looking right straight at me. He didn't do or say anything, just laid there until the officers came."

Chief Kelly said that under questioning, Burke admitted that he overpowered a guard at the penitentiary and took the guard's rifle early on the morning of November 12.

The Negro continued that he fled to the woods, and stayed there all day and Tuesday night. He managed to steal some khaki clothing from a farm house near the prison, and left his convict's clothing in the forested area.

Hitch - Hiked

After hitch - hiking across the bridge into Greenville on Wednesday, Burke continued that he stole a 1956 or 57 brown and gray Oldsmobile, by wiring around the switch. He said that he drove to Indianola, where he worked three hours Thursday, picking pecans. He then slept for a while in the car, before deciding to try to steal another vehicle.

He found a box of .38 cartridges in one car, and took them. These were later found in the Mercury he abandoned in Monroe, and gave rise to the belief that he might be armed with a .38 revolver.

In the residential section of Indianola, he stole the blue and white Mercury from a driveway. The keys were in the car and the gas tank was full. He drove to Vicksburg, begged enough money to pay the toll-bridge cost, and drove across into Louisiana, arriving in Monroe at 1:30 p.m. Friday.

He struck up an acquaintance with another Negro, and they went to various bars until 1 a.m. Saturday. Burke slept in the Mercury until shortly before 9 a.m., when he again met the other man. They were driving down DeSiard street, with plans to sell the spare tire for gas money when Smith sighted them, Burke said. They pulled into the service station, and were attempting to make the sale when Smith drove into the station. Both ran out a side door, and the chase began.

Kelly said that State Police believed the Negro stole a 1955 Oldsmobile from McGee Arkansas, which was found in Indianola. The man was held for Arkansas State Police, and the Mercury was stored here for the owner to claim.

if United Givers Fund goes over right, Monroe will loom as a city worth being considered for newcomers and new enterprises. Otherwise, we might be bypassed. We just can't afford to do anything but keep up the name and fame of these cities and Ouachita parish. Give, even if it hurts. The end will justify any sacrifice you make for a great community cause!

Facilities

West Monroe is expanding and facilities are now badly needed for Catholic children who live there. St. Paschal's church and school feel the pinch of lack of sufficient room, and bids will be received and opened at the church office of Father Vitus Duschinsky at 711 North Seventh Street West Monroe, on Dec. 4 for the erection of a new, one - story 50 by 200 ft. brick and concrete block elementary school structure for St. Paschal's.

A number of builders have been asked to submit bids which will be received by special invitation in all cases.

It is hoped to have the structure in use at the earliest possible time.

Congratulations

We extend Jes' Ramblin' congratulations to those in Ouachita Parish High school who contributed to the preparation and editing of the current issue of "The Roarer" which won first place from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association at Columbia University in New York.

The book was judged in the 23rd annual yearbook contest and received 904 out of a possible 1,000 points. The raaing was based on superior theme, layout, photography, advertising, editorial coverage, engraving and printing.

New Job

The many Monroe friends of O. Ted Madsen in Monroe, where he formerly resided, will be interested to know that he has just joined forces with the newly - established Washington firm of Guy E. Wyatt and Associates, the Barr Bldg. Suite 1201, 912 Seventeenth street, N. W. Washington, D. C.

By way of explanation it is stated in a letter he will lend his experience to objectives of the wide scope of activities in business, commercial, financial and industrial sectors of the country's economy. He will welcome letters from friends. His niece is Mrs. C. Roger Johnson, local Baptist clergyman's wife.

1957 homecoming." Her parents are Mr and Mrs. Carl Dark, of Delhi.

The feature - filled day opened with a parade through the business areas of the Twin Cities and ended with a dance in the new Student Center.

Gaily dressed freshmen headed the parade which included the Northeast band, units of the Army ROTC, floats and cars. The enthusiasm of students gave keen competition with heavy rain which limited the number of floats, many of which had been badly damaged by weather conditions.

Afternoon events included open house at the various dormitories and fraternity homes and the second showing of "Redskins on Parade," student variety show.

Specialties

Opening pre - game specialties, members of the homecoming court riding in gay convertibles, circled the football field. Colorful Indian dances were presented by a unit of the Order of the Arrow, an honor group of Boy Scouts. Then 250 ROTC cadets, assisted by the college band, formed two giant letters, "NE." The Pershing Rifles, an ROTC special drill team marched between the letters and flanked the fifty - yard line.

Through this aisle the queen, her court and their escorts approached the stadium where the coronation ceremony took place. Queen Carolyn, an elementary education major, wore a dark brown taffeleur with gold accessories and a corsage of yellow mums. Following her proclamation as queen, she was given a large bouquet of crimson roses.

Wearing the maid of honor title was Miss Carol Tonore, who has gained a wide range of recognition at Northeast. She was escorted by her father, George Tonore of this city.

Other Members

Other members of the court and their escorts included: Miss Betsy Benton, Monroe, and Dean William M. Smith; Miss Louise Bingham, Sicily Island, and her father, Louis Bingham; Miss Jean Bryan, Fort Necessity, and her brother, J. C. Bryan; Miss Barbara Eady, Monroe, and her father, Adrian Eady; Miss Ann Edwards, Monroe, and her father, H. D. Edwards; Miss Shari Kirby, Gurdon, Ark., and her father, W. A. Kirby; Miss Nancy Nash, Bastrop, and her father, Roy D. Nash. The maid of honor and maids wore smart tailleurs and yellow mums.

Half - time activities were marked by addresses of welcome by Student Body President Elvis "Chug" Stout and Northeast's President Lewis C. Slater. Sam Rubin, Jr., outgoing Northeast Alumni Association president, responded and introduced incoming alumni officers who were elected at an alumni dinner in the Student Center where President and Mrs. Slater were hosts.

Heading Alumni

Heading the alumni for the coming year are: Buster Crowley, president; Miss Kathryn Oliphant, vice president; Mrs. John Luffey, secretary; and Louis Phelps, treasurer.

The half - time program also featured a show dedicated by the college band to the twenty - fifth homecoming. Formations and music were planned in tribute to various groups in the audience. The homecoming court was saluted with a loving cup formation at the time the band played "There's Nothin' Like a Dame", and "No Other Love." Then the aggregation switched to a graduation cap for returning alumni and the melody "I Whistle a Happy Tune." A rocking chair, with appropriate music, recognized mothers attending the game, and a pipe formation, acompanied by "You're a Wonderful Guy," was dedicated to fathers.

Following other band features, the Pershing Rifles performed in a short marching drill, then came a brilliant display of fireworks.

Homecoming festivities came to an end with the Student Center dance where Wilmer "Slick" Lawson's Redmen played for alumni, students, and guests.

Air Force Probes Spatial Explosions

tests before they can be applied to actual, full-scale trials of weapons.

The explanation thus placed the Morgan group report in perspective. But it did not preclude the possibility that an unusually high altitude test of nuclear explosions might be made at next year's experiments at Eniwetok atoll in the mid-Pacific.

The highest altitude at which this country has tested atomic blasts up to now is about 16,000 feet, during last summer's series at the Nevada proving ground.

Two methods of getting an atomic warhead up to the level at which Intercontinental or Intermediate Range Ballistic Missiles would fly seem to exist:

A. Put a warhead on an IRBM, which can climb about 600 miles, and detonate while it is up there in the fringes of space.

B. Improve the balloon-rocket combination used by the Air Force earlier this year at Eniwetok to send research rockets up to at least 2,700 miles and possibly over 4,000 miles. However, the payload of instruments in the research rockets launched from balloons floating at about 100,000 feet weighed only a few pounds—far less than the weight of even a small nuclear device.

Youth Is Held After 2 Negro Girls Are Shot

J. B. Finroy, 15, Negro boy of Winnsboro, last night was in Franklin Parish Jail for questioning in connection with the shooting of two Winnsboro Negro girls at 4:45 p.m. yesterday.

According to Parish deputies I. J. Wiggins and Ray Lynch, Finroy had been hunting with two other Negro boys, but had left them and was walking along a road one - quarter mile north of Franklin parish courthouse when he met Rosie Lee Scott, 17; Leola Hardie, 16, and Verlean Sellers, another teen-age Negro girl of Winnsboro.

Finroy was carrying a 12-gauge single barrel shotgun and deputies were told that he pointed it at the girls and said "I'm going to shoot Rosie Lee." She jumped behind Leola and the gun went off. Both girls were hit on the right side under the right arm with number eight shot. They were taken to Winnsboro hospital by Ike Johnson, a passing Negro motorist. The Sellers girl was unharmed.

According to a doctor at Winnsboro Hospital, the shot penetrated Rosie Lee Scott's lungs, but Leola Hardie was not as seriously injured. He said they were in serious, but not critical condition.

Deputies said that no charges had been filed late last night pending completion of their investigation.

2 Negroes Perish In Auto Accident

NATCHITOCHES, La., Nov. 16 (AP)—A truck carrying three men struck an unoccupied auto parked by the highway near here tonight, killing two and critically injuring the third.

State police identified the dead as O. Z. Davis and Zebbie D. Vanzant, both Saline Negroes.

Injured was Huey Vanzant, also a Saline Negro.

sentative by getting past Southern California, 16-7.

So here is the major bowl line-up as of now:

Rose—Oregon vs Ohio State.
Orange—Oklahoma vs Duke.
Cotton—Still undecided.
Sugar—Still undecided.

However, if Navy, which licked George Washington, 52-0, beats Army on Nov. 30, the Middies no doubt will be tapped for the visiting spot in the Cotton Bowl.

Auburn, the third-ranked outfit in the country eked out a 6-0 victory over Georgia to remain undefeated. But the Tigers are in bad with the NCAA and can't play in a post-season game. With the demise of Oklahoma and Texas A&M, Auburn could wind up the national champion.

The Southeastern Conference winner acts as host team in the Sugar Bowl, but Auburn can't make it. That leaves Mississippi, which yesterday upset seventh-ranked Tennessee, 14-7, to fill in for Auburn.

light switch "and there was this awful explosion."

Mrs. Freeman said her three sisters who were killed were watching television in the living room. She was in another part of the house.

Bachman had left the home only 15 minutes before the explosion.

Mrs. Freeman said her three sisters who were killed were watching television in the living room, and she was in another part of the house.

Will Mickle, managing editor of The Huntsville Times, and Alec Thomas, a reporter, were in a restaurant about a mile from the explosion and saw the debris as it went up into the sky.

Bachman said the house was heated by oil, and there were no gas connections at all. There also was an electric heater, he added.

The house was brick veneer, and bricks were scattered over a wide area.

Mrs. Struve's car was parked in the driveway. It was damaged heavily, and all of the windows had been blown out.

Police said two dead dogs also were found in the debris.

There was no sign of fire, although firemen arrived shortly after the explosion and helped remove the bodies of the women.

1957 homecoming." Her parents are Mr and Mrs. Carl Dark, of Delhi.

The feature - filled day opened with a parade through the business areas of the Twin Cities and ended with a dance in the new Student Center.

Gaily dressed freshmen headed the parade which included the Northeast band, units of the Army ROTC, floats and cars. The enthusiasm of students gave keen competition with heavy rain which limited the number of floats, many of which had been badly damaged by weather conditions.

Afternoon events included open house at the various dormitories and fraternity homes and the second showing of "Redskins on Parade," student variety show.

Specialties

Opening pre - game specialties, members of the homecoming court riding in gay convertibles, circled the football field. Colorful Indian dances were presented by a unit of the Order of the Arrow, an honor group of Boy Scouts. Then 250 ROTC cadets, assisted by the college band, formed two giant letters, "NE." The Pershing Rifles, an ROTC special drill team marched between the letters and flanked the fifty - yard line.

Through this aisle the queen, her court and their escorts approached the stadium where the coronation ceremony took place. Queen Carolyn, an elementary education major, wore a dark brown ta lleur with gold accessories and a corsage of yellow mums. Following her proclamation as queen, she was given a large bouquet of crimson roses.

Wearing the maid of honor title was Miss Carol Tonore, who has gained a wide range of recognition at Northeast. She was escorted by her father, George Tonore of this city.

Other Members

Other members of the court and their escorts included: Miss Betsy Benton, Monroe, and Dean William M. Smith; Miss Louise Bingham, Sicily Island, and her father, Louis Bingham. Miss Jean Bryan, Fort Necessity, and her brother, J. C. Bryan; Miss Barbara Eady, Monroe, and her father, Adrian Eady; Miss Ann Edwards, Monroe, and her father, H. D Edwards; Miss Shari Kirby, Gurdon, Ark., and her father, W. A. Kirby; Miss Nancy Nash, Bastrop, and her father, Roy D. Nash. The maid of honor and maids wore smart tailleurs and yellow mums.

Half - time activities were marked by addresses of welcome by Student Body President Elvis "Chug" Stout and Northeast's President Lewis C. Slater. Sam Rubin, Jr., outgoing Northeast Alumni Association president, responded and introduced incoming alumni officers who were elected at an alumni dinner in the Student Center where President and Mrs. Slater were hosts.

Heading Alumni

Heading the alumni for the coming year are: Buster Crowley, president; Miss Kathryn Oliphant, vice president; Mrs. John Luffey, secretary; and Louis Phelps, treasurer.

The half - time program also featured a show dedicated by the college band to the twenty - fifth homecoming. Formations and music were planned in tribute to various groups in the audience. The homecoming court was saluted with a loving cup formation at the time the band played "There's Nothin' Like a Dame", and "No Other Love." Then the aggregation switched to a graduation cap for returning alumni and the melody "I Whistle a Happy Tune." A rocking chair, with appropriate music, recognized mothers attending the game, and a pipe formation, acompanied by "You're a Wonderful Guy," was dedicated to fathers.

Following other band features, the Pershing Rifles performed in a short marching drill, then came a brilliant display of fireworks.

Homecoming festivities came to an end with the Student Center dance where Wilmer "Slick" Lawson's Redmen played for alumni, students, and guests.

Air Force Probes Spatial Explosions

tests before they can be applied to actual, full-scale trials of weapons.

The explanation thus placed the Morgan group report in perspective. But it did not preclude the possibility that an unusually high altitude test of nuclear explosions might be made at next year's experiments at Eniwetok atoll in the mid-Pacific.

The highest altitude at which this country has tested atomic blasts up to now is about 16,000 feet, during last summer's series at the Nevada proving ground.

Two methods of getting an atomic warhead up to the level at which Intercontinental or Intermediate Range Ballistic Missiles would fly seem to exist:

A Put a warhead on an IRBM, which can climb about 600 miles, and detonate while it is up there in the fringes of space.

B Improve the balloon-rocket combination used by the Air Force earlier this year at Eniwetok to send research rockets up to at least 2,700 miles and possibly over 4,000 miles. However, the payload of instruments in the research rockets launched from balloons floating at about 100,000 feet weighed only a few pounds—far less than the weight of even a small nuclear device.

Youth Is Held After 2 Negro Girls Are Shot

J. B. Finroy, 15, Negro boy of Winnsboro, last night was in Franklin Parish Jail for questioning in connection with the shooting of two Winnsboro Negro girls at 4:45 p.m. yesterday.

According to Parish deputies I. J. Wiggins and Ray Lynch, Finroy had been hunting with two other Negro boys, but had left them and was walking along a road one - quarter mile north of Franklin parish courthouse when he met Rosie Lee Scott, 17; Leola Hardie, 16, and Verlean Sellers, another teen-age Negro girl of Winnsboro.

Finroy was carrying a 12-gauge single barrel shotgun and deputies were told that he pointed it at the girls and said "I'm going to shoot Rosie Lee." She jumped behind Leola and the gun went off. Both girls were hit on the right side under the right arm with number eight shot. They were taken to Winnsboro hospital by Ike Johnson, a passing Negro motorist. The Sellers girl was unharmed.

According to a doctor at Winnsboro Hospital, the shot penetrated Rosie Lee Scott's lungs, but Leola Hardie was not as seriously injured. He said they were in serious, but not critical condition.

Deputies said that no charges had been filed late last night pending completion of their investigation.

2 Negroes Perish In Auto Accident

NATCHITOCHES, La., Nov. 16 (AP)—A truck carrying three men struck an unoccupied auto parked by the highway near here tonight, killing two and critically injuring the third.

State police identified the dead as O. Z. Davis and Zebbie D. Vanzant, both Saline Negroes.

Injured was Huey Vanzant, also a Saline Negro.

sentative by getting past Southern California, 16-7.

So here is the major bowl lineup as of now:

Rose—Oregon vs Ohio State.
Orange—Oklahoma vs Duke.
Cotton—Still undecided.
Sugar—Still undecided.

However, if Navy, which licked George Washington, 52-0, beats Army on Nov. 30, the Middies no doubt will be tapped for the visiting spot in the Cotton Bowl.

Auburn, the third-ranked outfit in the country eked out a 6-0 victory over Georgia to remain undefeated. But the Tigers are in bad with the NCAA and can't play in a post-season game. With the demise of Oklahoma and Texas A&M, Auburn could wind up the national champion.

The Southeastern Conference winner acts as host team in the Sugar Bowl, but Auburn can't make it. That leaves Mississippi, which yesterday upset seventh-ranked Tennessee, 14-7, to fill in for Auburn.

light switch "and there was this awful explosion."

Mrs. Freeman said her three sisters who were killed were watching television in the living room. She was in another part of the house.

Bachman had left the home only 15 minutes before the explosion.

Mrs. Freeman said her three sisters who were killed were watching television in the living room, and she was in another part of the house.

Will Mickle, managing editor of The Huntsville Times, and Alec Thomas, a reporter, were in a restaurant about a mile from the explosion and saw the debris as it went up into the sky.

Bachman said the house was heated by oil, and there were no gas connections at all. There also was an electric heater, he added.

The house was brick veneer, and bricks were scattered over a wide area.

Mrs. Struve's car was parked in the driveway. It was damaged heavily, and all of the windows had been blown out.

Police said two dead dogs also were found in the debris.

There was no sign of fire, although firemen arrived shortly after the explosion and helped remove the bodies of the women.

Shortage Of Skilled Manpower Hurting U.S. Missile Program

WHITE SANDS PROVING GROUND, N. M. (AP) — Manpower may be a limiting factor for a projected speedup of the nation's missile program.

A high official at this 40-by-100 mile mountain-ringed rocket and missile range says "we have vacancies now. I' m not sure we can get the people for a crash program."

He spoke, of course, of the highly trained scientific and technical personnel needed for the complex job of missile research, development and testing.

The only answer to the shortage appears to be greatly expanded use of overtime involving manpower already on hand.

Overtime here — as in other rocket bases — was slashed in mid-summer. Restored, it was limited to actual operations on the integrated range, used by White Sands, Holloman Air Force Missile Development Center, and the Army at Fort Bliss, Tex. Even restored, the overtime on the integrated range operations has been cut in half.

One more factor may be an important one in any speedup involving this 300 million dollar base deep in the southern New Mexico dessert.

Military officials here have repeatedly asked permission for night firings. The New Mexico State Highway Commission, which has primary control over U. S. Highway 70-80 which traverses the southern portion of the range, has just as repeatedly refused permission to have the highway closed for night firings. The road must be closed during any firings from White Sands itself.

There are roughly four families of rockets in various stages of development here. They are the surface - to - air missiles, targets, surface-to-surface and research vehicles.

Included in the surface-to-air family are the newly-unwrapped Talos, the Nike-Hercules, Nike-A jax, and the Hawk. Those classified as research vehicles include the Viking Hi, Wasp, Aerobee Hi, Asp, and the Nike-Cajun. The Pogo-Hi is one of the newly developed radar targets. Surface-to-surface missiles include the Redstone, Dart, Honest John. LaCrosse, Little John and the Corporal. The Sergeant, a bigger brother of the Corporal, is still under tests and security wraps.

The full capacity of the integrated range controlled at White Sands is as yet unknown. Three years ago military chiefs were told that the maximum the proving ground could handle was 600 firings per year. In 1956 there was a total of 1,784 missiles launched. This year the figure is expected to reach about 2,000. Experts say that with proper scheduling and proper training, the range can handle many times that number.

With charges and countercharges of bickering between the services over the missile program, unification is an accomplished fact — a reality — here. All four services make use of the integrated range and its vast facilities and instrumentation on an equal basis.

A NIKE-HERCULES ground-to-air missile blasts upward from mountain-rimmed White Sands Proving Ground, where officials report a shortage of skilled technicians will handicap any extensive speedup in missile development.

Cherokee May Have Dug First Oil Well

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) —There's growing debate over who were Oklahoma's original "oil men."

It's a cinch they weren't the rich - over - night tycoons of the rip and roaring 1920s. Some historians say an Indian drilled an oil well in Oklahoma before the 1859 well in Pennsylvania generally credited as the first in America.

In 1846, A. M. Upshaw, an agent with the Chickasaw Indians, told of "medicine springs" in his report to the commissioner of Indian affairs in Washington, D. C.

Upshaw described the springs as oil seepages. Two years later he reported both "Indians and Texans" were using skimmed oil from springs for medicinal purposes.

In 1853 the agent who succeeded Upshaw, A. J. Smith, described more fully the springs.

He wrote: "Oil springs are located at the foot of the Wichita mountains on the Washita River . . . a great many Texans, and some from Arkansas, visit the springs."

Smith reported the crude oil as being "a remedy for all chronic diseases, including rheumatism and dropsy . . ."

And Smith added confidently: "The fact is that it cures anything that has been tried."

At least six oil seepage springs were reported by Smith and Upshaw and succeeding Indian agents.

Apparently, one spring — Boyd Springs near Ardmore in southern Oklahoma — yielded some natural gas as well as the thick, green crude oil.

A pamphlet titled "The National Oil Trust Co." noted in 1886 that Indians camped at Boyd Springs in great number because they could "light their camp with the gas, by inserting a tube or gun barrel into the ground."

The late Oklahoma historian, Robert L. Owen, wrote that Lewis Ross, brother of the principal chief of the Cherokees, was salt mining in the summer of 1859 at Grand Saline, on the Grand River, and hit oil at 700 feet.

Owen reported the vein "flowed by estimate, about 10 barrels of oil per day for nearly a year, until the pressure of gas became exhausted and failed to support the volume of water."

The Drake well in Pennsylvania —regarded as the first in the world — was drilled to 69½ feet and pumped 10 to 20 barrels of oil a day. It was completed in August, 1859.

Wilson Says Sputnik Was 'Pearl Harbor'

HOUSTON, Nov. 16 (UP) — Former Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson today told top newsmen of the nation that Russia's launching of Sputnik into outer space was "the Pearl Harbor of the cold war."

The Communists have scored a technological and psychological advantage which has rocked the world and our own American complacency of 'business as usual," Wilson told delegates to the 48th national convention of Sigma Delta Chi, profesional journalistic fraternity.

"Business no longer can be done as usual," he said. "Sputnik is the Pearl Harbor of the cold war."

Wilson, chairman of the People to People Foundation, explained the aims of the foundation at the Sigma Delta Chi annual banquet in Shamrock Hilton hotel. But he bore down heavily on Russia.

He said he was in Europe when the sounds from Sputnik in outer space were first broadcast. He said he saw fear in the eyes of people in Europe and in America too when he returned home.

"It was the fear that perhaps the once-mighty United States of American, the industrial collossus of material and inventive power, had at last been outdistanced; fear the brute power would alone, and again, dominate the world; fear that the simple virtues of justice and love and compasion were fast evaporating from the face of the earth and would no longer govern the conduct of men and nations," he said.

Wilson said the People to People Foundation was established to assist the work of 42 committees representative of every phrase of American cultural educational, economic and religious life in communicating with the peoples of other nations to bring about "two way" communication on all levels of human activity and aspiration.

"Only people, asserting their own views and hopes, will get through to one another," he said. "Only people themselves will restore the role of governments as their rightful and truthful agents."

$9.8 Million Paid In State Bonuses

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 16 (AP) — Veterans affairs director David J. Bell said today more than $9,800,000 in bonuses have been paid to some 48,000 World War I and Spanish American War veterans.

An initial sale of six million dollars in bonds was authorized under 1956 legislation setting up a 10-million-dollar program.

Payments have exhausted the initial six million, Bell said, until all or part of the remaining six million in bonds is sold, additional bonus payments will halt.

The Board of Liquidation of State Debt is authorized to approve the bond issues.

Bell said he has been informed by state treasurer A. P. Tugwell that the second bond sale will be arranged after Jan. 1 if the bond market is favorable.

The first six million bond issue was delayed several months this year because of an unfavorable market. Tugwell finally arranged for sale of the bonds at acceptable interest rates by calling on state banks and the state teacher retirement system for help.

Tugwell indicated he expects the bond market to improve by January.

"We will continue to accept and process applications from veterans or their widows," Bell said, "and we strongly urge eligible veterans who have not applied to do so at once. They can get all the assistance they need from parish service officers."

Veterans of World War I, Spanish American War, Boxer Rebellion and the Philippine Insurrection are entitled to bonuses of $50 to $250 under the bonus program. And $1,000 death benefits are provided.

Proceeds will go to buying kitchen equipment at the Southside church. The public is invited.

18th To Receive Preacher License

James Kyle was the eighteenth young man from Ridge Avenue Baptist Church to enter the ministry, his pastor the Rev. A. T. Mitchell announces.

He received his license to preach at an impressive service in this church last Sunday night.

He is son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Kyle of 2408 North Eighth street, West Monroe.

Man Arrested For Burglaries Of 115 Churches

MEMPHIS, Nov. 16 (AP) — A Massachusetts man was arrested today and charged with burglary after police said he admitted robbing two churches here and more than 100 others in Mississippi, Alabama and Texas.

The man was booked as Alfred Vincent Barlow, 25, of Southbridge, Mass.

Police Capt. E. C. Wilson quoted Barlow as saying he specialized in robbing churches "because they were easy to get into and as a rule there was no one rule there was no one around."

Barlow, Wilson said, admitted robbing about 115 churches in the three other states before coming here Wednesday.

He was picked up early today by two patrolmen who said he acted suspiciously when questioned about being out so late.

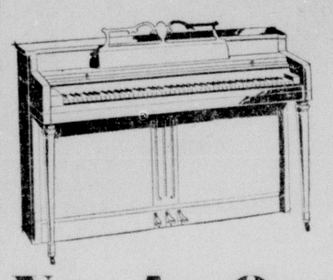

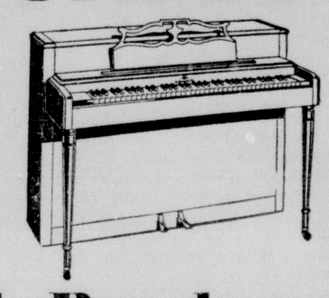

Wilson said Barlow's pockets were bulging with $78 in coins and that he admitted taking the money from the pastor's office of a Memphis church. Barlow, Wilson said, also admitted breaking into another Memphis church.

Police said there was no immediate estimate of the money taken in the robberies.

Apparently, one spring — Boyd Springs near Ardmore in southern Oklahoma — yielded some natural gas as well as the thick, green crude oil.

A pamphlet titled "The National Oil Trust Co." noted in 1886 that Indians camped at Boyd Springs in great number because they could "light their camp with the gas, by inserting a tube or gun barrel into the ground."

The late Oklahoma historian, Robert L. Owen, wrote that Lewis Ross, brother of the principal chief of the Cherokees, was salt mining in the summer of 1859 at Grand Saline, on the Grand River, and hit oil at 700 feet.

Owen reported the vein "flowed by estimate, about 10 barrels of oil per day for nearly a year, until the pressure of gas became exhausted and failed to support the volume of water."

The Drake well in Pennsylvania —regarded as the first in the world — was drilled to 69½ feet and pumped 10 to 20 barrels of oil a day. It was completed in August, 1859.

Wilson Says Sputnik Was 'Pearl Harbor'

HOUSTON, Nov. 16 (UP) — Former Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson today told top newsmen of the nation that Russia's launching of Sputnik into outer space was "the Pearl Harbor of the cold war."

The Communists have scored a technological and psychological advantage which has rocked the world and our own American complacency of 'business as usual," Wilson told delegates to the 48th national convention of Sigma Delta Chi, profesional journalistic fraternity.

"Business no longer can be done as usual," he said. "Sputnik is the Pearl Harbor of the cold war."

Wilson, chairman of the People to People Foundation, explained the aims of the foundation at the Sigma Delta Chi annual banquet in Shamrock Hilton hotel. But he bore down heavily on Russia.

He said he was in Europe when the sounds from Sputnik in outer space were first broadcast. He said he saw fear in the eyes of people in Europe and in America too when he returned home.

"It was the fear that perhaps the once-mighty United States of American, the industrial collossus of material and inventive power, had at last been outdistanced; fear the brute power would alone, and again, dominate the world; fear that the simple virtues of justice and love and compasion were fast evaporating from the face of the earth and would no longer govern the conduct of men and nations," he said.

Wilson said the People to People Foundation was established to assist the work of 42 committees representative of every phrase of American cultural educational, economic and religious life in communicating with the peoples of other nations to bring about "two-way" communication on all levels of human activity and aspiration.

"Only people, asserting their own views and hopes, will get through to one another," he said. "Only people themselves will restore the role of governments as their rightful and truthful agents."

$9.8 Million Paid In State Bonuses

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 16 (AP) — Veterans affairs director David J. Bell said today more than $9,800,000 in bonuses have been paid to some 48,000 World War I and Spanish American War veterans.

An initial sale of six million dollars in bonds was authorized under 1956 legislation setting up a 10-million-dollar program.

Payments have exhausted the initial six million, Bell said, until all or part of the remaining six million in bonds is sold, additional bonus payments will halt.

The Board of Liquidation of State Debt is authorized to approve the bond issues.

Bell said he has been informed by state treasurer A. P. Tugwell that the second bond sale will be arranged after Jan. 1 if the bond market is favorable.

The first six million bond issue was delayed several months this year because of an unfavorable market. Tugwell finally arranged for sale of the bonds at acceptable interest rates by calling on state banks and the state teacher retirement system for help.

Tugwell indicated he expects the bond market to improve by January.

"We will continue to accept and process applications from veterans or their widows," Bell said, "and we strongly urge eligible veterans who have not applied to do so at once. They can get all the assistance they need from parish service officers."

Veterans of World War I, Spanish American War, Boxer Rebellion and the Philippine Insurrection are entitled to bonuses of $50 to $250 under the bonus program. And $1,000 death benefits are provided.

Benefit Dinner For So' Side Set

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Southside Methodist Church are to serve a dinner December 4 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the First Christian Church.

Proceeds will go to buying kitchen equipment at the Southside church. The public is invited.

18th To Receive Preacher License

James Kyle was the eighteenth young man from Ridge Avenue Baptist Church to enter the ministry, his pastor the Rev. A. T. Mitchell announces.

He received his license to preach at an impressive service in this church last Sunday night.

He is son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Kyle of 2408 North Eighth street, West Monroe.

Man Arrested For Burglaries Of 115 Churches

MEMPHIS, Nov. 16 (AP) — A Massachusetts man was arrested today and charged with burglary after police said he admitted robbing two churches here and more than 100 others in Mississippi, Alabama and Texas.

The man was booked as Alfred Vincent Barlow, 25, of Southbridge, Mass.

Police Capt. E. C. Wilson quoted Barlow as saying he specialized in robbing churches "because they were easy to get into and as a rule there was no one . . . rule there was no one around."

Barlow, Wilson said, admitted robbing about 115 churches in the three other states before coming here Wednesday.

He was picked up early today by two patrolmen who said he acted suspiciously when questioned about being out so late.

Wilson said Barlow's pockets were bulging with $78 in coins and that he admitted taking the money from the pastor's office of a Memphis church. Barlow, Wilson said, also admitted breaking into another Memphis church.

Police said there was no immediate estimate of the money taken in the robberies.

Jewelers Offering Array Of Top Gifts

The joy of giving is the joy of receiving turned inside out. And no one knows more about this happy Christmas psychology than the jeweler.

A recent survey conducted by the Jewelry Industry Council shows that the gifts people most like to receive were the ones they gave most frequently.

At the top of every list for both receiving and giving were the special lasting gifts that come from the jewelers.

Personal jewelry—for all ages and in all prices, both for men and women ranks high as "most wanted to receive" gifts. This year, with its important changes in jewelry, a jewelry gift is an exciting delight.

Cascades of colored stones and beads to lend emphasis to new clothes, the beauty of gold worked in fine filigree designs, or newly textured with a completely new look are touches of fashion as well as beauty in the new jewelry.

Glittering dress-up jewelry—such as the soft flattery of pearls, used alone or combined with colored stones in finely worked settings, are touches of beauty any woman wears and remembers long past the holiday.

Fine gold is worked in delicate new shapes—in necklaces, pins and earrings that make "modern heirlooms." Sterling silver is a brand new jewelry note this year and has a fresh and beautiful look.

For the woman whose sense of beauty extends to her home, the jeweler features a wide variety of silver dishes, trays and bowls, to give elegance and beauty to a room. Flat silverware and fine ceramic accessories will delight her as appreciations of her homemaking role.

Men also lead two lives, as the jeweler well knows. As personal creatures, the gifts of adornment have a special place under their Christmas tree.

Often the things a man most enjoys wearing are the things he is least likely to buy for himself. Some of the new, elegantly styled cufflinks sets with colored stones, matching tie bars, or tie tacs, money clasps, belt buckles, wallets, watches and watch bands are all gifts that give day-to-day pleasure.

Gift Givings On Holy Days Comes From Bygone Era

The custom of giving gifts once a year at a religious festival has been handed down to us through the ages.

The ancient Romans and pagans in central Europe observed this custom and of course the first "Christmas" gifts were gold, frankincense, and myrrh.

Exactly when the idea of giving gifts at Christmas became a "traditional" custom is not known.

The feudal way of living in Europe accounted for many magnificent Christmas gifts that were in fact, yearly "tribute" to land-owners and royalty.

The lords received gifts from their tenants, and kings from their nobles.

Queen Elizabeth received many gifts of great value and if the quality or quantity wasn't satisfactory, the donors were unceremoniously so informed.

Feasting, pageantry and an opulent display of wealth entered the picture when King Henry III entertained; but it was Henry VII, though, who outdid all others in a Christmas display of gradneur.

Gay Christmas Candle Easy, Inexpensive

Make your own inexpensive, easy-to-do, "Holiday House" Candle! You can buy everything you need in one stop at the five-and-dime store.

An easily - assembled aluminum cake form mold, costing less than a dollar.

11 Bars of Household Paraffin

3 inch candle stub

3 Crayons, blue, yellow, red-orange

Some red sequins

A few artificial holly leaf clusters

2½ inch high Christmas trees

Now, follow these easy steps to make this house:

First, melt nine bars of paraffin in double boiler — Not over direct heat. Pour small amount of wax into another container.

While it cools slightly, place mold, open side up, in cardboard box of about same size! Grease inside of mold with vegetable shortening. Wedge crumpled newspaper at bottom and around inside of box.

Pour some of cooled wax into mold; roll it around until thin coat covers indentations and corners. Repeat process four times for even surface and to prevent leakage. Pour in remaining wax to fill mold.

Place mold, in supporting box, in refrigerator overnight or until completely hard.

Remove candle. With paring knife, dig out quarter inch layer for windows and doors on both sides.

Dissolve blue crayon in quarter cake of paraffin, then spoon into windows. Do same with yellow crayon for doors. Be sure wax is thoroughly dry before working on other side. (Spills can be trimmed away with paring knife.)

For chimney, cut two sections, each 1½ inches wide, from end of wax bar. Use point of knife to make groove from top to bottom in center of one section. Trim excess wax from candle stub, place wick in groove. "Glue" two sections together with melted wax.

Dissolve red-orange crayon in half cake of wax. Use dip and harden process four times for chimney.

Exactly when the idea of giving gifts at Christmas became a "traditional" custom is not known.

The feudal way of living in Europe accounted for many magnificent Christmas gifts that were in fact, yearly "tribute" to land-owners and royalty.

The lords received gifts from their tenants, and kings from their nobles.

Queen Elizabeth received many gifts of great value and if the quality or quantity wasn't satisfactory, the donors were unceremoniously so informed.

Feasting, pageantry and an opulent display of wealth entered the picture when King Henry III entertained; but it was Henry VII, though, who outdid all others in a Christmas display of gradneur.

Gay Christmas Candle Easy, Inexpensive

Make your own inexpensive, easy-to-do, "Holiday House" Candle! You can buy everything you need in one stop at the five-and-dime store.

An easily - assembled aluminum cake form mold, costing less than a dollar.

11 Bars of Household Paraffin

3 inch candle stub

3 Crayons, blue, yellow, red-orange

Some red sequins

A few artificial holly leaf clusters

2½ inch high Christmas trees

Now, follow these easy steps to make this house:

First, melt nine bars of paraffin in double boiler — Not over direct heat. Pour small amount of wax into another container.

While it cools slightly, place mold, open side up, in cardboard box of about same size! Grease inside of mold with vegetable shortening. Wedge crumpled newspaper at bottom and around inside of box.

Pour some of cooled wax into mold; roll it around until thin coat covers indentations and corners. Repeat process four times for even surface and to prevent leakage. Pour in remaining wax to fill mold.

Place mold, in supporting box, in refrigerator overnight or until completely hard.

Remove candle. With paring knife, dig out quarter inch layer for windows and doors on both sides.

Dissolve blue crayon in quarter cake of paraffin, then spoon into windows. Do same with yellow crayon for doors. Be sure wax is thoroughly dry before working on other side. (Spills can be trimmed away with paring knife.)

For chimney, cut two sections, each 1½ inches wide, from end of wax bar. Use point of knife to make groove from top to bottom in center of one section. Trim excess wax from candle stub, place wick in groove. "Glue" two sections together with melted wax.

Dissolve red-orange crayon in half cake of wax. Use dip and harden process four times for chimney.

Dubach Citizens Hear Address By Gremillion

DUBACH (Special) — Attorney General Jack Gremillion addresse the Dubach Citizens Council Thursday. He was introduced to the assembly by Mr. G. L. McIlveene, president of the Dubach Council. Gremillion spoke on the facts of the law as regards the sending of troops into Little Rock by the president of the United States, and the encroachment by the federal government into the powers that are specifically reserved to the states by the Constitution of the United States.

He said the Black Monday Decision pertaining to segregation was and is a court made law and not the law of the land. He further states that no court can make a first or second class citizen of a person, no matter who they are. This comes from the heart, mind and determination and ambition of the individual.

The attorney general said that the south is going to have integration unless we get together, organize and take strong legal measures to stop it. He said that legal resistance is necessary, and that the voice of the people must be heard. He urged all present to talk, preach, write, and fight together to preserve our way of life.

The speaker stated the forming of a third party is not necessarily salvation, but that we had to stick together and impress upon our elected officials the need to form a block in the legislature if we are to be successful.

Mr. W. M. Ranich, state senator, and noted segregation leader of the state was also present. Mr. Ranich spoke briefly on the plans being formulated by the segregation committee. He urged all present to take an active part in organizing the council movement in our state.

If you will cut a pine cone lengthwise at Christmas, you will see the imprint of the Holy Infant's hand.

Ruston Senior Elected To FFA

RUSTON (Special) — A Ruston High School senior, Billy Dakin, has been elected treasurer of area II, northeast Louisiana region, of the Future Farmers of America.

Dakin, son of Mrs. W. P. Dakin of Ruston, was elected at a special leadership conference held on the Northeast College campus in Monroe.

Mr. Jack Harper, member of the Ruston High School faculty, is the area adviser.

Elected president of the area was Joe Newman of Delhi.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

After reading of an unfortunate accident within the past week involving young children playing with bows and arrows, Jack Hesketh, Monroe recreation director, and J. M. McBeth, probably the foremost archer of this area, got together to prescribe some safety measures for all who plan to draw a bow.

Hesketh and McBeth, very close to the sport here, thus supplied us with:

"Those of us who love and participate in the sport of archery should speak out on the observance of certain rules at every opportunity.

"What answer to the problem of archery safety?

"A lot can be done on the dealer level toward implanting the idea of care with a bow and arrow. This wouldn't be a hard job. Most of it can be done in a few minutes of advice to the brand new owner of an archery set.

"The only thing that this involves is to point out in a serious but friendly manner that the arrow is basically a weapon, not a plaything. When a customer agrees, as most often he will, the sports dealer will find it easy to suggest to him the principal of archery safety and ways in which he can carry it out.

"Archery is a great sport. It has been called the 'sport of man since time began' and that is certainly true. But we must always remember that a bow and arrow, unproperly handled, is most dangerous.

"If you have trouble remembering the safety rules or consider the bow and arrows as toys, think back to the time when man protected himself with his bow. It brought him food and won him wars. Today's bows are even more dangerous. Archery is not a watered-down sport. Sherwood Forest and the Merry Men never saw bows or arrows as good or as powerful as they are today. Very definitely the bows and arrows you purchase today at the sporting goods shops are not toys.

"If we treat archery equipment with the respect it deserves, we can have many hours of wholesome, healthy recreation. There are rules for handling archery equipment just as for firearms. Let's buy our youngsters bows and arrows, then teach them the proper way to handle their equipment.

"There are only a few rules to be observed when you shoot, but for your own sake, they should be rigidly followed.

"They are:

"1. Never shoot straight up into the air. Neither you nor the people around you can judge where the arrow will fall.

"2. Never shoot when there are people (or animals, unless game) forward of where you are standing.

"3. Never, under any circumstances, point a drawn bow at another person. An arrow will kill as surely as a bullet.

"4. Don't shoot unless you know what lies along the arrow's path.

"5. If any of your arrows crack, smash them and throw them away. A cracked arrow may break on the string and injure you badly.

"6. When shooting with a group, pay attention to the instructor. His word should be law."

We thank our two archery friends for supplying today's report. The Monroe Recreation Department has copies of these six rules for anyone who is interested. Dealers and others who have archery equipment are invited to get a supply. Pass out rules to all who make purchases. Be as cautious with a bow and arrow as with a loaded gun.

Auburn Gets Scare, But Shades Georgia

COLUMBUS. Ga., Nov. 16 (AP)—Underdog Georgia scared mighty Auburn within an inch of its nationally ranked life today but the unbeaten Tigers dug in and squeaked to a 6-0 Southeastern Conference football victory.

A 15-yard penalty helped Auburn get its touchdown with less than a minute left in the first half. After that a fierce Bulldog defense stopped Auburn at every turn.

Late in the fourth period, Auburn drove 71 yards only to lose the ball at the Georgia 1 when the Bulldogs held Lloyd Nix for no gain on a fourth down quarterback sneak.

All-America end candidate Jimmy Phillips, a stalward all afternoon, got the touchdown that kept Auburn unbeaten and the leading candidate for the Southeastern Conference championship.

Phillips pulled in a four - yard pass from Nix after a personal foul penalty against Georgia had given the Tigers a first down at the Bulldog 5.

Although Auburn remained unbeaten, and stretched its wining streak to 12 games, the Tigers can't go to a bowl this year. They are on NCAA probation.

Georgia's defense, led by center Dave Lloyd, guard Cicero Lucas and end Jimmy Vickers, was almost as effective as that of Auburn. Except for the Auburn score and the march to the 1, Aurburn made no real threat.

Auburn	0	6	0	0—6

Auburn scoring — Touchdowns: Phillips (4, pass from Nix).

Kentucky Hound Takes Fox Hunt

STARKVILLE, Miss., Nov. 16 (AP) — Judges today picked a blanketback hound named Joanne Hill as the all-age champion of the National Fox Hound Association Field Trial.

Joanne, owned by Mose Hill, Waco, Ky., drew a total of 50 points for hunting, 85 for trailing, 90 for speed and drive and 30 on endurance—255 in all.

Second place went to Hardrock Purvis, owned by Graham Purvis, High Falls, N. C. Pine Ridge Pete II, owned by L. O. Parker Saulsbury, N. C., finished third. Running of the all-age took three days, with 287 hounds entered.

Marion, Downsville Teams Win Tourney

DOWNSVILLE, La. (Special) — The Marion High boys and the Downsville High girls collected championship trophies last night after the finals of the annual Downsville High Invitational Basketball Tournament. The Marion quint beat out Downsville, 46-35, in the boys' final after the Marion girls had dropped Farmerville, 40-30.

Andrews led the Marion boys with a production of 25 points, and Sam Guice paced Downsville with 13. The girls final saw Terral lead Downsville with 18, while Wade's eight was tops for Farmerville.

Haye and Wade, with 13 and 12 respectively, led Farmerville past Linville, 26-25, in a semi-final girls' contest in which Linville's Ford was high scorer with 20.

In the boys' semi-finals yesterday Marion beat Choudrant, 55-45, and Downsville stopped Linville, 44-41. Leading scorers were Andrews and Gilmore, 25 and 21, Marion; Williams, 15, Choudrant; Tommy Guice, 17, Downsville; and Haile 13, Linville.

The tournament had been in progress since Thursday.

The all - tournament teams:

Girls — Hamilton and Roach, Downsville; Ford, Linville; Wade, Farmerville; Spencer, Marion; and Heard, Bernice.

Boys — T. Guice, Downsville; Andrews and Gilmore, Marion; Williams, Choudrant; and T. Haile Linville.

Northeast Wins Thriller, 20-19

Indians Win Contest In Last Seconds

Quarterback Nathan Zametto was Northeast State's fairy godmother as he passed for a tying touchdown and ran 17 yards for the extra point in the last 75 seconds as the Indians beat Louisiana College, 20-19, in a finish straight from Frank Merriwell before a screaming capacity homecoming crowd at Brown Stadium last night.

Zametto climaxed a 60 - year drive with a 9-yard pass to Joe Driskill for the tying touchdown and then, after Northeast had been penalized 15 yards for trying to get place kicker Keith Amos in the game, ran 17 yards for the game winning extra point when he couldn't find anybody to pass to. The frenzied crowd stormed on the field as the gun sounded four plays later and tore down the goal posts to climax as sensational a homecoming game as any old grad will ever see.

The Indians had boomed back earlier from beneath a 13-7 halftime deficit to tie the score early in the fourth quarter only to see the fighting underdog Wildcas storm backt o go ahead again on a 46 yard run by quarterback Charley Ward. Ward's kick for the extra point hit the crossbar and bounced back, giving Northeast the chance for a win instead of a tie.

Fullback Robert McGough scored the first and second touchdowns for the Indians, the first early in the initial period that put Northeast ahead briefly. Don Reynolds kicked the first extra point for Devone Payne's Redskins.

End Bob Clark scored the initial Louisiana College TD on a five yard pass from quarterback Charley Ward and the other quarterback, frosh Corky Yates, made a brilliant run of 11 yards for the second Wildcat tally. Ward's 46-yard jaunt scored the touchdown that put the Wildcats ahead in the fourth period. Ward kicked the PAT after the first TD, and booted true after the second but had to try again because of an offside penalty and missed.

Northeast got their big break in the first quarter when, after the Wildcats had stalled on the NE 43, fullback Keith Munyan went back to punt. The pass from center sailed far over his head and Munyan fell on it back at the LC 30.

Robert McGough went for four, Don Reynolds for one and McGough again to the 17. From there fullback McGough burst the rest of the way for the firstt ouchdown of the night. Don Reynolds kicked the PAT and it was 7-0 after 7 minutes and 15 seconds of action.

Louisiana College took the kickoff and moved 72 yards to tie the score. Ward completed four of six passes to eat up most of the yardage with Munyan and Don Scullane making most of the rushing yardage. A 23 - yard toss from Ward to Scullane put the ball on the five.

After a no - gain rush by Munyan, Ward threw in the end zone to Bob Clark. Clark pulled it in after a struggle with McGough and it was 7-6. With 35 seconds to go in the first quarter, Ward booted the extra point to tie it up, 7-7.

Four plays into the second period, Louisiana College took over on their 38 after a short punt by Terry Head and moved to their second touchdown. A 13 - yard pass from frosh quarterback Corky Yates to Bill Shoemae, and a 17-yard run by Harry Bullock were the big gains as the Wildcats moved to the 11. After Jerry Eddy went for no gain, Yates went around left end and, shaking off five tacklers, went over on a fine run.

Ward kicked the extra point but had to try again when his team was offside and booted low the second time and it was 13-7.

Northeast got to the Wildcat nine with a second and five after the kickoff, but couldn't score. A 44-yard jaunt down the right sidelines by Head was the big gainer, and Terry almost went all the way before being pulled down on the 14.

Lloyd Ray Smith went for five to the nine on first down, but a rush by Everett Reynolds gained nothing and Head lost a yard. On fourth down, Reynolds threw far wide of Joe Driskill in the end zone.

In the fading seconds of the half, the Indians threathened again and went as far as the 25. But Driskill dropped a Reynolds' pass in the end zone and Everett was thrown for a loss as the half ended.

A fireworks display kept the spectators entertained during the half but they had to wait till the fourth quarter for the fireworks on the sloppy stadium turf. After Terry Head returned a LC punt to his own 41, Lloyd Ray Smith, the big runninng star for Northeast, ran 36 yards to the 23. Head went to the 11 and Smith for no gain before McGough went around left end for the touchdown that made it 13-all. McGough was apparently trapped for a loss on the run but shook loose to score.

A low pass from center killed a chance for the extra point for Amos.

After an exchange of punts, Louisiana college went back ahead on Ward's 46-yard run. The quarterback was back to pass but couldn't find a receiver and ran it all the way.

Louisiana College kicked off with exactly six minutes to go and the Indians were off and making history. An Everett Reynolds to Robert Earle pass for 26 yards and the running of Smith and Head put the ball on the six before Smith lost a yard on third down. On fourth, down, Zametto, who had just gone into the game, threw to Driskill for the tying touchdown.

Payne tried to send in Amos to kick the point but the referee wouldn't let him re-enter the game and penalized the Indians 15 yards when Payne protested. Zametto went back to pass, couldn't find a man and ran 17 yards to paydirt and fame.

FUMBLE RUINS CHANCE

Maroons Drop LSU, 14-6

By JOHN CORPORON

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 16 (UP)—Mississippi State defeated Louisiana State 14 to 6 tonight to remain a top contender for a Sugar Bowl bid.

The Maroons of Mississippi bottled up LSU's attack except for a mighty third period spurt.

Quarterback Billy Stacy tossed a 13 yard pass to third string halfback Robert Collins after LSU's quarterback Win Turner fumbled on the Tiger 20 to ice the game for Mississippi State in the fourth period.

The victory makes the Maroons and their college cousins, Mississippi, top contenders as the Southeastern Conference representative for the Sugar Bowl game. Mississippi defeated Tennessee today. The two Mississippi teams meet in two weeks.

The other team for the New Orleans New Years Day classic will probably come from the Southwest Conference.

Miss ssippi State's first score came late in the second period as Stacy handed off to fulback Molly Halbert who plunged over from the one. Left tackle Bobby Tribble converted.

LSU's final scoring bid was broken up when fullback Bill Schoenrock intercepted a pass thrown by second string quarterback Warren Rabb on the Maroon 20 and carried back to the LSU 48.

The Tigers scored with three minutes remaining in the third period on fullback Jimmy Taylor's plunge from the one foot line. Taylor, the SEC's leading point maker, scored by jumping backwards over both lines.

Louisiana muffed a scoring opportunity at the start of the period when Taylor rolled up 33 yards in one drive from the Mississippi State 49. LSU lost the ball when Taylor failed to score on a plunge attempt from the one-foot line.

The Maroon's pressed the Tigers all evening before 53,000 fans who hoped to see LSU's three game losing streak snapped.

Deadly accurate punting by the Maroons kept the Tigers deep in their own territory during the entire first half.

Halbert, who gained 67 yards, Stacy and Schoenrock put the Maroons into their 7-0 lead. They took the ball after LSU right half Billy Cannon booted 35 yards from his own eight. In 13 ground plays the Maroons marched for a touchdown a minute and a half before the gun ended the first half.

Following Stacy's pass to Collins, left half Earl Morgan converted.

Score by period:

Louisiana State	0	0	6	0	—6
Mississippi State	0	7	0	7	—14

Louisiana State scoring: Touchdown, Taylor (1, plunge).

Mississippi State scoring: Touchdowns, Halbert (1, plunge); Collins (13, pass from Stacy). Conversions, Tribble, Morgan.

Late Georgia Tech Strength Whips 'Bama

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 16 (AP)—Big Urban Henry booted a 27-yard field goal in the final period today to give favored Georgia Tech a 10-7 vicotry over a hapless Alabama eleven which had dominated play most of the game.

Sub fullback Danny Wilbanks drove over from the one in the opening period to climax an 80-yard drive for 'Bama. That stood up until a 'Bama fumble set the Jackets up in business just 19 yards from the end zone on the final play of the third quarter.

Two rushes netted 14 and a penalty against 'Bama took it to the one, from where quarterback Fred Braselton drove across. Cal James soph halfback, added what seemed a vital point.

But no Alabama player covered the ensuing kickoff and Paul Vickers recovered for Tech on the 'Bama 23. An apparent Tech touchdown, Braselton to Stan Flowers was nullified by a penalty and Henry then calmly booted the field goal which won the game.

'Bama came back strongly for two deep drives in the closing moments but both bogged down and field goals were missed from the 16 and 19 yard lines.

Georgia Tech	0	0	0	10	—10
Alabama	7	0	0	0	— 7

Georgia Tech scoring — Touchdown: Braselton (1, plunge). Field goal: Henry (27). Conversion: James.

Alabama scoring — Touchdown: Wilbanks (1, plunge). Conversion: Skelton.

Jacobs Forges 3-Stroke Lead In Golf Event

GARDENA, Calif., Nov. 16 (UP)—Tommy Jacobs, who started his round by three-putting the first three greens and was four over par at this stage, rallied for a two-under 68 and took a three-stroke lead today in the 4,250 Gardena Valley Open.

The 22-year-old Jacobs, of Whittier, Calif., overcame his early putting jitters by ramming in five sizeable birdie putts for his 36-32—68. That gave him a 36-hole total of 133, seven under par, after two rounds of this 54-hole tournament at Western Avenue Golf Course.

Jim Ferrier, 1955 winner from North Hollywood, and Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex., shot 70s today and tied for second place with 136s.

Zell Eaton, Chino, Calif., and Jerry Robison, Houston, Tex., first round leaders with 64s, had their troubles in cold, windy weather. Eaton slipped to a 73 and Robison to 74.

A low first round scorer, Irving Cooper, of Long Beach, Calif., pro who was deadlocked with Jacobs at 65, soared to a 75 today.

Lowest rounds of the day were a 66 by Paul O'Leary, Culver City Calif., pro, and a 67 by amateur Bud Bradley, a University of Southern California senior. O'Leary and Bradley have 139 totals.

Defending champion Smiley Quick had 2 today for a 141 total.

Tommy Bolt, Ryder Cup star, picked up after 15 holes. He complained of a stiff neck and a fever. He was two over par at the time.

Sugar Bowlers Are Not Ready To Name Rebs

MEMPHIS, Nov. 16 (AP)—A Sugar Bowl official tonight said he'd be "happy to have Mississippi in our stadium but our dealings must necessarily wait until the end of the football season."

Paul DeBanc, New Orleans, president of the Midwinter Sports Assn., added that, "we hope Ole Miss has continued success and that they have as good a day if they play in New Orleans Jan. 1."

DeBanc said the Rebels, in upending Tennessee 14-7, showed "they were a real ball club. Ole Miss is a very good team."

Also in attendance were representatives of the Cotton Bowl and the Gator Bowl. But, like the Sugar Bowl, they can make no offer to a Southeastern Conference team until the end of the season, Nov. 30, when Ole Miss winds up against Mississippi State at Starkville.

Abilene Dumps Trinity, 40-12

ABILENE, Tex., Nov. 16 (UP)—Quarterback Don Harber and halfback Jimmy Hirth led Abilene Christian College to a 40-12 victory over Trinity today in a non-conference game.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

After reading of an unfortunate accident within the past week involving young children playing with bows and arrows, Jack Hesketh, Monroe recreation director, and J. M. McBeth, probably the foremost archer of this area, got together to prescribe some safety measures for all who plan to draw a bow.

Hesketh and McBeth, very close to the sport here, thus supplied us with:

"Those of us who love and participate in the sport of archery should speak out on the observance of certain rules at every opportunity.

"What answer to the problem of archery safety?

"A lot can be done on the dealer level toward implanting the idea of care with a bow and arrow. This wouldn't be a hard job. Most of it can be done in a few minutes of advice to the brand new owner of an archery set.

"The only thing that this involves is to point out in a serious but friendly manner that the arrow is basically a weapon, not a plaything. When a customer agrees, as most often he will, the sports dealer will find it easy to suggest to him the principal of archery safety and ways in which he can carry it out.

"Archery is a great sport. It has been called the 'sport of man since time began' and that is certainly true. But we must always remember that a bow and arrow, unproperly handled, is most dangerous.

"If you have trouble remembering the safety rules or consider the bow and arrows as toys, think back to the time when man protected himself with his bow. It brought him food and won him wars. Today's bows are even more dangerous. Archery is not a watered-down sport. Sherwood Forest and the Merry Men never saw bows or arrows as good or as powerful as they are today. Very definitely the bows and arrows you purchase today at the sporting goods shops are not toys.

"If we treat archery equipment with the respect it deserves, we can have many hours of wholesome, healthy recreation. There are rules for handling archery equipment just as for firearms. Let's buy our youngsters bows and arrows, then teach them the proper way to handle their equipment.

"There are only a few rules to be observed when you shoot, but for your own sake, they should be rigidly followed.

"They are:

"1. Never shoot straight up into the air. Neither you nor the people around you can judge where the arrow will fall.

"2. Never shoot when there are people (or animals, unless game) forward of where you are standing.

"3. Never, under any circumstances, point a drawn bow at another person. An arrow will kill as surely as a bullet.

"4. Don't shoot unless you know what lies along the arrow's path.

"5. If any of your arrows crack, smash them and throw them away. A cracked arrow may break on the string and injure you badly.

"6. When shooting with a group, pay attention to the instructor. His word should be law."

We thank our two archery friends for supplying today's report. The Monroe Recreation Department has copies of these six rules for anyone who is interested. Dealers and others who have archery equipment are invited to get a supply. Pass out rules to all who make purchases. Be as cautious with a bow and arrow as with a loaded gun.

Auburn Gets Scare, But Shades Georgia

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 16 (AP)—Underdog Georgia scared mighty Auburn within an inch of its nationally ranked life today but the unbeaten Tigers dug in and squeaked to a 6-0 Southeastern Conference football victory.

A 15-yard penalty helped Auburn get its touchdown with less than a minute left in the first half. After that a fierce Bulldog defense stopped Auburn at every turn.

Late in the fourth period, Auburn drove 71 yards only to lose the ball at the Georgia 1 when the Bulldogs held Lloyd Nix for no gain on a fourth down quarterback sneak.

All-America end candidate Jimmy Phillips, a stalward all afternoon, got the touchdown that kept Auburn unbeaten and the leading candidate for the Southeastern Conference championship.

Phillips pulled in a four - yard pass from Nix after a personal foul penalty against Georgia had given the Tigers a first down at the Bulldog 5.

Although Auburn remained unbeaten, and stretched its wining streak to 12 games, the Tigers can't go to a bowl this year. They are on NCAA probation.

Georgia's defense, led by center Dave Lloyd, guard Cicero Lucas and end Jimmy Vickers, was almost as effective as that of Auburn. Except for the Auburn score and the march to the 1, Auburn made no real threat.

Auburn	0	6	0	0	—6

Kentucky Hound Takes Fox Hunt

STARKVILLE, Miss., Nov. 16 (AP) — Judges today picked a blanketback hound named Joanne Hill as the all-age champion of the National Fox Hound Association Field Trial.

Joanne, owned by Mose Hill, Waco, Ky., drew a total of 50 points for hunting, 85 for trailing, 90 for speed and drive and 30 on endurance—255 in all.

Second place went to Hardrock Purvis, owned by Graham Purvis, High Falls, N. C. Pine Ridge Pete II, owned by L. O. Parker Saulsbury, N. C., finished third. Running of the all-age took three days, with 287 hounds entered.

Marion, Downsville Teams Win Tourney

DOWNSVILLE, La. (Special) — The Marion High boys and the Downsville High girls collected championship trophies last night after the finals of the annual Downsville High Invitational Basketball Tournament. The Marion quint beat out Downsville, 46-35, in the boys' final after the Marion girls had dropped Farmerville, 40-30.

Andrews led the Marion boys with a production of 25 points, and Sam Guice paced Downsville with 13. The girls final saw Terral lead Downsville with 18, while Wade's eight was tops for Farmerville.

Haye and Wade, with 13 and 12 respectively, led Farmerville past Linville, 26-25, in a semi-final girls' contest in which Linville's Ford was high scorer with 20.

In the boys' semi-finals yesterday Marion beat Choudrant, 55-45, and Downsville stopped Linville, 44-41. Leading scorers were Andrews and Gilmore, 25 and 21, Marion; Williams, 15, Choudrant; Tommy Guice, 17, Downsville; and Haile 13, Linville.

The tournament had been in progress since Thursday.

The all - tournament teams:

Girls — Hamilton and Roach, Downsville; Ford, Linville; Wade, Farmerville; Spencer, Marion; and Heard, Bernice.

Boys — T. Guice, Downsville; Andrews and Gilmore, Marion; Williams, Choudrant; and T. Haile Linville.

Northeast Wins Thriller, 20-19

Indians Win Contest In Last Seconds

Quarterback Nathan Zametto was Northeast State's fairy godmother as he passed for a tying touchdown and ran 17 yards for the extra point in the last 75 seconds as the Indians beat Louisiana College, 20-19, in a finish straight from Frank Merriwell before a screaming capacity homecoming crowd at Brown Stadium last night.

Zametto climaxed a 60 - year drive with a 9-yard pass to Joe Driskill for the tying touchdown and then, after Northeast had been penalized 15 yards for trying to get place kicker Keith Amos in the game, ran 17 yards for the game winning extra point when he couldn't find anybody to pass to. The frenzied crowd stormed on the field as the gun sounded four plays later and tore down the goal posts to climax as sensational a homecoming game as any old grad will ever see.

The Indians had boomed back earlier from beneath a 13-7 halftime deficit to tie the score early in the fourth quarter only to see the fighting underdog Wildcas storm backt o go ahead again on a 46 yard run by quarterback Charley Ward. Ward's kick for the extra point hit the crossbar and bounced back, giving Northeast the chance for a win instead of a tie.

Fullback Robert McGough scored the first and second touchdowns for the Indians, the first early in the initial period that put Northeast ahead briefly. Don Reynolds kicked the first extra point for Devone Payne's Redskins.

End Bob Clark scored the initial Louisiana College TD on a five yard pass from quarterback Charley Ward and the other quarterback, frosh Corky Yates, made a brilliant run of 11 yards for the second Wildcat tally. Ward's 46-yard jaunt scored the touchdown that put the Wildcats ahead in the fourth period. Ward kicked the PAT after the first TD, and booted true after the second but had to try again because of an offside penalty and missed.

Northeast got their big break in the first quarter when, after the Wildcats had stalled on the NE 43, fullback Keith Munyan went back to punt. The pass from center sailed far over his head and Munyan fell on it back at the LC 30.

Robert McGough went for four, Don Reynolds for one and McGough again to the 17. From there fullback McGough burst the rest of the way for the firstt ouchdown of the night. Don Reynolds kicked the PAT and it was 7-0 after 7 minutes and 15 seconds of action.

Louisiana College took the kickoff and moved 72 yards to tie the score. Ward completed four of six passes to eat up most of the yardage with Munyan and Don Scullane making most of the rushing yardage. A 23 - yard toss from Ward to Scullane put the ball on the five.

After a no - gain rush by Munyan, Ward threw in the end zone to Bob Clark. Clark pulled it in after a struggle with McGough and it was 7-6. With 35 seconds to go in the first quarter, Ward booted the extra point to tie it up, 7-7.

Four plays into the second period, Louisiana College took over on their 38 after a short punt by Terry Head and moved to their second touchdown. A 13 - yard pass from frosh quarterback Corky Yates to Bill Shoemae, and a 17-yard run by Harry Bullock were the big gains as the Wildcats moved to the 11. After Jerry Eddy went for no gain, Yates went around left end and, shaking off five tacklers, went over on a fine run.

Ward kicked the extra point but had to try again when his team was offside and booted low the second time and it was 13-7.

Northeast got to the Wildcat nine with a second and five after the kickoff, but couldn't score. A 44-yard jaunt down the right sidelines by Head was the big gainer, and Terry almost went all the way before being pulled down on the 14.

Lloyd Ray Smith went for five to the nine on first down, but a rush by Everett Reynolds gained nothing and Head lost a yard. On fourth down, Reynolds threw far wide of Joe Driskill in the end zone.

In the fading seconds of the half, the Indians threathened again and went as far as the 25. But Driskill dropped a Reynolds' pass in the end zone and Everett was thrown for a loss as the half ended.

A fireworks display kept the spectators entertained during the half but they had to wait till the fourth quarter for the fireworks on the sloppy stadium turf. After Terry Head returned a LC punt to his own 41, Lloyd Ray Smith, the big runninng star for Northeast, ran 36 yards to the 23. Head went to the 11 and Smith for no gain before McGough went around left end for the touchdown that made it 13-all. McGough was apparently trapped for a loss on the run but shook loose to score.

A low pass from center killed a chance for the extra point for Amos.

After an exchange of punts, Louisiana college went back ahead on Ward's 46-yard run. The quarterback was back to pass but couldn't find a receiver and ran it all the way.

Louisiana College kicked off with exactly six minutes to go and the Indians were off and making history. An Everett Reynolds to Robert Earle pass for 26 yards and the running of Smith and Head put the ball on the six before Smith lost a yard on third down. On fourth, down, Zametto, who had just gone into the game, threw to Driskill for the tying touchdown.

Payne tried to send in Amos to kick the point but the referee wouldn't let him re-enter the game and penalized the Indians 15 yards when Payne protested. Zametto went back to pass, couldn't find a man and ran 17 yards to paydirt and fame.

FUMBLE RUINS CHANCE

Maroons Drop LSU, 14-6

By JOHN CORPORON

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 16 (UP)—Mississippi State defeated Louisiana State 14 to 6 tonight to remain a top contender for a Sugar Bowl bid.

The Maroons of Mississippi bottled up LSU's attack except for a mighty third period spurt.

Quarterback Billy Stacy tossed a 13 yard pass to third string halfback Robert Collins after LSU's quarterback Win Turner fumbled on the Tiger 20 to ice the game for Mississippi State in the fourth period.

The victory makes the Maroons and their college cousins, Mississippi, top contenders as the Southeastern Conference representative for the Sugar Bowl game. Mississippi defeated Tennessee today. The two Mississippi teams meet in two weeks.

The other team for the New Orleans New Years Day classic will probably come from the Southwest Conference.

Miss'ssippi State's first score came late in the second period as Stacy handed off to fulback Molly Halbert who plunged over from the one. Left tackle Bobby Tribble converted.

LSU's final scoring bid was broken up when fullback Bill Schoenrock intercepted a pass thrown by second string quarterback Warren Rabb on the Maroon 20 and carried back to the LSU 48.

The Tigers scored with three minutes remaining in the third period on fullback Jimmy Taylor's plunge from the one foot line. Taylor, the SEC's leading point maker, scored by jumping backwards over both lines.

Louisiana muffed a scoring opportunity at the start of the period when Taylor rolled up 33 yards in one drive from the Mississippi State 49. LSU lost the ball when Taylor failed to score on a plunge attempt from the one-foot line.

The Maroon's pressed the Tigers all evening before 53,000 fans who hoped to see LSU's three game losing streak snapped.

Deadly accurate punting by the Maroons kept the Tigers deep in their own territory during the entire first half.

Halbert, who gained 67 yards, Stacy and Schoenrock put the Maroons into their 7-0 lead. They took the ball after LSU right half Billy Cannon booted 35 yards from his own eight. In 13 ground plays the Maroons marched for a touchdown a minute and a half before the gun ended the first half.

Following Stacy's pass to Collins, left half Earl Morgan converted.

Score by period:

Louisiana State	0	0	6	0	—6
Mississippi State	0	7	0	7	—14

Louisiana State scoring: Touchdown, Taylor (1, plunge).

Mississippi State scoring: Touchdowns, Halbert (1, plunge); Collins (13, pass from Stacy). Conversions, Tribble, Morgan.

Late Georgia Tech Strength Whips 'Bama

BIRMINGHAM, Nov. 16 (AP)—Big Urban Henry booted a 27-yard field goal in the final period today to give favored Georgia Tech a 10-7 vicotry over a hapless Alabama eleven which had dominated play most of the game.

Sub fullback Danny Wilbanks drove over from the one in the opening period to climax an 80-yard drive for 'Bama. That stood up until a 'Bama fumble set the Jackets up in business just 19 yards from the end zone on the final play of the third quarter.

Two rushes netted 14 and a penalty against 'Bama took it to the one, from where quarterback Fred Braselton drove across. Cal James soph halfback, added what seemed a vital point.

But no Alabama player covered the ensuing kickoff and Paul Vickers recovered for Tech on the 'Bama 23. An apparent Tech touchdown, Braselton to Stan Flowers was nullified by a penalty and Henry then calmly booted the field goal which won the game.

'Bama came back strongly for two deep drives in the closing moments but both bogged down and field goals were missed from the 16 and 19 yard lines.

Georgia Tech	0	0	0	10	—10
Alabama	7	0	0	0	— 7

Georgia Tech scoring — Touchdown: Braselton (1, plunge). Field goal: Henry (27). Conversion: James.

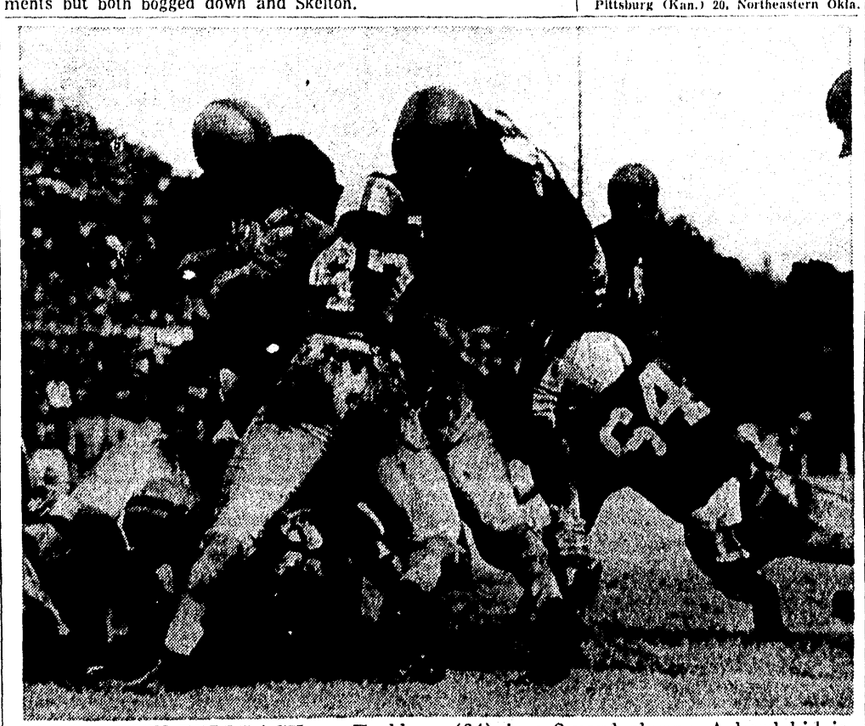

Alabama scoring — Touchdown: Wilbanks (1, plunge). Conversion: Skelton.

Jacobs Forges 3-Stroke Lead In Golf Event

GARDENA, Calif., Nov. 16 (UP)—Tommy Jacobs, who started his round by three-putting the first three greens and was four over par at this stage, rallied for a two-under 68 and took a three-stroke lead today in the 4,250 Gardena Valley Open.

The 22-year-old Jacobs, of Whittier, Calif., overcame his early putting jitters by ramming in five sizeable birdie putts for his 36-32—68. That gave him a 36-hole total of 133, seven under par, after two rounds of this 54-hole tournament at Western Avenue Golf Course.

Jim Ferrier, 1955 winner from North Hollywood, and Billy Maxwell, Odessa, Tex., shot 70s today and tied for second place with 136s.

Zell Eaton, Chino, Calif., and Jerry Robison, Houston, Tex., first round leaders with 64s, had their troubles in cold, windy weather. Eaton slipped to a 73 and Robison to 74.

A low first round scorer, Irving Cooper, of Long Beach, Calif., pro who was deadlocked with Jacobs at 65, soared to a 75 today.

Lowest rounds of the day were a 66 by Paul O'Leary, Culver City Calif., pro, and a 67 by amateur Bud Bradley, a University of Southern California senior. O'Leary and Bradley have 139 totals.

Defending champion Smiley Quick had 2 today for a 141 total.

Tommy Bolt, Ryder Cup star, picked up after 15 holes. He complained of a stiff neck and a fever. He was two over par at the time.

Sugar Bowlers Are Not Ready To Name Rebs

MEMPHIS, Nov. 16 (AP)—A Sugar Bowl official tonight said he'd be "happy to have Mississippi in our stadium but our dealings must necessarily wait until the end of the football season."

Paul DeBanc, New Orleans, president of the Midwinter Sports Assn., added that, "we hope Ole Miss has continued success and that they have as good a day if they play in New Orleans Jan. 1."

DeBanc said the Rebels, in upending Tennessee 14-7, showed "they were a real ball club. Ole Miss is a very good team."

Also in attendance were representatives of the Cotton Bowl and the Gator Bowl. But, like the Sugar Bowl, they can make no offer to a Southeastern Conference team until the end of the season, Nov. 30, when Ole Miss winds up against Mississippi State at Starkville.

Abilene Dumps Trinity, 40-12

ABILENE, Tex., Nov. 16 (UP)—Quarterback Don Harber and halfback Jimmy Hirth led Abilene Christian College to a 40-12 victory over Trinity today in a non-conference game.

PRO TOURNAMENT FOR TWIN CITIES?

Quite a few people around here would like nothing better than to see an annual 54- or even 72-hole medal play professional tournament held at any one of the three golf courses in the Twin Cities. Highland Park Country Club once had a $1,500 open tournament each year and it proved highly successful. The touring pros are itching for a little action every season when they are traveling from California and back. Any sort of decently attractive tournament is just what they're looking for.

The last time Highland Park (then McGuire Park) held the $1,500 Twin City Open it attracted such well known players as Al Balding, Jay Herbert, Lionel Herbert, Marty Furgol, Buck White, and many other top notch pros plus all of the regional home pros and amateurs. Of course, all of the local and regional players love a tournament like that because it gives them a good opportunity to get into competition with some of the big time boys.

As we understand it, some of the men around the local golf circle got together and sold advertising to raise the money for sponsoring the tournaments. There is no reason in the world why that couldn't be done again and no reason why as much as $3,000 or even $5,000 couldn't be raised one way or another to really put on a whale of a tournament. The only thing standing in the way is lack of interest and initiative.

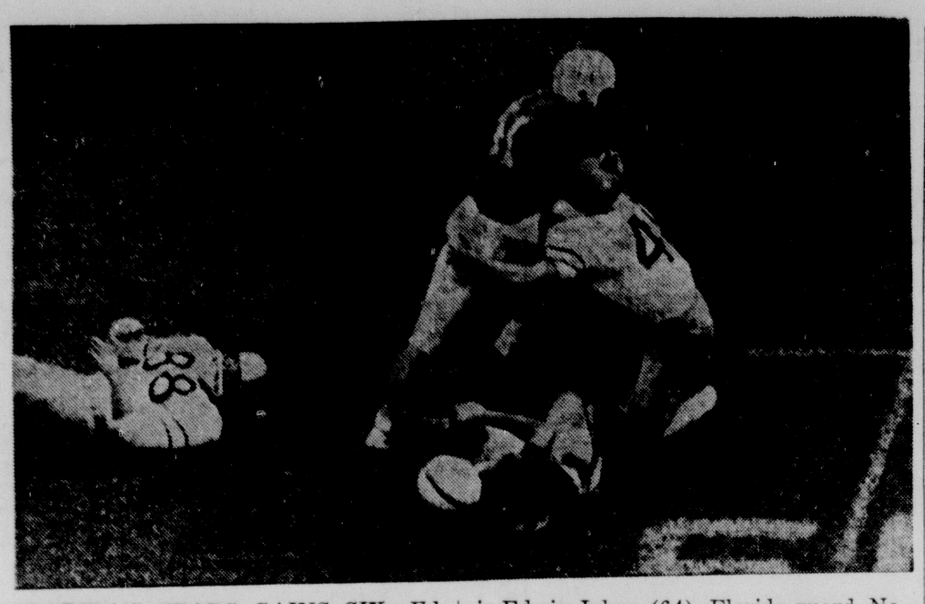

If you, the readers want to get the ball rolling, then we'll start getting down to brass tacks and see what can be done to bring about such a tournament. (Editor's note: Anyone interested in getting a pro tournament for the Twin Cities or anyone that wishes to suggest or comment, write to Bob Ewing in care of this newspaper.)

THE JOKE'S ON HIM!

A number of years ago, W. A. "Bill" Jones and the late E. S. "Shep" Girault were playing in the finals of the club championship at the McGuire Park Country Club. A gallery of thirty or more people were following the match but two men in particular were not observing golf etiquette as they blabbed away hole after hole. One of the two men seemed to think that he knew a little about the game and was telling the other how good Shep was (and here he was correct, because Shep was one of the finest players and one of the finest men to ever step on the golf course here or anywhere else.)

The match had progressed to the twelfth hole (par 4) where Jones was on the green in two and Girault was in the trap in two. Shep studied his shot carefully and blasted out—the ball took off on a bee-line for the pin and plopped in the hole for a birdie three. The man that had been talking so much and so loudly slapped his buddy on the back and exclaimed, "See! What did I tell you?!? He does it every time!". At that, Shep and Bill had to take a time out for a laugh.

It sometimes really amazes golfers to hear the talk carried on by the spectator that doesn't understand the years of practice and experience that one has to undergo to compete in championship caliber golf. We agree that the great players do quite often hit such tremendous recavery shots as did Shep but not quite all the time—those shots are the rare, great shots for the book.

Duke Bags Bowl Date In 7-6 Win

DURHAM, N.C., Nov. 16 (UP) — Duke halfback Wray (The Train) Carlton caught a perfect pass on a 35-yard touchdown play today, then kicked the point to beat Clemson, 7-6, and assure an Orange Bowl trip for the Blue Devils.

Clemson, hungry for a return Orange Bowl bid, dominated second half play but lost possession on fumbles twice inside the Duke five before fullback Bob Spooner crashed across from the two with six minutes left in the game.

But Tiger sophomore star Harvey White's placement for what would have been the tying point went low and wide to the right and was almost blocked by end Bert Lattimore.

White finished the game in a blaze of passes and wide open runs that kept a crowd of 22,000 on its feet in the rain and gloom of Duke Stadium. Duke, except for the quarterback Bob Brodhead to Carlton touchdown pass play, never penetrated inside the Clemson 20 yard line.

But the one-point victory virtually clinches Duke's selection by the Atlantic Coast Conference to meet Oklahoma in the Miami classic. Duke's record is six wins, two ties and one defeat with one game to play.

Score by periods:

Duke	0	7	0	0—7
Clemson	0	0	0	6—6

Duke scoring: Touchdown, Carlton (35, pass from Brodhead). Conversion, Carlton.

Clemson scoring: Touchdown, Spooner (2, run).

Parrish Stars As Gators Top Vandy, 14-7

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 16 (AP) —Bernie Parrish circled left end on 45-yard and 22-yard touchdown runs with five minutes today and led Florida to a 14-7 victory over Vanderbilt.

Parrish also kicked both conversions and intercepted a Vandy pass midway in a hectic fourth quarter when Vanderbilt's Boyce Smith twice wheeled the commodores deep into Florida territory and threatened to pull out a tie or victory.

Smith destroyed Florida's ranking as No. 5 in the nation on pass defense but he couldn't hit the big ones that would have given Vanderbilt its fourth straight victory and a chance at a bowl bid.

Vanderbilt	0	7	0	0— 7
Florida	0	14	0	0—14

Vanderbilt scoring: Touchdown; King (10, pass from Smith). Conversion: Travis.

Florida scoring: Touchdowns: Parrish 2, (45, run; 22, run) Conversions: Parrish 2.

Southerners Drop Florida State, 20 To 0

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Nov. 16 (AP)—Mississippi Southern scored its eighth victory and sixth shutout in nine games by crushing Florida State University 20-0 tonight.

An overflow homecoming crowd estimated at more than 14,000 saw the Southerners strike for two quick touchdowns late in the second quarter and dominated play the rest of the way, finaly adding a third score late in the fourth period.

After Florida State had threatened seriously in the first period, the Southerners caught fire when halfback Bobby Lance slipped through the center of the line and with the aid of two good blocks ran 57 yards for a touchdown. This was with less than eight minutes left in the half.

Southern end Donnie Waits recovered a Florida State fumble at the FSU 23 on the first play after the ensuing kickoff. The Southerners promptly scored again. Fullback Bo Dickinson slashed over from the seven.

Another fumble recovery, this time by center Charles Ellzey on the Florida State 42, led to the final touchdown in the fourth period. A 32-yard run by halfback Tommy Purvis covered most of the distance with quarterback George Sekul sneaking over from the one for the touchdown. Quarterback Ollie Yates converted after the last two touchdowns.

ANDERSON STARS IN 20-14 WIN

Army Comes From Behind To Whip Underdog Tulane

By JACK HAND

WEST POINT, N.Y., Nov. 16 (AP) Bob Anderson, the nation's leading scorer, led Army to come-from behind 20-14 victory over underdog Tulane today, the 200-pound sophomore from Ococoa, Fla., broke Glenn Davis' academy record for rushing yardage with 145 yards that boosted his season total to 965 yards.

After Richie Petitbon's flashy 66-yard punt return and Jim Blount's conversion had put Tulane out front 14-13 in the third period, Army struck back to win in the final five minutes.

With four minutes and 42 seconds of play left, Anderson swept around right end from the 10 to climax a stirring comeback by Army. Anderson's 32-yard gallop down the middle on a trap play had moved the ball to the Tulane 12, setting up the score. A fine 21-yard run by Pete Dawkins preceded Anderson's jaunt.

Tulane, a 16-point underdog, scored in the first period on a brilliant 61-yard run by Claude (Boo) Mason, a 160-pound junior from Lake Charles, La.

Army took charge with two long touchdown marches in the second period. Harry Walter plunged over from the one after a drive of 89 yards in 18 plays. Dawkins scored from the 5 on another offensive that carried 52 yards in 12 plays. Jim Kennedy converted twice for Army, Gene Newton and Blount once each for Tulane.

Anderson's 14th touchdown of the season climaxed another brilliant day for the sophomore (yearling at the academy). He carried 24 times for 145 yards, breaking the record set by all-American Davis in 1945.

Dawkins, Anderson's running mate at halfback, also produced his 11th touchdown of the year and galloped for 166 yards in 26 carries against an inspired Tulane team that has lost seven of nine starts.

This was no "tuneup" for the Navy game as many Army fans expected. Tulane fought the Cadets right down to the wire and struck deep into Army territory after Anderson's winning touchdown.

With Carlton Sweeney throwing strikes to his ends and halfbacks, Tulane got to the Army 28. Then came the play that broke the back of this late rally. Sweeney's pass into the end zone, intended for Will Ellzey, was deflected by Anderson into the hands of Dawkins for an interception. Army took the ball to its 20 and retained control.

The statistics, showing Army with 21 first downs to Tulane's 10 and a yardage edge of 355-237, didn't really tell the story. Tulane put up a tremendous battle and looked like an upset winner until Dawkins and Anderson teamed up on the winning drive that covered 74 yards in five plays with Anderson carrying three times for 51 yards.

Secretary of the Army Brucker and 21,125 fans saw the game that originally was scheduled for New Orleans. It was transferred to West Point because of Louisiana's segregation laws.

Methodist Outlast Arkansas, 27 To 22

By ED FITE

DALLAS, Nov. 16 (UP)—Dazzling Don Meredith riddled Arkansas' baffled defenses afoot and through the air today as he figured in all four touchdowns and a safety that gave Southern Methodist a frenzied 27-22 Southwest Conference victory over the Razorbacks.

The spectacular sophomore sensation chewed out touchdown plays of one and three yards, himself, executed 12 and 42-yard aerial touchdowns to ends Henry Christopher and Billy Dunn, kicked an extra point and gave Arkansas an intentional safety to eat up time as the final seconds ticked away.

The rangy 184-pound 'teen-ager from Mount Vernon, Tex., hit 19 of 25 passes for an amazing 230 yards and picked up 67 steps on 22 rushing plays as he kept a sparse crowd of 25,500 on its feet with his daring manipulation of the spread formation.

But, as great as Meredith was, SMU needed every bit of his cunning to cut down an Arkansas team that piled up a 13-7 first-quarter lead and caught up at 20-20 midway the final period before Meredith led a 67-yard scoring march that put the game out of reach.

Arkansas quarterbacks George Walker and Don Christian scored the first two Razorback touchdowns, Walker scampering 66 yards with the game's first punt and Christian plunging one yard after reserve fullback Jerry Ferguson had set up the play with a 72-yard sparkler from scrimmage.

Halfback Donnie Stone got the other Arkansas score with a fourth-down end sweep from the three and Don Ritschel converted for the second time in three attempts to deadlock the game.

Stan Eckert, a sub center who had never been a game, kicked two of three attempts for SMU's extra points that helped the Methodists keep their Bowl hopes alive.

Ferguson and the man he relieves at fullback, Gerald Nesbitt, contributed 82 and 56 yards, respectively, to an Arkansas ground game that sifted through the SMU defense for 194 yards, but they couldn't match Meredith.

Neither side offered much in the way of defensive standouts except for SMU's halfback Dan Bowden, who turned in three touchdown-saving tackles at the sidelines among the seven he made before forced from the game with a shoulder injury in the fourth quarter.

SMU	7	7	0	13	—27
Arkansas	13	0	0	9	—22

SMU scoring: Touchdowns, Meredith 2 (1, plunge; 3, run), Christopher (12, pass from Meredith), Dunn (42, pass-run from Meredith). Conversions, Eckert 2.

Arkansas scoring: Walker (66, punt return), Christian (1, plunge), Stone (3, run). Conversions, Ritschel 2. Safety (Meredith grounded ball in end zone).

Cage Schedule Of Oak Grove Set For Start

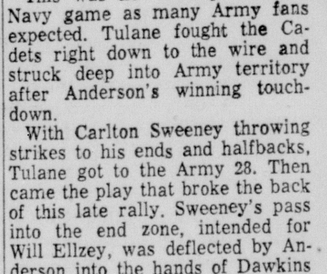

OAK GROVE, La. (Special) — Oak Grove High School basketball teams swing into action this week when they enter the Epps Invitational Tournament, and they will follow with December home dates against Forest, Kilbourne, Epps, and Pioneer.

The Oak Grove girls, state Class A champions coached by Mrs. Belle Howell, have lost forward Mary Frances Yates and guards Bobbie Nell Willis, Martha Sanders, and Marilyn Hopkins from last season's squad, but are well stocked with letter winners back for another campaign.

Returning letter winners are forwards Barbara Thompson, Nelda Manley, Brenda Bigelow, Margie Ogden, and Sonja Hough, and guards Mary Alice Thomas, Myrna Mosely, Cherry Irby, and Marian Mercer. Others on the squad are Barbara Richey, Sonnye Howell, Pam Pippens, Mary Posey, Margaret Ogden, Sheila Newton, and Sylvia Turner.

Coach Cecil Johnson's boys, who won 22 and lost 12 last season, are without James Coulter, the 250 - pound 6-5er, and a couple of other six - footers, Jim Bradley and Jim Myrick, but have such returning lettermen as Lester Bonner, Gene Gammill, John Hurley, and Larry Bradley. Squadmen back are Russ Greer, Jack Tackett, Jim Morris, John Newton, Newell Colquette, G. W. Martin, and Earl Tackett, and other prospects like Hershel Horton, Dave Corley, Gerald Russell, Roger Head, Vernon Helms, Jerrell Colquette, and B. C. Sowell.

Games here next month are Forest, Dec. 3; Kilbourne, Dec. 5; Epps, Dec. 10; Pioneer, Dec. 17.

OREGON, 16-7

Ducks Beat Trojans To Earn Bowl Place

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 16 (UP) —Oregon captured the right to represent the West in the Rose Bowl today when fullback Jack Morris led the Ducks to a 16-7 victory over Southern California.

Oregon's victory before 30,975 fans in Memorial Coliseum, combined with Oregon State's 24-14 win over Stanford this afternoon, left the Ducks with but one defeat in conference play and one game remaining while Stamford ended up with three defeats in conference play.

Morris earned the individual honors of the contest by running up 212 yards in 15 carries to set both an Oregon and a Southern California's opponent mark for rushing.

The brilliant fullback raced 63 yards for a touchdown and 58 yards on a run that failed to score in piling up his huge yardage.

A Southern California fumble let Oregon get on the scoreboard after four minutes of play when end Ron Stover recovered quarterback Willie Wood's dropped ball on the USC 21. The Ducks drove to the 13 and on fourth down Morris kicked a field goal from the 21.

Two minutes later Morris turnliant rons as he spun oot of the liant runs as he spunt out of the arms of a half dozen tacklers, broke into the clear and raced 63 yards to a touchdown.

Score by periods:

S. California	0	0	0	7	— 7
Oregon	10	6	0	0	—16

Southern California scoring: Touchdown, Buford (7, run), Conversion, Buford.

Oregon scoring: Touchdowns, Morris (63, run); Shanley (2, run). Conversion, Morris. Field goal, Morris (21).

Oregon State, With Francis, Taps Stanford

CORVALLIS, Ore., Nov. 16 (UP)—Senior halfback Joe Francis, a running and passing demon, turned in his most brilliant performance today to lead defending Pacific Coast Conference champion Oregon State to a 24-14 football victory over Stanford.

Francis, playing his final home game and cheered on by a crowd of 20,000, ran for two touchdowns and passed for another. The Honolulu hurricane, who sat out last week because of the flu, also racked up 274 yalds rushing and passing, breaking his mark of 203 yards in last season's Rose Bowl game against Iowa.

Cavallon Leads Yale To Upset Of Princeton

PRINCETON, N.J., Nov. 16 (AP) —Mike Cavallon, a tall end from Winnetka, Ill., made three remarkable pass catches for touchdowns today and led Yale to a 20-13 upset victory over Princeton.

McNeese Socks Southeastern's Lions, 26 To 0

LAKE CHARLES, La., Nov. 16 (AP)—McNeese blanked Southeastern Louisiana 26-0 tonight in a Gulf States Conference game before 4,500 homecoming fans.

Fullback Bob Magee opened the scoring in the second period with a one-yard scoring plunge. A five-yard pass from Robert Morris to end Don Scaife was good for a third-period touchdown.

McNeese scored twice in the fourth period with end Gene Gibson making one touchdown after a pass interception from the 31. Quarterback Sam Stribling went over from the eight to close out the scoring. Cleo Cooper got two conversions.

PRO TOURNAMENT FOR TWIN CITIES?

Quite a few people around here would like nothing better than to see an annual 54- or even 72-hole medal play professional tournament held at any one of the three golf courses in the Twin Cities. Highland Park Country Club once had a $1,500 open tournament each year and it proved highly successful. The touring pros are itching for a little action every season when they are traveling from California and back. Any sort of decently attractive tournament is just what they're looking for.

The last time Highland Park (then McGuire Park) held the $1,500 Twin City Open it attracted such well known players as Al Balding, Jay Herbert, Lionel Herbert, Marty Furgol, Buck White, and many other top notch pros plus all of the regional home pros and amateurs. Of course, all of the local and regional players love a tournament like that because it gives them a good opportunity to get into competition with some of the big time boys.

As we understand it, some of the men around the local golf circle got together and sold advertising to raise the money for sponsoring the tournaments. There is no reason in the world why that couldn't be done again and no reason why as much as $3,000 or even $5,000 couldn't be raised one way or another to really put on a whale of a tournament. The only thing standing in the way is lack of interest and initiative.

If you, the readers want to get the ball rolling, then we'll start getting down to brass tacks and see what can be done to bring about such a tournament. (Editor's note: Anyone interested in getting a pro tournament for the Twin Cities or anyone that wishes to suggest or comment, write to Bob Ewing in care of this newspaper.)

THE JOKE'S ON HIM!

A number of years ago, W. A. "Bill" Jones and the late E. S. "Shep" Girault were playing in the finals of the club championship at the McGuire Park Country Club. A gallery of thirty or more people were following the match but two men in particular were not observing golf etiquette as they blabbed away hole after hole. One of the two men seemed to think that he knew a little about the game and was telling the other how good Shep was (and here he was correct, because Shep was one of the finest players and one of the finest men to ever step on the golf course here or anywhere else.)

The match had progressed to the twelfth hole (par 4) where Jones was on the green in two and Girault was in the trap in two. Shep studied his shot carefully and blasted out—the ball took off on a bee-line for the pin and plopped in the hole for a birdie three. The man that had been talking so much and so loudly slapped his buddy on the back and exclaimed, "See! What did I tell you?!? He does it every time!". At that, Shep and Bill had to take a time out for a laugh.

It sometimes really amazes golfers to hear the talk carried on by the spectator that doesn't understand the years of practice and experience that one has to undergo to compete in championship caliber golf. We agree that the great players do quite often hit such tremendous recavery shots as did Shep but not quite all the time—those shots are the rare, great shots for the book.

Duke Bags Bowl Date In 7-6 Win

DURHAM, N.C., Nov. 16 (UP) — Duke halfback Wray (The Train) Carlton caught a perfect pass on a 35-yard touchdown play today, then kicked the point to beat Clemson, 7-6, and assure an Orange Bowl trip for the Blue Devils.

Clemson, hungry for a return Orange Bowl bid, dominated second half play but lost possession on fumbles twice inside the Duke five before fullback Bob Spooner crashed across from the two with six minutes left in the game.

But Tiger sophomore star Harvey White's placement for what would have been the tying point went low and wide to the right and was almost blocked by end Bert Lattimore.

White finished the game in a blaze of passes and wide open runs that kept a crowd of 22,000 on its feet in the rain and gloom of Duke Stadium. Duke, except for the quarterback Bob Brodhead to Carlton touchdown pass play, never penetrated inside the Clemson 20 yard line.

But the one-point victory virtually clinches Duke's selection by the Atlantic Coast Conference to meet Oklahoma in the Miami classic. Duke's record is six wins, two ties and one defeat with one game to play.

Score by periods:

Duke	0	7	0	0	—7
Clemson	0	0	0	6	—6

Duke scoring: Touchdown, Carlton (35, pass from Brodhead). Conversion, Carlton.

Clemson scoring: Touchdown, Spooner (2, run).

Parrish Stars As Gators Top Vandy, 14-7

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Nov. 16 (AP) —Bernie Parrish circled left end on 45-yard and 22-yard touchdown runs with five minutes today and led Florida to a 14-7 victory over Vanderbilt.

Parrish also kicked both conversions and intercepted a Vandy pass midway in a hectic fourth quarter when Vanderbilt's Boyce Smith twice wheeled the commodores deep into Florida territory and threatened to pull out a tie or victory.

Smith destroyed Florida's ranking as No. 5 in the nation on pass defense but he couldn't hit the big ones that would have given Vanderbilt its fourth straight victory and a chance at a bowl bid.

Vanderbilt	0	7	0	0	—7
Florida	0	14	0	0	—14

Vanderbilt scoring: Touchdown: King (10, pass from Smith). Conversion: Travis.

Florida scoring: Touchdowns: Parrish 2, (45, run; 22, run) Conversions: Parrish 2.

Southerners Drop Florida State, 20 To 0

HATTIESBURG, Miss., Nov. 16 (AP)—Mississippi Southern scored its eighth victory and sixth shutout in nine games by crushing Florida State University 20-0 tonight.

An overflow homecoming crowd estimated at more than 14,000 saw the Southerners strike for two quick touchdowns late in the second quarter and dominated play the rest of the way, finaly adding a third score late in the fourth period.

After Florida State had threatened seriously in the first period, the Southerners caught fire when halfback Bobby Lance slipped through the center of the line and with the aid of two good blocks ran 57 yards for a touchdown. This was with less than eight minutes left in the half.

Southern end Donnie Waits recovered a Florida State fumble at the FSU 23 on the first play after the ensuing kickoff. The Southerners promptly scored again. Fullback Bo Dickinson slashed over from the seven.

Another fumble recovery, this time by center Charles Ellzey on the Florida State 42, led to the final touchdown in the fourth period. A 32-yard run by halfback Tommy Purvis covered most of the distance with quarterback George Sekul sneaking over from the one for the touchdown. Quarterback Ollie Yates converted after the last two touchdowns.

ANDERSON STARS IN 20-14 WIN

Army Comes From Behind To Whip Underdog Tulane

By JACK HAND

WEST POINT, N.Y., Nov. 16 (AP) Bob Anderson, the nation's leading scorer, led Army to come-from behind 20-14 victory over underdog Tulane today, the 200-pound sophomore from Ococoa, Fla., broke Glenn Davis' academy record for rushing yardage with 145 yards that boosted his season total to 965 yards.

After Richie Petitbon's flashy 66-yard punt return and Jim Blount's conversion had put Tulane out front 14-13 in the third period, Army struck back to win in the final five minutes.

With four minutes and 42 seconds of play left, Anderson swept around right end from the 10 to climax a stirring comeback by Army. Anderson's 32-yard gallop down the middle on a trap play had moved the ball to the Tulane 12, setting up the score. A fine 21-yard run by Pete Dawkins preceded Anderson's jaunt.

Tulane, a 16-point underdog, scored in the first period on a brilliant 61-yard run by Claude (Boo) Mason, a 160-pound junior from Lake Charles, La.

Army took charge with two long touchdown marches in the second period. Harry Walter plunged over from the one after a drive of 89 yards in 18 plays. Dawkins scored from the 5 on another offensive that carried 52 yards in 12 plays. Jim Kennedy converted twice for Army, Gene Newton and Blount once each for Tulane.

Anderson's 14th touchdown of the season climaxed another brilliant day for the sophomore (yearling at the academy). He carried 24 times for 145 yards, breaking the record set by all-American Davis in 1945.

Dawkins, Anderson's running mate at halfback, also produced his 11th touchdown of the year and galloped for 166 yards in 26 carries against an inspired Tulane team that has lost seven of nine starts.

This was no "tuneup" for the Navy game as many Army fans expected. Tulane fought the Cadets right down to the wire and struck deep into Army territory after Anderson's winning touchdown.

With Carlton Sweeney throwing strikes to his ends and halfbacks, Tulane got to the Army 28. Then came the play that broke the back of this late rally. Sweeney's pass into the end zone, intended for Will Ellzey, was deflected by Anderson into the hands of Dawkins for an interception. Army took the ball to its 20 and retained control.

The statistics, showing Army with 21 first downs to Tulane's 10 and a yardage edge of 355-237, didn't really tell the story. Tulane put up a tremendous battle and looked like an upset winner until Dawkins and Anderson teamed up on the winning drive that covered 74 yards in five plays with Anderson carrying three times for 51 yards.

Secretary of the Army Brucker and 21,125 fans saw the game that originally was scheduled for New Orleans. It was transferred to West Point because of Louisiana's segregation laws.

Tulane	7	0	7	0	—14
Army	0	13	0	7	—20

Tulane scoring — Touchdowns: Mason (61, run); Petitbon (66, punt return). Conversions: Newton, Blount.

Army scoring — Touchdowns: Walters (1, plunge); Dawkins (5, run); Anderson (10, run). Conversions: Kennedy 2.

ON GROUND, IN AIR

Methodist Outlast Arkansas, 27 To 22

By ED FITE

DALLAS, Nov. 16 (UP)—Dazzling Don Meredith riddled Arkansas' baffled defenses afoot and through the air today as he figured in all four touchdowns and a safety that gave Southern Methodist a frenzied 27-22 Southwest Conference victory over the Razorbacks.

The spectacular sophomore sensation chewed out touchdown plays of one and three yards, himself, executed 12 and 42-yard aerial touchdowns to ends Henry Christopher and Billy Dunn, kicked an extra point and gave Arkansas an intentional safety to eat up time as the final seconds ticked away.

The rangy 184-pound 'teen-ager from Mount Vernon, Tex., hit 19 of 25 passes for an amazing 230 yards and picked up 67 steps on 22 rushing plays as he kept a sparse crowd of 25,500 on its feet with his daring manipulation of the spread formation.

But, as great as Meredith was, SMU needed every bit of his cunning to cut down an Arkansas team that piled up a 13-7 first-quarter lead and caught up at 20-20 midway the final period before Meredith led a 67-yard scoring march that put the game out of reach.

Arkansas quarterbacks George Walker and Don Christian scored the first two Razorback touchdowns, Walker scampering 66 yards with the game's first punt and Christian plunging one yard after reserve fullback Jerry Ferguson had set up the play with a 72-yard sparkler from scrimmage.

Halfback Donnie Stone got the other Arkansas score with a fourth-down end sweep from the three and Don Ritschel converted for the second time in three attempts to deadlock the game.

Stan Eckert, a sub center who had never been a game, kicked two of three attempts for SMU's extra points that helped the Methodists keep their Bowl hopes alive.

Ferguson and the man he relieves at fullback, Gerald Nesbitt, contributed 82 and 56 yards, respectively, to an Arkansas ground game that sifted through the SMU defense for 194 yards, but they couldn't match Meredith.

Neither side offered much in the way of defensive standouts except for SMU's halfback Dan Bowden, who turned in three touchdown-saving tackles at the sidelines among the seven he made before forced from the game with a shoulder injury in the fourth quarter.

SMU	7	7	0	13	—27
Arkansas	13	0	0	9	—22

SMU scoring: Touchdowns, Meredith 2 (1, plunge; 3, run), Christopher (12, pass from Meredith), Dunn (42, pass-run from Meredith). Conversions, Eckert 2.

Arkansas scoring: Walker (66, punt return), Christian (1, plunge), Stone (3, run). Conversions, Ritschel 2. Safety (Meredith grounded ball in end zone).

OAK GROVE, La. (Special) — Oak Grove High School basketball teams swing into action this week when they enter the Epps Invitational Tournament, and they will follow with December home dates against Forest, Kilbourne, Epps, and Pioneer.

The Oak Grove girls, state Class A champions coached by Mrs. Belle Howell, have lost forward Mary Frances Yates and guards Bobbie Nell Willis, Martha Sanders, and Marilyn Hopkins from last season's squad, but are well stocked with letter winners back for another campaign.

Returning letter winners are forwards Barbara Thompson, Nelda Manley, Brenda Bigelow, Margie Ogden, and Sonja Hough, and guards Mary Alice Thomas, Myrna Mosely, Cherry Irby, and Marian Mercer. Others on the squad are Barbara Richey, Sonnye Howell, Pam Pippens, Mary Posey, Margaret Ogden, Sheila Newton, and Sylvia Turner.

Coach Cecil Johnson's boys, who won 22 and lost 12 last season, are without James Coulter, the 250 - pound 6-5er, and a couple of other six - footers, Jim Bradley and Jim Myrick, but have such returning lettermen as Lester Bonner, Gene Gammill, John Hurley, and Larry Bradley. Squadmen back are Russ Greer, Jack Tackett, Jim Morris, John Newton, Newell Colquette, G. W. Martin, and Earl Tackett, and other prospects like Hershel Horton, Dave Corley, Gerald Russell, Roger Head, Vernon Helms, Jerrell Colquette, and B. C. Sowell.

Games here next month are Forest, Dec. 3; Kilbourne, Dec. 5; Epps, Dec. 10; Pioneer, Dec. 17.

BOWLING

With Tommy Higgins

The annual Monroe City Ladies Tournament kicks off this weekend with 26 teams participating. Peoples Loan, the defending champions, will be back trying to capture the event for the third straight year. They won last year's meet with a 2,895 pin-fall.

Forty-one pairs of bowlers are out to dethrone Jo Ann Higgins and Vera Painich, last year's doubles champions. The two girls ruled their event last year with a grand total of 1,318.

Edith Yarbrough, singles champion, is back to try and hold on to her crown. Edith won the singles with a big 643. Eighty - two entries are listed for this event.

All-Events Champion Jo Ann Higgins (1,898) will have her work cut out for her if she's to repeat the sparkling performance of a year ago. Everyone will be shooting for this greatest of the titles—all-events—nine games of championship bowling.

Best of luck, girls, on a successful tournament!

DURHAM GOING GREAT

W. H. "Sonny" Durham has put together style, timing and a strike-getting hook ball for some of the best bowling ever for local talent.

"The Old Pro" has bowled five 600 or better series in his last seven outings. The other two were in the high 500s.

A list of his fine bowling would read like this: 192-202-222 for a 616 series. 244-192-222 — 658 series; 179-238-214 — 631; 255-203-192 — 650; and 235-201-199—635.

Roughly averaging 213 for the fifteen games, Sonny has shattered almost all the high marks for the young season.

In the Major League, Durham holds the high series (650), second highest average (178) and the fourth highest game (255).

The Kegler League has felt pin-fall also with Sonny holding high average (182), second high series (658), second high game (244), plus leading the Clover Leaf team as they posted a high team game (1,108) and high team series (3,068).

In the Pioneer League, he has been the sparkplug for the high averaging Fink's Men's Wear. Besides the second highest average (183), the second highest series (635) and first high game (244), Sonny has sparked the team as they bowled high team series for the league, a big 3,140.

FOR MARCH OF DIMES

Starting January 13th through 17th, during league play, the bowlers will give a nickel to the March of Dimes for all 200-games bowled.

Keith Moore, manager of Monroe Bowling Center, has announced he will give a dime for all 200 games bowled in the afternoon of that week.

I hope everyone bowls his best during this period for such a great charity—the March of Dimes.

600 CLUB

A 600 Club is being organized for the men bowlers of Monroe, and arm patches are being made for the bowlers who want to join. Any men bowlers who have notched their 600 in league play and wish to join are invited to contact this writer.

Don Carter of St. Louis, won the Southern Match Game bowling championship this week by a wide margin. He had a total 36-game pinfall of 7,766, won 22½ games and lost 13½ for a Peterson point total of 178.41 at Nashville, Tenn.

His nearest rival was Buzz Fazio, St. Louis with 7,509, 20½, 15½, and 171.09.

In third place was Carmen Salvina, Chicago with 7,369, 22, 14, and 169.44.

Canada's top bowler, Gabriel Bihary of Hamilton, Ont., was accorded a berth in the $30,000 "World" Invitational match game bowling tourney at the Chicago Coliseum, Dec. 4-13.

Bihary, 34, automobile factory worker, won the Ontario Masters singles championship last season and later added the Dominion Masters' title.

The "World" field now is within five of its 160-man limit. The women's division will include 64 handpicked contestants. Meet sponsors said the top male and female bowlers from Hawaii probably will be added to the field.

First prize for the men will be $5,000 and the women's winner will receive $2,500.

St. Louis and Chicago will be the sites of the 34th team match game championships of the Bowling Proprietors' Association of America later this month, it was announced this week.

The contenders include St. Louis Falstaff Beer which won the recent eliminations in Kansas City and a Chicago's Reserve Beer which finished second.

First 12 games of the championships will be rolled at Chicago Nov. 23 and 24. The final 12 games will be rolled at St. Louis Nov. 30 and Dec 1.

ALSO LADIES' MATCH

Brummett Fights Laye For Crown

Newly crowned Louisiana heavyweight wrestling champion Phil Brummett, wasting no time in putting his title on the block, faces former world's light heavyweight champ Charley Laye in a title match tomorrow night when promoter Gus Kallio presents a double main event card also featuring a women's match.

The Lady Angel, billed as the world's ugliest woman and the champion of Europe, meets redhead Peggy Allen of Bloomington, West Virginia in the night's other match. It will be decided before the matches which of the two will go on first.

Bill Barney will referee the night's bouts, both of which will be over the hour and 15 minute limit with two falls needed to win.

Laye made his first appearance here in several years last Monday night when he won over Barney in the semi-final bout. A native of Knoxville, Tennessee, Laye has appeared in Monroe over a long period of time as well as all over the country. It is rather ironical that the man Laye won the world light heavy crown from was none other than Jack Curtis, from whom Brummett took the state title last week.

Formerly a brunette, Laye has turned into a bleached - blond a la Gorgeous George but his ring tactics have not changed. He's still a real mean customer as proved by his treatment of Barney last week. Laye used a knee to the mid-section to win both of his falls from Barney.

Monroe fans will have a hard time picking a man to cheer in this bout since neither one of the participants is well liked here and made even more enemies Monday night by beating big favorites Curtis and Barney.

Both of the lady grapplers on tomorrow's program have appeared here before. The bald Lady Angel took part in a wrestle royal here about five months ago and then lost to Rita Cortez the next week. She gained quite a bit of national publicity soon after that when she was involved in a controversy in Mississippi with another lady wrestler who claimed to be the Lady Angel.

Peggy Allen, who is said to have given up a movie career for the wrestling arena, has wrestled on the local mat a number of times, the latest being when she lost to Betty Evans. She's all woman but no lady.

Recreation Dept. Forms 4 Cage Loops

Four Recreation Department basketball leagues have already been fully organized and at least two others are slated to be ready in time to open the season December 2, the Recreation Department announced yesterday.

City, Church, Community and Junior leagues are already organized and Midget and Pee Wee leagues will be formed Wednesday night in a meeting at the Community Center at 6:30. Any teams still interested in entering any of the six leagues can do so by contacting James McKay at the Community Center at 113 Catalpa Street this week. The phone number is FA 2-2170.

There is a possibility that the Midget and Pee Wee leagues will be broken down into three divisions, these being for players age 12 and under, age 13 and age 14. There's also a possibility a girls league will be formed.

Teams in the City League are Frenchies', Roberts' Grocery, Lindsey Furniture, Start, Eros and T. A. Sanders Lumber Company. Community League teams are the Speedballs, Weaks' Supply, Jaycees and the West Monroe Lions.

Church League clubs are Latter Day Saints, Victory Baptist, Swartz Baptist, Trinity Baptist, Monroe First Methodist, L.T.I. Chapel, College Place Baptist, Edgewood Baptist, Cypress Baptist and Brownsville Methodist.

Teams in the Junior League are Trinity Baptist, College Place Baptist, Ridge Avenue Baptist, L.T.I., St. Matthew's, Northside, Bulldogs, Independents, Outlaws, and Magicians.

Cornell Falls To Dartmouth In 20-19 Tilt

HANOVER, N.H., Nov. 16 (AP)—Reserve quarterback Bill Gundy engineered an 80 - yard touchdown march in the closing minutes today to enable Dartmouth to edge Cornell 20-19 and take over first place in the Ivy League race.

Dartmouth holds a half-game lead over Princeton, upset today by Yale. The two contenders play for the Ivy title at Princeton next Saturday.

Gundy, a 6-1 sophomore from Rye, N.Y., was the big gun as the Indians stormed from behind after being stung by two Cornell touchdowns within six minutes of the opening kickoff.

Score by quarters:

Cornell	12	7	0	0-19
Dartmouth	0	7	0	13-20

Cornell scoring — Touchdowns: McAniff (33, run), Skypeck 2 (10, run; plunge). Conversion: Skypeck.

Dartmouth scoring — Touchdowns: Morton (16, pass from Gundy); Moss (3, pass from Bradley); Crouthamel (4, run). Conversions: Palermo 2.

Owls Upset Aggies, 7 To 6

By JOHN COLTON

HOUSTON, Nov. 16 (UP)—For want of a conversion, Texas A&M, the nation's No. 1 team, went down today before Rice Insitute 7-6.

The loss was the first of the season for the Aggies and threw the Southwest Conference race into turmoil. Rice now is tied with the Aggies for the lead but has an inside shot to the New Year's Day Cotton Bowl game through today's victory.

It snapped a 14-game A&M winning streak.

Quarterback King Hill intercepted a pass to launch the Rice touchdown. He scored the touchdown and also kicked the extra point that beat the Cadets.

In the end, it was the failure of Aggie halfback Loyd Taylor, usually a dependable extra point kicker, to add the extra point after the A&M touchdown that spelled doom for the high-riding Aggies.

A sell-out crowd of 2,000, largest to see a Southwest Conference game this year, saw Jess Neely's Owls steal the Aggies' thunder and finally beating them at their own game, the extra point.

Texas A&M beat Arkansas this season by the margin of an extra point and defeated TCU by the same margin last year enroute to a conference championship.

Jess Neely's Owls, long known as a team that teaches its pinnacle in November, cracked through the Aggies in the second quarter as Hill crossed from the 1.

The tall signal-caller intercepted a pass on his own 19 late in the first quarter to start a 79-yard Rice drive that produced the score.

Then Hill stepped back and calmly booted the ball through the uprights. Aggie partisans, used to strong combacks by their team, didn't know it then but that kick spelled disaster for the men of Bear Bryant.

The Aggies, fighting to the bitter end, scored as the final quarter opened.

Score by periods:

Rice	0	7	0	0—7
A&M	0	0	0	6—6

Rice scoring: Touchdown, Hill (1-plunge). Conversion Hill.

Texas A&M scoring: Touchdown, Osborne (1-plunge).

HOMECOMING SPOILERS

Memphis Whips Tech, 17-7

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Favored Memphis State scored touchdowns in the first and last quarter and a field goal in the opening period to win Louisiana Tech's homecoming game, 17-7, here yesterdy afternoon.

Tech's only score came in the seond period on a 17 - yard pass.

Although there was no rain during the game, the non-conference battle was played on a field deep in mud as a result of four days of rain.

Around 6,000 homecoming fans saw Tech's Bulldogs dominate most departments of the statistics but were unable to push across scoring drives. Tech is now 5-4 for the season. The win gave Memphis State a 5-3 season's record.

Although Tech rolled up 14 first downs to 9 for the Tigers, the visitors made the most of two scoring drives that carried for 49 and 70 yards.

The Bulldogs outgained Memphis in rushing yardage, 135-123 yards, and through the air, 139-31 yards. Tech hurt by five fumbles, three of which were recovered by the Tigers.

Memphis State started the scoring late in the first period when halfback Robert Lyles kicked a 22 - yard field goal. The Tigers got possession of the ball when Jim Owen recovered a Bulldog fumble on the Tech 32. They pushed down inside the Tech 10 where the Bulldogs held for three downs but one the fourth, Memphis made good on the field goal attempt.

On the last play of the first quarter, Memphis State quarterback Fred Hearn dropped back to pass, saw an opening straight ahead and dashed 36 yards for a touchdown. James Leonard kicked the point after touchdown and the Tigers went ahead by a 10-0 count.

Tech took to the air to score midway of the second quarter. The Bulldogs went deep into Memphis territory after quarterback James McCabe passed for 12 yards to end Robbie Smith and a first down at the Memphis 38. McCabe then connected on a 21 - yard aerial to end Tom Causey.

Bulldog fullback Jerry Frasier picked up a first down on the Tiger 17. On the next play McCabe spotted Frasier near the goal line and tossed him a 17 yard pass for the touchdown. J. W. Slack converted to pull the Bulldogs up to a 10-7 deficit.

The third quarter was all Tech as Memphis State was unable to get inside Bulldog territory in the period. Tech knocked at the goal line several times. The Bulldogs drove to the Tiger 14 only to have a fourth - down pass ruled incomplete. Another Tech drive was halted at the Memphis 32.

Memphis scored once again with four minutes left in the game. Halfback Dick Buoni went across from 15 yards out to cap a 70-yard Tiger drive. Lyles again converted.

South Carolina Takes 13-0 Win

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 16 (AP) — South Carolina's Gamecocks got past midfield only three times today but scored on the last two occasions for a 13-0 atlantic Coast Conference football victory over a Virginia team that couldn't cash in on four scoring opportunities.

South Carolina	0	0	7	6	—13

South Carolina scoring — Touchdowns: Johnson (40, run); Hawkins (1, plunge). Conversion: Hawkins.

Memphis Whips Tech, 17-7

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Favored Memphis State scored touchdowns in the first and last quarter and a field goal in the opening period to win Louisiana Tech's homecoming game, 17-7, here yesterdy afternoon.

Tech's only score came in the seond period on a 17 - yard pass.

Although there was no rain during the game, the non-conference battle was played on a field deep in mud as a result of four days of rain.

Around 6,000 homecoming fans saw Tech's Bulldogs dominate most departments of the statistics but were unable to push across scoring drives. Tech is now 5-4 for the season. The win gave Memphis State a 5-3 season's record.

Although Tech rolled up 14 first downs to 9 for the Tigers, the visitors made the most of two scoring drives that carried for 49 and 70 yards.

The Bulldogs outgained Memphis in rushing yardage, 135-123 yards, and through the air, 139-31 yards. Tech hurt by five fumbles, three of which were recovered by the Tigers.

Memphis State started the scoring late in the first period when halfback Robert Lyles kicked a 22 - yard field goal. The Tigers got possession of the ball when Jim Owen recovered a Bulldog fumble on the Tech 32. They pushed down inside the Tech 10 where the Bulldogs held for three downs but one the fourth, Memphis made good on the field goal attempt.

On the last play of the first quarter, Memphis State quarterback Fred Hearn dropped back to pass, saw an opening straight ahead and dashed 36 yards for a touchdown. James Leonard kicked the point after touchdown and the Tigers went ahead by a 10-0 count.

Tech took to the air to score midway of the second quarter. The Bulldogs went deep into Memphis territory after quarterback James McCabe passed for 12 yards to end Robbie Smith and a first down at the Memphis 38. McCabe then connected on a 21 - yard aerial to end Tom Causey.

Bulldog fullback Jerry Frasier picked up a first down on the Tiger 17. On the next play McCabe spotted Frasier near the goal line and tossed him a 17 yard pass for the touchdown. J. W. Slack converted to pull the Bulldogs up to a 10-7 deficit.

The third quarter was all Tech as Memphis State was unable to get inside Bulldog territory in the period. Tech knocked at the goal line several times. The Bulldogs drove to the Tiger 14 only to have a fourth - down pass ruled incomplete. Another Tech drive was halted at the Memphis 32.

Memphis scored once again with four minutes left in the game. Halfback Dick Buoni went across from 15 yards out to cap a 70-yard Tiger drive. Lyles again converted.

South Carolina Takes 13-0 Win

Ole Miss Bids For Bowl With 14-7 Win Over Vols

By RUSSELL E. BRUCE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 16 (AP)—Mississippi coupled a 42-yard punt return and receovered fumble for a 14-7 win over Tennessee today. The victory meant an almost certain bowl bid for the once-beaten Rebels.

Tennessee, the nation's seventh ranked team, was a 6½ point favorite over eighth-ranked Mississippi. But the sluggish Vols never even threatened until late in the final period.

Both Mississippi touchdowns came after Tennessee had stopped Mississippi drives on its five yard line. Halfback Leroy Reed set up the first with a 42-yard runback of a Tennessee end zone punt. He was tackled on the two. Fullback Bll Hurst bulled across two plays later.

Guard Jacke Simpson triggered the second Rebel score when he recovered a Tennessee fumble on the Vols' five. Quarterback Raymond Brown made the touchdown on third down, sneaking the final foot.

Although the sun splashed the capacity crowd of 31,600 during most of the game, the field was soggy from a heavy midweek rain and both teams found the footing poor.

This proved a definite advantage ly noticeable in the line where the Vols better than 12 pounds to the man. The difference was especiallynoticeable in the line where the Vols constantly came out second best except for the two fine goal line stands.

Until late in the last quarter the Vols weren't able to move past the Mississippi 35. But wtih time running out, Tennessee started on its 20 and pounded steadily upfield. Second string tailback Al Carter, out most of the season with injuries, went over from the eight.

Mississippi's first touchdown beban developing late in the first period. Brown kicked 37 yards out of bounds on the Tennessee three. Gordon kicked right back 38 yards from the end zone on first down. From there the Rebels marched to the Tennessee five in eight plays with Hurst, Reed and Bill Lott pacing the attack.

Tennessee stiffened and held for downs.

After one running play, Gordon again kicked from his end zone. Reed caught the ball on his own 44, cut across to the far sideline, found an opening and rambled to the Vol two. A desperate tackle by Bill Anderson saved an immediate touchdown. Two plays later Hurst slammed over.

The Rebels began setting up their second TD midway the third period. Starting on their 35 they moved to the Tennessee five on 14 plays.

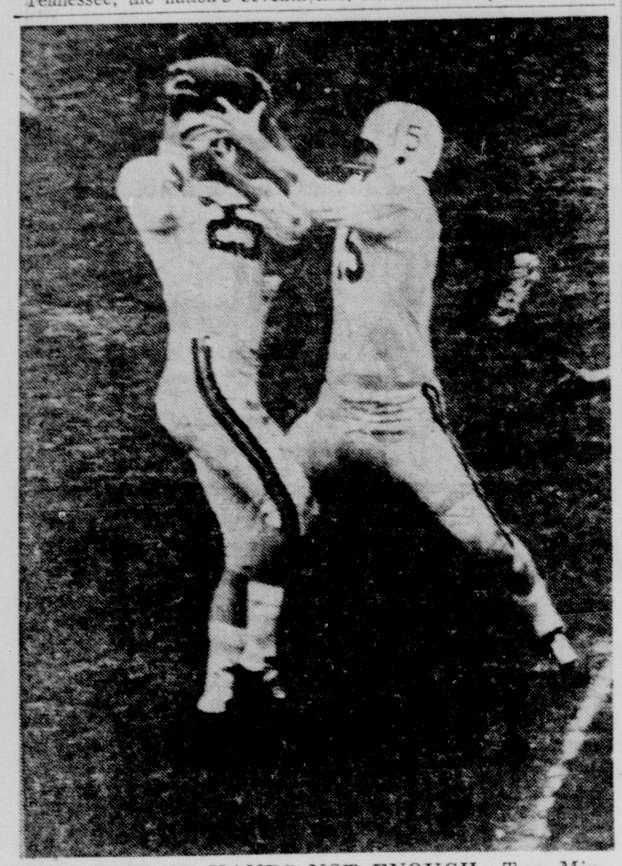

The crucial play in his drive was a 17-yard quarterback sneak by Brown on a third and 12 situation.

At the five Tennessee once again held and took over the ball. But on second down Gordon fumbled and Simpson recovered. Brown slammed into the end zone three plays later.

Ohio State In Rose Bowl As Iowa Falls

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 16 (UP)—Sophomore Bob White, in the greatest individual show ever seen in Ohio Stadium, today powered Ohio State to the Big Ten championship and the Rose Bowl with a 17-13 victory over Iowa before the biggest official crowd ever to see a football game in Ohio.

White carried the ball 64 yards in seven jet-like rushes through the Iowa line as Ohio marched 67 yards for its winning touchdown late in the final period.

The crowd of 82,935, including Vice President Richard M. Nixon, stood breathlessly as the 212-pound Covington, Ky., husky plowed through the line that until today had been No. 2 in the country in defense against rushing.

The wild Buckeye partisans celebrated their third Big Ten title in four years by snake dancing over the field long after the game ended. They ripped down the goal posts, threw paper, and yelled "on to Pasadena" for the Rose Bowl game.

Ohio rallied twice to win in what will be considered one of the most exciting games ever played here.

Ohio began its winning touchdown march on its 33 where a scrappy Joe Cannavino downed Hawkeye quarterback Randy Duncan's only punt of the game. White bulled through the line to score standing up from the five.

Iowa fought back but Ohio, which was more alert all day, intercepted one Iowa pass in those desperate final three minutes to save the game.

White's teammates hoisted him to their shoulders when the game umphantly through the crowd. He smashed through the big Iowa line 22 times for 157 yards, a seven plus average per carry.

Iowa Coach forest Evashevski, whose team was unbeaten until today, said after the game his Hawkeyes made too many mistakes and that Ohio, "despite injuries, played smarter and harder football then Iowa did."

Recreation
Grid Quiz

Local football prophets get their last chance of the season to pick the winners in the Recreation Grid Quiz this week with the top spots still in the balance. A bad week by the leaders and a great one by some of the trailers could shuffle the standings up quite a bit.

The predictor who needs 20 wins this week will have an especially tough time with a lot of traditional college games that are always hard to figure and three high school scraps that will settle conference championships.

Just circle the teams you think will win, clip out and mail to "Recreation Grid Quiz, P.O. Box 1293, Monroe," with your name and address. All entries must have a postmark not later than midnight Thursday.

Good luck!

SPIKED AT 47

Irish Spoil Sooners, 7-0

By CARTER BRADLEY

NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 16 (UP)—Notre Dame shattered football's longest winning streak of 47 games today with a brilliant fourth period scoring drive in 20 plays that defeated Oklahoma, 7-0, before 62,000 and a nationwide television audience.

Out-fought through the first and third quarters but never giving much ground to Oklahoma, which had scored in 123 straight games before today, the fighting Irish put together their second big upset of the year with a cool demonstration of power in all departments.

Right halfback Dick Lynch scored the touchdown on a fourth-down play from the three-yard line. Taking a high pitchout, he swerved around right end to score standing up, and Monty Stickle's conversion was good.

Lynch had scored two first downs in the thrust which also featured five bruising line rushes by Notre Dame fullback Nick Pietrosante good for 35 yards.

Notre Dame outplayed the No. 2 rated Sooners when it counted most, gaining 168 yards rushing to 98 for the losers.

The outcome was a stunning blow to Oklahomans, who were celebrating the state's 50th anniversary of statehood today and had come to the game confident the Sooners would win by the three touchdowns the odds-makers had given them.

Notre Dame had the distinction of having been the last team to defeat Oklahoma before today. The previous victory went to the Irish in the firs' game of the 1953 season, and last year Oklahoma plastered a 40-0 defeat on them at South Bend, Ind.

The Irish, losers only a week ago by a humilating 34-6 to Michigan State, provided gridiron fans everywhere with further clues as to Oklahoma's relative strength—often questioned because of the Sooners limited and reputedly weak schedule.

Oklahoma remained the 10th annual champion in the Big Eight Conference, however, and is scheduled to play in the Orange Bowl Jan. 1.

Notre Dame found Oklahoma's pass defense weak, with quarterback Bob Williams completing eight of 19 for a total of 70 yards. The Irish gained 79 net yards in the air to 47 for Oklahoma.

A jump pass from Williams to end Richard Royer gave the Irish a first down at the Oklahoma 17 in the winning offensive.

The teams had played almost evenly in the first half and in the third period Oklahoma kept Notre Dame in its own territory. Four deadeye punts, two by halfback Clendon Thomas and two by quarterback David Baker, made it look bad for Notre Dame in the period.

But Thomas, Oklahoma's leading scorer with 42 points and 543 yards rushing until today, found the Irish ready and waiting.

Notre Dame came close to scoring in the second period. A fumble by quarterback Carl Dodd was recovered by Pietrosante at the Oklahoma 49. In 10 plays, including three completions in five pass attempts by Williams good for a total of 38 yards, Notre Dame landed with the ball on the one-yard marker, but at that point, Pietrosante and halfbacks Jim Just and Bob Reynolds were frustrated in three plunges.

Another Notre Dame push carried within five yards of success before halftime. It was cut off when Baker intercepted a Reynolds pass intended for Stickles in the end zone, giving Oklahoma a first down on its 20.

The standing-room only crowd represented the turnout for the climactic event of Oklahoma's State semi-centennial celebration. The Sooner had gone into the game as favorites after rising from squeaky victories over Colorado and Kansas to thrash Missouri 39-14 last week.

But the day before the Missouri game, university President George Cross had said it would probably be a good thing for Oklahoma to be beaten.

The Irish did him the favor, making 17 first downs to 9 for the Sooners and rushing an average of 2.6 yards per play.

Score by periods:

Oklahoma	0	0	0	0	—0
Norte Dame	0	0	0	7	—7

Notre Dame scoring: Touchdown, Lynch (3, run). Conversion, Stickles.

Ole Miss Bids For Bowl With 14-7 Win Over Vols

By RUSSELL E. BRUCE

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 16 (AP)—Mississippi coupled a 42-yard punt return and recovered fumble for a 14-7 win over Tennessee today. The victory meant an almost certain bowl bid for the once-beaten Rebels.

Tennessee, the nation's seventh ranked team, was a 6½ point favorite over eighth-ranked Mississippi. But the sluggish Vols never even threatened until late in the final period.

Both Mississippi touchdowns came after Tennessee had stopped Mississippi drives on its five yard line. Halfback Leroy Reed set up the first with a 42-yard runback of a Tennessee end zone punt. He was tackled on the two. Fullback Bll Hurst bulled across two plays later.

Guard Jacke Simpson triggered the second Rebel score when he recovered a Tennessee fumble on the Vols' five. Quarterback Raymond Brown made the touchdown on third down, sneaking the final foot.

Although the sun splashed the capacity crowd of 31,600 during most of the game, the field was soggy from a heavy midweek rain and both teams found the footing poor.

This proved a definite advantage ly noticeable in the line where the Vols better than 12 pounds to the man. The difference was especiallynoticeable in the line where the Vols constantly came out second best except for the two fine goal line stands.

Until late in the last quarter the Vols weren't able to move past the Mississippi 35. But wtih time running out, Tennessee started on its 20 and pounded steadily upfield. Second string tailback Al Carter, out most of the season with injuries, went over from the eight.

Mississippi's first touchdown beban developing late in the first period. Brown kicked 37 yards out of bounds on the Tennessee three. Gordon kicked right back 38 yards from the end zone on first down. From there the Rebels marched to the Tennessee five in eight plays with Hurst, Reed and Bill Lott pacing the attack.

Tennessee stiffened and held for downs.

After one running play, Gordon again kicked from his end zone. Reed caught the ball on his own 44, cut across to the far sideline, found an opening and rambled to the Vol two. A desperate tackle by Bill Anderson saved an immediate touchdown. Two plays later Hurst slammed over.

The Rebels began setting up their second TD midway the third period. Starting on their 35 they moved to the Tennessee five on 14 plays.

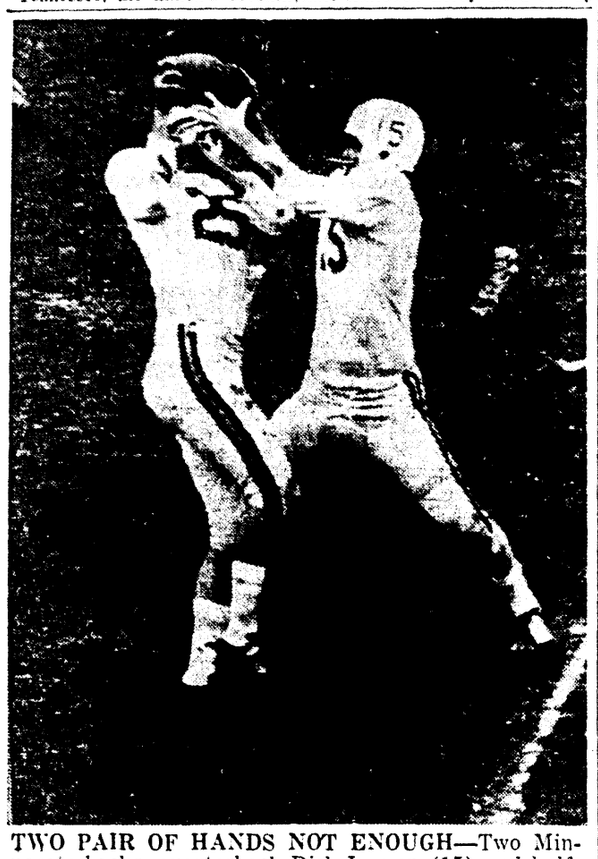

The crucial play in his drive was a 17-yard quarterback sneak by Brown on a third and 12 situation.

At the five Tennessee once again held and took over the ball. But on second down Gordon fumbled and Simpson recovered. Brown slammed into the end zone three plays later.

BASTROP, La. (Special) — Basketball comes to Bastrop in a "special" attraction triple header next Friday that includes a high school double header followed by a collegiate scramble featuring Northeast State and Delta State.

Bastrop and St. Matthew's High of Monroe furnish the high school action with boys and girls' games.

The girls open play at 6 o'clock, the Ram-Irish quints clash at 7, and the collegians take the floor at 8:30—all in the Bastrop High School gymnasium.

Penn Tumbles Columbia, 28,6, For 2nd Straight

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—Pennsylvnia scored its second straight victory of the season today, defeating Columbia 28-6, with Frank Riepl again the star.

Riepl, who last week engineered Penn's 33-20 upset of Yale, set the pace again with a 66-yard touchdown run—the longest made from scrimmage by a Penn player since 1947.

Score by quarters:

Penn	7	7	14	0	—28
Columbia	0	0	6	0	— 6

Penn scoring — touchdowns: Riepl (66, run); Hanlon 2 (6-inch, plunge; 26, run); McGinley (32, run). Conversions — Riepl 4.

Columbia scoring — Touchdowns Howard (13, pass from Donelli).

BRITISH BEST

LONDON, Nov. 16 (AP)—Derek Ibbotson, world's fastest miler, was selected today as Britain's top athlete of 1957.

Roamer Goes To Promised Land-Record

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—Promised Land, a homebred from the stable of Mrs. Ethel D. Jacobs, raced to a new stakes record and came within two-fifths of a second of the track mark in winning the eighth renewal of the R ner Handicap before 37,802 at the Jamaica race track today.

Rolling into high at the top of the stretch, promised land hung out a 1:55.3 clocking for the 1 3-16 miles on a muddy track. This supplanted the old stakes mark 1:55.4,, set by Apheim stable's Quiet step in 1952 and approached Lucky Draw's 1:55.1, established on July 13, 1946.

Promised land was ridden by jockey Ismael Valenzuela, the hottest jockey on the New York wheel and the Jacobs steed led by three lengths at the wire.

The second choice in the wagering, Promised Land paid $7.20, $2.90 and $2.40. The favored Vertex, from the stable of Frank A. Piarulli, paid $2.70 and $2.50 while Bohemia stable's Ambehaving was $3.70 to show.

SPIKED AT 47

Irish Spoil Sooners, 7-0

By CARTER BRADLEY

NORMAN, Okla., Nov. 16 (UP)—Notre Dame shattered football's longest winning streak of 47 games today with a brilliant fourth period scoring drive in 20 plays that defeated Oklahoma, 7-0, before 62,000 and a nationwide television audience.

Out-fought through the first and third quarters but never giving much ground to Oklahoma, which had scored in 123 straight games before today, the fighting Irish put together their second big upset of the year with a cool demonstration of power in all departments.

Right halfback Dick Lynch scored the touchdown on a fourth-down play from the three-yard line. Taking a high pitchout, he swerved around right end to score standing up, and Monty Stickle's conversion was good.

Lynch had scored two first downs in the thrust which also featured five bruising line rushes by Notre Dame fullback Nick Pietrosante good for 35 yards.

Notre Dame outplayed the No. 2 rated Sooners when it counted most, gaining 168 yards rushing to 98 for the losers.

The outcome was a stunning blow to Oklahomans, who were celebrating the state's 50th anniversary of statehood today and had come to the game confident the Sooners would win by the three touchdowns the odds-makers had given them.

Notre Dame had the distinction of having been the last team to defeat Oklahoma before today. The previous victory went to the Irish in the firs' game of the 1953 season, and last year Oklahoma plastered a 40-0 defeat on them at South Bend, Ind.

The Irish, losers only a week ago by a humilating 34-6 to Michigan State, provided gridiron fans everywhere with further clues as to Oklahoma's relative strength—often questioned because of the Sooners limited and reputedly weak schedule.

Oklahoma remained the 10th annual champion in the Big Eight Conference, however, and is scheduled to play in the Orange Bowl Jan. 1.

Notre Dame found Oklahoma's pass defense weak, with quarterback Bob Williams completing eight of 19 for a total of 70 yards. The Irish gained 79 net yards in the air to 47 for Oklahoma.

A jump pass from Williams to end Richard Royer gave the Irish a first down at the Oklahoma 17 in the winning offensive.

The teams had played almost evenly in the first half and in the third period Oklahoma kept Notre Dame in its own territory. Four deadeye punts, two by halfback Clendon Thomas and two by quarterback David Baker, made it look bad for Notre Dame in the period.

But Thomas, Oklahoma's leading scorer with 42 points and 543 yards rushing until today, found the Irish ready and waiting.

Notre Dame came close to scoring in the second period. A fumble by quarterback Carl Dodd was recovered by Pietrosante at the Oklahoma 49. In 10 plays, including three completions in five pass attempts by Williams good for a total of 38 yards, Notre Dame landed with the ball on the one-yard marker, but at that point, Pietrosante and halfbacks Jim Just and Bob Reynolds were frustrated in three plunges.

Another Notre Dame push carried within five yards of success before halftime. It was cut off when Baker intercepted a Reynolds pass intended for Stickles in the end zone, giving Oklahoma a first down on its 20.

The standing-room only crowd represented the turnout for the climactic event of Oklahoma's State semi-centennial celebration. The Sooner had gone into the game as favorites after rising from squeaky victories over Colorado and Kansas to thrash Missouri 39-14 last week.

But the day before the Missouri game, university President George Cross had said it would probably be a good thing for Oklahoma to be beaten.

The Irish did him the favor, making 17 first downs to 9 for the Sooners and rushing an average of 2.6 yards per play.

Score by periods:

Oklahoma	0	0	0	0	—0
Norte Dame	0	0	0	7	—7

Notre Dame scoring: Touchdown, Lynch (3, run). Conversion, Stickles.

Long-Needed 'Shot In Arm' Spurs U.S. Business Scene

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—Business got a potent shot in the arm this week. It came at a time when, many said, a hypo was badly needed.

With the blessing of Washington's top monetary authorities, four of the nation's Federal Reserve banks cut their discount rates from 3½ to 3 per cent. This is the interest they charge on loans to commercial banks. It was considered a safe bet that the eight other Reserve banks would take similar action.

The tonic effects were expected to spread through the economy, bringing warmth to spots pinched by tight credit or numbed by sluggish sales.

If things worked out as planned, banks, finance companies and insurance firms would soon have more money to lend to businessmen, home purchasers and instalment buyers. Eventually you should find it easier and cheaper to get a loan.

Wall Street Waiting

The Federal Reserve's action, announced late Thursday, was just what Wall Street had been waiting for. The stock market came to life with a bang. Based on a $4 climb in The Associated Press 60-stock average, Friday's rally boosted the total market value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange by nearly 5 billion dollars.

Merchants and manufacturers also had cause for optimism—not to mention executives of airlines, railroads and resort hotels and builders of boats and houses.

Theory behind the switch to easier money was this: when credit is easy to come by, people loosen up. They're more willing to go into hock for appliances, furniture, college expenses, vacation trips, homes and autos.

This gives business a lift. Sales spurt, production zooms, there are more people in more jobs at higher wages. Business prospects look wonderful. Symptoms of inflationary fever may pop up but nobody seems to care. Stock prices surge upward. A boom psychology takes over.

Opposite Direction

For the past two years, Federal Reserve Authorities had been pushing the economy in just the opposite direction. They had been saying that the boom was running away with itself, heading for an inflationary blowup. So they checked the boom by holding a tight rein on credit.

As Wall Street and Main Street saw it this week, the reduction in the discount rate signaled a sudden about-face. From now on, the Federal Reserve would give the boom a little push from time to time and try to get it rolling faster.

In many lines of business there had been ample evidence that just such a change was overdue.

The stock market had been in the doldrums for months. Not even President Eisenhower's promise of a "very considerable" increase in defense spending could drive the Wall Street bears to cover.

Hand To Mouth

On the industrial front, manufacturers of everything from toothpicks to textiles were buying on a hand-to-mouth basis, waiting for prices to go down. Inventories piled up while backlogs shrank.

Steel output this week, at 77.5 per cent of capacity, was the lowest since August 1956 when the industry was just getting over a strike.

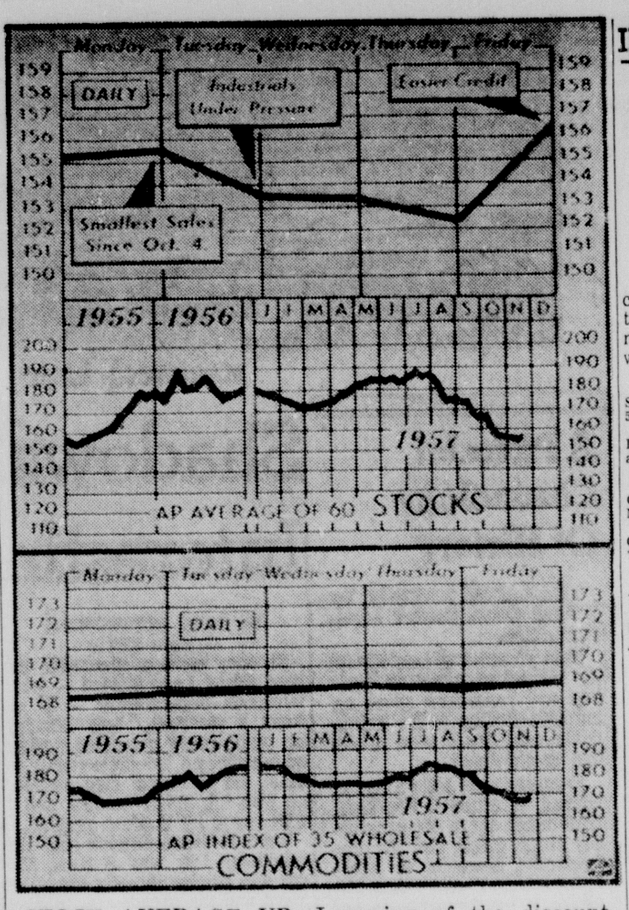

Railroads were struggling to break even. Freight carloadings showed the widest drop for any week this year. Citing "enormous deficits," the Baltimore & Ohio asked for permission to abandon its New York-to-Baltimore passenger service.

Sales of home appliances and TV sets lagged; Whirlpool Corp., one of the nation's largest manufacturers of automatic washing machines, laid off 600 employes because "the projected fall upturn has failed to materialize."

All was not gloom, however. Housing starts took an upward tack last month. Retail merchants said shoppers were spending freely—particularly on furniture, rugs and winter coats.

Auto production moved into high gear. Output was expected to top 143,500 cars this week for a new 1957 record; Chevrolet alone planned to turn out 40,000. There was no way of knowing, of course, whether sales would match production.

One thing was sure, though. As a psychological booster, the Federal Reserve's switch to easier money could hardly have come at a more appropriate time.

STOCK AVERAGE UP—Lowering of the discount rate by the Federal Reserve Board pushed stocks sharply higher and caused The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week to close at 156.3 from 155.2 a week ago. The commodity index advanced for the first time in four weeks when it closed Friday at 169.0 from 168.5 in the preceding period. Grains were prominent on the upside. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

AMONG BIG-THREE

'58 Tough Year In Auto Competition

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT, Nov. 16 (AP)—The auto industry has just begun a new model year that holds some far-reaching potentialities.

Competition among General Motors, Ford and Chrysler will be the toughest in their history; it could have a major bearing on the future of the smaller companies, like American Motors and Studebaker-Packard.

The year will determine, too—

Can Chrysler maintain its almost fantastic comeback? If so, at whose expense will it increase its market penetration?

Can Chevrolet, with a wholly new model car, attract more buyers than Ford, with broadly redesigned models that were wholly new a year ago and won top sales ranking?

Affects Foreign Autos

Will the increased interest of American car makers in the smaller, lower priced car market, cut into the sales volume of foreign car makers?

Will Ford's new Edsel line win the place its sponsors expect for it in the medium price field?

Will the restyling of Buick and Oldsmobile models regain for them the sales volume they lost in 1957?

It has become something of a tradition in the auto industry that when the larger companies intensify their competitive drives somebody gets hurt—usually the smaller companies. The smaller concerns, now represented by American Motors (formerly Nash & Hudson) and Studebaker-Packard, have been hurt consistently since government production controls were removed prior to the mergers that created AMC and S-P.

About 10 Per Cent

Historically, the smaller car companies accounted for about 10 per cent of the industry's annual output. That was their allotment under government controls. Since their formation a little more than three years ago AMC and S-P have had a struggle to claim three per cent.

Chrysler and Ford sharply advanced their penetration of the car market in the 1957 model year. They did it at the expense of General Motors and—in lesser degree—of the smaller concerns.

Productionwise General Motors accounted for 45 per cent of the industry's over-all volume in this year's first nine months. During the same 1956 period its share was 55.20 per cent. Ford moved up to 31.72 per cent from last year's 27.12 and Chrysler up to 20.62 from 17.28 in the like 1956 period.

With two wholly new lines in Chevrolet and Pontiac, and broadly restyled Buicks and Oldsmobiles, GM has improved its competitive position. But several months will be required to determine whether it can take any volume from Ford and Chrysler.

Chrysler Popular

Industry experts say the popularity of Chrysler styling, emphasizing the dart and fin motif, showed no lessening at the end of the 1957 model year. Some also said styling changes for 1958, while not as broad as those of its competitors, did enhance eye-appeal.

Many industry experts have said Chevrolet's styling appeal has been sharply enhanced for 1958. What the over-all changes cost has not been disclosed. Some guesses put the figure at around 400 million dollars.

Ford, meanwhile, reported a 185 million dollar outlay to redesign its Ford line for 1958. It also made broad changes designed to further increase styling and engineering appeal.

At the end of the first nine months of 1957 Ford division was accounting for 25.35 per cent of the industry's output while Chevrolet had 24.05 per cent. A year ago Ford division's share was 21.83 per cent and Chevrolet's 28.17.

The small car market, currently dominated by foreign makes, could change materially in 1958. General Motors' Vauxhall and Opel units and Ford's British-built smaller vehicles could change the pattern. Also contending will be American Motors' revived smaller wheelbase Rambler and Studebaker-Packard's economy Scotsman line.

Ford's Edsel series was brought out at an announced cost of a quarter of a billion dollars. The car was introduced as a 1958 model weeks ahead of other 1958 units. It ran head-on into industrywide price-cutting by retailers liquidating a heavy inventory of outgoing 1957 cars.

The Edsel's place in the industry will be established after a couple of months of direct competition with 1958 Pontiacs, Buicks, De Sotos, Dodges and Chrysler Windsors.

Cotton Future Prices Climb In Good Rise

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—Cotton futures prices advanced on a broad front this week with the nearer months making the best showing.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange scored net gains ranging from $1.95 to $5.25 a bale.

Buying was encouraged by a combination of factors. As usual, unfavorable weather reports from the belt contributed to bullish sentiment. Also tending to bolster values were fears that the supply of better quality cotton might be somewhat on the tight side, and that Congress may be asked to approve higher payments to farmers who restrict their plantings under the soil bank program.

Traders took in stride an announcement by the U. S. Department of Agriculture that the Commody Credit Corp. is now receiving offers for 1956 crop cotton for sale to the trade. Many in the trade expressed doubt that the CCC would have enough white cotton to satisfy demand.

Offerings were furnished through hedge selling, scattered liquidation and profit-taking.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 82,000 bales vs 61,000 the previous week and 148,000 in the like week last year.

Total exports for the current season through Nov. 12 were estimated at 1,367,000 bales. It is compares with exports of 1,770,000 bales at approximately the same time last year.

BACK MARKET

KATMANDU, Nov. 14 (AP)—Gasoline smuggled from Nepal into Red-held Tibet brings $8.40 (equivalent) per gallon and trade is reported brisk despite a ban imposed here two months ago. The government now is warning Nepalese that anyone caught smuggling gas northward may be fined $420 or get three years in prison.

AFTER BANK MOVE

Downward Trend Of Stocks Reversed

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board's surprise action in lowering the discount rate rescued the stock market from another weekly decline this week and pushed it to the upside.

The credit easing move was what the Wall Street community had been praying for, but rather hopelessly in view of the tone of recent statements by federal money authorities.

News that the discount rate had been lowered to 3 per cent from 3½ per cent in four districts came after the New York market close on Thursday. That day, stocks took a medium-sized beating despite the fact that President Eisenhower had made a speech the night before proposing more defense spending.

Other business news was not regarded as encouraging. Among the reports that day was one on rail carloadings which told of the sharpest drop for any nonholiday week in 1957. This dragged The Associated Press average of rails stocks to its third straight low for the year in as many market sessions.

At the close of the market on Thursday, prices were substantially lower than at the end of the preceding week. Then came the news of the Reserve Board's action. The Pacific Coast Exchange was still open and prices responded with a brisk advance.

It was in the cards that the same trend would prevail next morning on the "Big Board" in New York and it did so, with emphasis.

The Friday market was a vigorous one. Prices made their best advance since the historic rebound of last Oct. 23 which was the best one-day jump in 28 years. Skipping that one in a backward look, however, the Friday rally was the best since March 15, 1933, when security exchanges reopened after the "bank holiday" at the start of Franklin D. Roosevelt's administration.

The broad Friday advance made it possible for the AP average of 60 stocks to close the week with a gain of $1.10 to $156.30.

All segments of the bond market surged up this week in the wake of the Federal Reserve Board's decision to ease its "tight money" policy.

U.S. Government bonds posted gains at one time Friday up to 1¾ points but closed somewhat lower.

WHO GETS LOANS?

Scarcity Of Money Tightens Standards

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (UP)—The scarcity of mortage money is not only pushing up interest rates but also lenders' notions of who is credit-worthy.

With the demand for loanable funds outrunning supply in most parts of the country, lenders are tightening up their standards of what makes a satisfactory credit rating.

Instead of permitting interest rates to go up and up, thereby forcing weaker borrowers to abandon financing plans, bankers and other mortgagees are rationing the limited supply of money through greater selectivity. The net result, of course, if substantially the same. Some demand for mortgage money goes unsatisfied.

Lenders More Selective

A survey by the National Association of Real Estate Boards testifies both to stronger lender selectivity and some upward creep in the last six months of interest rates. While the survey covered only business properties, officials point out that the pattern is similar to that for the residential market.

"Applications for mortgage loans on all types of business properties," a report on the survey says, "are being scrutinized more carefully with additional attention devoted to the financial stability of the enterprise, its size, earnings and length of continuity earnings."

This is true, the report points out, for commercial buildings in prime locations leased to firms with national credit standing as well as for buildings with local leases or owner-occupants.

The survey covered members of the Association in 125 cities throughout the country. Their replies indicated that loans for business property in secondary locations were either "not obtainable in some communities on any terms" or "more costly" than loans on prime locations.

Overall View Given

In broad terms, the mortgage picture looked like this, according to the survey report:

—National credit leases, prime location: Most borrowers paying 5½ to 5¾ per cent; some "market construction" but generally a credit supply in excess of that available to other business borrowers.

—Local leases, prime location: a charge of 6 per cent reported for 52 per cent of the country (39 per cent in March); money supply "ample" or "moderate" for 58 per cent of the communities.

—Owner-occupied, prime location: 40 per cent of respondents reported 6 per cent charges with little change in loan funds availability since last March (Described as "tight" by 43 per cent or respondents).

—Local leases and owner-occupied, secondary location, mortgage money "not obtainable" in some places; 6 per cent and higher the prevailing rates.

—National credit leases, secondary location: a large proportion than in March reported 6 per cent rates; a limited number of mortgages accepted in this category.

CANCELS PERMIT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Communications Commission today canceled a 954 grant to Carroll F. Jackson and D. N. Jackson, doing business as American Southern Broadcasters, for a new 1430 kilocycle, daytime radio station at Laurel, Miss.

The grant, made without hearing, was stayed after protests by Laurel stations WLAU and WAML. The commission said that in the resulting hearing, American Southern failed to establish its financial qualifications to build and operate the station as proposed.

Grain Futures In Downturn

CHICAGO, Nov. 16 (AP) — Grain and soybean futures lost ground this week with soybeans leading the downturn and corn declining to new lows for the season on two consecutive days on the Board of Trade.

At the close of tradin, Friday wheat was 1¼ to 1¾ lower, corn ¼ to 1⅜ down, oats were unchanged to 1 cent off, rye was 1 to 1¼ lower, soybeans were off 2⅛ to 3⅜ cents and lard losses ranged from 40 to 43 cents a hundred pounds.

OIL INDUSTRY

Progress Reported On Import Cutback

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—Progress was reported this week in the government's program for voluntary cutbacks in foreign oil imports but one refiner said imports have become a grim matter of survival.

Capt. M. V. Carson Jr., administrator of the voluntary plan, said the challenge posed by the program has been met for the most part by the oil industry.

Carson told the 37th annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute in Chicago failure of the program would lead to mandatory controls. He said, however, that importers so far unwilling or unable to adhere strictly to the plan constitute a "small, lonely minority."

Meanwhile, in Dallas, Ted Stauffer, director of foreign operations for Sun Oil Co., said Eastern refiners have not been using foreign oil as a simple means of broadening profit margins.

Stauffer said a fierce competitive situation forced Sun three years ago to abandon a general policy of acquiring its crude oil almost wholly from domestic producers.

Carson identified Sun, Eastern States Petroleum and Chemical Corp., and Tidewater Oil Co. as the three importers which as yet have not accepted the voluntary program.

Speaking before the annual meeting of the Society of Exploratory Geophysicists, Stauffer said a progressive increase in the use of foreign crude resulted from the fact that imports can be delivered to Eastern refineries at a lower cost than domestic oil.

"The eastern Seaboard refiner who did not resort in good part, at least, to the lower cost foreign oil found himself at a serious competitive disadvantage," he said.

Stauffer said Sun's 160,000 barrels a day refinery at Marcus Hook, Pa., could not have me this competition and survived without foreign oil.

Carson said the oil industry can have a strong measure of insurance against governmental controls only so long as the voluntary method is successful.

Carson said the degree of noncompliance varies widely among Sun, Eastern States, and Tidewater. He said reasons given range from contractual obligations to company policy to financial considerations.

He said the three companies in September exceeded their suggested allocations by 38,000 barrels a day. Current estimates, he said, indicate an excess of 46,000 for October, 34,000 in November, 46,000 in December, and 38,000 in Jauary and February.

Stauffer said foreign oil accounted for only 9.9 per cent of total refinery runs at Marcus Hook in 1954 compared to 78 per cent for other Delaware Valley refiners and 64 per cent for the East Coast as a whole.

"Even today Marcus Hook runs of foreign crude are only 34.1 per cent of total runs compared with an average of 69.5 per cent for competitive Delaware Valley refiners," he said.

Mississippi Hunts Deeper-Level Wells

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 16 (AP) — Mississippi exploration for oil and gas continues a trend toward deeper drilling.

Oil men said today three wildcat tests were scheduled for below 14,000 feet and a field well for 17,500 feet.

The three wildcats are:

In northeastern Ranikn County, Carter Oil Co. was coring below 14,000 feet in the Smackover lime in the Heny Kersh No. 1 venture.

In Greene County, Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. was below 14,500 feet in the Robinson Land and Lumber No. 1 well 14 miles northwest of Leakesville. Abandoning operations had begun at 13,609 feet but operators decided to resume drilling.

In Lawrence County, Humble Oil and Refining Co. was below 14,300 feet in the Sistrunk No. 1 well south of Monticello.

In the Soso field of Jasper County, Gulf Oil Corp. was below 12,500 feet in the Unit No. 1 scheduled to be drilled to 17,500 feet. The well seeks deeper oil sands than the 12,000-foot producing zone of the field.

Other activity includes:

California Co. is clearing location for a 16,200-foot test in the Mallalieu field of Lincoln County. The test is the board of Supervisors No. 1-E.

In Perry County, California Co. was below 7,600 feet in the wildcat V.R. Walley No. 1. Contract depth is 14,000 feet.

Love Petroleum Co. was preparing drilling operations in its Hinds County wildcat Jackson Ready-Mis-Bell-Anding No. 1 just north of the Jackson city limits. Contract depth is 5,000 feet.

Near Martinville in Simpson County, three drilling operations are under way.

Gulf Oil Corp. is below 12,900 feet in the Sullivan No. 2; Carter Oil Co. is below 11,500 feet in the Jennings No. 2; and Central and Southern States are below 11,300 feet in the John D. Smith No. 1.

Central has also locations staked for Sullivan No. 2 and unit No. 22-9.

All ventures in the field are scheduled to be drilled below 13,000 feet.

In Smith County's Raleigh field, California Co. was running production tests in the Homer Currie No. 3 Seven-inch casing was set at 12,390 feet.

California also is below 1,800 feet in the Central Oil No. 5-1 in the Raleigh field.

In Hinds County's Bolton field, Weston Drilling Co. was testing its Roberts-Ross Mashburn unit No. 1.

Operators are testing a sand at 11,440-56 feet.

Also in the Bolton field, Weston is drilling below 9,000 feet in the Mashburn No. 3-A. Contract dept. is 11,900 feet.

OVER LAST YEAR

Petroleum Stocks Up 'Considerably'

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—Stocks of petroleum products are considerably higher than a year ago but the government's oil and gas division does not view them as alarming high in relation to present requirements.

"They should not have any adverse affect on the oil industry," an official said.

But this official, who declined to be quoted by name, added that estimates indicate the domestic demand for all petroleum products next year may slack off a bit from the annual rate of increase in recent years. These estimates, he said, range from a 2 to 3½ per cent increase in 1958 as against any average annual increase of 5 per cent for several years.

Gasoline stocks on the East Coast are figured to be up about two million barrels, or five per cent, over a year ago.

On the West Coast gasoline stocks are estimated at three to four million barrels higher than a year ago and fuel oils about three million barrels higher. On the Gulf Coast, gasoline stocks are reported at about the same level as this time last year, heating oils five million barrels higher and heavy fuels less than one million higher.

The government's program for voluntary curtailment of oil imports meanwhile has narrowed the number of holdout companies to three, this official reported. He did not name them, but Navy Capt. M. V. Carson Jr., administrator of the program, told the American Petroleum Institute in Chicago this week that Eastern States Petroleum & Chemical Corp., Sun Oil Co. and Tidewater Oil Co. had exceeded their suggested import quotas for September.

Hope is held in the Oil and Gas Division that the non-complying companies will reduce their imports to the recommended levels even though they do not agree to the voluntary program because of views as to its legality.

NO COMMENT
By JAMES W. DOUTHAT

WASHINGTON (Special) — Many members of Congress were astounded at the statement by Secretary of Labor Mitchell that the Eisenhower Administration is opposed to enactment of a federal law prohibiting compulsory union membership.

It had been the understanding among informed members of Congress that the Administration was planning to follow a policy of neutrality on this issue and not try to influence Congress one way or another.

The consensus in Washington was that Secretary Mitchell was trying, on his own initiative, to put the Administration on record in opposition to a national right-to-work law which would prohibit compulsory unionism.

Once before — in 1954 — Mr. Mitchell created a sensation by assailing state right-to-work laws — and was promptly rebuffed by the White House. He asserted that state right-to-work laws (18 states now have such laws) do more harm than good. President Eisenhower quickly let it be known that the Secretary of Labor was speaking for himself and not for the White House.

Since then, at every opportunity, Mr. Mitchell has continued to condemn state right-to-work laws —despite the firm conviction of many leading fellow-Republicans that it is un-American to require union membership as a condition of employment.

Secretary Mitchell made another significant statement during the recent press conference at which he said the Administration —and he personally — opposed a federal right-to-work law.

In addition, he put himself on record publicly in opposition to making unions — like business — subject to the antitrust laws in order to curb their monopolistic power.

Since he has now "jumped the gun" on the other government departments by publicizing his personal views, it is generally assumed that Mr. Mitchell from now on will campaign publicly in behalf of the union bosses on this issue also.

Obviously, there would be some embarrassment to the Administration if the Attorney General and Secretary of Commerce should publicly line up in opposition to the Secretary of Labor — and proclaim their views at every opportunity.

Consideration of right-to-work legislation is certain, however, since Senator Goldwater (R-Ariz.) already has announced that he will introduce a bill to "remove from the federal labor laws all language which permits compulsory unionism." Bills already are pending to apply the antitrust laws to labor unions.

End Unnecessary Government Spending — The recent display of Russia's scientific progress may have provided economy advocates in Congress with the stimulant needed to bring about the elimination of much non-essential government spending.

Long-Needed 'Shot In Arm' Spurs U.S. Business Scene

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—Business got a potent shot in the arm this week. It came at a time when, many said, a hypo was badly needed.

With the blessing of Washington's top monetary authorities, four of the nation's Federal Reserve banks cut their discount rates from 3½ to 3 per cent. This is the interest they charge on loans to commercial banks. It was considered a safe bet that the eight other Reserve banks would take similar action.

The tonic effects were expected to spread through the economy, bringing warmth to spots pinched by tight credit or numbed by sluggish sales.

If things worked out as planned, banks, finance companies and insurance firms would soon have more money to lend to businessmen, home purchasers and instalment buyers. Eventually you should find it easier and cheaper to get a loan.

Wall Street Waiting

The Federal Reserve's action, announced late Thursday, was just what Wall Street had been waiting for. The stock market came to life with a bang. Based on a $4 climb in The Associated Press 60-stock average, Friday's rally boosted the total market value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange by nearly 5 billion dollars.

Merchants and manufacturers also had cause for optimism—not to mention executives of airlines, railroads and resort hotels and builders of boats and houses.

Theory behind the switch to easier money was this: when credit is easy to come by, people loosen up. They're more willing to go into hock for appliances, furniture, college expenses, vacation trips, homes and autos.

This gives business a lift. Sales spurt, production zooms, there are more people in more jobs at higher wages. Business prospects look wonderful. Symptoms of inflationary fever may pop up but nobody seems to care. Stock prices surge upward. A boom psychology takes over.

Opposite Direction

For the past two years, Federal Reserve Authorities had been pushing the economy in just the opposite direction. They had been saying that the boom was running away with itself, heading for an inflationary blowup. So they checked the boom by holding a tight rein on credit.

As Wall Street and Main Street saw it this week, the reduction in the discount rate signaled a sudden about-face. From now on, the Federal Reserve would give the boom a little push from time to time and try to get it rolling faster.

In many lines of business there had been ample evidence that just such a change was overdue.

The stock market had been in the doldrums for months. Not even President Eisenhower's promise of a "very considerable" increase in defense spending could drive the Wall Street bears to cover.

Hand To Mouth

On the industrial front, manufacturers of everything from toothpicks to textiles were buying on a hand-to-mouth basis, waiting for prices to go down. Inventories piled up while backlogs shrank.

Steel output this week, at 77.5 per cent of capacity, was the lowest since August 1956 when the industry was just getting over a strike.

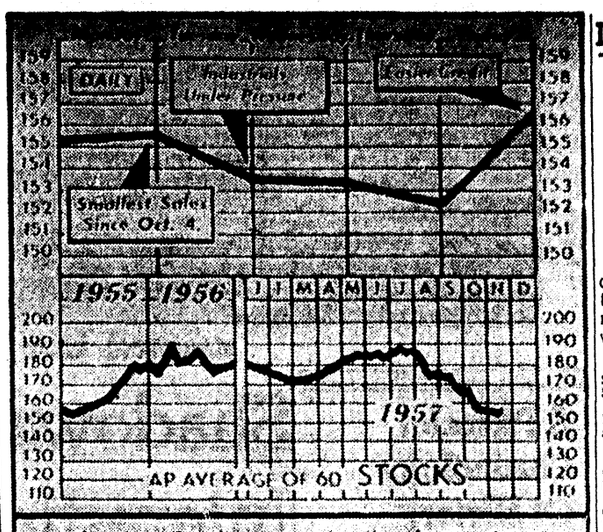

Railroads were struggling to break even. Freight carloadings showed the widest drop for any week this year. Citing "enormous deficits," the Baltimore & Ohio asked for permission to abandon its New York-to-Baltimore passenger service.

Sales of home appliances and TV sets lagged; Whirlpool Corp., one of the nation's largest manufacturers of automatic washing machines, laid off 600 employes because "the projected fall upturn has failed to materialize."

All was not gloom, however. Housing starts took an upward tack last month. Retail merchants said shoppers were spending freely—particularly on furniture, rugs and winter coats.

Auto production moved into high gear. Output was expected to top 143,500 cars this week for a new 1957 record; Chevrolet alone planned to turn out 40,000. There was no way of knowing, of course, whether sales would match production.

One thing was sure, though. As a psychological booster, the Federal Reserve's switch to easier money could hardly have come at a more appropriate time.

STOCK AVERAGE UP—Lowering of the discount rate by the Federal Reserve Board pushed stocks sharply higher and caused The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week to close at 156.3 from 155.2 a week ago. The commodity index advanced for the first time in four weeks when it closed Friday at 169.0 from 168.5 in the preceding period. Grains were prominent on the upside. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

AMONG BIG-THREE

'58 Tough Year In Auto Competition

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT, Nov. 16 (AP)—The auto industry has just begun a new model year that holds some far-reaching potentialities.

Competition among General Motors, Ford and Chrysler will be the toughest in their history; it could have a major bearing on the future of the smaller companies, like American Motors and Studebaker-Packard.

The year will determine, too—

Can Chrysler maintain its almost fantastic comeback? If so, at whose expense will it increase its market penetration?

Can Chevrolet, with a wholly new model car, attract more buyers than Ford, with broadly redesigned models that were wholly new a year ago and won top sales ranking?

Affects Foreign Autos

Will the increased interest of American car makers in the smaller, lower priced car market, cut into the sales volume of foreign car makers?

Will Ford's new Edsel line win the place its sponsors expect for it in the medium price field?

Will the restyling of Buick and Oldsmobile models regain for them the sales volume they lost in 1957?

It has become something of a tradition in the auto industry that when the larger companies intensify their competitive drives somebody gets hurt—usually the smaller companies. The smaller concerns, now represented by American Motors (formerly Nash & Hudson) and Studebaker-Packard, have been hurt consistently since government production controls were removed prior to the mergers that created AMC and S-P.

About 10 Per Cent

Historically, the smaller car companies accounted for about 10 per cent of the industry's annual output. That was their allotment under government controls. Since their formation a little more than three years ago AMC and S-P have had a struggle to claim three per cent.

Chrysler and Ford sharply advanced their penetration of the car market in the 1957 model year. They did it at the expense of General Motors and—in lesser degree—of the smaller concerns.

Productionwise General Motors accounted for 45 per cent of the industry's over-all volume in this year's first nine months. During the same 1956 period its share was 55.20 per cent. Ford moved up to 31.72 per cent from last year's 27.12 and Chrysler up to 20.62 from 17.28 in the like 1956 period.

With two wholly new lines in Chevrolet and Pontiac, and broadly restyled Buicks and Oldsmobiles, GM has improved its competitive position. But several months will be required to determine whether it can take any volume from Ford and Chrysler.

Chrysler Popular

Industry experts say the popularity of Chrysler styling, emphasizing the dart and fin motif, showed no lessening at the end of the 1957 model year. Some also said styling changes for 1958, while not as broad as those of its competitors, did enhance eye-appeal.

Many industry experts have said Chevrolet's styling appeal has been sharply enhanced for 1958. What the over-all changes cost has not been disclosed. Some guesses put the figure at around 400 million dollars.

Ford, meanwhile, reported a 185 million dollar outlay to redesign its Ford line for 1958. It also made broad changes designed to further increase styling and engineering appeal.

At the end of the first nine months of 1957 Ford division was accounting for 25.35 per cent of the industry's output while Chevrolet had 24.05 per cent. A year ago Ford division's share was 21.83 per cent and Chevrolet's 28.17.

The small car market, currently dominated by foreign makes, could change materially in 1958. General Motors' Vauxhall and Opel units and Ford's British-built smaller vehicles could change the pattern. Also contending will be American Motors' revived smaller wheelbase Rambler and Studebaker-Packard's economy Scotsman line.

Ford's Edsel series was brought out at an announced cost of a quarter of a billion dollars. The car was introduced as a 1958 model weeks ahead of other 1958 units. It ran head-on into industrywide price-cutting by retailers liquidating a heavy inventory of outgoing 1957 cars.

The Edsel's place in the industry will be established after a couple of months of direct competition with 1958 Pontiacs, Buicks, De Sotos, Dodges and Chrysler Windsors.

Cotton Future Prices Climb In Good Rise

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—Cotton futures prices advanced on a broad front this week with the nearer months making the best showing.

Active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange scored net gains ranging from $1.95 to $5.25 a bale.

Buying was encouraged by a combination of factors. As usual, unfavorable weather reports from the belt contributed to bullish sentiment. Also tending to bolster values were fears that the supply of better quality cotton might be somewhat on the tight side, and that Congress may be asked to approve higher payments to farmers who restrict their plantings under the soil bank program.

Traders took in stride an announcement by the U. S. Department of Agriculture that the Commody Credit Corp. is now receiving offers for 1956 crop cotton for sale to the trade. Many in the trade expressed doubt that the CCC would have enough white cotton to satisfy demand.

Offerings were furnished through hedge selling, scattered liquidation and profit-taking.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau at 82,000 bales vs 61,000 the previous week and 148,000 in the like week last year.

Total exports for the current season through Nov. 12 were estimated at 1,367,000 bales. This compares with exports of 1,770,000 bales at approximately the same time last year.

BACK MARKET

KATMANDU, Nov. 14 (AP)—Gasoline smuggled from Nepal into Red-held Tibet brings $8.40 (equivalent) per gallon and trade is reported brisk despite a ban imposed here two months ago. The government now is warning Nepalese that anyone caught smuggling gas northward may be fined $420 or get three years in prison.

AFTER BANK MOVE

Downward Trend Of Stocks Reversed

NEW YORK, Nov. 16 (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board's surprise action in lowering the discount rate rescued the stock market from another weekly decline this week and pushed it to the upside.

The credit easing move was what the Wall Street community had been praying for, but rather hopelessly in view of the tone of recent statements by federal money authorities.

News that the discount rate had been lowered to 3 per cent from 3½ per cent in four districts came after the New York market close on Thursday. That day, stocks took a medium-sized beating despite the fact that President Eisenhower had made a speech the night before proposing more defense spending.

Other business news was not regarded as encouraging. Among the reports that day was one on rail carloadings which told of the sharpest drop for any nonholiday week in 1957. This dragged The Associated Press average of rails stocks to its third straight low for the year in as many market sessions.

At the close of the market on Thursday, prices were substantially lower than at the end of the preceding week. Then came the news of the Reserve Board's action. The Pacific Coast Exchange was still open and prices responded with a brisk advance.

It was in the cards that the same trend would prevail next morning on the "Big Board" in New York and it did so, with emphasis.

The Friday market was a vigorous one. Prices made their best advance since the historic rebound of last Oct. 23 which was the best one-day jump in 28 years. Skipping that one in a backward look, however, the Friday rally was the best since March 15, 1933, when security exchanges reopened after the "bank holiday" at the start of Franklin D Roosevelt's administration.

The broad Friday advance made it possible for the AP average of 60 stocks to close the week with a gain of $1.10 to $156.30.

All segments of the bond market surged up this week in the wake of the Federal Reserve Board's decision to ease its "tight money" policy.

U.S. Government bonds posted gains at one time Friday up to 1¾ points but closed somewhat lower.

WHO GETS LOANS?

Scarcity Of Money Tightens Standards

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (UP)—The scarcity of mortage money is not only pushing up interest rates but also lenders' notions of who is credit-worthy.

With the demand for loanable funds outrunning supply in most parts of the country, lenders are tightening up their standards of what makes a satisfactory credit rating.

Instead of permitting interest rates to go up and up, thereby forcing weaker borrowers to abandon financing plans, bankers and other mortgagees are rationing the limited supply of money through greater selectivity. The net result, of course, if substantially the same. Some demand for mortgage money goes unsatisfied.

Lenders More Selective

A survey by the National Association of Real Estate Boards testifies both to stronger lender selectivity and some upward creep in the last six months of interest rates. While the survey covered only business properties, officials point out that the pattern is similar to that for the residential market.

"Applications for mortgage loans on all types of business properties," a report on the survey says, "are being scrutinized more carefully with additional attention devoted to the financial stability of the enterprise, its size, earnings and length of continuity earnings."

This is true, the report points out, for commercial buildings in prime locations leased to firms with national credit standing as well as for buildings with local leases or owner-occupants.

The survey covered members of the Association in 125 cities throughout the country. Their replies indicated that loans for business property in secondary locations were either "not obtainable in some communities on any terms" or "more costly" than loans on prime locations.

Overall View Given

In broad terms, the mortgage picture looked like this, according to the survey report:

—National credit leases, prime location: Most borrowers paying 5½ to 5¾ per cent; some "market construction" but generally a credit supply in excess of that available to other business borrowers.

—Local leases, prime location: a charge of 6 per cent reported for 52 per cent of the country (39 per cent in March); money supply "ample" or "moderate" for 58 per cent of the communities.

—Owner-occupied, prime location: 40 per cent of respondents reported 6 per cent charges with little change in loan funds availability since last March (Described as "tight" by 43 per cent or respondents).

—Local leases and owner-occupied, secondary location, mortgage money "not obtainable" in some places; 6 per cent and higher the prevailing rates.

—National credit leases, secondary location: a large proportion than in March reported 6 per cent rates; a limited number of mortgages accepted in this category.

Grain Futures In Downturn

CHICAGO, Nov. 16 (AP) — Grain and soybean futures lost ground this week with soybeans leading the downturn and corn declining to new lows for the season on two consecutive days on the Board of Trade.

At the close of trading Friday wheat was 1¼ to 1¾ lower, corn ¼ to 1⅜ down, oats were unchanged to 1 cent off, rye was 1 to 1¼ lower, soybeans were off 2⅛ to 3⅜ cents and lard losses ranged from 40 to 43 cents a hundred pounds.

CANCELS PERMIT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13 (AP)—The Communications Commission today canceled a 954 grant to Carroll F. Jackson and D. N. Jackson, doing business as American Southern Broadcasters, for a new 1430 kilocycle, daytime radio station at Laurel, Miss.

The grant, made without hearing, was stayed after protests by Laurel stations WLAU and WAML The commission said that in the resulting hearing, American Southern failed to establish its financial qualifications to build and operate the station as proposed.

OIL INDUSTRY

Progress Reported On Import Cutback

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—Progress was reported this week in the government's program for voluntary cutbacks in foreign oil imports but one refiner said imports have become a grim matter of survival.

Capt. M. V. Carson Jr., administrator of the voluntary plan, said the challenge posed by the program has been met for the most part by the oil industry.

Carson told the 37th annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute in Chicago failure of the program would lead to mandatory controls He said, however, that importers so far unwilling or unable to adhere strictly to the plan constitute a "small, lonely minority."

Meanwhile, in Dallas, Ted Stauffer, director of foreign operations for Sun Oil Co., said Eastern refiners have not been using foreign oil as a simple means of broadening profit margins.

Stauffer said a fierce competitive situation forced Sun three years ago to abandon a general policy of acquiring its crude oil almost wholly from domestic producers.

Carson identified Sun, Eastern States Petroleum and Chemical Corp., and Tidewater Oil Co as the three importers which as yet have not accepted the voluntary program.

Speaking before the annual meeting of the Society of Exploratory Geophysicists, Stauffer said a progressive increase in the use of foreign crude resulted from the fact that imports can be delivered to Eastern refineries at a lower cost than domestic oil.

"The eastern Seaboard refiner who did not resort in good part, at least, to the lower cost foreign oil found himself at a serious competitive disadvantage," he said.

Stauffer said Sun's 160,000 barrels a day refinery at Marcus Hook, Pa., could not have me this competition and survived without foreign oil.

Carson said the oil industry can have a strong measure of insurance against governmental controls only so long as the voluntary method is successful.

Carson said the degree of noncompliance varies widely among Sun, Eastern States, and Tidewater. He said reasons given range from contractual obligations to company policy to financial considerations.

He said the three companies in September exceeded their suggested allocations by 38,000 barrels a day. Current estimates, he said, indicate an excess of 46,000 for October, 34,000 in November, 46,000 in December, and 38,000 in Jauary and February.

Stauffer said foreign oil accounted for only 9.9 per cent of total refinery runs at Marcus Hook in 1954 compared to 78 per cent for other Delaware Valley refiners and 64 per cent for the East Coast as a whole.

"Even today Marcus Hook runs of foreign crude are only 34.1 per cent of total runs compared with an average of 69.5 per cent for competitive Delaware Valley refiners," he said.

LATEST TREND

Mississippi Hunts Deeper-Level Wells

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 16 (AP) — Mississippi exploration for oil and gas continues a trend toward deeper drilling.

Oil men said today three wildcat tests were scheduled for below 14,000 feet and a field well for 17,500 feet.

The three wildcats are:

In northeastern Ranikn County, Carter Oil Co was coring below 14,000 feet in the Smackover lime in the Heny Kersh No. 1 venture.

In Greene County, Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. was below 14,500 feet in the Robinson Land and Lumber No. 1 well 14 miles northwest of Leakesville. Abandoning operations had begun at 13,609 feet but operators decided to resume drilling.

In Lawrence County, Humble Oil and Refining Co. was below 14,300 feet in the Sistrunk No. 1 well south of Monticello.

In the Soso field of Jasper County, Gulf Oil Corp. was below 12,500 feet in the Unit No. 1 scheduled to be drilled to 17,500 feet. The well seeks deeper oil sands than the 12,000-foot producing zone of the field.

Other activity includes:

California Co. is clearing location for a 16,200-foot test in the Mallalieu field of Lincoln County The test is the board of Supervisors No. 1-E.

In Perry County, California Co. was below 7,600 feet in the wildcat V.R. Walley No. 1. Contract depth is 14,000 feet.

Love Petroleum Co. was preparing drilling operations in its Hinds County wildcat Jackson Ready-Mis-Bell-Anding No 1 just north of the Jackson city limits Contract depth is 5,000 feet

Near Martinville in Simpson County, three drilling operations are under way.

Gulf Oil Corp. is below 12,900 feet in the Sullivan No 2; Carter Oil Co is below 11,500 feet in the Jennings No 2; and Central and Southern States are below 11,300 feet in the John D. Smith No 1.

Central has also locations staked for Sullivan No 2 and unit No. 22-9.

All ventures in the field are scheduled to be drilled below 13,000 feet.

In Smith County's Raleigh field, California Co. was running production tests in the Homer Currie No 3 Seven-inch casing was set at 12,390 feet.

California also is below 1,800 feet in the Central Oil No 5-1 in the Raleigh field.

In Hinds County's Bolton field, Weston Drilling Co. was testing its Roberts-Ross Mashburn unit No. 1.

Operators are testing a sand at 11,440-56 feet.

Also in the Bolton field, Weston is drilling below 9,000 feet in the Mashburn No 3-A Contract dept. is 11,900 feet.

OVER LAST YEAR

Petroleum Stocks Up 'Considerably'

By CHARLES HASLET

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—Stocks of petroleum products are considerably higher than a year ago but the government's oil and gas division does not view them as alarming high in relation to present requirements.

"They should not have any adverse affect on the oil industry," an official said.

But this official, who declined to be quoted by name, added that estimates indicate the domestic demand for all petroleum products next year may slack off a bit from the annual rate of increase in recent years. These estimates, he said, range from a 2 to 3½ per cent increase in 1958 as against any average annual increase of 5 per cent for several years.

Gasoline stocks on the East Coast are figured to be up about two million barrels, or five per cent, over a year ago.

On the West Coast gasoline stocks are estimated at three to four million barrels higher than a year ago and fuel oils about three million barrels higher On the Gulf Coast, gasoline stocks are reported at about the same level as this time last year, heating oils five million barrels higher and heavy fuels less than one million higher.

The government's program for voluntary curtailmen. of oil imports meanwhile has narrowed the number of holdout companies to three, this official reported. He did not name them, but Navy Capt. M. V. Carson Jr., administrator of the program, told the American Petroleum Institute in Chicago this week that Eastern States Petroleum & Chemical Corp., Sun Oil Co and Tidewater Oil Co. had exceeded their suggested import quotas for September.

Hope is held in the Oil and Gas Division that the non-complying companies will reduce their imports to the recommended levels even though they do not agree to the voluntary program because of views as to its legality.

NO COMMENT
By JAMES W. DOUTHAT

WASHINGTON (Special) — Many members of Congress were astounded at the statement by Secretary of Labor Mitchell that the Eisenhower Administration is opposed to enactment of a federal law prohibiting compulsory union membership.

It had been the understanding among informed members of Congress that the Administration was planning to follow a policy of neutrality on this issue and not try to influence Congress one way or another.

The consensus in Washington was that Secretary Mitchell was trying, on his own initiative, to put the Administration on record in opposition to a national right-to-work law which would prohibit compulsory unionism.

Once before — in 1954 — Mr. Mitchell created a sensation by assailing state right-to-work laws — and was promptly rebuffed by the White House. He asserted that state right-to-work laws (18 states now have such laws) do more harm than good. President Eisenhower quickly let it be known that the Secretary of Labor was speaking for himself and not for the White House.

Since then, at every opportunity, Mr. Mitchell has continued to condemn state right-to-work laws —despite the firm conviction of many leading fellow-Republicans that it is un-American to require union membership as a condition of employment.

Secretary Mitchell made another significant statement during the recent press conference at which he said the Administration —and he personally — opposed a federal right-to-work law.

In addition, he put himself on record publicly in opposition to making unions — like business — subject to the antitrust laws in order to curb their monopolistic power.

Since he has now "jumped the gun" on the other government departments by publicizing his personal views, it is generally assumed that Mr. Mitchell from now on will campaign publicly in behalf of the union bosses on this issue also.

Obviously, there would be some embarrassment to the Administration if the Attorney General and Secretary of Commerce should publicly line up in opposition to the Secretary of Labor — and proclaim their views at every opportunity.

Consideration of right-to-work legislation is certain, however, since Senator Goldwater (R-Ariz.) already has announced that he will introduce a bill to "remove from the federal labor laws all language which permits compulsory unionism." Bills already are pending to apply the antitrust laws to labor unions.

End Unnecessary Government Spending — The recent display of Russia's scientific progress may have provided economy advocates in Congress with the stimulant needed to bring about the elimination of much non-essential government spending.

BOOK BRIEF'S

A DEATH IN THE FAMILY, a brilliant new novel and his last one by James Agee, was published this month by McDowell, Obolensky, Inc. The story concerns Jay and Mary Follet and their two children, and the impact of the death of the young father upon those who loved him. It is also an extremely honest and disarming evocation of childhood.

Random House has the Jackie Robinson life story in the works and the book is expected to be ready for publication next year. Robinson is assisted in the work by Carl Rowan, another Negro.

Since the publication of "I Can Get It For You Wholesale" in 1937, Jerome Weidman has authored 15 books. His 16th work — THE ENEMY CAMP — is to be published next spring by Random House.

Out November 19th from Random House was B. A. Botkin's A TREASURY OF AMERICN ANECDOTES. Botkin's latest volume covers two centuries of the wit, wisdom and humor of American storytelling.

ANATOMY OF A MURDER by Robert Traver and to be published by St. Martin's Press, Inc., in 1958, will be a Book-Of-The-Month Club choice for January. The book deals with the consequences of a capital crime in Northern Michigan.

CONFEDERATE READER

Story Of Civil War Told By Southerners

THE CONFEDERATE READER Edited By Richard B. Harwell (Longmans, $7.50). As the South Saw the War.

Here, in their own words, is the Civil War as the Confederates wrote it down at the time it was happening. The Confederate Reader is the story of the Confederacy as the Southern soldiers and civilians (and a few foreign sympathizers with the Confederates) went through the searing events of the war.

Arranged chronologically, The Confederate Reader touches on all aspects of Confederate life. There is a generous sampling of battle reports and general orders and extensive excerpts from a variety of sources — Confederate sermons, songs, humorous sketches, novels, prison narratives, and travel observations.

These are the writings printed in the South during the war, as important to the reader as the treasured guns of Confederates and Federals are to the student of ordnance. Ink and paper survive with a peculiar freshness, and the words of the Confederates recreate their own era with an immediacy and truth that bring new understanding of the period.

As the centenary of the Civil War draws near, Harwell makes a distinct contribution to our literature about this great conflict, the war that is still everybody's war. Here is the Confederate side of the Civil War — as alive as if it were taking place today, as vital as today's news.

Harwell edited Destruction and Reconstruction by General Dick Taylor, a recent successful publication and a selection of the History Book Club. Harwell has been Director of Publications of the Virginia State Library and now lives in Chicago. He is Executive Secretary of the Association of College and Research Libraries, a division of the American Library Association.

MARCHING FEET

A Pictorial Chronology Of History

THE LAUGH MAKERS. By William Cahn. Coward - McCann. $5.95.

This pictorial chronology of the history of American comedy and comedians gives an intimate closeup of the individuals who made and make this nation laugh.

From the time actor Thomas Wignell entertained President Washington up to the present-day stage, movie and TV professionals, there is an interesting array of more than 200 photos of the funnymen in action.

Two of America's famous clowns who performed for Civil War troops were Dan Rice and George Fox. Billed as the first white-faced clowns, their routines were not too different from that of Emmett Kelly, the present - day hobo pantomime master.

One of the first comediennes on state was May Irwin, known as 'Madme Laughter.' She had few rivals in the legitimate theater around 1880. However, her counterpart is seen today in the lively antics of Imogene Coca.

Cahn's book brings out Harold Lloyd as the only comedian to rival Charlie Chaplin as a film attraction, Pictures of this era extend from the humor of the Keystone Cops to Walt Disney's first Mickey Mouse.

Hundreds of names and photographs flow through the book—George M. Cohan, Weber and Fields, Eddie Foy. It is a thorough collection to bring back fond memories of those who remember the mirth makers of old. And for those whose memory doesn't precede Jack Benny's first radio days, this informative book means a few hours interestingly spent.

By JOHN OLDENBURG
Camera Editor

Shooting pictures along side my good friend Leon Noland — local television photographer — is always a pleasure. Last Monday we again found ourselves stationed together on the same corner to shoot the Veterans' Day parade; he with his movie camera and I with my 4 by 5 press graphic.

We both faced difficult shooting conditions. It was 3 p.m., the sun was shining directly down DeSiard and the parade was moving from South Grand down DeSiard so to shoot the parade, we had to face the sun. Perhaps that was why we met at the corner of St. John and DeSiard in the shadow of the Ouachita Bank building to try to avoid the direct sunlight. Leon's problems were greater than mine as he had to expose for the shadowed faces, etc. where I could expose fairly normal as I was using fill-in electronic flash.

The marching feet of the Ouachita parish Lionettes were shot at F-11, at 100 shutter speed to partially stop the action, the long shadows caused by the sunlight cause a very interesting effect. By the way, the incentive to shoot this type of picture came when I obsedved Leon making a low angle shot with his movie camera and muttering to himself "marching feet." Thanks, Leon.

Incidentally, camera club fans, next Tuesday is the meeting night at Daly's Studio on Grammont street at 7:30 p.m. The program is being furnished by Eastman Kodak Company. Anyone interested in any phase of photography is more than welcomed to visit or become a member.

STONES AND SAINTS

Keyes' Latest Work Her Most Enjoyable

THE LAND OF STONES AND SAINTS By Frances Parkinson Keyes (Doubleday, $4.95). This is the story of a place and a period told in the terms of human lives.

The place is Avila, a province of Old Castile, so rocky and barren as to its soil, yet so productive as to its spiritual forces, that the Spaniards call it Tierra de Cantos by Santos — the Land of Stones and Saints.

The period, an era of superb pageantry and surging power, covers part of the fifteenth, all of the sixteenth and part of the seventeenth century.

The human lives which give glory to both place and period are those of the Princess Isabella, later wife of Ferdinand of Aragon, Queen of Spain and benefactress of Columbus; St. Teresa of Avila and St. John of the Cross, long hailed as two of the greatest mystics the world has ever known; Maria Vela, another mystic, whose remarkable autobiography has been secreted in convent archives for three hundred and fifty years and is only now being brought to light; Pedro Bautista, who was a missionary to the Philippines and Ambassador of Spain to Japan; and a host of other personages, more briefly seen, but whose lives complement these.

Miss Keyes, noted author of well-known biographies of St. Therese of Lisieux and Bernadette of Lourdes, now illumines Avila and the famous personages who lived there during the colorful period of the Renaissance in a superbly written book that glows with clarity and vitality.

Death Of A Postman Tense And Exciting

DEATH OF A POSTMAN By John Creasey (Harper, $2.95). An intense biting story of Scotland Yard at its best — at a time of the year we all know best — Christmas.

The house affected by the murder was decorated for Christmas and when Inspector West pulled up before the door to bring the bad news, he could hear a child singing.

"Bryant had five children," West said. "They'll be expecting their father any minute now."

But the news West had to bring to Bryant's wife was that she was Bryant's widow — her husband had been attacked on his way home from the Post Office. "He died very quickly," West reported.

The Post Office killing came during the Christmas rush, and though the police found the murder hammer, and a witness had seen a man running from the scene of the crime, motive and clues were hard to find.

Then, another man was killed.

Grimly, Inspector West, in the midst of the Christmas holiday festivities, put the Yard's resources to work — and uncovered a thoroughly planned crime wave.

Englishman With More Criticism

RELIGION AND THE REBEL. By Colin Wilson. Houghton Mifflin. $4.

Once again this young Englishman, who seemed to me so arrogant in his first book, the widely read and popular "The Outsider," tells what's wrong with us, with our creative spirits and with the world we live in.

This is, he says in effect, what he intended to write the first time, but this is more explicit and this is better. And he's right: this is better.

To begin with he is autobiographical; we read of his feeling of the futility of life, his search for an intensification of it, his moment of revelation, or burning bush, his fleeting urge to commit suicide — and his decision, more or less instead, to write a book.

Then he investigates, less superficially than before, the nature of some writers: Fitzgerald, Shaw, Rilke, Rimbaud, Spengler, Toynbee, Pascal, Swedenborg, Kirkegaard, Whitehead. The world is too much with us, he complains, we should not be the victims of our society, we let routine get us down, we quash the unique individuals — it almost happened to him — contained potentially in ourselves.

All this I accept. But his escape from this dull, infertile conformity is no escape at all. His warning and his exhortation boil down to a sort of Coueism for intellectuals. He warns against something against which, if we are intellectuals, we need no warning, and urges a course which, again if we are intellectuals, we wouldn't dream of following.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Numerous New Books Added The Past Week

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Numerous new books have been added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library during the past week. There are books for every taste and type of reader. More people are interested in fiction than any other type of book, so let's take a look at the fiction offerings first. They offer a great deal of variety. Drayton Mayrant is the author of a number of historical novels ranging in setting from the early history of our own country to the ancient world. Her latest title is called "Lamp in Jerusalem" and has its setting in ancient Judea in the time of Queen Jezebel. There is no more exciting story in Bible history and Miss Mayrant has handled it skillfully. Do not miss "Lamp in Jerusalem." Dorothy E. Stevenson is a master of the English novel of manners. Her latest story is called "The Tall Stranger." It has its setting in the beautiful Cotswolds and the wind-swept moors of the Scottish lowlands. This is the story of Barbie France and the adventures which befel her when she was looking for the "Tall Stranger."

Gladys Taber is an expert in writing about suburbia and she has written a fascinating story called "Mrs. Daffodil" which is probably based on some of her own experiences. Mrs. Daffodil writes a syndicated newspaper column called "Butternut Wisdom" and has a legion of fans who descend on her Connecticut farm house at all hours expecting to be fed. Somehow she accomplishes this and makes an interesting life for herself in the valley. If you want a thoroughly delightful book, don't miss this one.

"Not By Bread Alone" by Vladimor Dubinstev is acclaimed as the novel that rocked the Soviet Union. Published in three successive issues of a Russian literary magazine last all, it had an immediate, sensational reception in Russia, and tattered copies of the magazine last fall, it had an imsession in homes throughout the country. What kind of a novel could have evoked such a reception? Only, a wonderfully human story told in the manner of the great Russian writers of the past —a story of love and courage and the integrity of the human spirit. Its hero is a man who stands for the right of the individual against officialdom, and whose lonely battle is only temporarily won at the end of the book.

Many of our patrons are avid mystery readers and will be glad that we are able to offer this week, stories by two of the masters in the field. "Another Man's Murder" by Mignon G. Eberhart is the story of a desperate killer, planning another murder to hide his first crime. Who knows the secret that will single him out to be the next victim? This is the interesting plot of "Another Man's Murder." Richard and Frances Lockridge form a writing team who have produced many fascinating mysteries, many of which deal with the adventures of Captain Heimrich. Their latest story is "Practice to Deceive." It has its setting in a motel, with the murder of a much married wealthy woman. Read it and find an exciting evening's entertainment.

Interesting Non-fiction

Kenneth Anderson has written a fascinating account of his hunting experiences in India which he calls "Man Eaters and Jungle Killers." Those who enjoy the lure of the jungle and accounts of big game hunting will not want to miss this book. A new and interesting biography of special interest to people of Louisiana is "Gentle Tiger" by Charles L. Dufour. This is the life of General Roberdeau Wheat, one of the most gallant figures of the Confederate army. He was the leader of the famed "Louisiana Tigers" and with them fought in some of the bloodiest battles of the Civil War. He was killed at the battle of Gaines Mills and it was time for his story to be told, as Mr. Dufour has done so well. As many of you know Mr. Dufour lives in New Orleans and is a newspaper columnist as well as an intertaining speaker and writer. Don't miss "Gentle Tiger" if you like to read about the Civil War. Another interesting book about a striking figure of early American history is "Mere Marie of the Ursulines" by Agnes Repplier." This gallant woman braved the wilderness of Canada to plant her order in the new world. It is a story of bravery and devotion and of a faith that surmounted all obstacles. It is a book which all members of the Roman Catholic Church will particularly enjoy.

Useful Books

One function of a public library is to purchase books to fill known or anticipated needs on the part of the clientele of the library. This week we have several new books that fall into this category. Some of you may have asked for them in the past and will be glad to know that we now have them on hand. Others may not know that they need them, until they see them listed. One is "The Flag Book" by Preben Kannik. This included the flags and insignia of all nations and has 860 illustrations in color. Another is Fell's "United States Coin Book" which will be of great interest to coin collectors. Then there is Lovejoy's College guide, a reference book which will tell you how to choose a college, obtain admission, get scholarships, obtain guidance, estimate expenses or work your way through college. It will soon be time for the 1957 income taxes to be paid and we are happy to have new copies of J. K. Lasser's "Your Income Tax" the new 1958 edition. Borrow it and figure your own tax.

Books for Teen Agers

More and more books are being published for that vast element of our public known as the "teenager." This is roughly the group from 12 to 20 and embraces a wide range of interests. We are happy to add books in this group, for in our new library buildings we are going to have a special section for young people and we need to build this collection. Peggy Goodin is the author of a charming new book called "Dede O'Shea" dealing with the adventures of an 11 - year - old girl and her fourteen - year - old sister. Phyllis A. Whitney has written a very fine story called "Skye Cameron" which has its setting in old New Orleans. Don't miss it.

Science fiction enthusiasts will welcome two new titles "Citizen of the Galaxy" by Robert A. Heinlein and "Lucky Starr and the Moons of Jupiter" by Paul French. Football players and fans will welcome another story by Joe Archibald called "Mr. Slingshot" and geared to a college level. Two teenage love stories with a historical background are "The King's Jewel" by Erick Berry and "Ring of Fate" by Jean Bothwell.

Yes, there are books of every type waiting for you at your Ouachita Parish Public Library. Make Book Week your time to "Explore with Books."

TV Notes

Herbert Brodkin, producer for "Studio One" at CBS, will not make the shift to Hollywood when the program is moved there in January. He is engaged in developing a new one-hour live drama series and a filmed series called "Front Office" in which Ralph Bellamy is to star.

The success of Jack Paar in handling NBC's "Tonight" program during his first three months in the job has caused the network to pick up its option on his services for 1958 several weeks in advance of the deadline for such a commitment.

"Howdy Doody" will celebrate its 10th anniversary on television on Dec. 28.

Rod Serling's new original TV play is "Panic Button," which will be on "Playhouse 90" Nov. 28. Robert Stack will star in the role of the surviving pilot of an airliner that carried 11 persons to their deaths. Technical adviser on the production will be the author's brother, Bob Serling, aviation writer for United Press in Washington, D. C.

"Disneyland" on ABC Nov. 20 will deal with "The Best Doggoned Dog in the World," a presentation about various types of canines and the things they do.

Brian Donlevy, Herbert Marshall and Peggy Ann Garner have been added to the cast of "Beyond This Place" for the third "Du Pont Show of the Month" on CBS Nov. 25. Farley Granger and Shelley Winters were announced for the cast previously.

BOOK BRIEF'S

A DEATH IN THE FAMILY, a brilliant new novel and his last one by James Agee, was published this month by McDowell, Obolensky, Inc. The story concerns Jay and Mary Follet and their two children, and the impact of the death of the young father upon those who loved him. It is also an extremely honest and disarming evocation of childhood.

Random House has the Jackie Robinson life story in the works and the book is expected to be ready for publication next year. Robinson is assisted in the work by Carl Rowan, another Negro.

Since the publication of "I Can Get It For You Wholesale" in 1937, Jerome Weidman has authored 15 books. His 16th work — THE ENEMY CAMP — is to be published next spring by Random House.

Out November 19th from Random House was B. A. Botkin's A TREASURY OF AMERICN ANECDOTES. Botkin's latest volume covers two centuries of the wit, wisdom and humor of American storytelling.

ANATOMY OF A MURDER by Robert Traver and to be published by St. Martin's Press, Inc., in 1958, will be a Book-Of-The-Month Club choice for January. The book deals with the consequences of a capital crime in Northern Michigan.

CONFEDERATE READER

Story Of Civil War Told By Southerners

THE CONFEDERATE READER Edited By Richard B. Harwell (Longmans, $7.50). As the South Saw the War.

Here, in their own words, is the Civil War as the Confederates wrote it down at the time it was happening. The Confederate Reader is the story of the Confederacy as the Southern soldiers and civilians (and a few foreign sympathizers with the Confederates) went through the searing events of the war.

Arranged chronologically, The Confederate Reader touches on all aspects of Confederate life. There is a generous sampling of battle reports and general orders and extensive excerpts from a variety of sources — Confederate sermons, songs, humorous sketches, novels, prison narratives, and travel observations.

These are the writings printed in the South during the war, as important to the reader as the treasured guns of Confederates and Federals are to the student of ordnance. Ink and paper survive with a peculiar freshness, and the words of the Confederates recreate their own era with an immediacy and truth that bring new understanding of the period.

As the centenary of the Civil War draws near, Harwell makes a distinct contribution to our literature about this great conflict, the war that is still everybody's war. Here is the Confederate side of the Civil War — as alive as if it were taking place today, as vital as today's news.

Harwell edited Destruction and Reconstruction by General Dick Taylor, a recent successful publication and a selection of the History Book Club. Harwell has been Director of Publications of the Virginia State Library and now lives in Chicago. He is Executive Secretary of the Association of College and Research Libraries, a division of the American Library Association.

MARCHING FEET

A Pictorial Chronology Of History

THE LAUGH MAKERS. By William Cahn. Coward - McCann. $5.95.

This pictorial chronology of the history of American comedy and comedians gives an intimate closeup of the individuals who made and make this nation laugh.

From the time actor Thomas Wignell entertained President Washington up to the present-day stage, movie and TV professionals, there is an interesting array of more than 200 photos of the funnymen in action.

Two of America's famous clowns who performed for Civil War troops were Dan Rice and George Fox. Billed as the first white-faced clowns, their routines were not too different from that of Emmett Kelly, the present - day hobo pantomime master.

One of the first comediennes on state was May Irwin, known as 'Madme Laughter.' She had few rivals in the legitimate theater around 1880. However, her counterpart is seen today in the lively antics of Imogene Coca.

Cahn's book brings out Harold Lloyd as the only comedian to rival Charlie Chaplin as a film attraction, Pictures of this era extend from the humor of the Keystone Cops to Walt Disney's first Mickey Mouse.

Hundreds of names and photographs flow through the book—George M. Cohan, Weber and Fields, Eddie Foy. It is a thorough collection to bring back fond memories of those who remember the mirth makers of old. And for those whose memory doesn't precede Jack Benny's first radio days, this informative book means a few hours interestingly spent.

By JOHN OLDENBURG
Camera Editor

Shooting pictures along side my good friend Leon Noland — local television photographer — is always a pleasure. Last Monday we again found ourselves stationed together on the same corner to shoot the Veterans' Day parade; he with his movie camera and I with my 4 by 5 press graphic.

We both faced difficult shooting conditions. It was 3 p.m., the sun was shining directly down DeSiard and the parade was moving from South Grand down DeSiard so to shoot the parade, we had to face the sun. Perhaps that was why we met at the corner of St. John and DeSiard in the shadow of the Ouachita Bank building to try to avoid the direct sunlight. Leon's problems were greater than mine as he had to expose for the shadowed faces, etc. where I could expose fairly normal as I was using fill-in electronic flash.

The marching feet of the Ouachita parish Lionettes were shot at F-11, at 100 shutter speed to partially stop the action, the long shadows caused by the sunlight cause a very interesting effect. By the way, the incentive to shoot this type of picture came when I obsedved Leon making a low angle shot with his movie camera and muttering to himself "marching feet." Thanks, Leon.

Incidentally, camera club fans, next Tuesday is the meeting night at Daly's Studio on Grammont street at 7:30 p.m. The program is being furnished by Eastman Kodak Company. Anyone interested in any phase of photography is more than welcomed to visit or become a member.

STONES AND SAINTS

Keyes' Latest Work Her Most Enjoyable

THE LAND OF STONES AND SAINTS By Frances Parkinson Keyes (Doubleday, $4.95). This is the story of a place and a period told in the terms of human lives.

The place is Avila, a province of Old Castile, so rocky and barren as to its soil, yet so productive as to its spiritual forces, that the Spaniards call it Tierra de Cantos by Santos — the Land of Stones and Saints.

The period, an era of superb pageantry and surging power, covers part of the fifteenth, all of the sixteenth and part of the seventeenth century.

The human lives which give glory to both place and period are those of the Princess Isabella, later wife of Ferdinand of Aragon, Queen of Spain and benefactress of Columbus; St. Teresa of Avila and St. John of the Cross, long hailed as two of the greatest mystics the world has ever known; Maria Vela, another mystic, whose remarkable autobiography has been secreted in convent archives for three hundred and fifty years and is only now being brought to light; Pedro Bautista, who was a missionary to the Philippines and Ambassador of Spain to Japan; and a host of other personages, more briefly seen, but whose lives complement these.

Miss Keyes, noted author of well-known biographies of St. Therese of Lisieux and Bernadette of Lourdes, now illumines Avila and the famous personages who lived there during the colorful period of the Renaissance in a superbly written book that glows with clarity and vitality.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Numerous New Books Added The Past Week

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Numerous new books have been added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library during the past week. There are books for every taste and type of reader. More people are interested in fiction than any other type of book, so let's take a look at the fiction offerings first. They offer a great deal of variety. Drayton Mayrant is the author of a number of historical novels ranging in setting from the early history of our own country to the ancient world. Her latest title is called "Lamp in Jerusalem" and has its setting in ancient Judea in the time of Queen Jezebel. There is no more exciting story in Bible history and Miss Mayrant has handled it skillfully. Do not miss "Lamp in Jerusalem." Dorothy E. Stevenson is a master of the English novel of manners. Her latest story is called "The Tall Stranger." It has its setting in the beautiful Cotswolds and the wind-swept moors of the Scottish lowlands. This is the story of Barbie France and the adventures which befel her when she was looking for the "Tall Stranger."

Gladys Taber is an expert in writing about suburbia and she has written a fascinating story called "Mrs. Daffodil" which is probably based on some of her own experiences. Mrs. Daffodil writes a syndicated newspaper column called "Butternut Wisdom" and has a legion of fans who descend on her Connecticut farm house at all hours expecting to be fed. Somehow she accomplishes this and makes an interesting life for herself in the valley. If you want a thoroughly delightful book, don't miss this one.

"Not By Bread Alone" by Vladimor Dubinstev is acclaimed as the novel that rocked the Soviet Union. Published in three successive issues of a Russian literary magazine last all, it had an immediate, sensational reception in Russia, and tattered copies of the magazine last fall, it had an impression in homes throughout the country. What kind of a novel could have evoked such a reception? Only, a wonderfully human story told in the manner of the great Russian writers of the past —a story of love and courage and the integrity of the human spirit. Its hero is a man who stands for the right of the individual against officialdom, and whose lonely battle is only temporarily won at the end of the book.

Many of our patrons are avid mystery readers and will be glad that we are able to offer this week, stories by two of the masters in the field. "Another Man's Murder" by Mignon G. Eberhart is the story of a desperate killer, planning another murder to hide his first crime. Who knows the secret that will single him out to be the next victim? This is the interesting plot of "Another Man's Murder." Richard and Frances Lockridge form a writing team who have produced many fascinating mysteries, many of which deal with the adventures of Captain Heimrich. Their latest story is "Practice to Deceive." It has its setting in a motel, with the murder of a much married wealthy woman. Read it and find an exciting evening's entertainment.

Interesting Non-fiction

Kenneth Anderson has written a fascinating account of his hunting experiences in India which he calls "Man Eaters and Jungle Killers." Those who enjoy the lure of the jungle and accounts of big game hunting will not want to miss this book. A new and interesting biography of special interest to people of Louisiana is "Gentle Tiger" by Charles L. Dufour. This is the life of General Roberdeau Wheat, one of the most gallant figures of the Confederate army. He was the leader of the famed "Louisiana Tigers" and with them fought in some of the bloodiest battles of the Civil War. He was killed at the battle of Gaines Mills and it was time for his story to be told, as Mr. Dufour has done so well. As many of you know Mr. Dufour lives in New Orleans and is a newspaper columnist as well as an intertaining speaker and writer. Don't miss "Gentle Tiger" if you like to read about the Civil War. Another interesting book about a striking figure of early American history is "Mere Marie of the Ursulines" by Agnes Repplier." This gallant woman braved the wilderness of Canada to plant her order in the new world. It is a story of bravery and devotion and of a faith that surmounted all obstacles. It is a book which all members of the Roman Catholic Church will particularly enjoy.

Are you interested in the advertising business and its many ramifications? If so, you will want to read "The Amazing Advertising Business" published by the editors of Fortune Magazine. In this book an attempt has been made to give a clear and realistic picture of this business. It is an exciting and interesting story and should be of interest to advertising men, newspapermen and television producers and writers.

Useful Books

One function of a public library is to purchase books to fill known or anticipated needs on the part of the clientele of the library. This week we have several new books that fall into this category. Some of you may have asked for them in the past and will be glad to know that we now have them on hand. Others may not know that they need them, until they see them listed. One is "The Flag Book" by Preben Kannik. This included the flags and insignia of all nations and has 860 illustrations in color. Another is Fell's "United States Coin Book" which will be of great interest to coin collectors. Then there is Lovejoy's College guide, a reference book which will tell you how to choose a college, obtain admission, get scholarships, obtain guidance, estimate expenses or work your way through college. It will soon be time for the 1957 income taxes to be paid and we are happy to have new copies of J. K. Lasser's "Your Income Tax" the new 1958 edition. Borrow it and figure your own tax.

Books for Teen Agers

More and more books are being published for that vast element of our public known as the "teenager." This is roughly the group from 12 to 20 and embraces a wide range of interests. We are happy to add books in this group, for in our new library buildings we are going to have a special section for young people and we need to build this collection. Peggy Goodin is the author of a charming new book called "Dede O'Shea" dealing with the adventures of an 11 - year - old girl and her fourteen - year - old sister. Phyllis A. Whitney has written a very fine story called "Skye Cameron" which has its setting in old New Orleans. Don't miss it.

Science fiction enthusiasts will welcome two new titles "Citizen of the Galaxy" by Robert A. Heinlein and "Lucky Starr and the Moons of Jupiter" by Paul French. Football players and fans will welcome another story by Joe Archibald called "Mr. Slingshot" and geared to a college level. Two teenage love stories with a historical background are "The King's Jewel" by Erick Berry and "Ring of Fate" by Jean Bothwell.

Yes, there are books of every type waiting for you at your Ouachita Parish Public Library. Make Book Week your time to "Explore with Books."

Death Of A Postman Tense And Exciting

DEATH OF A POSTMAN By John Creasey (Harper, $2.95). An intense biting story of Scotland Yard at its best — at a time of the year we all know best — Christmas.

The house affected by the murder was decorated for Christmas and when Inspector West pulled up before the door to bring the bad news, he could hear a child singing.

"Bryant had five children," West said. "They'll be expecting their father any minute now."

But the news West had to bring to Bryant's wife was that she was Bryant's widow — her husband had been attacked on his way home from the Post Office. "He died very quickly," West reported.

The Post Office killing came during the Christmas rush, and though the police found the murder hammer, and a witness had seen a man running from the scene of the crime, motive and clues were hard to find.

Then, another man was killed.

Grimly, Inspector West, in the midst of the Christmas holiday festivities, put the Yard's resources to work — and uncovered a thoroughly planned crime wave.

Englishman With More Criticism

RELIGION AND THE REBEL. By Colin Wilson. Houghton Mifflin. $4.

Once again this young Englishman, who seemed to me so arrogant in his first book, the widely read and popular "The Outsider," tells what's wrong with us, with our creative spirits and with the world we live in.

This is, he says in effect, what he intended to write the first time, but this is more explicit and this is better. And he's right; this is better.

To begin with he is autobiographical; we read of his feeling of the futility of life, his search for an intensification of it, his moment of revelation, or burning bush, his fleeting urge to commit suicide — and his decision, more or less instead, to write a book.

Then he investigates, less superficially than before, the nature of some writers: Fitzgerald, Shaw, Rilke, Rimbaud, Spengler, Toynbee, Pascal, Swedenborg, Kirkegaard, Whitehead. The world is too much with us, he complains, we should not be the victims of our society, we let routine get us down, we quash the unique individuals — it almost happened to him — contained potentially in ourselves.

All this I accept. But his escape from this dull, infertile conformity is no escape at all. His warning and his exhortation boil down to a sort of Coueism for intellectuals. He warns against something against which, if we are intellectuals, we need no warning, and urges a course which, again if we are intellectuals, we wouldn't dream of following.

TV Notes

Herbert Brodkin, producer for "Studio One" at CBS, will not make the shift to Hollywood when the program is moved there in January. He is engaged in developing a new one-hour live drama series and a filmed series called "Front Office" in which Ralph Bellamy is to star.

The success of Jack Paar in handling NBC's "Tonight" program during his first three months in the job has caused the network to pick up its option on h's services for 1958 several weeks in advance of the deadline for such a commitment.

"Howdy Doody" will celebrate its 10th anniversary on television on Dec. 28.

Rod Serling's new original TV play is "Panic Button," which will be on "Playhouse 90" Nov. 28. Robert Stack will star in the role of the surviving pilot of an airliner that carried 11 persons to their deaths. Technical adviser on the production will be the author's brother, Bob Serling, aviation writer for United Press in Washington, D. C.

"Disneyland" on ABC Nov. 20 will deal with "The Best Dog-goned Dog in the World," a presentation about various types of canines and the things they do.

Brian Donlevy, Herbert Marshall and Peggy Ann Garner have been added to the cast of "Beyond This Place" for the third "Du Pont Show of the Month" on CBS Nov. 25. Farley Granger and Shelley Winters were announced for the cast previously.

INSPIRATION FROM THE COMMON PLACE: Edward Middleditch rapidly sketches a hawk, which he found dead and promptly strung up on a clothesline in his backyard. The dead bird is typical of the ordinary subjects preferred by the "Kitchen Sink" boys.

THE ARTS ABROAD

England, Once Workshop For Words, Now Spawning Young Painters

By NATHAN POLOWETZKY

LONDON (AP)—With an almost fanatical dedication, the English have devoted their creative genius over the centuries to the production of incomparable literature.

Poetry, novels and plans enriching the world's culture have flowed from isolated country vicarages, from London slum dwellings, from stately aristocratic homes.

But with their obsession for the written word, the English have at least partially ignored some other arts. In such fields as music or painting, they have fallen far short of their proud record in literature.

More than any other major European capital, London's place names have literary associations. Nowhere is there a Montmartre or a Montparnasse to evoke the memory of painters.

England's shortage of first rate artists — the memory stumbles after Turner, Hogarth, Constable, Blake, Gainsborough and Whistler (after all an American) — has frequently been remarked upon.

Sometimes the blame is placed on England's weather. The bright sunshine which helped make supreme colorists out of French and Italian painters is dismally absent here.

Another reason may have been the conservatism — at least in the graphic arts — of the Victorian aristocratic and upper middle classes which bought pictures.

They wanted paintings to tell a story, to immortalize their own interests, to give evidence of their own worldly success, to illustrate their own virtues.

The result was the abundance of family portraits, hunting scenes and landscapes and the anecdotal paintings ("A Soldier's Farewell," "Derby Day," "The Death of Chatterton") so popular with collectors during the Victorian period.

Then during the 20th Century English painting fell under the complete dominance of the great modern French masters from Gezanne through Matisse and Picasso.

But recently there has been evidence of what some already are calling "a renaissance along the Thames" in English art.

British sculptors—Henry Moore, Jacob Epstein (also American-born) and Lynn Chadwick, who won last year's Venice Biennale—have emerged as world figures.

And such painters as Graham Sutherland and John Piper have achieved international repute.

World War II may have been responsible for a new growth of interest in paintings. It is difficult to realize the extent of England's isolation as nearly all the rest of Europe lay under German occupation. There was little or no contact with French or continental painters, many of whom fled to the United States (where they made their presence felt in American abstract art).

So younger painters sought roots in the homeland. Instead of looking towards the continent, they turned to such English figures as William Blake and Samuel Palmer, the romantic mystics of the countryside, to whom every tree and bush held the mystery of the universe.

They discovered the lyricism of the late Turners.

Others, the town dwellers, began painting scenes in their own homes, sometime squalid scenes of bawling children, wash hanging on lines, and the bombed out ruins of London, not unlike the "ash can" painter - reporters in the United States at the beginning of the century.

Quickly dubbed the "Kitchen Sink" boys, these young artists, nevertheless, show deep-rooted romantic qualities.

It is still too early to say how far this "renaissance" will develop but already such youngsters as Edward Middleditch, Jack Smith, Philip Sutton, John Bratby, Alistair Grant and Derrick Greaves are beginning to achieve recognition on the continent.

FOR MONEY GIFT

Money at Christmas is always appreciated. But, it's much nicer as a gift when inserted in one of the many novel cards now shown for that purpose.

BASEBOARD FURRING

To minimize dust - catching surfaces, paneling should be installed flush with the baseboard. Use a bottom furring strip wider than the baseboard and nail the paneling to the overlap of the baseboard.

S-E-E PAUL HEWITT'S PIANO EVENT In This Paper Today

'DEAR SANTA':—writes this youngster as dad, with years of similar experience, stands by with helpful advice. Such moments as this, and there are many at Christmas-time, can be clearly captured and preserved forever on film. Keep a camera within easy reach in your home this Christmas season.

Out Of Legend, Fact Comes Santa Claus

Why does Santa Claus have a white beard? Why does he drive a sleigh and have six reindeer? Why does he enter by way of the chimney? And where did he get his name, Santa Claus? How old is he and where was he born?

Even with the best reference sources, it's difficult to establish just one set of facts about Santa Claus. But, after all, is it so important whether the name Santa Claus has its origin in the Dutch "Sint Nikolass" or "Sinterklass" — or in the German "Christkindl" or "Kristking" or "Kriss Kringle"?

Such inconsistencies actually make the history of Santa Claus and his forerunners all the more interesting.

It is generally agreed that the idea for our modern day Santa Claus began with a young boy called Nicholas over 1600 years ago.

During his early years, growing up in the Asia Minor portion of present - day Turkey, he was generous and pious. These qualities grew within him until as a man he became the Bishop of Myra.

His most famous deed of generosity was directed toward three beautiful daughters of a poor nobleman. He wanted dowries for these girls so they could be married and well cared for.

So, Nicholas on three different nights tossed bags of gold through a window of their home so each daughter could be married.

This tale was translated into languages the world over and soon, whenever unexpected gifts were received, St. Nicholas was credited.

St. Nicholas, known by other names adapted to the spoken language, was pictured as a kindly, white bearded, black robed bishop who rode a white horse over the housetops when he distributed gifts.

So it is to St. Nicholas that we give thanks for Santa's custom of giving, full white beard, riding over housetops, and, partially, for his name.

Santa Claus had many other forerunners, some who still bring gifts in his place to children in other lands.

Another "ancestor" of "Santa" came from Germany. "Christkindl," sometimes called "Kristking" is a little girl, a messenger of the Christ child.

This same angel - girl also was the gift - giver to the Swiss children. There she arrived in a sleigh drawn by six reindeer.

In Norway, "Julenissen" or "Jul Tomten'," a gay elf, left gifts in the hayloft and in return received a bowl of pudding from the children.

So, in Norway, Santa's fine helpers, the elves, were found.

And in England, the chimney was swept before New Year's Day so that good luck would have a way into the home. This, then, was the novel and perfect way for Santa Claus to make his deliveries.

Dr. Clement Clark Moore, a seminary professor, wrote "A Visit From St. Nicholas" ("The Night Before Christmas") for his seven children. He vividly described Santa Claus, bringing together all the many legends that were "known" at that time.

In 1863, cartoonist Thomas Nast was commissioned to illustrate Moore's poem. Santa Claus, much as we see him today pictured everywhere at Christmas, emerged on Nast's drawing board 94 years ago in New York City.

Three years later it was definitely decided that this red and white garbed fellow known as Santa Claus — with the big heart, the jolly face and abundant good will — is here to stay and is quite, quite real!

The decision came in a famous letter published in the New York Sun in 1897. It was the answer to an inquiry received from Virginia O'Hanlon, an eight year old girl. She asked, "Please tell me the truth; is there a Santa Claus?"

The reply that stirred the heards of people across the nation came "Yest, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus . . . ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

INSPIRATION FROM THE COMMON PLACE: Edward Middleditch rapidly sketches a hawk, which he found dead and promptly strung up on a clothesline in his backyard. The dead bird is typical of the ordinary subjects preferred by the "Kitchen Sink" boys.

THE ARTS ABROAD

England, Once Workshop For Words, Now Spawning Young Painters

By NATHAN POLOWETZKY

LONDON (AP)—With an almost fanatical dedication, the English have devoted their creative genius over the centuries to the production of incomparable literature.

Poetry, novels and plans enriching the world's culture have flowed from isolated country vicarages, from London slum dwellings, from stately aristocratic homes.

But with their obsession for the written word, the English have at least partially ignored some other arts. In such fields as music or painting, they have fallen far short of their proud record in literature.

More than any other major European capital, London's place names have literary associations. Nowhere is there a Montmartre or a Montparnasse to evoke the memory of painters.

England's shortage of first rate artists — the memory stumbles after Turner, Hogarth, Constable, Blake, Gainsborough and Whistler (after all an American) — has frequently been remarked upon.

Sometimes the blame is placed on England's weather. The bright sunshine which helped make supreme colorists out of French and Italian painters is dismally absent here.

Another reason may have been the conservatism — at least in the graphic arts — of the Victorian aristocratic and upper middle classes which bought pictures.

They wanted paintings to tell a story, to immortalize their own interests, to give evidence of their own worldly success, to illustrate their own virtues.

The result was the abundance of family portraits, hunting scenes and landscapes and the anecdotal paintings ("A Soldier's Farewell," "Derby Day," "The Death of Chatterton") so popular with collectors during the Victorian period.

Then during the 20th Century English painting fell under the complete dominance of the great modern French masters from Gezanne through Matisse and Picasso.

But recently there has been evidence of what some already are calling "a renaissance along the Thames" in English art.

British sculptors—Henry Moore, Jacob Epstein (also American-born) and Lynn Chadwick, who won last year's Venice Biennale—have emerged as world figures.

And such painters as Graham Sutherland and John Piper have achieved international repute.

World War II may have been responsible for a new growth of interest in paintings. It is difficult to realize the extent of England's isolation as nearly all the rest of Europe lay under German occupation. There was little or no contact with French or continental painters, many of whom fled to the United States (where they made their presence felt in American abstract art).

So younger painters sought roots in the homeland. Instead of looking towards the continent, they turned to such English figures as William Blake and Samuel Palmer, the romantic mystics of the countryside, to whom every tree and bush held the mystery of the universe.

They discovered the lyricism of the late Turners.

Others, the town dwellers, began painting scenes in their own homes, sometime squalid scenes of bawling children, wash hanging on lines, and the bombed out ruins of London, not unlike the "ash can" painter - reporters in the United States at the beginning of the century.

Quickly dubbed the "Kitchen Sink" boys, these young artists, nevertheless, show deep-rooted romantic qualities.

It is still too early to say how far this "renaissance" will develop but already such youngsters as Edward Middleditch, Jack Smith, Philip Sutton, John Bratby, Alistair Grant and Derrick Greaves are beginning to achieve recognition on the continent.

BASEBOARD FURRING

To minimize dust - catching surfaces, paneling should be installed flush with the baseboard. Use a bottom furring strip wider than the baseboard and nail the paneling to the overlap of the baseboard.

Out Of Legend, Fact Comes Santa Claus

Why does Santa Claus have a white beard? Why does he drive a sleigh and have six reindeer? Why does he enter by way of the chimney? And where did he get his name, Santa Claus? How old is he and where was he born?

Even with the best reference sources, it's difficult to establish just one set of facts about Santa Claus. But, after all, is it so important whether the name Santa Claus has its origin in the Dutch "Sint Nikolass" or "Sinterklass" — or in the German "Christkindl" or "Kristking" or "Kriss Kringle"?

Such inconsistencies actually make the history of Santa Claus and his forerunners all the more interesting.

It is generally agreed that the idea for our modern day Santa Claus began with a young boy called Nicholas over 1600 years ago.

During his early years, growing up in the Asia Minor portion of present - day Turkey, he was generous and pious. These qualities grew within him until as a man he became the Bishop of Myra.

His most famous deed of generosity was directed toward three beautiful daughters of a poor nobleman. He wanted dowries for these girls so they could be married and well cared for.

So, Nicholas on three different nights tossed bags of gold through a window of their home so each daughter could be married.

This tale was translated into languages the world over and soon, whenever unexpected gifts were received, St. Nicholas was credited.

St. Nicholas, known by other names adapted to the spoken language, was pictured as a kindly, white bearded, black robed bishop who rode a white horse over the housetops when he distributed gifts.

So it is to St. Nicholas that we give thanks for Santa's custom of giving, full white beard, riding over housetops, and, partially, for his name.

Santa Claus had many other forerunners, some who still bring gifts in his place to children in other lands.

Another "ancestor" of "Santa" came from Germany. "Christkindl," sometimes called "Kristking" is a little girl, a messenger of the Christ child.

This same angel - girl also was the gift - giver to the Swiss children. There she arrived in a sleigh drawn by six reindeer.

In Norway, "Julenissen" or "Jul Tomten',' a gay elf, left gifts in the hayloft and in return received a bowl of pudding from the children.

So, in Norway, Santa's fine helpers, the elves, were found.

And in England, the chimney was swept before New Year's Day so that good luck would have a way into the home. This, then, was the novel and perfect way for Santa Claus to make his deliveries.

Dr. Clement Clark Moore, a seminary professor, wrote "A Visit From St. Nicholas" ("The Night Before Christmas") for his seven children. He vividly described Santa Claus, bringing together all the many legends that were "known" at that time.

In 1863, cartoonist Thomas Nast was commissioned to illustrate Moore's poem. Santa Claus, much as we see him today pictured everywhere at Christmas, emerged on Nast's drawing board 94 years ago in New York City.

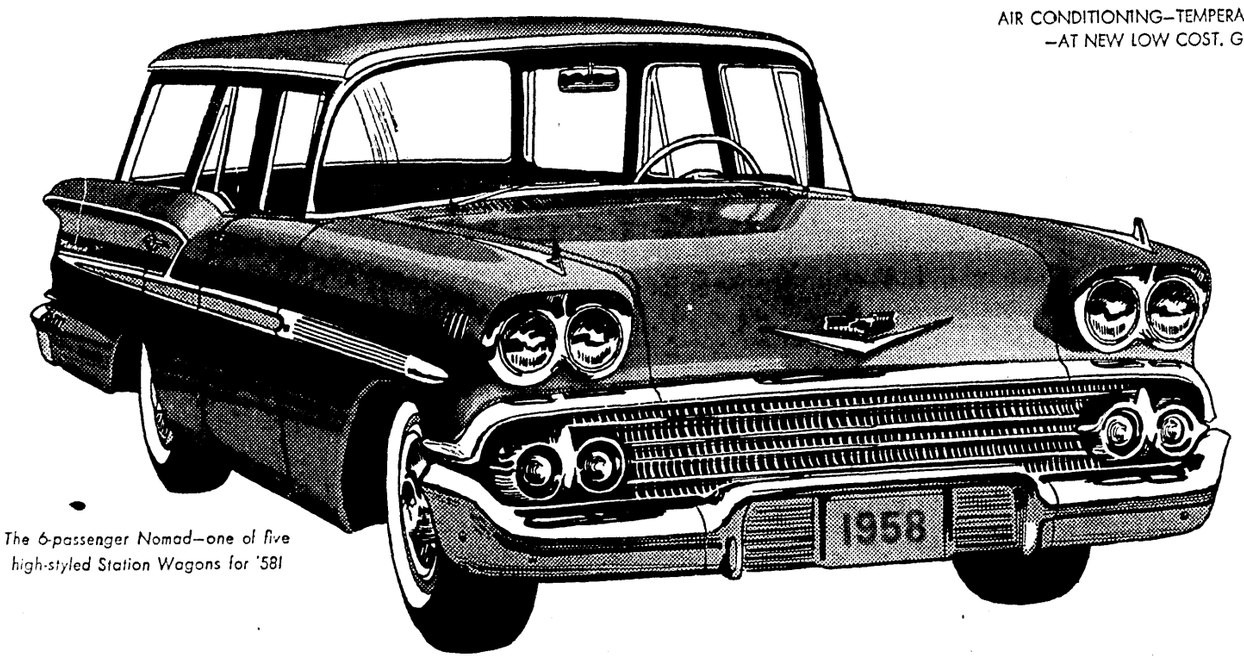

Three years later it was definitely decided that this red and white garbed fellow known as Santa Claus — with the big heart, the jolly face and abundant good will — is here to stay and is quite, quite real!

The decision came in a famous letter published in the New York Sun in 1897. It was the answer to an inquiry received from Virginia O'Hanlon, an eight year old girl. She asked, "Please tell me the truth; is there a Santa Claus?"

The reply that stirred the heards of people across the nation came "Yest, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus . . . ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

Lavender And Old Lace Is Theme For Afternoon Tea Honoring Mrs. Sartor

A bride of October, Mrs. Daniel Ryan Sartor, Jr. now living here, was the inspiration of one of the season's most beautiful parties Thursday afternoon. She was honored with a tea given by Mrs. Charles Thomas Munholland, Mrs. Allen Barksdale Guthrie, of Ruston, Mrs. James Grayson Guthrie, Mrs. Aylmer E. Montgomery, Jr. and Miss Frances Guthrie, who entertained at the Lotus Club.

Mrs. Sartor is the former Miss Olive Moss, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Moss of Lake Charles. For the tea Thursday she wore an afternoon frock of blue chiffon made with a softly draped bodice and very full short skirt. Her corsage was of white camellias.

As the several hundred guests arrived they were greeted at the door by Mrs. O. Wharton Brown and Mrs. James A. Noe. Ushering them through the foyer which was decorated with large arrangements of fall foliage were Mrs. Montgomery, and Miss Guthrie.

Mrs. Sartor received with her three aunts, Mrs. Munholland and the two Mrs. Guthries, Mrs. Walter Moss, of Lake Charles and the senior Mrs. Sartor, of Alto. The line formed in the main lounge where pyramids of magnolias branches flanked the center column of the room and elsewhere were alabaster bowls arranged with white stock and chrysanthemums combined with greenery. A large hurricane shade filled with pink roses and violets was placed on the piano. Welcoming the guests at various spots were Mrs. E. T. Lamkin, Mrs. Brewer Godfrey, Mrs. Kent Breard, Mrs. Lawrence Alexander, Mrs. Kennedy Abington, Mrs. H. A. McGinn, Mrs. Charles Garretson, Mrs. Leo McStravick, Mrs. Kenneth Inabnett, and Mrs. Allen Barksdale, of Ruston.

A lavender and old lace theme was carried out in the library where tea was served. The three round tea tables were covered with violet taffeta cloths overlaid with white organdy edged with wide bands of lace. Centering the large center table was an antique silver epergne on a mirrored plateau overflowing with blush pink carnations and at the top, an old fashioned bouquet of violets. Nosegays of violets decorated the smaller tables. Violet china tea services completed the artistic setting.

Taking turns in pouring were Mrs. J. Hunter Thatcher, Mrs. George Gunby, Mrs. George Snellings, Jr., Mrs. A. E. Montgomery, Mrs. D. X. Ellett and Mrs. S. E. Huey. Assisting in the serving duties were Mrs. G. A. Boyd, Mrs. R. C. Sparks, Mrs. Arthur Emerson, Miss Martha Hatchell, Mrs. Ronald Lee Davis, Jr., Mrs William Brown, Mrs. Fred Sartor and Mrs. Phil Rosamund.

Monroe Garden Club Hear Lecture On 'Make Your Own Merry Christmas'

The November meeting of the Monroe Garden Club was held at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. The president, Mrs. Corbin Turpin, opened the meeting and after the announcements, introduced Dr. Katherine Foster who presented Mrs. Anne Werstner Wood, the speaker for the afternoon.

Mrs. Wood, the author of "Make Your Own Merry Xmas," began by saying there was nothing new, only new ways of using old materials. Taking a tin can, she showed how to make angels, bells, and ornaments for door wreaths using the ends of a can. From the can itself she made a spiral tree. For favors or placecards she suggested cardboard rolls wrapped in silver and filled with candy or handkerchiefs or cellophane wrapped candies wired to make small wreaths.

Mrs. Wood had on display decorations and ornaments she had made and used for several years. Included in these were a ribbon wreath, a poinsettia made of copper screen with gold balls and greens added. Flashlight bulbs sprayed silver and dusted with glitter wired together used in a wreath and as a door decoration.

An outstanding tree was fashioned from a bamboo garden rake with greens and ornaments wired on. She demonstrated many unusual and decorative suggestions for the Christmas season.

At the conclusion of her lecture she showed colored slides of table decorations, door decorations and arrangements to be used on small tables and on the mantel.

Mrs. Rushing Is Hostess To Book Club

The Current Literature Book club met on Wednesday at the Holiday Inn with Mrs. E. S. Rushing as hostess. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. L. E. Pettit. The club collect was read in unison by the members of the club Committee reports were given, following which plans for the Christmas party were discussed. Dolls to be dressed for the Salvation Army Christmas were distributed to the members, and the president asked that they be returned at the next meeting.

The program chairman, Mrs. Walter Ernst, introduced Mrs. E. A. Hodge, who gave a most interesting review of the country of India. Mrs. Hodge spoke of the teeming millions of people in India, their caste system, their pride in their country, and concluded her review by telling of some of the ways India has kept pace with modern living.

Following the program, a delicious dessert course was served to the following members: Mrs. L. E. Pettit; Mrs. L. M. Frey, Mr. T. B. Branch, Mrs. E. A. Porter, Jr., Mrs. J. C. Massey, Mrs. J. C. Jacobs, Mrs. E. A. Hodge, Mrs. H. W. Tolson, Mrs. Walter Ernst, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Jr., and Mrs. R. B. Bailey.

Dip fish to be fried in a mixture of white corn meal, flour, salt and pepper.

Mrs. Lester High Fetes Neighbors At Coffee Party

To honor new residents of Auburn Avenue, Mrs. Lester High entertained with a neighborhood party this Thursday morning from 10 until 12 o'clock.

Bronze and yellow chrysanthemums were used about the house and the serving table in the dining room was centered with clusters of green grapes and other seasonal fruits.

The guests attending included Mrs. Ed Heard, Mrs. Louis Breard, Mrs. John Reitzell, Mrs. James Bradley, Mrs. Ted Heckathorn, Mrs. Doyle Hamilton, Mrs. Richard Guelzow, Mrs. H. C. Richter, Mrs. S. M. Monroe Garden Club Hear Lecture On 'Make Your Own Merry Christmas'

The November meeting of the Monroe Garden Club was held at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club. The president, Mrs. Corbin Turpin, opened the meeting and after the announcements, introduced Dr. Katherine Foster who presented Mrs. Anne Werstner Wood, the speaker for the afternoon.

Mrs. Wood, the author of "Make Your Own Merry Xmas," began by saying there was nothing new, only new ways of using old materials. Taking a tin can, she showed how to make angels, bells, and ornaments for door wreaths using the ends of a can. From the can itself she made a spiral tree. For favors or placecards she suggested cardboard rolls wrapped in silver and filled with candy or handkerchiefs or cellophane wrapped candies wired to make small wreaths.

Mrs. Wood had on display decorations and ornaments she had made and used for several years. Included in these were a ribbon wreath, a poinsettia made of copper screen with gold balls and greens added. Flashlight bulbs sprayed silver and dusted with glitter wired together used in a wreath and as a door decoration.

An outstanding tree was fashioned from a bamboo garden rake with greens and ornaments wired on. She demonstrated many unusual and decorative suggestions for the Christmas season.

At the conclusion of her lecture she showed colored slides of table decorations, door decorations and arrangements to be used on small tables and on the mantel.

Mrs. Rushing Is Hostess To Book Club

The Current Literature Book club met on Wednesday at the Holiday Inn with Mrs. E. S. Rushing as hostess. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. L. E. Pettit. The club collect was read in unison by the members of the club Committee reports were given, following which plans for the Christmas party were discussed. Dolls to be dressed for the Salvation Army Christmas were distributed to the members, and the president asked that they be returned at the next meeting.

The program chairman, Mrs. Walter Ernst, introduced Mrs. E. A. Hodge, who gave a most interesting review of the country of India. Mrs. Hodge spoke of the teeming millions of people in India, their caste system, their pride in their country, and concluded her review by telling of some of the ways India has kept pace with modern living.

Following the program, a delicious dessert course was served to the following members: Mrs. L. E. Pettit; Mrs. L. M. Frey, Mr. T. B. Branch, Mrs. E. A. Porter, Jr., Mrs. J. C. Massey, Mrs. J. C. Jacobs, Mrs. E. A. Hodge, Mrs. H. W. Tolson, Mrs. Walter Ernst, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Jr., and Mrs. R. B. Bailey.

EARLY ARRIVALS for the Revelers dance on Saturday evening held on the Frances Hotel Roof are Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Mitchell, Jr. of Ruston, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Wood and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Marshall. They were pictured in the hotel foyer before The Revelers' coat of arms.

SEEN DANCING at the open party given by The Revelers on Saturday evening were Mr. and Mrs. William Husted, Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fox. The festive occasion was first dance of the season given by members of the dance club.

NOISE HUSHER

When chosing new flooring in a home where small fry run rampant try to select a noise-proof item, plus one that can be cleaned up easily and is impervious to dents left from roller skates and bicycle tracks. Rubber tile is one of the resillient noise mufflers that is easily cleaned.

The Revelers Entertain With Gala Autumn Dance

Bernie Cummins and his orchestra provided the music when the Revelers entertained with their first open party, a formal dance on Saturday night. Each member of the dance club invited one guest to the affair, which was held on the Hotel Frances roof.

A ceiling high painting of the Revelers' coat-of-arms, designed and made by Mrs. Ben Marshall, dominated the foyer. Suspended over the dance floor were abstract mobiles representing the three stars of the Revelers. Arrangements of magnolia leaves were used along the walls and around the band-stand.

Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Abell, Mr. and Mrs. George Spencer, Dr. and Mrs. Morgan Simonton, Mrs. Aileen Guthrie, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fudickar, Jr., Mr and Mrs. J. M. Frazier, Miss Mary Wilton McHenry, Mr. Jim Fortner, Mr and Mrs. Harold Woods, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Kent Breard, Mr. and Mrs. Brents Witty, Mr. and Mrs. Burt Sperry, Mr. and Mrs. George Snellings, Jr.

MRS. MARVIN KEITH CONNER

Barbara Schroeder Wed To Marvin Keith Conner In Morning Service Here

The wedding of Miss Barbara Ann Schroeder and Marvin Keith Conner, of Mobile Alabama, was solemnized yesterday morning at St. Matthews Catholic Church with the Reverend Dennis A. Curren serving as officiant. The ceremony was held at 10 o'clock, preceding a high nuptial mass.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schroeder while Mr. Conner is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Conner, of New Orleans. Following their trip to the Ozark Mountains, the newly married Mr. and Mrs. Conner will be at home at 259 Stocking St., Mobile, Ala.

Mrs. Della Williams, organist, presented music for the ceremony. White chrysanthemums and burning tapers formed the decorations for the altar.

Wearing a bridal gown of peau de soie and tulle over taffeta, the bride was escorted to the altar by her father. The dress featured a fitted bodice with Sabrina neckline trimmed with scalloped sequin embroidered Chantilly lace made with bracelet sleeves of the same lace. Her short veil of illusion was held in place by a bandeaux of sequins and pearls. She carried a nosegay of white gardenias set in a lace frill tied with shower ribbons of tuberoses atop a missal.

Miss Katherine Williams, of New Orleans was the maid of honor. Her waltz length gown of mint green taffeta made along princess lines was finished with a deep V in the back which was outlined by panels of lace caught at the point of the V and floated to the hemline of the skirt. She wore a half hat of tulle with matching taffeta mitts and satin slippers. The matron of honor, Mrs. Rene Laterrade, sister of the groom, of New Orleans and Miss Christine Inzina, the bridesmaid, were dressed like the honor attendant in yellow and blue. They all carried bouquets of blended roses, set in starched lace tied with streamers of satin matching their frocks. Myra Louise Schroeder, wearing a white floor length frock of crystallette with white satin sash tied at the Empire waist, acted as flower girl. She carried a nosegay of sweetheart roses and wore a bandeaux of the blossoms in her hair.

Best man was Rene Laterrade, brother-in-law to the groom and the groomsmen and ushers were Ernest Aiavolasti, Jr., of Baton Rouge, Jon Schroeder, brother of the bride, Rex Dillingham, John Spatafora, Jr. and Marvin Salinger.

For her daughter's wedding and the reception that followed at the Green Room of Penn Hotel, Mrs. Schroeder wore a powder blue sheath with shirred chiffon bodice and rhinestone clip with matching feather hat and a corsage of blush pink roses. Mrs. Conner, the bridegroom's mother chose an aqua lace over gray silk with matching accessories in gray with a corsage of dusty rose camellias. White chrysanthemums and green foliage decorated the rooms and the bride's table covered with white organdy over green satin held the white frosted wedding cake. Mrs. John Spatafora was at the guest register.

Other out of town guests included, Mr. and Mrs. J. Herbert Andrews, Memphis, Tenn.; Miss Aline Murray and Mrs. T. W. L. Murray, Dallas, Tex.; Mrs. Louise Schroeder, Marked Tree, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Murray and daughter, Constance, Hammond, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. Murray, Wynne, Ark.; Mr. and Mrs. James I. McCormick, Little Rock, Ark.; Mrs. Frank A. Matthias, Jonesboro, Ark.; Miss Jewel Brown, Shreveport; Mrs. Ernest Aiavolasiti, Jr., Baton Rouge, Miss Anne Gassner, Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. Phillip P. Lynch, Jr., Leesville; Miss Marge McMahon, Carmi, Ill., Miss Nannette Martinez, Raceland; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morgan, Ruston; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Salinger, Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Laterrade, Mr. John R. Horton, Mr. Warren Deckert, Mr. Charles Grant, New Orleans; Mr. and Mrs. John Hawkins and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hochendel, Crossett, Ark.

Say Merry Xmas With A Plush Jewelry Case

Having trouble finding a Christmas gift for mother, grandma or a friend?

Sew her a jewelry case good for travel and the drawer — so her earrings, watch, necklaces and pins won't tangle, tarnish or break.

Your jewelry case will be inexpensive. All you need is a bit of velvet and satin fabric, plus some cotton sewing machine embroidery thread. You may even find enough material in your family scrap bag.

Cutting: For the cover, cut satin eight inches wide and fourteen inches long. Then cut the velvet lining the same size. For pockets to house jewelry, cut two velvet strips eight by two and one-half inches, and a third, eight by three and one-half inches.

Sewing: First, hem the velvet strips. Edge one side of each strip with a heavy embroidery stitch. Center the wide velvet strip on the lining. Pin the other two strips one and one-half inches on either side of it.

Finishing: Join satin to velvet with a zigzag stich. Turn top and bottom of case one inch. Fasten down with snaps. The flap will prevent jewelry from spilling.

MRS BENJAMIN ROBERT FARMER JR.

Benjamin R. Farmer, Jr. Miss Ida Carolyn Spaugh Wed In Church Ceremony

An out of town wedding of interest here, celebrated in Charolette, North Carolina, Friday, November 8, was that of Miss Ida Carolyn and Benjamin Robert Farmer, Jr.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Spaugh, of Charlotte and Mr. Farmer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin R. Farmer of West Monroe.

The ceremony was said in The Little Church on the Lane at 7:30 o'clock in the evening with Dr. Herbert Spaugh and the Right Reverend J. Kenneth Pfohl, of Winston - Salem, N. C. officiating. Dr. James Christian Pfohl presented the nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory silk satin and Strauss Princess lace cut on regal lines. The molded lace bodice was fashioned with low oval neckline, with tulle yoke accented with hand clipped lace medallions. Long lace sleeves tapered to points over the wrists. The lace of the bodice extended to the hip line, dipping slightly in the back. The bouffant skirt of satin spread into a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a bandeaux of lace encrusted in pearls and sequins and she carried a cascade bouquet of pink and white sweetheart roses and stephanotis centered with three pink camellias.

Mrs. Courtney Harrison, of Durham, North Carolina, was the matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Edwin Barnes, of Rock Hill, S. C., Mrs. Richard Henjum, Coral Gables, Fla., Mrs. Herbert Spaugh, Jr., and Mrs. Albert Sterkx, of Lake Charles, sister of the bridegroom. They were dressed in cocktail length royal blue velveteen sheaths with floor length taffeta overskirts. In their hair they wore half circlets of matching curled leaves with flirtation veils and carried cascade bouquets of glamellias with trailing Hahni ivy.

Mr. Farmer served his son as best man, groomsmen and ushers included Dr. Earle Spaugh and Herbert Spaugh, Jr., brothers of the bride, Lt. Clark Matkins, of Bossier City and Lt. Gilbert Aio, Honolulu, Hawaii.

Dr. and Mrs. Spaugh and the Women of the Church were hosts at a reception in the fellowship hall of the church following the ceremony.

Following a wedding trip to Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Farmer will make their home in Borger, Texas.

Miss Hewitt Is Married In Amarillo, Tex.

Baskets of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums, backed by jade fern and candelabra, formed the decorative altar setting for the marriage of Miss Lillie Mae Hewett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mallie Milton Hewett, of Mer Rouge, to Capt. Henry Allen Moseley, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Moseley of Forest, Miss.

Dr. Carl E. Bates, pastor, read the double - ring service on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 3, in the First Baptist Church of Amarillo, Texas. Mrs. Gene Sizemore, organist, played traditional wedding selections and accompanied Miss Sybil Todd, who sang "One Alone," "Because" and "O Perfect Love."

Matron - of - honor was Mrs. Orville Bratton. Bridesmatrons were Mesdames Taylor Norman, Dick Pickett, Linden Brightwell, Joe Conley, Carl Prickett and Erwin Elrod of Victoria, sister of the bridegroom.

The attendants wore identical princess style, waltz - length dresses of pine green velvet, enhanced with low necklines and elbow length sleeves. They wore matching green velvet hats and white kid gloves, and carried bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums and greenery.

Best man was Maj. Gen. Herbert L. Grills, of Lackland Air Force Base. Groomsmen were Col. Walter Clantanoff of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Maj. Erwin Elrod, Victoria. Ushers were Capt. John R. Gilliam, Capt. W. E. Nickham, W. O., John Yarbrough and Orville Bratton.

Candlelighters were Miss Page Elrod of Victoria, niece of the bridegroom, and Miss Judy Bates, Terry Bratton and Billy Bratton.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother - in - law, C. C. Walton of Bastrop, wore a princess gown of silk taffeta. The bodice was enhanced with a low neckline and re-embroidered Alencon lace and seed pearls. The long tapered sleeves terminated in points and the bouffant skirt fell into a chapel sweep. Her finger - tip veil of French illusion was attached to a small cap appliqued in lace, seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a white orchid surrounded by yellow roses and white nylon tulle.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given in the church dining room by Mr. and Mrs. Dock H. Coffey and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bratton. The table was laid with a floor length cloth of white organdy, draped with a deep flounce of organdy and centered with white chrysanthemums flanked with silver candelabra. The table appointments were of silver.

Members of the house party included Mesdames Bill Beck, Jack Delfs, M. M. Crouch, Ross Larsen, Palmer Black, Joe Tarver, John R. Yarbrough, Carter Matthews, Don Hopkins and E. A. Hapke.

Mrs. Herbert L. Grills, Lackland Air Force Base, was acting mother for the bridegroom. She wore an emerald green satin dress and a small velvet hat of contrasting color. Mrs. C. C. Walton, sister of the bride of Bastrop, was acting mother for the bride. She wore a sheath dress of beige lace over taffeta and a matching hat of velveteen petals and feathers. Both had corsages of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to Phoenix, Ariz., the bride traveled in a blue wool dress suit with matching hat and black accessories. The couple will be at home at 3602 Harrison after Nov. 13.

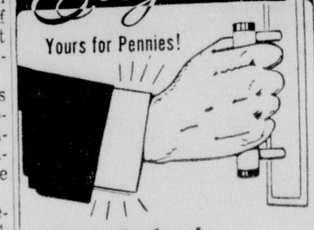

Mrs. Moseley, a graduate of Louisiana Tech, received her master of religious education degree from Southwestern Seminary in Fort Worth. She is a member of the staff of the First Baptist Church of Amarillo as the intermediate education director.

Captain Moseley received his bachelor's degree from Mississippi State College and was a member of the "M" Club. He is stationed at the Amarillo Air Force Base.

Out - of - town guests were LeRoy Hewett, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Walton, Bastrop; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keen, Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Noblitt, Pampa; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rhine, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Kline, Lubbock; Col. and Mrs. Walter Clatanoff, Colorado Springs, Colo.; Maj. and Mrs. Erwin Elrod, Victoria; Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Herbert L. Grills, Lackland Air Force Base.

RAINY DAY RELAXER

A run of rainy days, when the small children must stay indoors, isn't half so hard on everybody's nerves if their play area is floored with rubber tile. Noise is muffled effectively. Small fry don't need constant reminding to be careful of the floor, for resilient rubber tile is never harmed by the heavy traffic of train, truck and space toy wheels that may be dragged over its surface. And best of all, it's easy to keep clean and spotless by a quick once - over with a damp mop, even if junior has spilled glue or paint in the course of pursuing his favorite hobby.

Henry Allen Moseley, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Moseley of Forest, Miss.

Dr. Carl E. Bates, pastor, read the double - ring service on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 3, in the First Baptist Church of Amarillo, Texas. Mrs. Gene Sizemore, organist, played traditional wedding selections and accompanied Miss Sybil Todd, who sang "One Alone," "Because" and "O Perfect Love."

Matron - of - honor was Mrs. Orville Bratton. Bridesmatrons were Mesdames Taylor Norman, Dick Pickett, Linden Brightwell, Joe Conley, Carl Prickett and Erwin Elrod of Victoria, sister of the bridegroom.

The attendants wore identical princess style, waltz - length dresses of pine green velvet, enhanced with low necklines and elbow length sleeves. They wore matching green velvet hats and white kid gloves, and carried bouquets of bronze chrysanthemums and greenery.

Best man was Maj. Gen. Herbert L. Grills, of Lackland Air Force Base. Groomsmen were Col. Walter Clantanoff of Colorado Springs, Colo., and Maj. Erwin Elrod, Victoria. Ushers were Capt. John R. Gilliam, Capt. W. E. Nickham, W. O., John Yarbrough and Orville Bratton.

Candlelighters were Miss Page Elrod of Victoria, niece of the bridegroom, and Miss Judy Bates, Terry Bratton and Billy Bratton.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother - in - law, C. C. Walton of Bastrop, wore a princess gown of silk taffeta. The bodice was enhanced with a low neckline and re-embroidered Alencon lace and seed pearls. The long tapered sleeves terminated in points and the bouffant skirt fell into a chapel sweep. Her finger - tip veil of French illusion was attached to a small cap appliqued in lace, seed pearls and iridescent sequins. She carried a white orchid surrounded by yellow roses and white nylon tulle.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given in the church dining room by Mr. and Mrs. Dock H. Coffey and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bratton. The table was laid with a floor length cloth of white organdy, draped with a deep flounce of organdy and centered with white chrysanthemums flanked with silver candelabra. The table appointments were of silver.

Members of the house party included Mesdames Bill Beck, Jack Delfs, M. M. Crouch, Ross Larsen, Palmer Black, Joe Tarver, John R. Yarbrough, Carter Matthews, Don Hopkins and E. A. Hapke.

Mrs. Herbert L. Grills, Lackland Air Force Base, was acting mother for the bridegroom. She wore an emerald green satin dress and a small velvet hat of contrasting color. Mrs. C. C. Walton, sister of the bride of Bastrop, was acting mother for the bride. She wore a sheath dress of beige lace over taffeta and a matching hat of velveteen petals and feathers. Both had corsages of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to Phoenix, Ariz., the bride traveled in a blue wool dress suit with matching hat and black accessories. The couple will be at home at 3602 Harrison after Nov. 13.

Mrs. Moseley, a graduate of Louisiana Tech, received her master of religious education degree from Southwestern Seminary in Fort Worth. She is a member of the staff of the First Baptist Church of Amarillo as the intermediate education director.

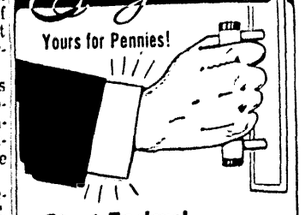

Captain Moseley received his bachelor's degree from Mississippi State College and was a member of the "M" Club. He is stationed at the Amarillo Air Force Base.

Out - of - town guests were LeRoy Hewett, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Walton, Bastrop; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Keen, Shreveport; Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Noblitt, Pampa; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rhine, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Kline, Lubbock; Col. and Mrs. Walter Clatanoff, Colorado Springs, Colo.; Maj. and Mrs. Erwin Elrod, Victoria; Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Herbert L. Grills, Lackland Air Force Base.

RAINY DAY RELAXER

A run of rainy days, when the small children must stay indoors, isn't half so hard on everybody's nerves if their play area is floored with rubber tile. Noise is muffled effectively. Small fry don't need constant reminding to be careful of the floor, for resilient rubber tile is never harmed by the heavy traffic of train, truck and space toy wheels that may be dragged over its surface. And best of all, it's easy to keep clean and spotless by a quick once - over with a damp mop, even if junior has spilled glue or paint in the course of pursuing his favorite hobby.

She Loves New York; It Represents Sweeping Life

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

I have been wondering why I always have loved New York City so much. I loved it from the very first time I saw it when I visited it with my father and mother at the age of 10 or 12.

I have some very vivid memories of that trip. First I remember that the buildings seemed to sway. I suppose this was because they were so much taller than any I had seen before. It was too much all of a sudden.

Then I remember the train trip back from Coney Island, where my father had taken me for many breath-taking adventures. I always have loved the subways. I am sure that many would say "If you had to ride them every day you would not love them — but I think I still would love them .

Nostalgia

Perhaps you might say that I love New York City because I have nostalgic memories about it. This is true. I spent several months here as a very young woman, writing songs, with dreams of making a name for myself in Tin Pan Alley. My son was born here. There are people here I love. Those are heady ingredients but they are not the answer.

I think I love New York City because I love life and New York is the epitome of life. Here you can find anything you want, in a varied but concentrated form. There are more of more kinds of people here. There are more of more kinds of opportunities here, and of course there is more of more sadness here. New York gives one such a tremendous sweep of living and you don't have to search for it! It practically engulfs you and sweeps you along.

Anywhere

Of course one can find the same ingredients in life anywhere, but New York is such a dramatic presentation of life. The majority of you who will read this column do not live in New York City or near it. Is your life hum-drum: Don't let it be!

In every community Nature unfolds her beauty with infinite variety year after year. In every community you can find humor, courage, stimulation, warmth, sympathy, perception and understanding. You also can find tragedy, pessimism, discouragement, meanness and thoughtlessness.

Don't let fatigue, worry, boredom, overweight and stresses and strains of all kinds rob you of a sense of adventure, or dim the glamour of everyday living.

Tomorrow: "Be Easy on Hubby, Yes; But What About the Wife?"

You can use either a teaspoon of vanilla or a half teaspoon of grated lemon rind and one teaspoon of lemon juice to flavor a four - egg sponge cake.

Miss Honor Jean Tarbutton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Tarbutton, of Ruston, is the bride-elect of Robert William Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Turner, also of Ruston. The wedding is planned for four-thirty in the afternoon of December, 27, at the Presbyterian Church there.

MRS. MARVIN MORRISON is the former Miss Geraldine Skipper, daughter of Mr. O. D. Skipper, of Calhoun. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Morrison of Choudrant. The marriage was an event of October. The young couple are making their home in Choudrant.

Miss Fern Griffin's engagement and approaching marriage to Glen Belton, son of Mrs. Geraldine Belton, of Shreveport, is announced by her parents Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Griffin of this city. The wedding will take place at 6:30 o'clock in the evening of November 23, in the First Christian Church.

Day Lilly Group Hear L. L. Price On Landscaping

The Dixieland Day Lily Society held its regular monthly meeting in the Agricultural Building in West Monroe on Monday evening, with L. L. Price, head of the Agriculture and Home Economics department of Northeast Louisiana State College, as the speaker, who discussed "Landscape Design and Plant Composition."

The door prize, consisting of a popular variety of day lily, was won by Mrs. K. R. Young, and beautiful dried plant arrangements were exhibited by Mrs. Patty Carr and Mrs. N. A. Jardine.

Mr. Price emphasized the three steps in landscape design, namely, the plan, the planting and maintenance. He pointed out how the location, the size, the topography and climate of the property along with the personal inclination of the owner determines the composition of the planting. "The planting," said Mr. Price, "is the art part of landscape design."

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Roach, Mrs. Patty Carr, Mr. E. B. Cobb, Mrs. E. N. Earl, Mrs. Suzee Gorman, Mrs. June Hill, Mrs. E. F. Kenny, Mrs. Abbie Lechie, Mrs. T. S. Mangham, Mrs. Warren McGee, Mrs. R. C. Pittard, Mrs. J. H. Savage, Mrs. Smith Stevenson, Mrs. K. R. Young, Mr. W. R. Gates, Mr. L. L. Price and a new member, Mrs. Daisy Carr.

The hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Collier Murphrey, Mrs. T. S. Mangham and Mrs. Patty Carr.

Luggage Ready For Space Travel

With space travel due any day now, luggage makers are doing nip-ups to keep up with the trend of the times. And some of the new things that will be available for Christmas giving this year would be perfectly at home in a space ship enroute to the moon, as well as in the luggage compartment of a 1958 car.

Luggage designers have made drastic changes in travel cases in the last few years. New materials, new shapes, new conveniences have been worked out—all with the idea of lighter weight, scuff-resistance and adaptability to modern modes of travel.

Newest arrival in the luggage lineup is a luxurious, velvety sueded calfskin called veloura. This is the result of a new leather tanning method making it possible to suede the under side of a thick, sturdy hide in the same manner that fine shoes and glove leather is sueded. It gives the leather a deep plushy surface that is practically scuff proof.

SAFE DISTANCE

HOBART, Okla. (AP)—Does eating onions really keep a cold from becoming severe? Clara Neal wondered, asked two doctors. They replied it is helpful only by keeping people at a safe distance from the person who eats onions as a cure.

Luggage Ready For Space Travel

With space travel due any day now, luggage makers are doing nip-ups to keep up with the trend of the times. And some of the new things that will be available for Christmas giving this year would be perfectly at home in a space ship enroute to the moon, as well as in the luggage compartment of a 1958 car.

Luggage designers have made drastic changes in travel cases in the last few years. New materials, new shapes, new conveniences have been worked out—all with the idea of lighter weight, scuff-resistance and adaptability to modern modes of travel.

Newest arrival in the luggage lineup is a luxurious, velvety sueded calfskin called veloura. This is the result of a new leather tanning method making it possible to suede the under side of a thick, sturdy hide in the same manner that fine shoes and glove leather is sueded. It gives the leather a deep plushy surface that is practically scuff proof.

Fall And Winter Furs Are Feminine In Design

Three silhouettes prodominate in the fall and winter furs. The fashion is the tapered silhouette, on the hobble side with softly expanded and rounded shoulders. The straight silhouette follows with more across the shoulders and softening details at top. Third is the full silhouette released all around from the shoulders, worked with panels at the back or swing to the sides emanating in most cases from shirred yokes.

More exposure is the general rule for necklines with collars most frequently set far away from the nape of the neck. Sleeves look shorter, often bell in shape, usually uncuffed and occasionally flared out at the bottom. Deeper armholes complete the story of release and top interest. Many belts are shown usually pulled through slits at the side seams giving a fitted line in front with fullness at the back. When it comes to lengths the long coat is thirteen inches from the floor. The three quarter coat is again highly important, and cape effects in jackets and coats lend true excitement to this elegant collection of beautiful furs.

Alaska Fur Seal is shown in black, matara, and in the newest shade in seal, kitovi, there is an outstanding model with fullness stemming from a shirred yoke. There is a striking Somali leopard coat with the sleeves worked horizonatally achieving an interesting effect. Grey and black Russian broadtail is sleekly lustrous in jackets and coats. Beige Arianas river otter is featured for sports wear. A black southwest African Persian lamb coat features black satin trimming, and Saga Norwegian blue fox appears in a bolero with wide squared off collar. For evening, Empress Chinchilla is charming in a tiered cape, and last but far from least, mink is presented in all lengths and silhouettes.

Mink, usually worked in full luxuriously wide skins, is seen in all its glorious hues from a black-dyed mink long coat to pure white jasmine, with the in between shades running the full gamut of the entire mutation mink family including tourmaline. The tapered or slightly barreled silhouette is emphasized in autumn haze mutation mink developed in one style shown in three different lengths, and the ultimate in design in a back laced coat of lutetia mutation mink. Newest effects in stoles are achieved through diagonal workings of pelts or in longer lengths such as a wide autumn haze mutation mink straight stole measuring a full one hundred inches.

Revillon's collection, designed in Paris and deftly developed in their own New York workroom, is truly one of good taste and understated elegance.

Choose Right Hat Shape For Face Framing Flattery

The right hat can give you a better lift than a plastic surgeon. For the magic of millinery is available to everyone. Whether you choose your hat at the budget bar or patronize an exclusive custom milliner, you can get the same beauty treatment.

The secret of looking your prettiest in a hat is simply found. A "perfect hat face" is oval. Women who have oval faces and even features have no problems when it comes to choosing a hat. They can wear virtually any style.

But the woman whose face is too round can add to her beauty by choosing a hat that will make her face appear oval. To elongate the face, choose a hat that will give you height. Be sure that the width of your high-croned turban, toque or bonnet is in proportion and sufficiently wide to balance the width of your face. Wear off-face hats. When you wear a brim, choose one that has an upward line — a turned-back cuff, an irregular brim with a vertical slant, a brim cut high above your brow.

The woman whose face is too long should reverse these rules to make her face seem wider and therefore more oval. Her hat should have a shallow crown, one that fits the head or has a little extra width at the sides. Brimmed hats are especially becoming when they are flat and wide or gently down-drooping. She may wear round button earrings or fluff her hair out at the sides to increase the broadening effect.

THE HOME SHIFT

Gingko Trees Worth Seeing

By Mildred Swift

We were discussing the eucalyptus tree last week. The nurseries advise staking these at planting time. Leave them staked for a couple of years. At the end of the first growing year cut the top out. This plant has a tendency to run up tall and skinny and then fall over often pulling the roots out of the ground.

The gingko trees at 1133 South Grand, the Robert Layton Place, are worth seeing. Those friends of trees from out of town will find a trip to Ouachita Parish well worth their time, just to see the foliage in blazing color. Seems I've never seen the dogwood so beautiful, either.

To Camellia Growers

Here's a quote from Jo Evans you'll be interested in hearing.

"This past week I was with Dr. Howard Hanchey of the Horticulture Department at LSU and I asked him why at least 75 per cent of the diakagura camellias that were on the market today are inferior and this is what he told me. Diakaguras are never good when grafted on camellia sasanqua understock, they must be on a strong root system, even their own root system is very weak.

Dr. Hanchey eplained that we Dr. Hanchey explained that we thought we could just plant a lot of camellia sasanqua seed and when they were a few years old cut them off and graft camellia japonicas on them. We did not even wait to find out if we were going to have a strong sasanqua bush to use for understock. Dr. Hanchey said that there were some of the camillias, Purple Dawn for instance, that seemed to grow on any understock. Others were very particular about the understock they were grown on.

This explained a great many things to me. I know that my own camellia daikagura is on either Pink Perfection or Opelousas Pink understock and that it has been one of the most satisfactory camellias that I have grown."

General Gardening

If you find a day dry enough, and have nothing to do, you can sprig St. Augustine. Foysia and Centipede. Not all in the same lawn, but choose one of the three. Each has advantages but we usually end up with St. Augustine because our neighbors will hand us all the sprigs we want, over the fence. This is a good time of year for sprigging, while there's plenty of rain. Then, in the spring you can fertilize and the grass is off to a good start.

If your lawn looks tired and the grass not as heavy as it should be, it probably needs a working over. Few of us are going to plow up our lawns and start over. So we'll need to do the next best thing—sprinkle a layer of well rotted manure over the sick looking areas. Use a spading fork and work some of this into the soil, disturbing the established grass as little as possible. Then, next spring a feeding of 8-8-8 should give more life to those sparse areas.

New gardeners — be careful about studying plant and seed catalogues from northern areas. Their weather conditions are different. Many of their planting and fertilizing recommendations can mislead you, causing you to lose plants. Get your information at home.

One of the very best steps you can take to assure success in planting is to first dig a hole larger than necessary to accomodate the plants root system, when spread out naturally. One foot beyond the edge of the roots should be large enough. Then mix large amounts of humus material with the excavated soil—the more the better. Humus, of course, is decomposed organic matter such as decayed leaves, grass clippings, etc.

Peat moss can be used to mix with the soil for planting, but remember it has been dehydrated and will absorb many times its weight in water. So be sure that this peat is thoroughly wet down, or it will rob the plant of needed moisture which could be fatal.

Woody plants are going into dormancy and that means you can start your transplanting of these. Try to make your plant happy by giving it the same conditions it enjoyed before moving. Some plants like sunshine—some like shade. They all want good drainage which often means going deep to break up the "hard pan."

Let me remind you again that a few calendula plants can give you lots of bloom and joy during the winter. The plants can be purchased in local seed stores and nurseries.

This is an excellent time to transplant day lilies. Try some of the new varieties and colors.

Have you noticed how many of the fall and winter dresses will be advertised as "fully lined?" And don't you love them? I'm a convert to the fully lined dress simply because I make all my own and I didn't want to do the extra work. But the fit, hang, and general appearance are worth all the trouble. Taffeta is excellent for lining and there are a number of new, soft cotton materials. The lining is cut by the same pattern as the dress. The individual pieces are pinned together, the seams are sewed just as though you had no lining. This kind of lining is not treated like that in a coat.

A orite glove length this season is about three inches above the wristbone, just right for bracelet-length and push-up sleeves. Besides the perennial color favorites — black, white and navy — you'll find gloves in almost every other color under the sun. All are colorfast and guaranteed washable. (If the label states this). Deeper tones that are popular include cherry red, brown, green, gray, russet and maroon. Also important are lighter colors such as cottonwood which is a warm creamy beige; wicker tan, nougant, a maple sugar color; gold; pink, gray and blue.

Say! It's easy to clean under the refrigerator if you'll use a yardstick encased in an old nylon stocking.

Announcements

I'll be visiting with you with food news and recipes each Thursday in the News-Star and each Friday in the Morning World. Join me then.

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Dorothy Russell from Richland Parish will make a pumpkin pie; Tuesday, Patsy Johnson from Franklin Parish will teach us how to make introductions; Wednesday, is flower arrangement with John Wright from Louisiana Tech; Thursday, "What's new in foods" with Reid Grigsby from Baton Rouge. Friday is marketing day.

See you next Sunday.

Now Is Time For Fixing Garden Tools

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Autumn's final chore — usually accomplished when it is just a little too chilly for comfortable outdoor work — is winterizing the garden equipment. It would seem that cleaning mud from hand cultivators and draining the gasoline and oil from power mowers would be an easy enough job. But, like so many other jobs, one thing leads to another, and the winter tool cleanup turns — in my case— into a general cleanup of the garage and half the cellar.

Power mowers are usually accompanied by instructions for winterizing. Mine must have the oil drained (but nobody ever tells you what to do with old oil), the gas tank drained. Then the spark plug is removed, oil placed under it and then it is replaced — but not connected. The nastiest job is cleaning the whole machine and then wiping it with an oiled rag or with petroleum jelly to prevent rust. We store ours in a corner of the garage, resting on the cutting bar instead of the tires, and all swathed in a plastic sheet.

A more difficult job is preparing the spraying equipment for winter. For tank - type sprayers this requires pails, wrenches, screwdrivers, scrubbing brushes, trisodium phosphate, vinegar, kerosene — and rubber gloves. Take the whole thing apart and place the smaller metal parts in kerosene. Remove the hose and scrub out the tank with trisodium phosphate (which comes under a variety of trade names). I use a straightened metal clothes hanger to poke through the metal rods, after which I soak them in the trisodium solution. (I also treat any leather washers with a bit of lanolin — base face cream to keep them soft.) I pour a mild solution of vinegar water through the rubber hoses. When all is clean, I coat the metal parts lightly with oil, drop them in a cloth bag and tie them onto the tank. Rubber parts are also wrapped — but without oil coating, of course.

MUMS BY THE HUNDREDS—Almost as far as the eye can see, chrysathemums of every color and size paint an autumn picture in a delightfully informal garden in Monroe. The garden is part of a "mum paradise" grown by M. E. Dupont of 810 Alabama. (Staff photos by John Oldenburg)

FLOWERS OF FALL — Mrs. Dupont displays a cluster of the season's most popular flower, the chrysanthemum. The Dupont garden is filled with spoon mums, pompons, the tiny thumb mums, larger and showier mums, and the delicate daisy mums. Colors range from pale lavender and pink to red, bronze and purple.

Pine Paneling In New Colors Sparks Rooms

Keeping up with the Joneses is all right so long as you still manage to retain your individuality in how you do it.

A lot of people are building recreation rooms in their homes and paneling them in woods of the western pine region. It's a good idea to follow this practice yourself. But when it comes to finishing the paneling, then is the time to step out and express your individuality.

To give a different look to wood paneling in the recreation room, the Western Pine Association has developed six new finishes. A free folder shows them in full color with directions for achieving the effects and some outstanding examples of recreation rooms paneled in woods of the western pine region.

The finishes range from Navajo Night, on the dark side, to Fuego Flame, a mixture of bright red. A strikingly different finish that may be suitable to achieve a gay feeling is Paiute Paint. It is created by dabs of color at random and is bound to appeal to the "expressionist" school. Other new colors are Green Glacier, Yellowstone, and Modoc Smoke.

For your free copy, write to: Western Pine Association, Yeon Building, Portland 4, Oregon. Ask for "Recreation Room" folder.

BLIND NAILING

For a professional look, "blind nail" paneling wherever possible, especially at eye level. Drive the nail into the tongue of each panel in such a way that the next panel covers the nail head.

Try Helpful Holiday Hints

By Euna Spielman

"Out of sight — out of mind" is certainly not true when a home demonstration agent is forced by illness to be out of sight of the women with whom she works. Having had this experience for the past three weeks because of flu and other complications, it has proven to her this old saying is not true. She found so many unfinished jobs which she planned to help you complete, waiting — many problems to be discussed and decisions to be made with you. The planned program of work you asked for in your clubs can be carried on. Let me urge each club member to assume her part and carry out the program. It will make you a stronger person for having assumed some responsibility.

The agent has a set of slides on "The Well-Dressed Window" which can be used in clubs. The script to be used with slides is also available to you. Mrs. Dawson and I prepared a mimeographed circular which will help you in dressing the windows with unlined draw draperies. You can get this circular by calling Mrs. Fite, the secretary. The agent may not be able to make up these demonstrations in each club but she plans to have one special interest meeting on the "Well-Dressed Window" in the Agricultural Auditorium as soon as she possibly can — watch this column for the date.

Holiday Time

At the Swartz Home Demonstration club, Mrs. T. G. Johnson had the most attractive tray of cookies. Attractive because of their color, the cookies were a golden brown and were decorated with lime amber honey colored marmalade made of pears and pineapple. Mrs. Johnson called them Thumb-Print cookies made as follows: 1 stick softened oleo, ¼ cup brown sugar, packed; 1 egg yolk; ½ teaspoon vanilla; ½ teaspoon salt; 1 cup flour; blend thoroughly — make into one-inch balls. Dip into slighlly beaten egg whites, roll into chopped nuts — place on ungreased baking sheet — bake 5 minutes. Take thimble and punch hole in center — bake 8 minutes longer, 375 degrees F. Decorate centers with candied cherries, marmalade, etc.

The lime amber honey is made as follows: 3 pounds firm ripe pears or 6 cups ground; 1 cup crushed pineapple, 1 fresh lime, 5 cups sugar. Put pears through food chopper; algo grind lime, combine other ingredients. Heat to boiling over medium heat, stir often. Cook slowly 25 minutes or until jelly stage and transparent. You won't have pears now but be sure to file this recipe for next fall — it's grand.

Checking Records

The agent has been checking on the records turned in for the Best Club of 1957 Contest and she found several clubs have not turned in a record of year's work. Only one club can be the Best Club of 1957 but each club can show its accomplishments by turning in the score sheet used by each club in this contest. Let's have these records, please. Club president, if you are not sure about this matter, call Mrs. Fite and find out if your record is in. Let's have 100 per cent participation in this contest and show the donor of the prize, it makes better club work in Ouachita. Too, the agent needs these records for annual report work.

Holiday Baking

As the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays approach many homemakers ask about the advisability of stuffing poultry several days early and keeping them frozen until the day they are to be served. It takes a long time for the interior of the stuffing to become cold, even in the freezer, and spoilage - producing organisms may thrive in the intermediate temperatures. Therefore, it is a dangerous procedure to attempt to freeze a stuffed bird. However, the stuffing may be prepared and frozen in a tightly covered container some days before it is to be used. Also, the turkey may be stuffed and partially cooked the day before it is to be served. It should be tightly covered and kept in the refrigerator overnight. The time required for completing the cooking will depend on the size of the turkey and the degree of doneness already achieved. Usually an hour or two before serving time will be enough.

Floral Design Creative Art

By Mary M. Jardine

Flower arranging is now recognized as one of the creative arts. There is a direct relationship between horticulture and flower arranging. First we grow flowers in our gardens to beautify the exterior of our homes and the same flowers when brought indoors enhance the beauty of our interior decorations.

Our exhibitors this week, members of the Ivy Guild of Monroe effectively demonstrated the wide latitude we have in creating floral designs for the home.

High score blue ribbon in the arrangement class was awarded to Mrs. Homer Massingill. A frosty green water bottle was selected for the composition in pastel pink. A modified Hogarth curve was achieved with a line of Boston fern, enhanced with pink carnations. A cluster of frosty pink grapes arranged over the rim completed the Hogarth line (lazy S curve). Maiden - hair fern tucked behind the pink carnations provided a change of texture and added depth to the delightful design.

Mrs. Ola Mae Passman designed a colorful composition in fall colors. Mrs. Passman's container was a modern compote of amber glass. The color harmony of brown, yellow and bronzy tones with a touch of gold was perfect for the container. The materials were arranged in a triangular pattern. The background was established with brown cat-tails, graduated in length, followed by tiny yellow button mums. Daisy type chrysanthemums were the next placements. A line of gilded yarrow was incorporated in the design, providing transition in size and color. Low in the arrangement were larger bronzy mums with foliage of the tallow tree and sweet gum placed on the rim of the container. The textures and transition in size and color were excellent. This design would be suitable for a large living room or entrance hall table.

Mrs. Earl Vigg's fresh and crisp fall arangement was delightful to behold. Suitable for a small side table or coffee table, the design was arranged in a milk glass compote, small in scale. The fan shaped background was of crisp, green Boston fern with a bouquet of small yellow button chrysanthemums in the center. This would be just right with traditional furniture.

In the horticulture class Mrs. Massingill was awarded blue ribbons for pyracantha coccinea and an impressive plant of nephtrytis.

The November issue of Flower Grower contains an impressive and interesting article on the history of American Flower Arrangement by Esther Wheeler and Anabel Combs Lasker. From ancient careless craft to studied modern art it is the story of 100 years in American arrangement. Be sure to read it. We have a copy in the Garden Center. Mrs. Wheeler and Mrs. Lasker co - authored "The Complete Book of Flowers and Plants for Interior Decoration," published by Hearthside Press and available this month in your book stores. To quote the authors "The art of American flower arrangement has a varied history. As our way of life changed, flower arrangement changed. But throughout its development American flower arrangement has moved steadily toward artistic independence, for American woman is determined to create in the truly American way. We have revolted against the regimentation of the past and the dominance of foreign schools. Today each arranger responds to the challenge of self - expression. The change from areless craft to studied art is complete."

Hope to see you all at the district meeting in Ruston, Thursday Nov. 21.

Protect Trees To Keep Shade

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

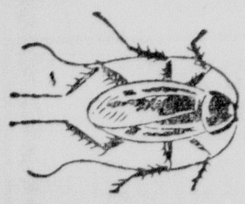

Look over the trees on your property. Are some of them on the way out? Have storms broken some of your shade trees up? Have some of the old ones been starving until it is too late to save them? Will the next high wind blow down some of your leaning trees?

Feeding and tree surgery will save some trees, and if you have very few and little shade, they are worth saving. New trees ought to be set out right away, however, if you are in danger of losing your shade. On wooded property, there are often young trees that have been struggling along, trying to make it against the shade and roots of larger specimens. When the big ones are taken out, these small trees will start growing amazingly fast under good conditions of food and light.

In a country where there are so many beautiful kinds of native trees, it is a pity that we plant only a few kinds. People ask nurserymen for a tree that is "fast-growing and yet long-lived." They want a tree that is "not messy," preferably one that never drops anything! It is true that some kinds of trees do make a mess, but we should be willing to clean up a little under trees that have beautiful foliage in the fall and beautiful trunks, limbs and flowers. The white oak is relatively slow-growing, but, it is a permanent and gorgeous tree that will grow along fast enough if it is fed every year instead of neglected and made to stand still on starvation.

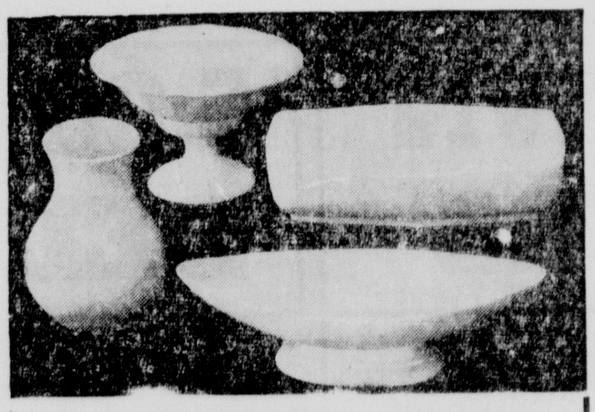

Some twenty years ago, the public discovered that the willow oak was fast growing and permanent. These facts make the willow oak an immensely valuable shade tree. If we go on planting nothing but willow oaks, however, we shall all have to go to the Great Smokies National Park in the bumper-to-bumper traffic to see autumn foliage, for the willow oak does not provide much autumn color.

One of our most famous trees is the tulip poplar (more closely akin to the magnolia than to the poplar). Because this tree is not a spreading type, no one plants it at all. In fact, any tree that does not spread is marked off the list. Out at the edges of your property, as well as interspersed, here and there with the other trees, some of the non-spreading species can be planted to screen the house from the sun in the morning and afternoon. Next week, the column will begin a series of discussions on the different trees we could plant on our home grounds.

Gingko Trees Worth Seeing

By Mildred Swift

We were discussing the eucalyptus tree last week The nurseries advise staking these at planting time. Leave them staked for a couple of years At the end of the first growing year cut the top out This plant has a tendency to run up tall and skinny and then fall over often pulling the roots out of the ground.

The gingko trees at 1133 South Grand, the Robert Layton Place, are worth seeing. Those friends of trees from out of town will find a trip to Ouachita Parish well worth their time, just to see the foliage in blazing color Seems I've never seen the dogwood so beautiful, either.

To Camellia Growers

Here's a quote from Jo Evans you'll be interested in hearing.

"This past week I was with Dr. Howard Hanchey of the Horticulture Department at LSU and I asked him why at least 75 per cent of the diakagura camellias that were on the market today are inferior and this is what he told me Diakaguras are never good when grafted on camellia sasanqua understock, they must be on a strong root system, even their own root system is very weak.

Dr Hanchey eplained that we Dr. Hanchey explained that we thought we could just plant a lot of camellia sasanqua seed and when they were a few years old cut them off and graft camellia japonicas on them We did not even wait to find out if we were going to have a strong sasanqua bush to use for understock Dr. Hanchey said that there were some of the camillias, Purple Dawn for instance, that seemed to grow on any understock Others were very particular about the understock they were grown on.

This explained a great many things to me. I know that my own camellia daikagura is on either Pink Perfection or Opelousas Pink understock and that it has been one of the most satisfactory camellias that I have grown."

General Gardening

If you find a day dry enough, and have nothing to do, you can sprig St. Augustine Foysia and Centipede. Not all in the same lawn, but choose one of the three. Each has advantages but we usually end up with St Augustine because our neighbors will hand us all the sprigs we want, over the fence This is a good time of year for sprigging while there's plenty of rain Then, in the spring you can fertilize and the grass is off to a good start.

If your lawn looks tired and the grass not as heavy as it should be, it probably needs a working over. Few of us are going to plow up our lawns and start over. So we'll need to do the next best thing—sprinkle a layer of well rotted manure over the sick looking areas Use a spading fork and work some of this into the soil, disturbing the established grass as little as possible. Then, next spring a feeding of 8-8-8 should give more life to those sparse areas.

New gardeners — be careful about studying plant and seed catalogues from northern areas. Their weather conditions are different. Many of their planting and fertilizing recommendations can mislead you, causing you to lose plants. Get your information at home.

One of the very best steps you can take to assure success in planting is to first dig a hole larger than necessary to accomodate the plants root system, when spread out naturally One foot beyond the edge of the roots should be large enough Then mix large amounts of humus material with the excavated soil—the more the better Humus, of course, is decomposed organic matter such as decayed leaves, grass clippings, etc.

Peat moss can be used to mix with the soil for planting, but remember it has been dehydrated and will absorb many times its weight in water. So be sure that this peat is thoroughly wet down, or it will rob the plant of needed moisture which could be fatal.

Woody plants are going into dormancy and that means you can start your transplanting of these. Try to make your plant happy by giving it the same conditions it enjoyed before moving. Some plants like sunshine—some like shade. They all want good drainage which often means going deep to break up the "hard pan."

Let me remind you again that a few calendula plants can give you lots of bloom and joy during the winter. The plants can be purchased in local seed stores and nurseries.

This is an excellent time to transplant day lilies. Try some of the new varieties, and colors

Have you noticed how many of the fall and winter dresses will be advertised as "fully lined"? And don't you love them? I'm a convert to the fully lined dress simply because I make all my own and I didn't want to do the extra work But the fit, hang, and general appearance are worth all the trouble. Taffeta is excellent for lining and there are a number of new, soft cotton materials. The lining is cut by the same pattern as the dress The individual pieces are pinned together the seams are sewed just as though you had no lining This kind of lining is not treated like that in a coat.

A orite sleeve length this season is about three inches above the wristbone, just right for bracelet-length and push-up sleeves. Besides the perennial color favorites — black, white and navy — you'll find gloves in almost every other color under the sun All are colorfast and guaranteed washable. (If the label states this). Deeper tones that are popular include cherry red, brown, green, gray, russet and maroon Also important are lighter colors such as cottonwood which is a warm creamy beige; wicker tan, nougant a maple sugar color gold; pink, gray and blue

Say! It's easy to clean under the refrigerator if you'll use a yardstick encased in an old nylon stocking

Now Is Time For Fixing Garden Tools

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Autumn's final chore — usually accomplished when it is just a little too chilly for comfortable outdoor work — is winterizing the garden equipment. It would seem that cleaning mud from hand cultivators and draining the gasoline and oil from power mowers would be an easy enough job. But, like so many other jobs, one thing leads to another, and the winter tool cleanup turns — in my case— into a general cleanup of the garage and half the cellar.

Power mowers are usually accompanied by instructions for winterizing. Mine must have the oil drained (but nobody ever tells you what to do with old oil), the gas tank drained. Then the spark plug is removed, oil placed under it and then it is replaced — but not connected. The nastiest job is cleaning the whole machine and then wiping it with an oiled rag or with petroleum jelly to prevent rust. We store ours in a corner of the garage, resting on the cutting bar instead of the tires, and all swathed in a plastic sheet.

A more difficult job is preparing the spraying equipment for winter. For tank - type sprayers his requires pails, wrenches, screwdrivers, scrubbing brushes, trisodium phosphate, vinegar, kerosene — and rubber gloves. Take the whole thing apart and place the smaller metal parts in kerosene Remove the hose and scrub out the tank with trisodium phosphate (which comes under a variety of trade names) I use a straightened metal clothes hanger to poke through the metal rods, after which I soak them in the trisodium solution (I also treat any leather washers with a bit of lanolin base face cream to keep them soft.) I pour a mild solution of vinegar water through the rubber hoses When all is clean, I coat the metal parts lightly with oil, drop them in a cloth bag and tie them onto the tank Rubber parts are also wrapped — but without oil coating, of course.

MUMS BY THE HUNDREDS—Almost as far as the eye can see, chrysathemums of every color and size paint an autumn picture in a delightfully informal garden in Monroe. The garden is part of a "mum paradise" grown by M. E. Dupont of 810 Alabama. (Staff photos by John Oldenburg)

FLOWERS OF FALL — Mrs. Dupont displays a cluster of the season's most popular flower, the chrysanthemum. The Dupont garden is filled with spoon mums, pompons, the tiny thumb mums, larger and showier mums, and the delicate daisy mums. Colors range from pale lavender and pink to red, bronze and purple.

Pine Paneling In New Colors Sparks Rooms

Keeping up with the Joneses is all right so long as you still manage to retain your individuality in how you do it.

A lot of people are building recreation rooms in their homes and paneling them in woods of the western pine region It's a good idea to follow this practice yourself. But when it comes to finishing the paneling, then is the time to step out and express your individuality.

To give a different look to wood paneling in the recreation room, the Western Pine Association has developed six new finishes A free folder shows them in full color with directions for achieving the effects and some outstanding examples of recreation rooms paneled in woods of the western pine region.

The finishes range from Navajo Night, on the dark side, to Fuego Flame, a mixture of bright red. A strikingly different finish that may be suitable to achieve a gay feeling is Paiute Paint It is created by dabs of color at random and is bound to appeal to the "expressionist" school Other new colors are Green Glacier, Yellowstone, and Modoc Smoke

For your free copy, write to: Western Pine Association, Yeon Building, Portland 4, Oregon Ask for "Recreation Room" folder

BLIND NAILING

For a professional look, "blind nail" paneling wherever possible, especially at eye level. Drive the nail into the tongue of each panel in such a way that the next panel covers the nail head.

Try Helpful Holiday Hints

"Out of sight — out of mind" is certainly not true when a home demonstration agent is forced by illness to be out of sight of the women with whom she works. Having had this experience for the past three weeks because of flu and other complications, it has proven to her this old saying is not true. She found so many unfinished jobs which she planned to help you complete, waiting — many problems to be discussed and decisions to be made with you. The planned program of work you asked for in your clubs can be carried on. Let me urge each club member to assume her part and carry out the program. It will make you a stronger person for having assumed some responsibility.

The agent has a set of slides on "The Well-Dressed Window" which can be used in clubs. The script to be used with slides is also available to you. EIGHTEEN AND ANXIOUS — Jackie Loughery, William Campbell and Mary Webster are shown in a scene from "Eighteen and Anxious" that is now showing at the Paramount Theatre. The picture also has in its cast Martha Scott, Jim Baccus and Miss Joyce Andre from New Orleans. The picture deals with modern day's youth and their parents.

'Operation Mad Ball' Is Hilarious

"Operation Mad Ball," destined to be one of the funniest films in years, starts a four day run at the Paramount Theatre on Wednesday.

Heading a large cast of super comedy stars are Jack Lemmon, Ernie Kovacs, Arthur O'Connell, Mickey Rooney and Dick York. The film also stars Kathryn Grant who married recently Bing Crosby. It is the first film for comedian Ernie Kovacs who has made a large home audience from his many television appearances.

The story takes place at an Army hospital installation in Normandy in 1955 with private Jack Lemmon falling for nurse Kathryn Grant. Captain Ernie Kovacs has his eye on her also, and since he can't stand Lemmon, he tries to make things tough for him. The officers think they run the outfit, but it turns out that Lemmon is the real boss. He manages to outwit Kovacs at every turn. It winds up with him scheduling a ball to bring together the enlisted men with nurses, who couldn't see each other socially under normal regulations.

Lucine Amara Is Guest Of Telephone Hour

Lucine Amara, American - born leading soprano with the Metropolitan Opera of New York, will be the featured guest on the Telephone Hour Monday night. The program is presented over the National Broadcasting Corporation radio network at 8 p. m. Monroe time. She will be accompanied by Donald Voorhees and the Bell Telephone orchestra.

For her principal number on the program Miss Amara has selected an aria from a long - neglected Verdi opera which has had two revivals this season. It is the "Letter Scene" from MacBeth," a stirring song in which Lady Macbeth reads the account of her husband's meeting with the three witches and their fateful prophecy.

In a completely different mood she will sing "One Day When We Were Young" from "The Great Waltz," with music by Johann Strauss II and lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein II. Donald Voorhees and the orchestra continue the same mood with the popular "Gold and Silver Waltz" by Franz Lehar.

Miss Amara will also sing two short numbers on the broadcast. One is the charming "Villanelle of the Little Ducks" by Emanuel Chabrier, and the other will be the gay song by Clara Edwards, "Gipsy Life."

Donald Voorhees and the orchestra will open the broadcast with Phil Wall's arrangement, a la Rimsky Korsakoff, of the traditional "Little Brown Jug." Their other number on the program will be Debussy's colorful "Clair de Lune."

BRENDA LEWIS

Brenda Lewis Stars In Opera At Shreveport

SHREVEPORT, La. Nov. 16 — Brenda Lewis, celebrated Metropolitan Opera soprano, will combine her talents as a singer and an actress to perform the leading role in Puccini's "Tosca" here November 19 at the Strand Theater.

Miss Lewis' renown as an opera star is expected to draw a capacity crowd of Ark-La-Tex opera-goers for an exciting evening that will mark the first production of the season by the Shreveport Civic Opera Association.

On November 19, Miss Lewis as the heroine of the Puccini opera will realize a long - standing ambition. In "Tosca", the audience will see her for the first time in a part for which she has long prepared. Her continued interest in the role of Tosca as well as her intense practice point toward a performance that may well be one of the highlights in her fabulous career.

The popularity of Miss Lewis as an opera performer has increased in recent years. With the Vienna State Opera in a four - month engagement in Vienna, Austria, last year, she had one of her most successful seasons and next year has already been engaged to appear in European opera in Austria, Switzerland and Spain in addition to concert performances in Italy.

Citizens' Stamp Committee Sees Work Fruition

The recently formed U. S. Citizens Stamp Advisory Committee is seeing some of its fine work bear stamps.

The fruition was announced by Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield as he made public a list of nine commemoratives and one stamp in the "Famous Americans" series for issuance in 1958. The adhesives were recommended by the citizens committee.

The commemoratives are:

1. A stamp honoring the Garden and Horticultural Club of Americea, to be issued March 15 on the 100th anniversary of the birth of noted horticulturist Liberty Hyde Bailey.
2. A stamp honoring the opening of Brussels Universal and International Exhibition for issuance on April 15.
3. A stamp commemorating the 100th anniversary of Minnesota statehood on May 11.
4. A stamp honoring the opening of the Mackinac Straits Bridge. It will be issued sometime in June.
5. A stamp honoring the 100th anniversary of the completion of the Atlantic Cable for issuance on Aug. 15.
6. A stamp honoring the centennial of the overland mail on Sept. 16.
7. A stamp dedicated to journalism and freedom of the press scheduled for September. This will mark the 50th anniversary of the founding of the School of Journalism aa the University of Missouri.
8. A stamp to be issued on April 28 honoring the 200th anniversary of the birth of President James Monroe.
9. A stamp to be issued on Dec. 31, 1958, honoring the International Geophysical Year.

The "Famous Americans" stamp will pay tribute to Noah Webster and is scheduled for Oct. 16.

At the next meeting of the committee, additional recommendations will be made for the 1958 program.

Speaking of famous men, France has issued seven new stamps in its "World's Famous Men Series." The 8-franc bears a portrait of Copernicus, 10-fr Michelangelo, 12-fr Miguel de Cervantes Saavedra, 15-fr Rembrandt van Rijn, 18-fr Sir Isaac Newton 25-fr Wolfgang Mozart, 35-fr Johann Goethe.

THE TIN STAR — Bounty hunter Henry Fonda, in town to collect a reward on the outlaw he has killed, walks into a stand-off between inexperienced lawman Anthony Perkins and gunman Neville Brand, in a tense scene from the Perlberg-Seaton VistaVision "The Tin Star." The picture is now showing at the Jim Theatre.

Fonda, Perkins Paired In Film 'The Tin Star'

"The Tin Star" one of the most highly lauded western films to come along in years, is now showing at the Jim Theatre.

Acclaimed as a superb action tale that is apparently headed for a special place on the all-time-great western list, the Paramount release stars international favorite Henry Fonda and Oscar-nominee Anthony Perkins, and co - stars lovely Betsy Palmer, British moppet Michel Ray, Neville Brand and John McIntire. Pretty starlet Mary Webster heads the supporting cast.

The first western production of the famed team of William Perlberg and George Seaton, whose films have won eighteen Academy Awards in the past ten years, "The Tin Star" was expected from the outset to display the stamp of quality. "The Country Girl" and "The Bridges at Tokori" have shown the duo's magic with either straight drama or action drama, and this VistaVision film should be a rare combination of both, utilizing memorable characters to tell an unusual story of adventure and suspense. Quality is evident in every aspect of its production, from cast to director to screenwriter.

The story, written for the screen by Academy Award - winner Dudley Nichols, who scripted the classic "Stagecoach" and "For Whom the Bell Tolls," has Fonda as a former sheriff in need of money who turns to bounty hunting, the tracking down of wanted fugitives for the price on their heads. He becomes a hardened professional, who takes the "dead or alive" posters at their word and always brings his men in dead, at the cost of being shunned by both lawful and lawless.

In small - town sheriff Perkins he finds a mirror of his younger self, a raw novice with only courage as qualification for his job, and he stays on to teach him his deadly trade. Involved, in spite of himself, in the town's violence, he discovers he himself still has something to learn, and that through Betsy Palmer he still has a chance to make a place for himself in a world he has come to hate.

Direction of the eagerly-awaited film is by Anthony Mann, noted for "Strategic Air Command," "Winchester 73" and "The Glenn Miller Story" and credited widely as a director who pulls the best possible performance from his cast.

Book Week Slated November 17th-23rd

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

All over our country this week schools, libraries and book stores are celebrating Book Week, an event which has grown in National importance since it was inaugurated back in 1919. Of course we are celebrating this event at each of the branches of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. A special book week bookmark will be given to each child who visits the main library, the West Monroe library, the Bookmobile or the Carver Branch during this week. Be sure to ask for your book mark.

In celebration of this week we have a number of new children's books for our young friends. I have divided them into groups according to reading interests.

For the youngest readers.

"Archie Angel" by Margot Austin is a charming story of a small angel who didn't always behave like one. The illustrations are delightful. This is a book for beginning readers, or for family fun in reading aloud. "The Boy who Got Mailed" by Bill and Rosalie Brown can be read by the children themselves. It is an exciting story about the postal service. All cat lovers will enjoy "The Cat Who Couldn't Purr" written and illustrated by Polly Cameron. "Wait Till Sunday" by Susan Dorritt and illustrated by Roger Duvoisin is a delightful picture book dealing with an interesting subject. "Just the Right Size" by Robin and Billie King is a book which a second grade child can enjoy reading.

A beautifully illustrated book for reading aloud by parents is "Some Day" by Grace Paul Other delightful books are: Ellen McGregor's "Mr. Pingle and Mr. Button-House," "Ding Dong Bell" by Berta and Elmer Hador and "One Rainy Night" by Pelagie Donae.

For the pre - teens.

"Katie Kittenheart" by Miriam E. Mason and "Judy's Surprising Day" by Sally Scott are two charming books for readers on the fourth or fifth grade level. Juvenile mysteries are always popular and there are three new ones available this week. "Mystery of the Green Cat" by Phyllis A. Whitney; "The Black Stallion Mystery" by Walter A. Farley and "Mystery in the Square Tower" by Elizabeth A. Honness. Those who like American settings will enjoy 'Daniel Boone Echo" by William O. Steele, "Danny Dunn on a Desert Island" by Jay Williams and "The Bright High Flyer" by Margaret J. Baker. An interesting book of American folklore is "Tales from the High Hills" by Ellis Credle.

"Soil Saver," the work of the Soil Conservation service of the United States Department of Agriculture, "Firearms by Winchester," "Firing Line Weapons, Vehicles, Rockets and Research Army Proving Grounds," and "Leatherneck," the training weapoins and equipment of the United States marine corps are books which will appeal to all boys.

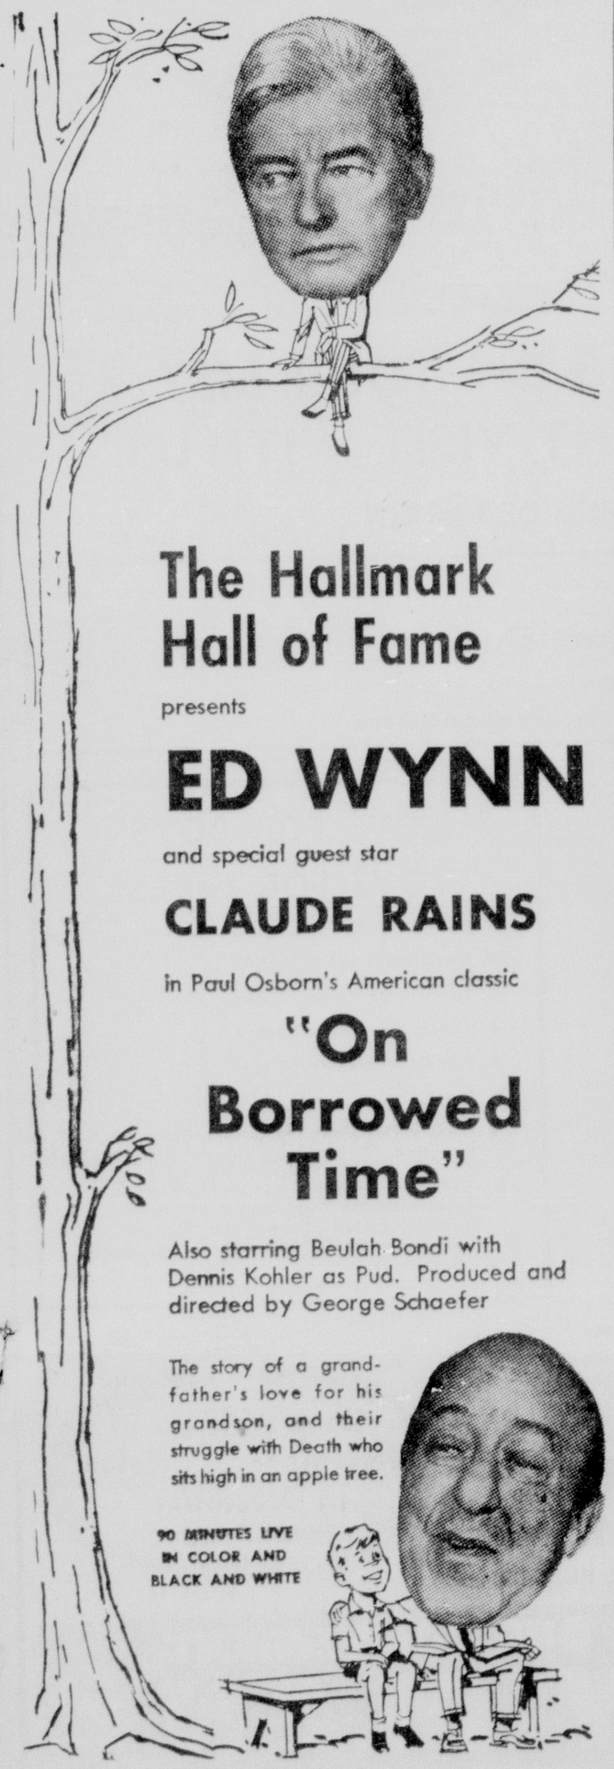

For Teen agers.

All teen age girls love the Janet Lambert books and we have a new title in this series called "Myself and I." "Brother against Brother" is a collection of stories dealing with the War Between the States, selected by Phyllis R. Fenner. "Wolf Brother" by Jim Kjelgaard is a story of a young Apache Indian boy in the last years of the present century. A most important factual book is "Rockets Through Space" by Lester Dei Rey. It could not have appeared at a better time.

All of these books are available at your Ouachita Parish Public Library. Come and get one and truly "explore with books."

For Teen agers.

All teen age girls love the Janet Lambert books and we have a new title in this series called "Myself and I." "Brother against Brother" is a collection of stories dealing with the War Between the States, selected by Phyllis R. Fenner. "Wolf Brother" by Jim Kjelgaard is a story of a young Apache Indian boy in the last years of the present century. A most important factual book is "Rockets Through Space" by Lester Dei Rey. It could not have appeared at a better time.

All of these books are available at your Ouachita Parish Public Library. Come and get one and truly "explore with books."

Little Theater Curtain Call

By SANDRA JOHNSON

Two weeks of rehearsals for "Hatful of Rain" is already behind us. Sorta hard to believe . . . isn't it? A lot of things have transpired during those weeks. The cast has acquired the basic idea of the play and the main blocking is over. The set is under construction and many of the properties have already been obtained.

Now comes the job of memorizing lines and polishing the entire production into it's final perfection. That's the real job of putting on a Little Theatre production. But, the cast of "Hatful of Rain" is going to have no trouble there. Even after just a week of rehearsals the cast is beginning to acquire a certain amount of polish.

Still needed is one man — say in the mid-twenties — for a small part in the play. Here's a good chance to set foot before the footlights. If interested, please contact director Ivan Uttal at FA 3-8413.

Looks as though "The Reluctant Debutante", the first production of this season, is terribly popular. The Tulsa Little Theatre has done it and the Majorie Lyons Playhouse of Shreveport did it, right now they are in rehearsal for "The Lark."

Speaking of current plays, did you know that The Little Theatre of Monroe is the first Little Theatre to do "Hatful of Rain"? But every other theatre has it scheduled for this season.

Another of the plays on tap for the Monroe audiences this season is "Witnesses for the Prosecution." We hear ahe Baton Rouge Little Theatre has just finished putting it on over there.

Seems as though this season is very popular as well as very entertaining. Be sure to make plans to see each and every production that the Little Theatre has in store for you this year.

Ancient Legend Is Lovely Tale

As beautiful as the flower itself, is the story of the Christmas Rose.

Legend tells us that a small girl wept as she saw the Three Wise Men pass by on their way to Bethlehem.

An angel appeared to inquire of the child's sadness. The girl, Madelon, told the angel she wept because she had no gift to take to the Christ Child.

In a moment, the ground was covered with pure white roses. Madelon gathered them and hurried to present her gift.

The Christ Child smiled when he saw the roses. He reached out and as he touched them, the petals became suffused with pink.

Each year after, the Christmas Rose has grown — during a most unusual season — from the month of His birth, December, to March.

Gifts Of Books Are Good For All On List

Books make a grand gift, especially if they are selected in view of, the recipient's particular tastes. Books which are suitable for reference as well as immediate pleasure are best.

The gardiner, for example, might enjoy a book which is written in narrative form, but packed with facts for better growing.

For the arm chair traveler, it's easier to select. There are even fiction books which he would enjoy over and over.

Cooking, decorating and sewing books might be a successful gift with the homemaker.

Reference books and dictionaries are fine family gifts.

Sports provide yet another theme for which there are many irteresting how-to-do type books. Histories of sports are popular, too.

In selecting books for children ask the book store clerk to help you or check ahead with the library.

Gifts of books are always fun to get — but they're even more fun if they are read over and over and over or used again and again.

Desk Items Good Gifts For Young And Old Alike

Gifts for the home or office desk warmly remind of your thoughtfulness all year.

Letter writing and home or office business chores are made much more pleasant with handy, beautiful writing tools.

Stationery is always useful, and the variety is extensive. For a personal touch, have it printed with the recipient's initials or name.

Fountain pens, ball point pens and mechanical pencils are marylous gifts for everyone, including children.

For very small youngsters, thick, soft lead pencils or crayons are best. For 2nd and 3rd grades, mechanical pencils or ball points are preferred over the fountain pen.

Desk sets are lovely and eliminate the 'fumble' for a writing impliment. They may be plain or include a clock, ink holder, or clip tray.

Personalized postcards are a novel gift and an extremely useful one, too.

A really appreciated gift is a stamp jar or holder — filled with stamps.

The bidding:

North, 1 spade; East, Pass; South, 2 clubs; West, Pass.

North, 2 diamonds; East, Pass; South, 2 no trump; West, Pass.

North, 3 no trump; East, Pass; South, Pass; West, Pass.

Opening lead: Jack of hearts.

South, declarer in today's hand, fell victim to inertia in the play of his game contract in no trump. He must have been influenced to a degree by the cliche about attacking first the suit in which one has the most cards.

The final contract is sound enough, though we cannot subscribe to North's bid of one spade. It is better practice with four card suits to open first with the suit below the doubleton (or singleton), in this case a diamond. North would have found traveling somewhat less than comfortable had he been greeted with a response of two hearts.

West led the jack of hearts, which ran to South's queen. Here is where inertia took effect. Finding himself in the South hand, it seemed natural to drift into the diamond finesse; furthermore, he had more diamonds than anything else.

The queen of diamonds lost to East's king and a heart came back, establishing the suit. Declarer's remaining hope lay with the club finesse, and when this proved a disappointment, he was down on his contract.

Declarer had not given himself the best chance. If West held five hearts, it was immaterial which of the minor suits he attacked first, but if West had six hearts, declarer could cinch the contract by going for the clubs first. This would deprive West of his only possible entry, the king of clubs, and render his hearts powerless.

At trick two, therefore, declarer should cross to dummy's king of spades and put through the ten of clubs. West wins and establishes hearts, but East is now out of the suit and cannot return it when he wins the diamond finesse.

It is granted that the chances of West's holding exactly six hearts was not great, but since it involved declarer in no extra cost, he might just as well have availed himself of the additional chance.

Scout Leaders Pursue Basics Of Clay Modeling

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

Creativeness in art takes many forms, from the sculptured figures carved in stone by the masters to the fantastic, glaring finger-paintings of a six-year-old.

The thrill of accomplishment which is experienced in fashioning any object is not restricted by the subject matter — and realizing that "you creep before you walk," leaders in the Silver Waters Girl Scout council have been learning the basics of clay modeling, so they in turn may teach the art to youngsters in Scout troops.

Two classes in ceramics are being conducted by Mrs. G. C. Porter, at the Girl Scout headquarters in Monroe. Mrs. Porter, who is an authority on the subject, is instructing 40 Scoutleaders, assistant leaders, and troop committee members in the crafts workshop, which meets once a week.

Three groups of Scouts are already exploring the ceramic field. Troop 11, composed of Brownies at Lida Benton school, is in its third week, and plans to use the finished products as Christmas gifts.

Intermediate scout troop 44, at Our Lady of Fatima school, is in the third step of the process, under guidance of Mrs. Louis Breard, Jr. Intermediate troop 48 is also starting the clay-work. Troop leaders are Mrs. M. A. Denoux and Mrs. Floyd Stone, Jr.

Five Steps

Five steps are necessary in making pottery. The women mix clay powder with water, to achieve the desired consistency for molding.

They then place a wedge of the clay on a "wing board" and extract from this enough for the size of a large egg, which is placed on a large, flat piece of plaster called a 'bat.'

The plaster absorbs moisture from the clay, as it is molded into shape by hand.

Although a miniature pot was the objective as the first pottery creation, "most of the women worked it into a modernistic ashtray," Mrs. Porter laughed.

After the clay pottery has dried, a cleaning process takes place. Fettling tools are used to smooth off the edges, and scrape away rough areas. Sides which are too thick are evened off by small, pieces of metal, and the entire piece is wiped with a sponge, which cleans it and opens the pores in the clay. This prepares it for the next process, painting.

Ceramic Paint

Regular ceramic paint, with the consistency and appearance of poster paint, is applied — using any brush, from the finest red sable to an ordinary water-color brush.

Ceramic painting is similar to china painting, and vivid colors are used. A basic color is placed on the pottery, and designs are applied onto the first coating.

Imagination was the basis for designs. Mrs. Ed Middleton's earthenware is an example of the modernistic trend. A futuristic bird, in colors of peacock green, old rose, pale yellow and black appears in bold design, while on Mrs. J. K. Goins' product, the Mexican motif meets the eye. The outside is done in colors of cherry red and black, while the inside has a cactus with brown flowers.

Members of the leaders class who completed painting on their earthenware Thursday gave it to Mrs. Porter to be placed in a kiln for the next process: firing.

Placed in Kiln

The objects were placed into a small kiln, with several trays to hold all the pottery ready to be baked. Weather determines the amonut of time needed for firing, with four to six hours necessary.

Firing is done in an electric ceramic kiln, in which the temperature is brought to 1875 degrees —hot enough to melt nails. Small "peepholes" enable Mrs. Porter to look into the kiln, to check on the process.

"When a small cone which is part of the mechanism bends from the heat, I can turn the oven off," she explained. The oven must then cool for 24 hours, until it again reaches room temperature. "If I opened it before the pottery had cooled, the dishes would explode," the instructor added.

Glazing — using liquid ground glass — is painted onto the bisque piece which has been fired one time. Both clear and colored liquick may be used, to achieve slick, professional effect.

The glaze is then fused or blended into the earthenware by a second firing, called the 'ghost fire.'

Mrs. Louis Breard revealed that the troop at Our Lady of Fatima has already reached the glazing process. The girls are making ashtrays and dishes, painted turquoise or rose, as gifts.

"Some painted on the initials of the person who will receive the pottery, and they all enjoy the craft immensely. They hope to eventually receive pottery badges, an achievement which requires study on the subject of pottery making, plus forming several different items," Mrs. Breard mentioned.

Although pottery classes took place several years ago, this is the largest effort to date, and the Scout office has received many requests from the troops throughout the parish for instruction on the craft.

Approximately 1300 girls are members of the Silver Waters Council, and from the number of enthusiastic inquiries coming in, scout leaders comment "It looks like we'll be busy with the pottery classes through February."

Modern Institution In Florida Is Very Similar To A Motel

By CHRIS MAC GILL

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) —The patients give the best descriptions of the nation's newest hospital for the mentally ill.

"It's like coming out of prison," said an inmate just transferred to the South Florida State Hospital from an older institution.

"This is like living in a motel," was the incredulous declaration of another transferee.

"It's nice and airy and open," said a third. "It makes you feel cheerful."

Even the garbage cans are gaily colored at this hospital, where architecture and decorating go hand in hand with medical therapy to cure the mentally disturbed.

The layout could be mistaken at first glance for an elaborate resort motel.

"Where are the enclosures?" asked a visitor who had been an attendant at a northern mental hospital. He was accustomed to so-called "bullpens," fenced and dreary, for patients to plod around to get outdoor exercise.

He was standing near one of the sunny patios which serve the purpose here but didn't recognize it for what it was.

The patios are walled but the enclosures are of the type which surround the gardens of luxurious suburban homes — concrete - block latticeworks which admit the breeze and allow patients a free view of the outside.

Architect William Gilroy of the Fort Lauderdale spent weeks touring mental hospitals in other states and Canada before drawing up what he calls the "campus plan" of this institution.

He found most "more like prisons than healing institutions." Avoiding the penal atmosphere was his major objective in designing the South Florida hospital.

There are no bars at the wide windows which run almost from ceiling to floor. Strong screening is used instead. It looks almost like the screen which might be used in an ordinary house but it's so tough it could support the weight of a man.

The hospital buildings painted a soothing gray - green, are scattered over landscaped grounds and patients stroll in the open air from one to another.

Interior decorators were called in to give advice on furnishing the sun - flooded wards and playrooms and painting their walls. Drabness is nonexistent.

There are no huge wards accommodating 50 to 100 patients such as are the rule at older hospitals. The largest wards are designed for eight beds — 12 in a pinch — and there are a number of single rooms.

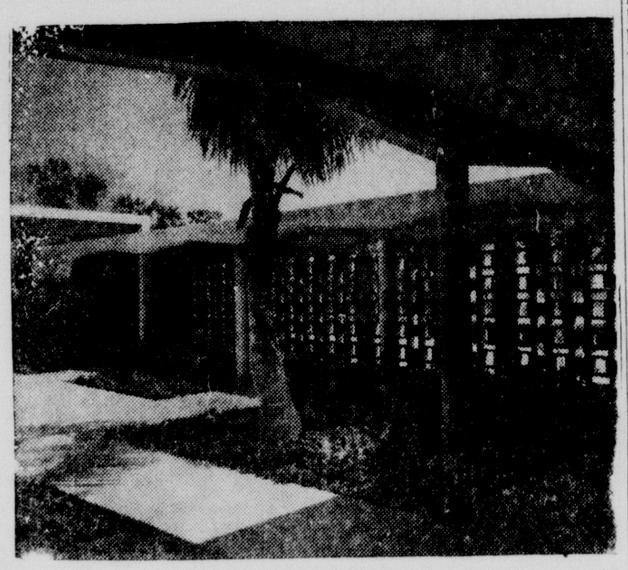

"Each patient preserves his or her identity in smaller groups," explained Dr. Arnold H. Eichert, the tall, relaxed hospital superintendent who came here from the Crownsville State Hospital in Maryland.

The peaceful, cheerful surroundings contribute to a lack of tension throughout the hospital.

Mary Duval, a nurse who worked in northern institutions before coming here, calls it a hospital which "doesn't strip the dignity from patients."

Parts of the hospital still are under construction. It started accepting patients in March and has nearly 500 now. When it is complete, it will have 1,600 beds. Ten million dollars has been appropriated for it so far. The ultimate cost will be 15 million dollars—considered moderate for a hospital of this size.

Are patients cured more quickly in a hospital of this kind? It's too early to tell.

FENCING WITHOUT FENCES: This decorative barrier, while looking like a garden wall, actually serves as a fence to keep mental patients inside the grounds.

Benson To Remain In Ike's Cabinet

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (UP)— Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson returned today from a round-the-world trip and said he has not intention of resigning.

The trip had been billed by some of Benson's critics as a "farewell present" from the Eisenhower administration for the controversial Cabinet member.

Demands for his resignation have been increasing in the last several weeks. They have come from members of both parties.

"I have no plans to leave the cabinet," Benson told newsmen as he stepped from a government special missions plane at 10:55 a.m. CST. "I have no plans as to my length of service. I am serving from day to day as I have always done."

Benson was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Benson and two of their daughters, Beverly, 20, and Bonnie, 17 and five members of the Agriculture Department staff. They visited 12 countries and Hong Kong to observe agriculture development and look at operation of American surplus disposal programs.

Mrs. Benson's presence on the plane was not announced until 20 hours after the trip began Oct. 22. Earlier, Benson had told a news conference she was not going because "she just didn't feel up to it." He said Beverly was accompanying him to be his companion at social function and that Bonnie would be Beverly's companion. The department announced after the plane left that Mrs. Benson decided "at the last minute" to go along, too.

He was asked by newsmen if he had heard rumors that he was going to resign or be removed, and what was his reaction.

"That question has been raised ever since the first week I took the job," Benson said. "I presume if the prognosticators contniue long enough they are sure to hit right some time."

Wounded Man Charged With Murder Trys

BATON ROUGE, Nov. 16 (AP)—A 43-year-old construction worker critically wounded in a gunfight with two policemen was charged today with two counts of attempted murder.

Meanwhile, Our Lady of the Lake Hospital reported Michael Greene was "holding his own" with wounds of the head and shoulder received in the gun battle.

A physician who examined Greene today said it was doubtful he would live another 24 hours. He is in an oxygen tent.

Patrolman Donald A. Stoetzner, wounded in the throat by Greene, was reported "improving slowly."

The other officer, patrolman James A. Johnson, was wounded in the left hand.

The shooting occurred in a deluxe downtown apartment when Greene apparently tried to persuade his wife, Mrs. Caroline Greene, 41, manager of the Town House Apartments, to settle a dispute they had two months earlier. An argument resulted and police were called.

Court Report

Pleading guilty in District Court here Friday to theft of a pump gun wirth $100 was Aubrey D. Jones of Point, La., who also denied receiving stolen things. He was remanded until pre-sentence investigation is made on the first charge.

'WE ARE NOT ALONE'

Says We Are Not Only Humans In The Universe

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (AP)—Are we the only humans living in this incomprehensibly vast universe of ours?

Or are there people like us, or even superior, on other planets near or far away?

Only by exploring space can man begin to answer this question nagging him nearly since his time began.

"We are not alone," declares Dr. Harlow Shapley, famous Harvard astronomer. He estimates there could be 100 million planets capable of supporting life as we know it.

There are billions upon billions of stars or suns in the universe. Even supposing that most have no planets at all, there still could be 100 million planets situated at the right distance from a sun, possessing oxygen and all other conditions for our kind of life, Dr. Shapley reasons.

Very likely, human astronauts will never be able to visit much more than the other planets of our Sun—Mars, Venus, Jupiter, Saturn and others.

Space Cruiser Travel

These could be reached in days, weeks or years, depending on top speeds which space cruisers traveled. By picking up enough speed once they were in outer space, cruisers might reach any of our planets within days.

Then men could learn whether there is life, even fantastically different forms of life, on these planets—some arid, some terribly hot or cold, some bathed in poisonous fumes.

What is the meaning of Mars' "canals," of Jupiter's strange markings? Are the asteroids, the belt of flying chunks of matter between Jupiter and Mars, really the remains of an exploded planet?

But reaching even the nearest star, to see if it has planets at all seems impossibly beyond man's dreams.

This star is Alpha Centauri. It is so far away that it takes four years and four months for its light to reach us, and light travels 186,000 miles per second, Physical laws say it is impossible for anything to travel faster than light—science as yet has no inkling even how to approach that fabulous speed.

Yet the chances of learning about life elsewhere are not entirely hopeless.

Men in space could build giant telescopes, far more powerful than any on earth. Our earth's air distorts starlight, makes clear seeing difficult.

Vast Distances

Giant observatories on space platforms, or on the moon, could look clearly and accurately vast distances into space. Some astronomers believe such seeing could help learn secrets of the birth of the universe, or whether life exists on other planets.

Both American and Russian scientists are talking of putting telescopes in the sky. They would take pictures, or use TV eyes.

Space opens vast new frontiers for good or bad, depending on how nations use the new potentials and powers.

A space station hung some 23,000 miles above the earth could provide instantaneous television for half the world at a time.

It could circle at such a speed, relative to the earth's own rotation, that it would appear to stay always at the same point above the earth. TV signals could be reflected from it into homes over the same program to everyone around the world at the same moment.

Other satellites at chosen heights could survey the earth with telescopic and TV eyes, or radar, prying into any country's secrets. Military men see them also as potential bases for launching guided missiles with atomic warheads to impose the will of the sky-master nation.

Rocket and space control, though, is not likely to become one nation's monopoly, many scientists believe. Checkmaking is more likely. War in space, aimed at destroying an unfriendly space station, is mentioned as a possibility.

Giant Mirror

Prof. Hermann Oberth of Germany, a famous space pioneer, proposes a giant mirror, composed of many facets, above the earth. It might be 60 miles in diameter, focusing the sun's rays upon the earth, as you might do with a magnifying glass.

For bad, it could be aimed to burn an enemy's country, Dr. Oberth says.

For good, part of the mirror could be used safely to light large towns at night, or to melt dangerous Atlantic icebergs, open up winter frozen sea lanes, counteract night frosts threatening fruit crops even perhaps alter temperatures and cloud movements to bring rain where needed.

Far more immediately, new knowledge is promised for accurate weather forecasts, for preventing hurricanes and even tornadoes. This can come from Sputniks or U. S. baby moons using TV eyes and other instruments to track the motions of clouds, gain understanding of the mechanics of weather, measure the total radiation coming to and from the earth.

Such new information is one goal of baby U. S. moons to be launched during the International Geophysical Year.

Baby moons are just a beginning.

Who knows but one day, with the earth exhausting its own natural resources under hungers of growing population, men may go mining materials from other planets? Or start human colonies there if disaster overtakes our own earth?

MISSION'S END: A Navy fighter, its wings folded, returns to its nest deep inside the USS Forrestal. In its two years of service, the huge carrier has launched and recovered more than 14,000 aircraft.

Self-Sufficient Forrestal Is A Noisy, Floating City

By ELTON C. FAY

The captain and executive officer of the 60,000-ton USS Forrestal are administrators of the biggest, businest and noisiest "city afloat.

Almost 4,000 men live and work in this sea-going city.

Everything for living, entirely cut off from land, is at hand on the supercarrier . . . stores which sell everything from cashmere sweaters and jewelry to soap and cigarettes . . . laundries . . . a tailor shop . . . a library . . . a hobby shop . . . places for church services of all faiths . . . a dozen different movies every night.

Meet the Mayor

On this ship,the men responsible — the "mayor" and his principal aide — are Capt. Richard L. Kibbe, native of Sullivan, Ill., and his executive Cmdr. George C. Duncan of Arlington, Va.

The captain almost never leaves the area of the bridge while the Forrestal is at sea. The "exec" divides his time between the bridge and the multitude of big and little problems of "Forrestal City."

All hands — the officers and the men — live at sea in a constant world of clamor, of noise and hurrying that would mean sleeplessness for any but those hardened to the life.

Except for the Forrestal's experienced crew and airmen, a night operation is a nightmare.

Elevators rumble up to the flight deck, carrying aircraft. The night is pitch black until the eye adjusts and can detect black shapes moving about against a blacker background.

Here and there the glowing red eye of an electric torch flashes briefly. Air crews come topside, swathed in immersion suits, helmeted, life jackets buckled on, carrying notebook knee pad boards. They climb up into cockpits.

From high aloft, the "bullhorn" bellows commands into the dark.

Jet engines start. They whine first, then scream as the planes taxi to position over the steam-powered launching catapults.

No Mistakes

Flight deck men, with the eyes and nimbleness of cats, scurry in the black night, dodging jet blasts, crawling under fuselages, hooking up the plane to the catapult.

Up near the top of the "island" structure, the men in the control room watch, give the signal.

The minute for launching is at hand. Down on the right hand side of the waiting jet an officer waves an electrically illuminated wand in a tight circle telling the pilot to run up his engine to full power. The jet's scream grows deafening. The aircraft, still held in leash, shakes even the stout steel flight deck. Hot, blue flame streaks from the tailpipe. Suddenly, the officer crouches, points his wand to the end of the flight deck. The catapult snaps the multi-ton plane into flying speed in three hundred feet of run, hurling it out beyond the end of the deck. Almost instantly, the aircraft flashes from sight into the night. And another follows hard on its heels. The mission is off.

Race Clash Seen At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16—UP—States Rights leader Leander Perez warned today that a "Little Rock situation" may develop in New Orleans by early next year.

Perez issued the warning in a statement urging attendance at a Citizens' Council rally in New Orleans Monday night.

Prominent pro - segregation spokesmen, including Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) and Georgia Gov. Marvin Griffin, are scheduled to speak.

Children Invited

Perez, who is district attorney of Plaquemines and St. Bernard parishes, urged parents to bring their children to the meeting sponsored by councils in the parishes of Orleans, St. Bernard, Jefferson, and Plaquemines.

"The people of New Orleans may not realize how close they are to another Little Rock situation," Perez said. "It may be upon them as soon as this coming February.

Halt Tyranny

"The federal courts, including the U. S. Supreme Court, have ordered racial integration of their public schools. The only way the people can make their unyielding opposition to forced integration is by organizing and uniting for peaceful opposition to Washington tyranny," he said.

Louisiana's school segregation laws have been declared unconstitutional in federal court and public schools of New Orleans have been ordered to integrate "with all deliberate speed." But the courts have set no date by which schools must be integrated.

Dr. Emmett Lee Irwin, chairman of the New Orleans council, said "it is very likely that New Orleans will be the next city to be ordered to integrate."

"Do we want our school children to be intimidated by bayonets, harassed by special investigators and even sent to jail?" Irwin said.

Other speakers at the rally will be state Sen. William Rainach, president of the Citizens' Council Association of Louisiana; State Rep. John Garrett, a Council official and Robert B. Patterson, executive secretary of the Association of Citizens' Councils of Mississippi.

Student Teachers From Twin Cities

NATCHITOCHES (Special)—Two Ouachita Parish students are listed among the student teachers for the fall semester at Northwestern State College. The list of student teachers was recently released by W. F. Beyer, assistant to the dean of education at the college. They are Margaret Ballord, West Monroe, who is teaching home economics; and Yvonne C. Monsour, Monroe, teaching general science. Student teaching is being done at the Northwestern Elementary School, Natchitoches High, and for the first time, at Winnfield High.

Sen. Mansfield Wants Drive On Red Propaganda

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (UP)—Senate Democratic whip Mike Mansfield said today that "continued vigilance" is needed "to meet the unrelenting efforts of the Soviet Union" to spread anti-U.S. propaganda in Mexico.

The Montana Democrat, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that "extensive propaganda units of an anti - American character have been established in Mexico under the guise of economic study groups."

He said "these units serve as instruments to create a facade of public opinion on matters of vital concern to the United States and other nations of the free world."

Made Study Tour

Mansfield made the statements in a report to the Foreign Relations Committee based on a study tour of Mexico.

He also quesiotned the value of continuing the U.S. "Point Four" technical aid program in Mexico on its present basis. The senator said he doubted that the present program is helping either country much.

Mansfield noted that the Soviets maintain a diplomatic establishment in Mexico of "disproportionate size", staffed by an estimated 112 persons.

Mexico, he said, "has always ranked high as a target of Soviet intrique."

THE SNARK IN ACTION—This is a recent view of the Air Force's intercontinental guided missile, the Snark, which was disclosed yesterday to have carried a simulated hydrogen warhead to a target 5,000 miles from its launching. The announcement termed the Oct. 31 test flight "the world's first known demonstration of a true intercontinental missile capability" and said the Snark hit "with unprecedented accuracy." Scout Leaders Pursue Basics Of Clay Modeling

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

Creativeness in art takes many forms, from the sculptured figures carved in stone by the masters to the fantastic, glaring finger-paintings of a six-year-old.

The thrill of accomplishment which is experienced in fashioning any object is not restricted by the subject matter — and realizing that "you creep before you walk," leaders in the Silver Waters Girl Scout council have been learning the basics of clay modeling, so they in turn may teach the art to youngsters in Scout troops.

Two classes in ceramics are being conducted by Mrs. G. C. Porter, at the Girl Scout headquarters in Monroe. Mrs. Porter, who is an authority on the subject, is instructing 40 Scoutleaders, assistant leaders, and troop committee members in the crafts workshop, which meets once a week.

Three groups of Scouts are already exploring the ceramic field. Troop 11, composed of Brownies at Lida Benton school, is in its third week, and plans to use the finished products as Christmas gifts.

Intermediate scout troop 44, at Our Lady of Fatima school, is in the third step of the process, under guidance of Mrs. Louis Breard, Jr. Intermediate troop 48 is also starting the clay-work. Troop leaders are Mrs. M. A. Denoux and Mrs. Floyd Stone, Jr.

Five Steps

Five steps are necessary in making pottery. The women mix clay powder with water, to achieve the desired consistency for molding.

They then place a wedge of the clay on a "wing board" and extract from this enough for the size of a large egg, which is placed on a large, flat piece of plaster called a 'bat.'

The plaster absorbs moisture from the clay, as it is molded into shape by hand.

Although a miniature pot was the objective as the first pottery creation, "most of the women worked it into a modernistic ashtray," Mrs. Porter laughed.

After the clay pottery has dried, a cleaning process takes place. Fettling tools are used to smooth off the edges, and scrape away rough areas. Sides which are too thick are evened off by small, pieces of metal, and the entire piece is wiped with a sponge, which cleans it and opens the pores in the clay. This prepares it for the next process, painting.

Ceramic Paint

Regular ceramic paint, with the consistency and appearance of poster paint, is applied — using any brush, from the finest red sable to an ordinary water-color brush.

Ceramic painting is similar to china painting, and vivid colors are used. A basic color is placed on the pottery, and designs are applied onto the first coating.

Imagination was the basis for designs. Mrs. Ed Middleton's earthenware is an example of the modernistic trend. A futuristic bird, in colors of peacock green, old rose, pale yellow and black appears in bold design, while on Mrs. J. K. Goins' product, the Mexican motif meets the eye. The outside is done in colors of cherry red and black, while the inside has a cactus with brown flowers.

Members of the leaders class who completed painting on their earthenware Thursday gave it to Mrs. Porter to be placed in a kiln for the next process: firing.

Placed in Kiln

The objects were placed into a small kiln, with several trays to hold all the pottery ready to be baked. Weather determines the amonut of time needed for firing, with four to six hours necessary.

Firing is done in an electric ceramic kiln, in which the temperature is brought to 1875 degrees —hot enough to melt nails. Small "peepholes" enable Mrs. Porter to look into the kiln, to check on the process.

"When a small cone which is part of the mechanism bends from the heat, I can turn the oven off," she explained. The oven must then cool for 24 hours, until it again reaches room temperature. "If I opened it before the pottery had cooled, the dishes would explode," the instructor added.

Glazing — using liquid ground glass — is painted onto the bisque piece which has been fired one time. Both clear and colored liquick may be used, to achieve slick, professional effect.

The glaze is then fused or blended into the earthenware by a second firing, called the 'ghost fire.'

Mrs. Louis Breard revealed that the troop at Our Lady of Fatima has already reached the glazing process. The girls are making ashtrays and dishes, painted turquoise or rose, as gifts.

Prof. Hermann Oberth of Germany, a famous space pioneer, proposes a giant mirror, composed of many facets, above the earth. It might be 60 miles in diameter, focusing the sun's rays upon the earth, as you might do with a magnifying glass.

For bad, it could be aimed to burn an enemy's country, Dr. Oberth says.

For good, part of the mirror could be used safely to light large towns at night, or to melt dangerous Atlantic icebergs, open up winter frozen sea lanes, counteract night frosts threatening fruit crops even perhaps alter temperatures and cloud movements to bring rain where needed.

Far more immediately, new knowledge is promised for accurate weather forecasts, for preventing hurricanes and even tornadoes. This can come from Sputniks or U. S. baby moons using TV eyes and other instruments to track the motions of clouds, gain understanding of the mechanics of weather, measure the total radiation coming to and from the earth.

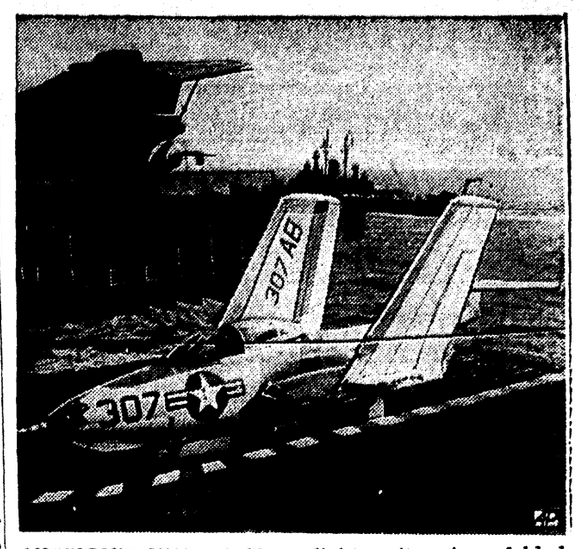

Such new information is one goal of baby U. S. moons to be launched during the International Geophysical Year.

Baby moons are just a beginning.

Who knows but one day, with the earth exhausting its own natural resources under hungers of growing population, men may go mining materials from other planets? Or start human colonies there if disaster overtakes our own earth?

MISSION'S END: A Navy fighter, its wings folded, returns to its nest deep inside the USS Forrestal. In its two years of service, the huge carrier has launched and recovered more than 14,000 aircraft.

Self-Sufficient Forrestal Is A Noisy, Floating City

By ELTON C. FAY

The captain and executive officer of the 60,000-ton USS Forrestal are administrators of the biggest, businest and noisiest "city afloat.

Almost 4,000 men live and work in this sea-going city.

Everything for living, entirely cut off from land, is at hand on the supercarrier . . . stores which sell everything from cashmere sweaters and jewelry to soap and cigarettes . . . laundries . . . a tailor shop . . . a library . . . a hobby shop . . . places for church services of all faiths . . . a dozen different movies every night.

Meet the Mayor

On this ship,the men responsible — the "mayor" and his principal aide — are Capt. Richard L. Kibbe, native of Sullivan, Ill., and his executive Cmdr. George C. Duncan of Arlington, Va.

The captain almost never leaves the area of the bridge while the Forrestal is at sea. The "exec" divides his time between the bridge and the multitude of big and little problems of "Forrestal City."

All hands — the officers and the men — live at sea in a constant world of clamor, of noise and hurrying that would mean sleeplessness for any but those hardened to the life.

Except for the Forrestal's experienced crew and airmen, a night operation is a nightmare.

Elevators rumble up to the flight deck, carrying aircraft. The night is pitch black until the eye adjusts and can detect black shapes moving about against a blacker background.

Here and there the glowing red eye of an electric torch flashes briefly. Air crews come topside, swathed in immersion suits, helmeted, life jackets buckled on, carrying notebook knee pad boards. They climb up into cockpits.

From high aloft, the "bullhorn" bellows commands into the dark.

Jet engines start. They whine first, then scream as the planes taxi to position over the steam-powered launching catapults.

No Mistakes

Flight deck men, with the eyes and nimbleness of cats, scurry in the black night, dodging jet blasts, crawling under fuselages, hooking up the plane to the catapult.

Up near the top of the "island" structure, the men in the control room watch, give the signal.

The minute for launching is at hand. Down on the right hand side of the waiting jet an officer waves an electrically illuminated wand in a tight circle telling the pilot to run up his engine to full power. The jet's scream grows deafening. The aircraft, still held in leash, shakes even the stout steel flight deck. Hot, blue flame streaks from the tailpipe. Suddenly, the officer crouches, points his wand to the end of the flight deck. The catapult snaps the multi-ton plane into flying speed in three hundred feet of run, hurling it out beyond the end of the deck. Almost instantly, the aircraft flashes from sight into the night. And another follows hard on its heels. The mission is off.

Race Clash Seen At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 16—UP—States Rights leader Leander Perez warned today that a "Little Rock situation" may develop in New Orleans by early next year.

Perez issued the warning in a statement urging attendance at a Citizens' Council rally in New Orleans Monday night.

Prominent pro - segregation spokesmen, including Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) and Georgia Gov. Marvin Griffin, are scheduled to speak.

Children Invited

Perez, who is district attorney of Plaquemines and St. Bernard parishes, urged parents to bring their children to the meeting sponsored by councils in the parishes of Orleans, St. Bernard, Jefferson, and Plaquemines.

"The people of New Orleans may not realize how close they are to another Little Rock situation," Perez said. "It may be upon them as soon as this coming February.

Halt Tyranny

"The federal courts, including the U. S. Supreme Court, have ordered racial integration of their public schools. The only way the people can make their unyielding opposition to forced integration is by organizing and uniting for peaceful opposition to Washington tyranny," he said.

Louisiana's school segregation laws have been declared unconstitutional in federal court and public schools of New Orleans have been ordered to integrate "with all deliberate speed." But the courts have set no date by which schools must be integrated.

Dr. Emmett Lee Irwin, chairman of the New Orleans council, said "it is very likely that New Orleans will be the next city to be ordered to integrate."

"Do we want our school children to be intimidated by bayonets, harassed by special investigators and even sent to jail?" Irwin said.

Other speakers at the rally will be state Sen. William Rainach, president of the Citizens' Council Association of Louisiana; State Rep. John Garrett, a Council official and Robert B. Patterson, executive secretary of the Association of Citizens' Councils of Mississippi.

Student Teachers From Twin Cities

NATCHITOCHES (Special)—Two Ouachita Parish students are listed among the student teachers for the fall semester at Northwestern State College. The list of student teachers was recently released by W. F. Beyer, assistant to the dean of education at the college. They are Margaret Ballord, West Monroe, who is teaching home economics; and Yvonne C. Monsour, Monroe, teaching general science. Student teaching is being done at the Northwestern Elementary School, Natchitoches High, and for the first time, at Winnfield High.

Sen. Mansfield Wants Drive On Red Propaganda

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (UP)—Senate Democratic whip Mike Mansfield said today that "continued vigilance" is needed "to meet the unrelenting efforts of the Soviet Union" to spread anti-U.S. propaganda in Mexico.

The Montana Democrat, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said that "extensive propaganda units of an anti - American character have been established in Mexico under the guise of economic study groups."

He said "these units serve as instruments to create a facade of public opinion on matters of vital concern to the United States and other nations of the free world."

Made Study Tour

Mansfield made the statements in a report to the Foreign Relations Committee based on a study tour of Mexico.

He also quesiotned the value of continuing the U.S. "Point Four" technical aid program in Mexico on its present basis. The senator said he doubted that the present program is helping either country much.

Mansfield noted that the Soviets maintain a diplomatic establishment in Mexico of "disproportionate size", staffed by an estimated 112 persons.

Mexico, he said, "has always ranked high as a target of Soviet intrique."

THE SNARK IN ACTION—This is a recent view of the Air Force's intercontinental guided missile, the Snark, which was disclosed yesterday to have carried a simulated hydrogen warhead to a target 5,000 miles from its launching. The announcement termed the Oct. 31 test flight "the world's first known demonstration of a true intercontinental missile capability" and said the Snark hit "with unprecedented accuracy." By TOM HENSHAW

The case of former Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov may have centered about the last important obstacle in the way of Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev's march to one-man rule.

Khrushchev has been moving closer to that position ever since the death of Josef Stalin, the old dictator, in March, 1953. One by one, potential rivals have been ousted, demoted, exiled, and even executed.

Five of the most powerful posts in the Soviet government once were those of Communist party secretary, premier, secret police chief, foreign minister and defense minister.

Stalin was party boss and premier at the time of his death. He also controlled the secret police through Lavrenti Beria. Andrei Vishinsky and Nikolai Bulgannin were foreign and defense ministers respectively.

When the confusion brought about by the passing of the dictator cleared, only Bulganin and Beria retained their posts. And Beria was invested with new powers.

Khrushchev and Georgi Malenkov took Stalin's posts as party secretary and premier. The old Bolshevik Vyacheslav Molotov became foreign minister in place of Vishinsky, who went to the United Nations as chief Soviet delegate. Vishinsky died in New York.

Beria lost his job soon after. He was ousted as police head in July, 1953, and his execution was announced the following December. The police now are headed by a "Commission for State Security," supervised by the Soviet leaders.

Malenkov went out in February 1955. Admitting "incompetence," he was made minister of electric power stations and, two years later, was exiled to Ust-Kamenogorsk in remote East Kazakhistan as manager of a power station.

Molotov got the axe next. He was stripped of his foreign minister credentials in June, 1956, and exiled a year later as ambassador to Outer Mongolia, a Russian satellite in the Far East.

Dmitri Shepilov, a Pravda editor who succeeded Molotov, lasted little more than a year. He too was exiled. He teaches at the Far East Institute in Frunze, Kirghizia, on the Asian steppes.

And most recently, the struggle has centered about the Soviet army and Zhukov, the popular war hero who succeeded Bulganin as defense minister when the latter moved into the ousted Malenkov's job.

Currently, the Soviet heirarchy lines up like this:

Khrushchev is party secretary, a post of great power.

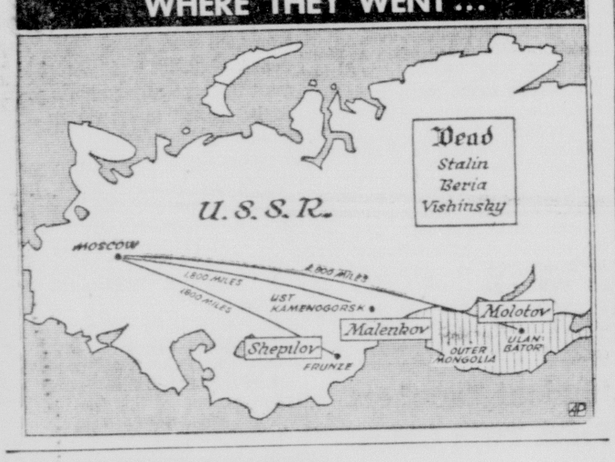

Bulganin is a docile premier.

The Commission for State Security, with Khrushchev sharing the command, heads the secret police.

Andrei Gromyko is foreign minister, apparently a messenger boy.

Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, a war hero and an obedient Communist, is defense minister.

WHERE THEY WENT ...

CRACKDOWN LOOMS

Garbage Probe Brought To End

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (UP) The Senaten Rackets Committee's investigation into New York City's lucrative garbage hauling industry ended today with disclosure that state authorities are about to crack down on hoodlums who dominate the business.

Martin L. Baron, assistant New York attorney general, a spectator at the committee's hearings, told newsmen the state will charge there has been restraint of trade and monopoly in the 50-million-dollar - a - year rubbish industry of the nation's largest city.

He said he was "not prepared to say" who would be named as defendants in the court action.

The disclosure of a state crackdown came just before the committee ended its week-long hearings.

'Ready for Court Action'

Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.) said he understood that the state was "ready to go" with court action.

After the committee adjourned newsmen were introduced to Baron.

Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) recommended in a prepared statement closing the hearings that "an investigation of these (committee) allegations be pursued with the utmost vigor."

He said he hoped the committee's transcript would be "helpful" to state authorities.

McClellan said the committee has uncovered what it believes to be evidence of income tax evasion, monopoly, restraint of trade, fraud against the federal government, extortion, coercion, perjury, and violation of federal probation.

Urges Investigation

"The committee therefore recommends to the appropriate New York state and federal agencies that an investigation of these allegations be pursued with the utmost vigor," McClellan said.

Baron told newsmen that the New York Attorney General's office had received testimony from 200 witnesses before the committee's hearing. He said District Attorney Frank Hogan of New York City had been co-operating with the state in the garbage rackets investigation.

The committee investigation ended after Bernard Adelstein, a teamsters union official who was paid $685 a year by two New York locals, flatly denied testimony that he threatened John Acropolis, another union officer, shortly before Acropolis was murdered in 1952.

Appeals Court Hears Argument On Troops' Use

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 16 (UP)—An attorney for a Little Rock woman and her two daughters of high school age argued before the U.S. Court of Appeals today that President Eisenhower was without authority in sending federal troops to Central High School.

Little Rock attorney Kenneth Coffelt argued that the President has the power to use federal troops only to enforce acts of Congress and not rulings of federal courts.

Central High School at Little Rock was integrated this fall when Eisenhower used federal troops to back up court-ordered de-segregation.

Coffelt was arguing an appeal of a suit brought by Mrs. Margaret Jackson and her daughters, Charlene, 16, and Sandra, 15, seeking the removal of the troops.

They claimed the troops were in violation of the Constitution and "intimidated, mutilated, bayonetted and bludgeoned private citizens and endangered the lives and safety of the petitioners and their personal property rights."

Coffelt asked the appeals court today to reverse a decision dismissing the action by U. S. District Judge Ronald P. Davies and remand it for trial by a three-man court of the eastern district of Arkansas.

FOREIGN AID

Congressmen Set For Tough Debate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—Congress members are squaring away for a 1958 struggle over foreign aid—a fight likely to be complicated by the need to find more money for missiles.

Reports say President Eisenhower is preparing to ask Congress in January for about $4,200,000,000 to continue assistance to foreign nations.

Congress this year voted about 3½ billions for the program.

While many in Congress may want to cut such funds to balance rising missile spending, others say foreign aid is needed as much or more than ever.

Among the leaders in the fight to keep foreign aid going in high is Vice President Nixon. He has been suggesting in speeches that the forthcoming foreign aid request could be more important than the military fund increases Eisenhower will ask.

This view does not seem likely to be shared by his California colleague, Sen. Knowland, the Senate's Republican leader. Knowland has cautioned against deficit spending. He and others may look to foreign aid as the most likely place to counterbalance the increases that obviously are going to be made in military outlays.

The State Department's expected appointment of Asst. Secretary C. Douglas Dillon as coordinator for foreign aid seems likely to please Sen. Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, and others who have been urging such action for a long time.

On the other hand, any such action might be cited as indicating there could be elimination of some duplicating functions, which would permit the International Cooperation Administration to get along with less money.

Sen. Wiley of Wisconsin, senior Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he hopes Congress will not be so fired up over the missile program as to lose sight of the value of foreign aid.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt), another Foreign Relations committeeman, said the Russian missile and satellite accomplishments make it more obvious than ever that "we can't stand any gaps in the free world's armor."

RUSH-HOUR CROWD

Many Volunteering For Space Flight

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP) — America's first manned ship will be more crowded than a rush-hour bus if everybody who wants to, climbs aboard.

Bids for the flight are trickling in from Maine to California despite official aurndowns and forecasts that any space travel is still years away.

A Vanguard information officer reported today he's received some 30 offers from Americans to go space flying since the Soviets launched dog-carrying Sputnik II early this month.

Project Vanguard is the U. S. government's scientific program for shooting up some baby earth moons. The information officer figures a good chunk of the citizen mail on space matters gets routed to him, including the letters sent to President Eisenhower.

The volunteers are young and old and in varied walks of life. Some may have tongue-in-cheek, like the Arkansas writer who said he's specially qualified for the first manned satellite—"I've gone around in circles most of my life."

But others seem 100 per cent sincere. And a number obviously figure the first trip could well be just one way.

A Massachusetts man placed a million-dollar price tag on his offer to go orbiting. He said he wanted the money to put his sons through college and provide for his wife.

A 23 - year - old Maine convict wrote that although he's due to get out of prison soon, the chances are he can't get ahead in society with a police record. "So therefore I want to volunteer myself for anything that will benefit the people in the future," he said.

An ex-con in Texas said he had no family, so: "I have nothing to lose but my life and what greater way can a man die, but to give his life for his country? Perhaps then and only then will I have truly atoned for my past mistakes."

A letter to "Dear Mr. President" in girlish hand from Akron, Ohio, said:

"There are two of us. One weighs 83 lb. and the other weighs 73. We will galdy (sic) take any chances there will be. Would you please send us your decision."

Most of Vanguard's turndowns go something like this: "Your patriotic interest and willingness to be the first space man is appreciated. However, at present there is no requirement for a space passenger. When the time comes, I am sure, there will be full consideration of all qualified volunteers."

Sputnik Durable, Says Scientist

MOSCOW, Nov. 16 (AP)—Sputnik II is of such durable material fragments of it may return to Earth, Soviet scientist Kiril Stanyukovich said in a lecture reported in the press today.

"The second Sputnik may not be completely destroyed when it reaches the lower layers of the earth's atmosphere," he said. "Parts of it may be recovered."

The study of such fragments, if recovered, would provide valuable scientific data, he added. He did not say when he expected Sputnik II to begin its slide back to the earth.

Vitaly Ginzburg, another scientist, said in another lecture the Russians would have a whole galaxy of Sputnik - laboratories in space "in the next few years." He said they could serve as stations for human flights into space.

QUAIL PUT TO WORK

ELKHART, Ind. — (UP) — A quail flew into a sporting goods store here recently and salesman Dick Laughlin put the confused bird to good use. He made the bird pose for a photograph with himself, a gun and a large sign: "Indiana Quail Season Opens Nov. 10."

Third Victim Of Wreck Dies

LAUREL, Miss., Nov. 16 (AP)—Clarence F. Parkhill, 40, died last night at a hospital as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident that killed his grandmother and aunt.

Highway patrolmen said Mrs. Amanda R. Cochran, 85, died in the wreck Tuesday and her daughter, Miss Jimmie Myrtle Cochran, 52, died Thursday.

Still in the hospital are Mr. and Mrs. Virgin Humphrey.

Officers said Humphrey, driver of the car, lost control and it crashed on Highway 11, eleven miles south of here.

His wife is a daughter of Mrs. Cochran.

Double funeral services were held for the women victims Friday.

Funeral services for Parkhill were scheduled to be held tomorrow.

2 Persons Hurt In Auto Accident

Two Bastrop residents were in Morehouse General Hospital last night suffering from chest injuries and shock, after the car they were in was involved in a collision with a truck one - half mile south of the Sterlington intersection yesterday morning.

Injured were Mr. and Mrs. Elton Salter. Authorities sid last night that although Salter was more severely injured than his wife, both were out of danger.

Leonard Hope of 206 North Eighth Street, Monroe, was the driver of the truck, state police said. He was not injured.

Convict Missing From Penitentiary

ANGOLA, La., Nov. 16 (AP)—Coy Allmen, 27-year-old Negro convict, was reported missing today at Louisiana State prison.

Chief security officer Victor Walkner said Allmen was believed to be somewhere on the 18,000-acre prison farm. The tractor he was driving was found early this afternoon.

NOW YOU'VE SEE'EM ALL TAKE ANOTHER LOOK AT BUICK

. . . . Now that you have had the opportunity to inspect all new cars for the past month, come in and make these comparisons: Check the weight . . . open and close the doors . . . check the head room . . . the leg room . . . sit in the middle of the seat to assure yourself of the comfort for those extra passengers you may carry . . . check the quality of the upholstery . . . the sturdiness of the bumpers . . . the grille, etc. . . . the all-around vision from within, then stand away from the car and admit that it is really a beautiful car. It has lasting styling and dignity.

We also believe that this car will not be outdated after next year's models are out. Never in the history of General Motors have they changed their models from one year to the next so radically that your one-, two- or three-year-old car becomes almost worthless or outdated.

Come in, drive and compare this 1958 Buick. After all, you have the privilege of trying them all. Then, too, while you are buying this car and after you buy it—you will be treated with dignity to match the product.

A good thing to remember when buying anything is (Buy the Dealer as Well as the Nameplate on Front). All of this you can buy at a surprisingly low price. Don't hesitate . . . COME IN . . . and give us an opportunity to sell you a Buick . . . at least let us quote you a figure.

YOU'LL NEVER BUY FOR LESS MONEY

THANK YOU

By TOM HENSHAW

The case of former Soviet Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov may have centered about the last important obstacle in the way of Communist party boss Nikita Khrushchev's march to one-man rule.

Khrushchev has been moving closer to that position ever since the death of Josef Stalin, the old dictator, in March, 1953. One by one, potential rivals have been ousted, demoted, exiled, and even executed.

Five of the most powerful posts in the Soviet government once were those of Communist party secretary, premier, secret police chief, foreign minister and defense minister.

Stalin was party boss and premier at the time of his death. He also controlled the secret police through Lavrenti Beria. Andrei Vishinsky and Nikolai Bulgannin were foreign and defense ministers respectively.

When the confusion brought about by the passing of the dictator cleared, only Bulganin and Beria retained their posts. And Beria was invested with new powers.

Khrushchev and Georgi Malenkov took Stalin's posts as party secretary and premier. The old Bolshevik Vyacheslav Molotov became foreign minister in place of Vishinsky, who went to the United Nations as chief Soviet delegate. Vishinsky died in New York.

Beria lost his job soon after. He was ousted as police head in July, 1953, and his execution was announced the following December. The police now are headed by a "Commission for State Security," supervised by the Soviet leaders.

Malenkov went out in February 1955. Admitting "incompetence," he was made minister of electric power stations and, two years later, was exiled to Ust-Kamenogorsk in remote East Kazakhistan as manager of a power station.

Molotov got the axe next. He was stripped of his foreign minister credentials in June, 1956, and exiled a year later as ambassador to Outer Mongolia, a Russian satellite in the Far East.

Dmitri Shepilov, a Pravda editor who succeeded Molotov, lasted little more than a year. He too was exiled. He teaches at the Far East Institute in Frunze, Kirghizia, on the Asian steppes.

And most recently, the struggle has centered about the Soviet army and Zhukov, the popular war hero who succeeded Bulganin as defense minister when the latter moved into the ousted Malenkov's job.

Currently, the Soviet heirarchy lines up like this:

Khrushchev is party secretary, a post of great power.

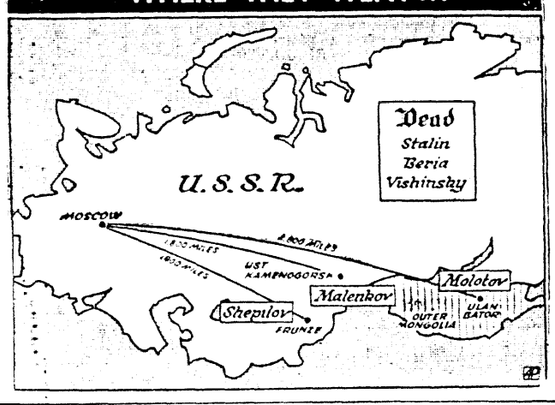

Bulganin is a docile premier.

The Commission for State Security, with Khrushchev sharing the command, heads the secret police.

Andrei Gromyko is foreign minister, apparently a messenger boy.

Marshal Rodion Malinovsky, a war hero and an obedient Communist, is defense minister.

WHERE THEY WENT ...

RUSH-HOUR CROWD

Many Volunteering For Space Flight

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP) — America's first manned ship will be more crowded than a rush-hour bus if everybody who wants to, climbs aboard.

Bids for the flight are trickling in from Maine to California despite official aurndowns and forecasts that any space travel is still years away.

A Vanguard information officer reported today he's received some 30 offers from Americans to go space flying since the Soviets launched dog-carrying Sputnik II early this month.

Project Vanguard is the U. S. government's scientific program for shooting up some baby earth moons. The information officer figures a good chunk of the citizen mail on space matters gets routed to him, including the letters sent to President Eisenhower.

The volunteers are young and old and in varied walks of life. Some may have tongue-in-cheek, like the Arkansas writer who said he's specially qualified for the first manned satellite—"I've gone around in circles most of my life."

But others seem 100 per cent sincere. And a number obviously figure the first trip could well be just one way.

A Massachusetts man placed a million-dollar price tag on his offer to go orbiting. He said he wanted the money to put his sons through college and provide for his wife.

A 23-year-old Maine convict wrote that although he's due to get out of prison soon, the chances are he can't get ahead in society with a police record. "So therefore I want to volunteer myself for anything that will benefit the people in the future," he said.

An ex-con in Texas said he had no family, so: "I have nothing to lose but my life and what greater way can a man die, but to give his life for his country? Perhaps then and only then will I have truly atoned for my past mistakes."

A letter to "Dear Mr. President" in girlish hand from Akron, Ohio, said:

"There are two of us. One weighs 83 lb. and the other weighs 73. We will galdy (sic) take any chances there will be. Would you please send us your decision."

Most of Vanguard's turndowns go something like this: "Your patriotic interest and willingness to be the first space man is appreciated. However, at present there is no requirement for a space passenger. When the time comes, I am sure, there will be full consideration of all qualified volunteers."

Sputnik Durable, Says Scientist

MOSCOW, Nov. 16 (AP)—Sputnik II is of such durable material fragments of it may return to Earth, Soviet scientist Kiril Stanyukovich said in a lecture reported in the press today.

"The second Sputnik may not be completely destroyed when it reaches the lower layers of the earth's atmosphere," he said. "Parts of it may be recovered."

The study of such fragments, if recovered, would provide valuable scientific data, he added. He did not say when he expected Sputnik II to begin its slide back to the earth.

Vitaly Ginzburg, another scientist, said in another lecture the Russians would have a whole galaxy of Sputnik-laboratories in space "in the next few years." He said they could serve as stations for human flights into space.

QUAIL PUT TO WORK

ELKHART, Ind. — (UP) — A quail flew into a sporting goods store here recently and salesman Dick Laughlin put the confused bird to good use. He made the bird pose for a photograph with himself, a gun and a large sign: "Indiana Quail Season Opens Nov. 10."

Appeals Court Hears Argument On Troops' Use

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 16 (UP)—An attorney for a Little Rock woman and her two daughters of high school age argued before the U.S. Court of Appeals today that President Eisenhower was without authority in sending federal troops to Central High School.

Little Rock attorney Kenneth Coffelt argued that the President has the power to use federal troops only to enforce acts of Congress and not rulings of federal courts.

Central High School at Little Rock was integrated this fall when Eisenhower used federal troops to back up court-ordered de-segregation.

Coffelt was arguing an appeal of a suit brought by Mrs. Margaret Jackson and her daughters, Charlene, 16, and Sandra, 15, seeking the removal of the troops.

They claimed the troops were in violation of the Constitution and "intimidated, mutilated, bayonetted and bludgeoned private citizens and endangered the lives and safety of the petitioners and their personal property rights."

Coffelt asked the appeals court today to reverse a decision dismissing the action by U. S. District Judge Ronald P. Davies and remand it for trial by a three-man court of the eastern district of Arkansas.

Third Victim Of Wreck Dies

LAUREL, Miss., Nov. 16 (AP)—Clarence F. Parkhill, 40, died last night at a hospital as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident that killed his grandmother and aunt.

Highway patrolmen said Mrs. Amanda R. Cochran, 85, died in the wreck Tuesday and her daughter, Miss Jimmie Myrtle Cochran, 52, died Thursday.

Still in the hospital are Mr. and Mrs. Virgin Humphrey.

Officers said Humphrey, driver of the car, lost control and it crashed on Highway 11, eleven miles south of here.

His wife is a daughter of Mrs. Cochran.

Double funeral services were held for the women victims Friday.

Funeral services for Parkhill were scheduled to be held tomorrow.

2 Persons Hurt In Auto Accident

Two Bastrop residents were in Morehouse General Hospital last night suffering from chest injuries and shock, after the car they were in was involved in a collision with a truck one-half mile south of the Sterlington intersection yesterday morning.

Injured were Mr. and Mrs. Elton Salter. Authorities sid last night that although Salter was more severely injured than his wife, both were out of danger.

Leonard Hope of 206 North Eighth Street, Monroe, was the driver of the truck, state police said. He was not injured.

Convict Missing From Penitentiary

ANGOLA, La., Nov. 16 (AP)—Coy Allmen, 27-year-old Negro convict, was reported missing today at Louisiana State prison.

Chief security officer Victor Walkner said Allmen was believed to be somewhere on the 18,000-acre prison farm. The tractor he was driving was found early this afternoon.

CRACKDOWN LOOMS

Garbage Probe Brought To End

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (UP) The Senaten Rackets Committee's investigation into New York City's lucrative garbage hauling industry ended today with disclosure that state authorities are about to crack down on hoodlums who dominate the business.

Martin L. Baron, assistant New York attorney general, a spectator at the committee's hearings, told newsmen the state will charge there has been restraint of trade and monopoly in the 50-million-dollar - a - year rubbish industry of the nation's largest city.

He said he was "not prepared to say" who would be named as defendants in the court action.

The disclosure of a state crackdown came just before the committee ended its week-long hearings.

'Ready for Court Action'

Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.) said he understood that the state was "ready to go" with court action.

After the committee adjourned newsmen were introduced to Baron.

Committee Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) recommended in a prepared statement closing the hearings that "an investigation of these (committee) allegations be pursued with the utmost vigor."

He said he hoped the committee's transcript would be "helpful" to state authorities.

McClellan said the committee has uncovered what it believes to be evidence of income tax evasion, monopoly, restraint of trade, fraud against the federal government, extortion, coercion, perjury, and violation of federal probation.

Urges Investigation

"The committee therefore recommends to the appropriate New York state and federal agencies that an investigation of these allegations be pursued with the utmost vigor," McClellan said.

Baron told newsmen that the New York Attorney General's office had received testimony from 200 witnesses before the committee's hearing. He said District Attorney Frank Hogan of New York City had been co-operating with the state in the garbage rackets investigation.

The committee investigation ended after Bernard Adelstein, a teamsters union official who was paid $685 a year by two New York locals, flatly denied testimony that he threatened John Acropolis, another union officer, shortly before Acropolis was murdered in 1952.

FOREIGN AID

Congressmen Set For Tough Debate

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—Congress members are squaring away for a 1958 struggle over foreign aid—a fight likely to be complicated by the need to find more money for missiles.

Reports say President Eisenhower is preparing to ask Congress in January for about $4,200,000,000 to continue assistance to foreign nations.

Congress this year voted about 3½ billions for the program.

While many in Congress may want to cut such funds to balance rising missile spending, others say foreign aid is needed as much or more than ever.

Among the leaders in the fight to keep foreign aid going in high is Vice President Nixon. He has been suggesting in speeches that the forthcoming foreign aid request could be more important than the military fund increases Eisenhower will ask.

This view does not seem likely to be shared by his California colleague, Sen. Knowland, the Senate's Republican leader. Knowland has cautioned against deficit spending. He and others may look to foreign aid as the most likely place to counterbalance the increases that obviously are going to be made in military outlays.

The State Department's expected appointment of Asst. Secretary C. Douglas Dillon as coordinator for foreign aid seems likely to please Sen. Mansfield of Montana, the assistant Democratic leader, and others who have been urging such action for a long time.

On the other hand, any such action might be cited as indicating there could be elimination of some duplicating functions, which would permit the International Cooperation Administration to get along with less money.

Sen. Wiley of Wisconsin, senior Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he hopes Congress will not be so fired up over the missile program as to lose sight of the value of foreign aid.

Sen. Aiken (R-Vt), another Foreign Relations committeeman, said the Russian missile and satellite accomplishments make it more obvious than ever that "we can't stand any gaps in the free world's armor."

NOW YOU'VE SEE'EM ALL TAKE ANOTHER LOOK AT BUICK

. . . . Now that you have had the opportunity to inspect all new cars for the past month, come in and make these comparisons: Check the weight . . . open and close the doors . . . check the head room . . . the leg room . . . sit in the middle of the seat to assure yourself of the comfort for those extra passengers you may carry . . . check the quality of the upholstery . . . the sturdiness of the bumpers . . . the grille, etc. . . . the all-around vision from within, then stand away from the car and admit that it is really a beautiful car. It has lasting styling and dignity.

We also believe that this car will not be outdated after next year's models are out. Never in the history of General Motors have they changed their models from one year to the next so radically that your one-, two- or three-year-old car becomes almost worthless or outdated.

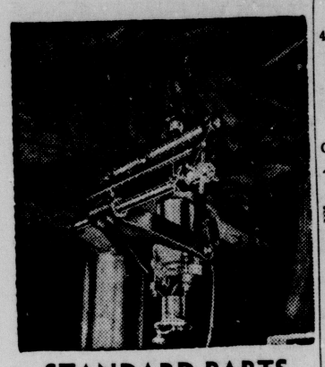

Come in, drive and compare this 1958 Buick. After all, you have the privilege of trying them all. Then, too, while you are buying this car and after you buy it—you will be treated with dignity to match the product.

A good thing to remember when buying anything is (Buy the Dealer as Well as the Nameplate on Front). All of this you can buy at a surprisingly low price. Don't hesitate . . . COME IN . . . and give us an opportunity to sell you a Buick . . . at least let us quote you a figure.

YOU'LL NEVER BUY FOR LESS MONEY

THANK YOU

AN OPEN LETTER

TO AUTOMOBILE BUYERS OF THE TWIN CITIES AND NORTH LOUISIANA

You've been hearing a lot lately about the price increase on 1958 Model automobiles. Some as much as several hundred dollars.

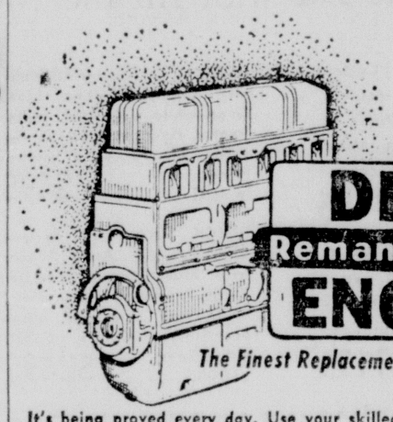

We'd like for you to know there is NO PRICE INCREASE on 1958 Mercurys or Lincolns at Jackson Motors. Our regular delivered price on 1958 models remain the SAME as on 1957 models.

We do have a few 1957 Mercurys and two 1957 Lincolns left in stock. Since the '58 models are here, and we want to clear our inventory of these '57 models, you can buy these cars at substantial discounts.

We'd appreciate the opportunity of making you an offer.

AN OPEN LETTER

TO AUTOMOBILE BUYERS OF THE TWIN CITIES AND NORTH LOUISIANA

You've been hearing a lot lately about the price increase on 1958 Model automobiles. Some as much as several hundred dollars.

We'd like for you to know there is NO PRICE INCREASE on 1958 Mercurys or Lincolns at Jackson Motors. Our regular delivered price on 1958 models remain the SAME as on 1957 models.

We do have a few 1957 Mercurys and two 1957 Lincolns left in stock. Since the '58 models are here, and we want to clear our inventory of these '57 models, you can buy these cars at substantial discounts.

We'd appreciate the opportunity of making you an offer.

THOSE FLYING SAUCERS

Mysterious Objects Make Exciting Days And Nights

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16 (AP)—Ah, but these are exciting days and nights for those who believe there are such things as flying saucers!

In the past two weeks the very air has seemed to be filled with mystery.

A round, glowing thing in the sky above Illinois...a something that roared like thunder in Texas, shaking one truck and stalling another...a dazzling, fiery object that flashed treetop-high across Georgia and Florida...

A Nebraska grain buyer who said he stepped aboard a space ship and chatted with its crew, in broken English and High German...a strange, red light over the nation's capital...

And above all this, glowing with scientific respectability, are those Russian sputnik moons, evidence that in these times anything seems possible.

It has been 10 years since a Boise, Idaho, business man, flying alone in his private plane, saw mysterious objects playing around Mt. Rainier.

After Kenneth Arnold came down to earth on that now historic June 24, 1947, he made a report that was to reverberate around the world. He told investigators he had seen not one, but nine, of the things, and in his report he gave them a name that would stick.

See Outline

"I could see their outline quite plainly against the snow as they approached the mountain," Arnold said. "They flew very close to the mountain top...like geese in a diagonal chain-like line, as if they were linked together. . .A chain of saucer-like things at least five miles long, swerving in and out of the high mountain peaks."

So the flying saucer was born.

Fancy names have been used to explain the saucers, terms like muscae volitantes or scintillating scotoma. Which, roughly translated, mean spots before your eyes.

Only last week Dr. Donald H. Menzel, director of the Harvard Observatory, said saucers are caused by a layer of heated air that acts as a lens and forms an image as far as 40 or 50 miles away.

"They are nothing more than a mirage," Menzel said.

Both Presidents we have had in this flying saucer age, Truman and Eisenhower, have taken a dim view of it.

And the Air Force repeatedly has pooh-poohed the whole idea.

It even had a document made up, ready to go, for the next rash of flying saucers. So last week, at the height of the current epidemic, the Air Force was ready with a conclusion it had announced many times before:

"After 10 years of investigation and evaluation of UFO's" — Air Force talk for the 5,700 unidentified flying objects it has tried to check on — "no evidence has been discovered to confirm the existence of so-called 'flying saucers.'"

The Air Force said they could be many things — weather balloons, planes of unusual shape, fireworks or even a flying wild goose.

Flyboys

The way the flyboys figured it, the odds are 50 to 1 that any flying saucer you see will have a humdrum explanation, like a balloon or an aircraft.

They even worked out a table to show the true parentage of the flying saucer. In the first six months of this year 250 unidentified flying objects were spotted, and here's the percentage on what they turned out to be: balloons 26.4, aircraft 28.8, astronomical 24.4, other (birds, hoaxes) 6.4, insufficient information 12.1, unknown 1.9.

Still, there's always that unknown 1.9 per cent. It may be small, but it's plenty for a flying saucer buff.

Since Report

Since Arnold's report, people all over the world have been seeing saucers. Clubs have sprung up, composed of seers and potential seers. Innumerable books and pamphlets have poured in.

Unfortunately, an earthbound reporter immediately runs into trouble.

For flying saucery makes strange converts.

It attracts those like the man who dropped by the Associated Press office here with the glad news he just returned from Mars. He had been plucked from his Ozark Mountain home, he said, and whisked there by space ship.

Did he have proof? Why, of course he had proof. And he pulled out a hank of hair he said came from a Martian dog.

A reporter with no experience in interplanetary touring has trouble asking questions after a beginning like that.

Then there are those who obviously are sincere and enthusiastic, but who after a brief discussion show they were born to believe the unusual.

Yet it would be a mistake to decide, as many do, that everyone who believes in flying saucers is a boob or a crackpot.

Airplane pilots, for instance, have seen objects they think are real. So have other trained observers. A U.S. senator Barry Goldwater of Arizona, has taken note of saucers. Goldwater is an Air Force reserve officer who has said of UFO:

"I frankly feel there is a great deal to this."

At least one private organization has been working hard to convince everyone that there is, indeed a great deal to this. It's the Naional Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena (NICAP).

It lists retired admirals, airline pilots, college professors and a former UFO Air Force investigator either on its board of governors or on its panel of special advisers.

NICAP's director is Donald E. Keyhoe, a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy, a onetime Marine pilot who retired as a major, and more recently the author of books and articles in which he says flying saucers are real.

A small, balding, friendly man, Keyhoe looks younger than his 60 years.

He got into the F. S. business on assignment; a magazine wanted to find out what it was all about.

He says he went in a doubter and came out a believer.

"I talked with too many pilots who had seen them," he said.

At first Keyhoe had the idea that the saucers were secret weapons. But those to whom he talked convinced him that the unidentified objects turned too sharply, and went straight up too quickly, for any known laws of aerodynamics.

His present conclusion:

"I think they're interplantary."

Yet even Keyhoe admits one puzzling aspect. Suppose the saucers were real. Suppose they really did come from outer space. Suppose, since no damage is done, they were manned by friendly beings. Then how come those aboard, who have come from so far, haven't bothered to drop in and say howdy?

Many persons, of course, claim they have talked with spacemen.

Lovely Fur Will Enchant The Ladies

Fur . . . (like diamonds) is the most wanted "wish" on every women's list! And, this season, fur is stronger fashion-wise than it's been in years.

Gifts of fur can range from leopard earrings to full - length sable coats.

Detachable collars and cuffs are particularly popular this season. They go hand-in-hand with belts, hats and bags.

The "little" wraps of fur — scarves, capes, stoles and jackets are beautifully fashioned of all the elegant furs this year!

Many short coats in fur wear wonderfully well for the most casual affairs, too.

The important furs are fox, mink, broadtail and leopard! White mink, ermine and fluffy white fox furs are the afterdark "stars."

Fur is always a fabulous gift —one she'll love you for giving.

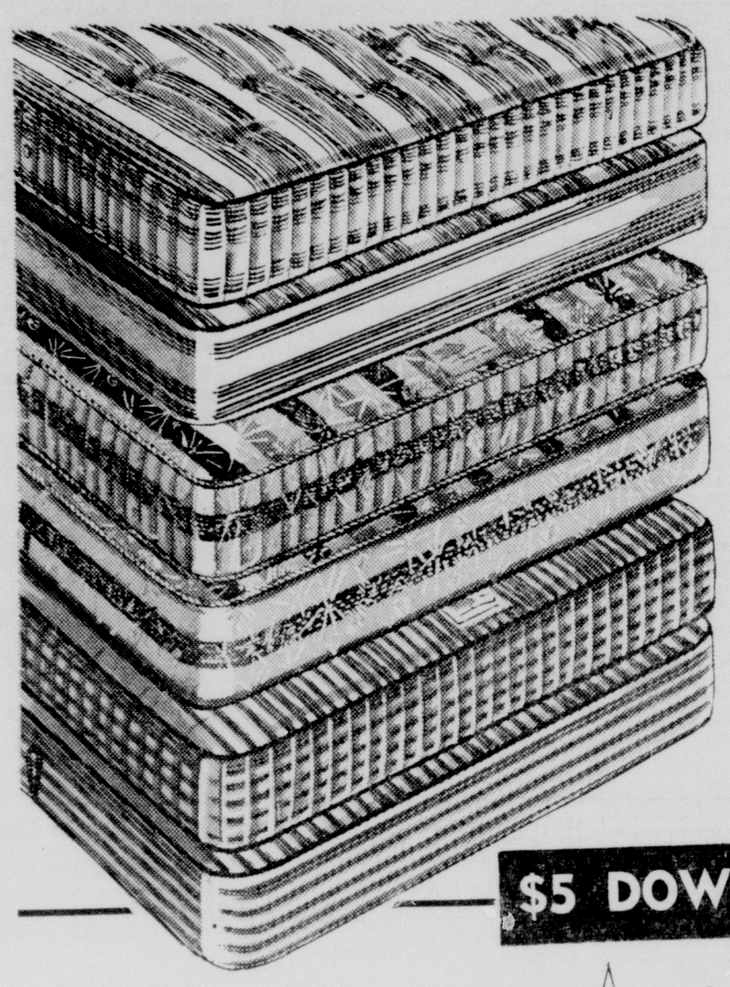

MAGNIFICENT MINK —The gift every woman would like to find under her Christmas tree! This Cerulean Mink stole is extra-specially perfect over those elegant holiday party dresses.

NO, EMMA, I NEVER NOTICED ANYTHING MYSTERIOUS ABOUT OUR NEW NEIGHBOR.

YOU WOULD IF YOU'D SEEN HOW SHE YANKED THE BLINDS DOWN WHEN I TRIED TO GET A PEEK AT HER FURNITURE.

THERE'S NOTHING MYSTERIOUS ABOUT MRS. SMITH. SHE TOLD ME QUITE A BIT ABOUT HERSELF.

MRS. SMITH? OH, SO YOU KNOW THE YOUNG LADY?

NO, MRS. SMITH IS THE OLD LADY. SHE TOLD ME SHE WAS JUST A LOVABLE OLD LADY TRYING TO MAKE EVERY-ONE HAPPY. I'LL INTRODUCE YOU SOMETIME..

NEVER MIND.. I PREFER TO CONDUCT MY SOCIAL INVESTIGATIONS ALONE!

HELLO! YA WANNA BUY A EVENIN' PAPER?

NO. I HAVE AN EVENING PAPER!

R-R-R-ING-G

GOOD GRACIOUS! NOW WHO COULD THAT BE?

WELL, WILL YA WANTA BUY A MORNIN' PAPER IN TH' MORNIN'?

NO!

SAY, YA NEEDN'T GET SO HUFFY ABOUT IT!

NOK! NOK! NCK!

SPLOP!

NOW GO HOME AND STAY THERE! AND IF I CATCH YOU AROUND THIS HOUSE AGAIN, I'LL SKIN YOU ALIVE!

I TRUST, MY DEAR, THAT YOU DISCOVERED SOMETHING OF INTEREST.

I FOUND OUT THAT YOUR OLD LADY FRIEND TOLD YOU A AWFUL PACK OF LIES ABOUT HERSELF.

SMILIN' JACK

YOU SAY CERTAIN RED LEADERS WANT TO INCREASE THE COLD AND NERVE WAR AGAINST AMERICA?

YES! A WAVE OF FOREST FIRES COULD HURT AMERICA ECONOMICALLY ···FROM TH' LOSS OF TIMBER. ALSO, SCORCHED FORESTS CAUSE DROUGHTS!

DROUGHTS PARCH TH' FARM LANDS IN AMERICA'S BREAD BASKET!

TH' REDS HOPE ALL THIS WILL START A DEPRESSION THAT WILL SLOW DOWN AMERICA'S DEFENSE PRODUCTION!

I'VE SET TH' TIMER ON THIS FIRE-BOMB! WE'LL BE LONG GONE WHEN IT IGNITES!

YOU FIEND! DON'T YOU DARE TOSS THAT INFERNAL MACHINE INTO THE FOREST!
